By virtue of a 23 to 7 win from Bates last Saturday Colby wins the 1916 Maine Football Championship, an honor which the weight and experience of her team, coupled with the wonderful work of Captain Cawley, should easily give her. Colby recovered from her slump of the week previous and played a far different game against Bates from those against the other Maine colleges and at all times had the game well in hand.

Yet Bates supporters have a reason to be justly proud of their team. Going into the game with the odds heavily against them and everybody wondering whether the Garnet would score, Coach Parks' men showed that they had a lot of pluck and skill and obtained their first touchdown of the Maine series by a fine exhibition of the open game. Outweighed heavily and oft-time seemingly bewildered by the dodging skill of the Colby captain, the Bates team offered a stubborn resistance. When they did score in the fourth period it was after a series of line plunges that, mingled with a clever forward pass and a fake drop kick play with DeWever carrying the ball, brought the ball near enough to the line for DeWever to hurl it to Wiggin, who barely caught it well across the line.

Bates found the Colby line a different proposition from the Maine and Bowdoin defenses which Captain DeWever had torn up at will, and after a 15 yard gain near the beginning of the game, the team gained very little in this manner. But at the open game it excelled. In the last minutes of play, nearly every Bates play was a forward, some of them netting good gains. Colby also used the overhead route to good effect, but was aided in this by the ability of her men to advance after they had caught the ball. All this made the game very interesting from a spectacular standpoint, as the play shifted with bewildering speed at times.

Captain Cawley was again the star, rushing the ball 218 yards during the game and once getting through for a 45 yard run. Time after time he would shake off Bates tacklers, two at a time, and keep on after seemingly being downed. Some criticism was made of the Bates tackling early in the game, but a large part of the blame must be laid to Cawley. Bressett also played well for Colby, kicking a difficult goal from the 35-yard line.

For Bates, DeWever was as usual the star. He did not have the same line with him or as easy a one against him as usual, but he made one or two fine gains. On the defensive, however, the Garnet leader was a tower of strength. Time after time he would break up the Colby plays that should have been stopped long before they reached him. With Colby's ball on Bates ten yard line, the champions could make only five yards in three tries, and every time when the men were pulled apart it was "Buck" DeWever who was clasp- ing some Colby man in his powerful arms.

There is no doubt that in this game two of the best men seen on Maine grid-irons for some time played their last game. They have different styles, it is true, but for effectiveness and all-round ability, neither need bow to gridiron heroes of the past.

Colby was able to break through the Bates line with mass plays only at a time when several substitutes were in the game. The Bates line was weakened by the loss of Hamilton, one of the best tackles in the state, and Knight was injured early in the game. Cawley broke away for one of his long runs and appeared to be in a position to make a touchdown, but was tackled by Knight who was knocked unconscious. He remained in the game after recovering. Later Knight was forced to leave the lineup, being so dazed as not to recognize the signals. He had to remain on the bench some time before he was recovered enough to go in again. Several other Bates men were injured and it appeared at one time that the Garnet would not have a single punter in the lineup.

Wiggin played his usual fine game and, though injured, scored the Bates tally. "Summy" Davis, playing his last game for us, was also right there, both punting and on the defense. His punts were far superior but were partly offset by the work of Cawley in running them back. The shift play was weak as usual and the forward pass the most successful it has been this season.

The scores were all made as the result of open play. Colby made her first touchdown early in the game by a pass from Cawley to Bressett, Bressett failing on the goal. The second also was scored on a pass. Cawley to Perry had put the ball near the line, Cawley then carrying it over by an end run. Colby's last touchdown was the result of two forwards, Cawley to Bressett and Cawley to Joyce, the two plays netting 40 yards. Near the end of the fourth period, Bressett kicked a goal from the 35-yard line.

The game started with Bates showing up well. Cawley then began to make his long runs, especially on returning punts. The Bates tackling was poor, but improved as the game went on, Wiggin and Knight contributing feature tackles. Cawley worked a cross buck for a long run, which led to a touchdown. The Bates line held better after this score, though several substitutions were necessary on account of injuries. In the second period, Colby intercepted a pass and by mass plays directed at the center of the Bates line worked the ball into position for another score. The play was nearly even except for the work of Cawley and the momentary wabbling of the Bates line.

In the second half the Colby team made some long gains by the forward pass, getting off some long runs after the pass was caught and securing another tally. In the last period the game opened up even more and here Bates showed some class and scored. The last period ended with both sides using passes till some one would intercept a pass and then the work would all be repeated again.

QUESTION OF SIDE DOOR PULLMAN THRESHED OUT AT Y. M. C. A. MEETING

SUBJECT INTERESTINGLY PRE-SENTED BY PROF. JORDAN

Nearly Same Principles Involved
As In Betting And Gambling

"Never try to get something for nothing." This is what Prof. Jordan told his audience at the regular meeting of the Y. M. C. A. Wednesday evening, Nov. 1. The subject was "The Ethics of the Side-Door Pullman," and after the address opportunity for discussion was given.

Prof. Jordan developed the subject from the standpoint of property, stating that one of the latest forms of property is that of the method of travel. He said in brief:

"The Indian's claim to property was very indefinite, but as civilization developed laws were made which settled largely the question of what is, or what is not, property. But even now there exists a poor idea of the method of travel as property. It is a common thing for a small boy to take a ride on the back of a wagon or for any one to ask for a ride without thinking of paying for it, so that it comes to be a natural idea that a ride is not to be paid for. We realize that methods of travel are so well established that they become as much a part of property as our hands or our wallets. Thus it has been determined, on account of large investments in railroads, that the rights of the owners should be established by law. The laws in regard to the rights of railroads in relation to passengers are very definite and positive, and thus uncertainty has largely disappeared.

"We divide property into Real Estate and Personal Property. This is only a general division. An apple on the tree is considered real estate, but on the ground it is personal property. Legally it is worse to take an apple from the ground than from the tree. You see there is a distinction.

"The rights of railroads are thoroughly established. It is generally recognized that railroads cannot afford to carry passengers for less than two cents per mile. No one would claim that a railroad should carry people for nothing. It comes pretty near to stealing when you take away for nothing that for which a man or corporation is entitled to compensation.

"Furthermore, stealing a ride on a train is very dangerous. But I want to condemn it on another ground. Never try to get something for nothing. This is thoroughly contrary to the development of right character, and I don't believe Bates students want to follow this principle. To try in scholarship, to get something without giving equal value for it is sure to make you a man who would not imitate. In every regular deliberate choice there is either a gain or loss of moral energy, just as in chemistry a chemical reaction results in a gain or loss of energy.

"A man who decides against his conviction is a weaker man, a weaker moral force, but if he makes decisions according to his moral convictions he is a greater force in the community."

CROSS COUNTRY CHAMPION- SHIP TO BE DECIDED HERE TOMORROW

RACE TO BE RUN OVER PRACTI-CALLY SAME COURSE AS BATES-MAINE DUAL MEET

Results Expected To Be Close

The Maine Intercollegiate Cross Country Run will take place tomorrow at 3.30 P.M. The race will be run over practically the same course as the Bates-Maine dual meet, the start and finish being on Garcelon Field.

Cross country is comparatively young as an intercollegiate sport in this state, and to date the University of Maine has monopolized the title. This year, however, the colleges are more evenly balanced, and it is not so easy to pick a winner. Bates is represented by the strongest cross country team she ever had and has an excellent chance to bring this year's championship to the local campus. The result of the dual meet with Maine amply indicates the expected strength of the Garnet.

Bowdoin also has shown indication of strength and should place men well up among the leaders. Bates and Maine, however, seem to be the most likely candidates for first honors with Bowdoin and Colby following in order.

ARTICLES OF LITERARY INTEREST PRESENTED AT SPOFFORD CLUB MEETING

THREE NEW MEMBERS VALUABLE ADDITION TO CLUB'S EN-ROLLMENT

Spoftford Club held its regular meeting on Tuesday evening, November 7, with an interesting and varied program.

Miss Paine read an allegorical essay, called Compensation, in which she contrasted the joys and troubles of the honest, average day laborer with those of a philosophical professor of sociology.

Mr. Quimby contributed an essay on Journalism, setting forth the task of the newspaper man in meeting the requirements of his work and the demands of widely varying readers of periodicals.

Miss Leathers' short story, entitled The Supremacy of Man, was written in the vernacular of the New England farm, and was both pleasing and original.

The club congratulates itself on the addition of three valuable members in Miss Aileen Lougee, '17, Mr. Stanley Spratt, '18, and Mr. Ralph George, '18. Miss Lougee has, throughout the three years of her course, been active in nearly every branch of college life, and exceptionally proficient in many lines. In curriculum work she has succeeded in outstripping all rivals and in capturing each year the young women's scholarship prize for her class. She is also much interested in sports and has earned the title of an all-round athlete. At present Miss Lougee is President of the Young Women's Athletic Association, alumni editor of the Student, assistant in Latin, as well as a member of the choir, girls mandolin and glee clubs, and of several other college associations.

Mr. Spratt is unusually versatile and talented, being an artist of considerable ability and a brilliant mathematician. His profound treatise on the "Higher Dimensions" earned for him the prize offered for the best Sophomore essay, (Continued on Page Four)

ENKUKLIOS HELD MOCK TRACK MEET LAST SATURDAY EVENING

RAND HALL GYMNASIUM SCENE OF IMAGINARY INTERCOL-LEGIATE CONTEST

Suitable Prizes Awarded to Winners

Those young ladies who are laboring under the impression that there cannot be a social function at Bates, worth attending, unless it includes young men, would have been surprised if accident had brought them in the vicinity of the Rand Hall Gymnasium Saturday night. If a good time is measured by a whole lot of enthusiasm, action and fun, with no tiresome intervals, then the Mock Track Meet given by Enkuklios was a big success.

The gymnasium was attractively decorated with banners and pillows, and large banners marked the positions of the four colleges, Bates, Maine, Dartmouth, and Yale. Each girl, upon entering, was assigned to one of these colleges, and then everyone was ready for the Intercollegiate Meet. Miss Buswell, Miss Hammond and Mrs. Gould acted as judges. Clara Fitts, '18, with her megaphone might have been a credit on any regular occasion.

The track meet began with songs and cheers by the various colleges, to arouse the proper spirit. Then the following events were participated in:

1. Handicap race (like potato race).
2. Relay race,—in which crackers featured.
3. Hundred yard dash,—done with paper wads and case-knives.
4. High jump,—a singing contest.
5. Foot race,—measured in feet.
6. Shot put,—with paper bags.
7. Hurdles.
8. Broad jump,—a chance to grin.
9. Two mile race.

Appropriate prizes were awarded the winners in each event, and a large banner was presented to the college having won the most points. Bates won the large banner, and thereupon, took over the other three colleges to herself. After this all the loyal Bates athletes snake-danced merrily to one corner of the gym where a little mental exercise was enjoyed at the "Empire Theatre."

After a box of chocolates had been awarded to the successful mental athletes, the track meet ended with cheers and singing of the Alma Mater.

JOHN KENDRICK BANGS, AUTHOR,
LECTURER, AND HUMORIST TO SPEAK IN AUBURN

Opportunity To Hear Noted Reader
At Board Of Trade Meeting
Nov. 16

One of the speakers engaged for the Auburn Board of Trade lecture course this fall is John Kendrick Bangs, the well known author. He will be heard Thursday evening, Nov. 16, in the new Grammar School Hall, Auburn. The subject of his lecture will be "Saliubrities".

Mr. Bangs should attract a large number of Bates students, especially those who have had their interest aroused in Senior English, for he is one of our foremost authors, a reader of unusual ability and one of the most pleasing humorists since the days of Mark Twain.

John Kendrick Bangs was born in Yonkers, N. Y., May 27, 1862. His college training was obtained at Columbia University, New York City. From 1884 to 1888 he was managing editor of Life, and from 1888 to 1900 was on the editorial staff of Harper's Magazine. The following two years found him Editor of Harper's Weekly. He has also held the position of vice-president of the Yonkers Board of Education, president of the Halstead School, and in 1894 was candidate for Mayor of his natal city.

Mr. Bangs spends part of his time in New York City and the remainder in Ogunquit, Maine, where he has a beautiful home on the cliffs secluded from all the Ogunquinites.

THE MUSICAL CLUBS

Now that the football and track seasons are over, the center of the stage of action during the next few months will be held by the musical interests of the college. Since early in the semester, both the glee and mandolin clubs have been hard at work. Rehearsals have been held regularly, and the favorable results obtained even thus far point to a successful year. Arrangements are being made for two long trips, both of which will furnish enjoyment for the members of the clubs and valuable advertising for the college.

Although preliminary cuts have been made in both clubs, this does not in any way signify that henceforth either club will be restricted to the men out for it at present. There may be men in college who, on account of either football or track, have been unable to try out for the musical organizations. If you are one of these men, there is a chance for you in the musical clubs. Come out and show us what you can do. If you sing, speak to the leader of the glee club; if you play, speak to the leader of the mandolin club. Either of these men will see to it that you get a fair show.

It is the aim of the college to send out a musical club that is representative. A club can be truly representative only in so far as it is made up of the best talent in college. The Bates Musical Clubs throw out its challenge to you. What are you going to do about it?

EVERYBODY OUT FOR THE CROSS COUNTRY RACE

Have you put tomorrow, Friday, November the tenth, down in your list of red letter days? You haven't? Then, by all means, do so at once. Why? Can it be possible that you don't know why you should set aside this day of all days! Then listen for a minute while we try to dispel your unpardonable ignorance by informing you that on tomorrow afternoon Maine, Colby, Bowdoin and Bates are scheduled to clash in what promises to be one of the most interesting and exciting cross country contests ever engaged in by the four Maine colleges. Surely this is reason a-plenty why every one of us should make it our business to be on hand. The men who represent Bates tomorrow have worked faithfully day by day for weeks in order that in this final struggle they may give a creditable account of themselves as they strive to bring glory to their college. All they have will be sacrificed in the hope of seeing the Garnet raised in victory over the Blue, the Gray, and the White. The least the rest of us can do will be to give them such a rousing send-off as will prove to them without any shadow of a doubt that the spirit of the entire college is behind them from the time they leave the mark until the last man of them crosses the finish line. This race tomorrow marks the culmination of the fall athletic season. Here is our last chance to show what Bates is good for. Don't let it be said of any of us that we shirked our duty in supporting the Garnet.

OBSERVANT CITIZEN

Senior football men! You've played your last game of football on the old Bates gridiron. "Boggie", "Buck", "Summie", "Stettie", "Eddie", and "Bo", we're sorry to see you go; but altho you've kicked the Bates pigskin for the last time, you'll still be struggling toward an even more vital goal.

We're wondering if the future Mrs. Turner can be found in the Senior English class. This is a subject worthy of much speculation. If anyone can furnish any inside information on this suspected romance please report to the "Student" Board at once, as the subject has been held open for discussion by a little incident that took place in English class Tuesday. "Monie" called upon Mr. Turner to recite. Instead of "Speed's" manly voice, a sweet appealing little feminine voice made reply. At this strange coincidence "Monie" felt obliged to give this gentle hint to the aforementioned damsel, "Please don't answer until your name is Turner."

Men from Colby, Maine, and Bowdoin have taken a trip over our cross country course at a walking gait. They are getting acquainted with the lay of the land, so that they can show their pep on Friday.

This is the season of year when letters of various kinds are being handed out to Bates Students. The football men are proud of their letters; but some of the poor little freshmen mention theirs to no one, but hide them away so that no one will suspect that they are "picked" men.

The co-eds are manifesting a remarkably spunky spirit in hockey. They are getting so full of pep that they would like to go down to Colby and do to the Colby girls what Bates men didn't do to Colby last Saturday.

All loyal Bates men and women will be glad to learn of the regard of an old lady from the Ladies' Home who said, "I am much interested in Bates men and women, and have seen the corner stone laid for every building on the campus."

A Deputation Committee recently went to New Hampshire to help in the No License Campaign. From this we can see that Bates is developing stump speakers.

Some of the bright and original men in the Physics class have discovered that the gas meter is too near the steam pipe, and that we're paying for more gas than we're using.

We are curious to know who the musician is who has such a fine sense of contrast and proportion. When strolling by the chapel the other night, a Lewiston citizen was much edified by the sweet strains of the "Devils Dream" followed by "Abide With Me."

The committee on costuming has learned a fine new scheme of disguise from a resourceful Senior fellow. When said Senior was asked what he was going to wear to the Hallowe'en party, he replied, "I'm going to put on a clean collar." However, we are happy to say, an especially sagacious Freshman Girl penetrated this disguise. We think that a similar scheme of disguise might lend dignity to our chapel exercises. Just try it sometime, boys, as an experiment. See how many of your friends will recognize you.

Can a body occupy two different points in space at the same time? This is a topic worthy of the most careful consideration on the part of proficient physicists and chemists. Take a look at the Panoramic View of Bates College. Both at the extreme left and right of the picture you see the same old "physogs" appearing.

JUNIOR GIRLS DEFEATED FRESHMEN IN HOCKEY 7 TO 1

First Of Preliminary Games
Played Tuesday Afternoon

The Junior girls won from the Freshmen the first of the preliminary hockey games on Tuesday afternoon, at 3.30, with a score of 7 to 1.

The lineup for the Juniors was as follows: Hilda DeWolfe, center forward; Evelyn Hussey and Mary Jacobs, inside forwards; Doris Haskell and Blanche Ballard, right and left wing; Ruth Chapman, Clara Fitts, and Martha Drake, half backs; Annie Brewer and Mildred Junkins, full backs; and Amy Losier, goal-tender.

On the Freshman team, in the same order, were Vera Safford, Lois Ames and Laura Herriek; Eleanor Pierce and Miss Fisher; Hilda Hodgdon, Annabel Paris, and Vivian Edwards; Dorothy Barrus and Flora Durrell; and Ruth Claytor.

It was a hard fought contest from start to finish, although from the time the Juniors made their second goal within three minutes of the start, there was little doubt of the outcome. During the remaining twelve minutes of the first half, the Freshmen twice carried the ball almost to their goal but failed to put it over. Near the end of the half the Juniors gained another point, making the score 3 to 0.

The second period began with a score for the Juniors, followed by a hard fought goal by their opponents. This proved the sole point for the Freshmen, while 1918 scored three more times in quick succession.

The Juniors appeared to be in excellent form and several of them distinguished themselves. Chief among these were Doris Haskell, Martha Drake and Hilda DeWolfe.

In spite of the apparent onesidedness of the game, it was evident to those looking on that the Freshman team was making a good fight, and that with a little more experience in outwitting the opposition, some excellent players would be evolved. Especially worthy of mention are Dorothy Barrus, fullback, and Vivian Edwards, right halfback.

POLITICS CLUB DISCUSSES THE LABOR LAWS OF MAINE

Mr. Tarbell Presented Maine's Contribution To The Laboring Classes

Program For Semester Prepared By Executive Committee

The Politics Club held its bi-weekly meeting, Wednesday evening, November 1. Mr. Tarbell, '18, was the speaker, giving a comprehensive discussion on the "Labor Laws of the State of Maine."

He said that Maine has done much for labor, for which it has not been given credit. A recent law compels every company to pay its employees weekly with few exceptions, of which the case of lumbermen is one. Occupational diseases must be reported to the State Board of Health and all accidents to the Industrial Accident Commission.

There are three kinds of arbitration, —voluntary, compulsory and compulsory investigation. Compulsory arbitration has not yet been instituted in Maine, Mr. Tarbell said, but progress is being made in the settlement of labor disputes.

The 54 hour law, which was recently approved when referred to the people, provides that women and minors shall not work more than 54 hours a week in factories, shops, and other places of employment. Many factories are granting the benefits of this law to all the employees, both men and women.

No children under fourteen years of age are allowed to do any work for pay while school is in session.

The Compensation Act passed by the last legislature provides for a suitable recompense in case of injury, death, or permanent disability suffered by an employee.

Other labor laws mentioned were the safety appliances on railroads, provisions against drunkards being employed on transportation lines, the law against Sunday labor, and suitable working conditions for women. Employees in paper mills must be vaccinated. Insurance companies are allowed to grant special rates to labor unions, lodges, etc. All public buildings must be in safe and competent hands.

Mr. Tarbell said that from the above laws it could be seen that the State was doing considerable for labor.

The executive committee met at the close of the meeting and drew up a schedule for the semester.

and very interesting program was furnished by several of the members and Dr. Tubbs.

Gregory, '19, read a paper on the English tanks, which created so much comment in the press during the offensive movement of the allies last summer. The tanks were compared to the American tractors used in the West for agriculture.

Stevens, '18, read an article on "Preparedness." He said that the army had been receiving the major portion of public attention during the past two or three years. The navy, as the second line of defense, should not be neglected. He then pointed out the weaknesses developed in the equipment under the present department head.

Crooker, '17, discussed the methods of censorship, the restriction of mails, and the advantages and disadvantages to neutral and warring nations. The necessity for preparation for a good system of censorship was developed.

A paper on "The Attempt to Prophecy the Strength of the Germans" was Mr. Kennedy's contribution.

Dr. Tubbs then summarized the war progress of the past three weeks. He explained that on the western front the French have shown considerable strength in their recapture of an important strategic position, Fort Vaux. The English have gained nothing, while the Central Powers have regained thru counter attacks.

On the eastern front the Central Powers have made vicious attacks on the Russians in the Carpathian region, gaining 1000 square miles.

In Roumania the Central Powers were, three weeks ago, 40 miles this side of the railroad which is Roumania's only outlet to the Black Sea, but today the Central Powers are 40 miles beyond, having gained a total of 2800 square miles of territory.

Russia is tied up on the northern side of the Danube owing to a lack of bridges over the Danube river and the swampy ground. For this reason there is no probability of counter attacks.

ATHLETIC ADVISORY BOARD AWARDS LETTERS TO FOOTBALL MEN

Fifteen Players Receive Insignia Under Qualification Rules

The following men have been awarded football letters this year: Captain DeWever, Davis, Kennedy, Connors and Murray for the Senior class; Shattuck, Moulton, Knight and Clifford from the Junior class; Adam, Stonier and Talbot from the Sophomore class; and Wiggin, Hickey and Cutler from the Freshman class. In order to win their letters this year, according to the new Constitution of the Athletic Association, the men had to play in parts of all the Maine series games, or the whole of two.

Of these men, five will be lost by graduation. Two of these men who have played their last game for the garnet are nearly unanimous choices for All Maine players. They are Captain James DeWever and Sumner Davis. There is no need to review their careers on the gridiron to Bates supporters who have watched their stellar performances for four years. This much is certain, that there is not another man in the state who can buck the line like our "Buck" DeWever, while on the defensive he is a host in himself. French of Maine is the only player who can in any way be compared with Davis as a punter and he is of use only in that department, while Davis is a good field general, open field runner and a dependable man in the backfield under all conditions. Eddie Connors and Frank Kennedy are two more backfield men whose speed has been a great asset to Bates in the past. They have played little this year owing to injuries, but both are clever performers. Francis Murray completes the quintet of Senior "B" men. He is an end with a lot of fight. Besides these men there are others none less faithful and hardworking who were unable to win recognition this season but who did their best just the same. Henry Stettbacher and Morton Wiggin are two who have scrimmaged for the last time.

From the Junior class, four men were recognized, Clifford having been used as a substitute lineman and Shattuck and Knight having regular places at center and tackle and Moulton at end. All have played good, steady games and are fitted to receive the honor of Captain which will fall to one of them. Shattuck is especially noted as being nearly a sure man for center on an All Maine lineup. Clifford makes his letter for the first time after three years of faithful work in the line.

Adam and Stonier are two Sophomore guards whose work is well known from last year, while Talbot is a new letter man. This year he has taken the place of Davis at quarter and his work has improved steadily during the season. Talbot is light, but fast and quick-witted and bids fair to follow in the footsteps of his brother as an All Maine quarter.

Three Freshmen are now "B" men, Carleton Wiggin comes from Sanford High with a prep school reputation that he has lived up to in a fine fashion at Bates. Playing on the second team for a time, his work could not but win recognition and all through the Maine series he has been a star for the Garnet. Injured time after time, he has continued in the game and fought all the harder. To him goes the honor of making our only touchdown this season in the Maine series. John Hickey of Gardiner is another man with a good chance to make good in athletics. He has played in every position in the line this season and has been a material help to the team. Felix Cutler has played in all the college games for Bates. His work as a defensive back is of the highest order. He comes from Medfield, Mass.

NEW MEMBERS FORMALLY ADMITTED INTO Y. W. C. A.
AT MEETING NOV. 1

Miss Ballard The Leader And Speaker
At Reception

At the meeting of the Y. W. C. A. on Wednesday evening, November 1, forty-seven new members were admitted. Miss Blanche Ballard had charge of the meeting.

An opening selection was given by the mandolin quartet,—Ruth Dresser, Alice Harvey, Ruth Chapman and Annie Leathers. Miss Ballard then spoke a few words before the new members were formally admitted. She began by saying that at the close of last year they were sorry to see the 1916 girls departing and were wondering how they were to get along without these loyal Y. W. C. A. members. This fall they were missed. There was a gap to be filled. To-night they were encouraged to see the splendid group of girls who were coming into this gap, bringing enthusiasm, inspiration and new ideas into the organization.

In a few forceful words she spoke of the opportunity which the Y. W. C. A. girl has for personal development, and for preparation for service here and after she leaves college.

While the new members stood, Miss Ballard read the purpose of the Association, which was followed by a few words of prayer by Ruth Lewis.

The mandolin quartet then played hymns while each girl came forward, signed the constitution, and received a membership card and a white, or garnet, carnation. The singing of the Silver Bay Benediction closed the meeting.

MONTHLY MEETING OF PHILHELLENIC CLUB HELD LAST THURSDAY EVENING

Greek Sculpture, Sports and Customs
Able Discussed

Ten New Members Admitted

The Philhellenic Club held its monthly meeting, Thursday evening, November 2, in Libbey Forum. An instructive and entertaining program was furnished through the diligence of the program committee.

The first number on the program was a piano solo by Miss Tinker. Miss Aikins discussed "Greek Sculpture" in her characteristic and charming manner, and passed around a book of photographs of the more famous pieces of sculpture. Miss Aikins divided Greek sculpture into five different classes,—religious sculpture, monuments of commercial and business transactions, statues of athletes, household decorations, and tombs. Miss Aikins closed her speech by saying, "We must not think of Greek sculpture as merely art. It is not cold and superficial, but expresses the life and ideals of the Greeks,—their faith, worship, enthusiasm and endeavor."

Miss DeWolfe continued the program with a discussion of the "Home Life of the Greeks." She told of Greek clothing, marriage customs, position of the father and women in the family, the christening of infants, and the customs in regard to servants and domestic animals.

After a vocal solo by Mr. Upham, Mr. DeWolfe told of "Greek Sports." Mr. Watkins then sang "In Old Madrid," and Miss Paine concluded the program with an intelligent and interesting discussion of "Greek Education."

It was voted to admit to the membership of the Club ten new members,—Misses Christensen, Dunnells, Wolfe, Moreau, Clarke, Severance; Messrs. Malouf, Sherman, Sherburne, Millward.

SECOND MEETING OF DEUTSCHER VEREIN HELD MONDAY EVENING

Adam '19, Described One Of His Home Cities In Germany

New Members Also Helped Entertain

The Deutscher Verein met for the second time of the year last Monday evening. Adam, '19, spoke to the society upon Hildesheim, a city in Germany where he attended school for three years previous to going to Hamburg.

Mr. Adam said that Hildesheim is one of the oldest and most antique of the cities of Northern Germany. It was founded in 820 by Louis the Pious, and a very interesting legend is connected with its origin. The streets, he said, are very narrow, and the houses built with the upper stories projecting beyond the lower ones. This brings the opposing houses much closer together at the tops.

The best known building is the Cathedral, the dome of which is round like St. Peter's at Rome and covered with gold. Many interesting legends are also connected with this edifice.

The old walls around the city have been leveled to a certain extent, and fine promenades have been built along the top. Trees have been planted along the walk to add to its beauty and convenience. The old moat, 60 to a 100 feet wide around the outside of the walls, has been filled and is now cultivated.

The ancient houses at the center of the city have been torn down and modernized, while the outer sections are still indicative of the early city. The city itself is on one of the main railroad lines of Germany.

He then described the schools of the city, saying that there were more educational institutions than in Portland, a city of practically the same size. Included among them are a Catholic gymnasium and a Protestant gymnasium, and two schools for ladies.

At the conclusion of the talk, those new members who were not initiated at the last meeting were given an opportunity to orate in German. None, however, availed themselves of the privilege, preferring to speak in English.

Morse and Lee gave brief book reviews, and Dyer spoke briefly upon Germany's action in giving Poland her liberty.

Walter Oakman, '17, was made a member of the executive committee.

WORK BEGUN ON NEW CINDER TRACK ON GARCELON FIELD

"Sparrow" Robertson Of New York
Superintending The Construction

The Bates Athletic Association has secured the services of "Sparrow" Robertson of New York to build a cinder track on Garcelon Field. The cinders have been on the field all the fall, but, owing to some trouble in the arrangements, it is doubtful if the track is completed this fall. Mr. Robertson is here for only this week, but he will drill the men under him so that they will be able to complete all the work that can be done this fall.

The straightaway is the only part that has been torn up thus far. The clay track is plowed down for several inches and then cinders are sifted in and various sizes put on till the whole is complete and rolled down. When the work is done we should have a very fast track and the trouble from mud in the spring will be lessened. This is something that has been needed here for a long time and is only one of the various improvements that are being carried forward with mammoth strides at Bates lately.

In Mr. Robertson, Bates has secured the services of an expert who is responsible for the construction of some of the finest ovals in the East. He has followed the track game for 24 years and is a well known figure at all the big meets in New York. His last work in track building was at M. I. T., where the new track is said to be one of the best in the East. Mr. Robertson understands the exact mixture of cinders to use as well as the proper way to have the track finished off. He is to be here only seven days, but it is expected that he will have the work so well along by that time that competent workmen can complete it readily.

The work being done on the Bates track may also suggest the idea that Bates will make another attempt to have the New England Meet here in the spring. Last year the plan was proposed by Coach Ryan who was very enthusiastic in his support of it, and his enthusiasm was imparted to others with the result that the scheme received considerable attention, though the meet went to Springfield. With the fine track that we seem about to have and the other improvements being made, we may well hope that Lewiston will again receive consideration as a meeting place for the New England colleges.

LOCALS

The football season is now over and the last athletic event of the fall will be the Intercollegiate Cross Country Run held here on Friday, Nov. 10. Each Maine college has its cross country stars this year and some close competition should be seen on Friday. Admission to Gareelon field and to the grandstand is to be free to all and everybody is invited to attend. Here is a great chance to get something for nothing.

The Bates quartet, consisting of Messrs. Renwick, Sherman, Lane and Quackenbush, sang at the Opera House, Gardiner, on Monday and Tuesday evenings.

Coach Parks left Sunday noon for his home in Somerville, Mass. He is soon to open a dental office and at the same time will be on the faculty of instruction at Tufts Dental School. Coach Parks was one of the most popular coaches Bates has ever had, and in his brief residence in Lewiston he formed a large number of acquaintances, among whom his absence is deeply felt.

Harold L. Stillman, '19, spent the week end at his home in Saco.

At a meeting of the Junior football men, held Tuesday evening, Donald W. Hopkins was elected manager, and George Duncan was elected captain. Plans for a Junior-Senior football game were discussed.

Philip Talbot, '19, spent Sunday at his home in Gardiner.

Dr. Leonard was seen on the campus Tuesday. It is hoped by all that he will soon be able to resume work with his classes.

Herbert Hinton, '17, gave a reading, Wednesday evening, before the Men's Club of the Court St. Baptist Church of Auburn.

William Neville, '18, umpired the Deering High School-Westbrook Seminary football game at Deering Saturday.

Theodore E. Bacon, '17, was at his home in New Hampton, N. H., for a few days this week.

John Powers, '19, spent Sunday with relatives in Skowhegan.

Charles C. Chayer, '17, spoke Monday evening at Groveton, N. H., in connection with the campaign for prohibition. Mr. Chayer later spent a few days at his home in Lyndon, Vermont.

Miss Anna Clark, Northeastern County Secretary of the Y. W. C. A., visited the Bates association Sunday, November 5. In a brief talk to the girls before Bible Study Sunday evening, she pointed out a few of the ways in which college girls can work in their own homes and in country villages. Quoting from the letters of girls who have organized clubs among summer waitresses and hotel workers, she reminded them of an opportunity common to many.

Miss Ruth Dresser, '18, visited friends at Colby over the week end.

Miss Sara Reed, '19, entertained her mother at Rand Hall last week.

Miss Louise Perkins, '20, is able to be about again, after a short but severe attack of illness.

Mr. Stephen Gould, '19, and various friends in the college, entertained his mother and sister over Sunday.

Miss Beatrice Burr received a visit from her father last week.

Among those who spent the week end at home were Elinor Newman, '17, Martha Drake, '18, Helen Clark, '18, and Ida Millay, '19.

Finals in hockey are scheduled for next Saturday. The most common expression current among the girls of Rand Hall, "No, thanks, I'm in training", would seem to indicate that everyone is preparing to play the game and play it hard.

STUDENT SELECTS MYTHICAL ALL MAINE ELEVEN

Large Number Of Men Of Nearly Equal Ability Makes Choice Difficult

Now is the season for speculation and the usual list of hypothetical All Maine elevens. As Bates has been quite a factor in the scramble for the State title this year, we have more than the usual interest in the stars who might be suggested for premier honors. Teams have already been suggested by other college enthusiasts in the state, therefore the Student presents what it considers an all star cast. Opinions may differ in some respects, but we feel that the following team would be hard to beat.

No one would dispute "Buck" DeWever's claim to the fullback position. He is far and away the best defensive back in the state. His line bucking has also been a prominent feature in the State series.

Shattuck is another unanimous choice for the mythical eleven. His ability to kick field goals when called upon and his all around work at center are the only credentials necessary.

Although Davis was played at halfback most of the latter part of the season, his ability to punt and his end running accomplishments should entitle him to the quarterback position.

During the time that Hamilton and Wiggins played, their work stood out prominently against their opponents. Therefore they complete the Bates contribution to the first team.

The Student submits these lineups:

FIRST TEAM	SECOND TEAM
Wiggin (B) lb	re Perry (C)
