PRICE FIVE CENTS

MAINE WON INTERCOLLEGIATE CROSS COUNTRY RUN LAST FRIDAY WITH 24 POINTS

BATES RUNNERS CAPTURED SECOND PLACE WITH BOWDOIN AND COLBY FINISHING IN ORDER. HERRICK OF MAINE WINNER OF INDIVIDUAL TITLE

First Six Men To Finish Were Only 45 Seconds Apart. Colby Did Not Place Among First Ten

Showing a gain of at least fifty per cent in strength over their dual race against Bates, the Maine harriers had little difficulty in winning the fifth annual Maine Intercollegiate Cross Country Run with a score of 24. Bates was the runner up with 46, and Bowdoin and Colby trailed with 62 and 90 respectively. The Maine team of five to count all finished among the first ten and thus showed class enough to warrant them as favorites in the New England run this week. They more than satisfied their most ardent admirers and Bates need feel no disgrace at following in the wake of such an aggregation.

When the first men appeared coming along Mountain Avenue the dopsters received a shock, for Herriek of Maine, a "dark horse" indeed, had a good lead which he kept to the end. Dempsey and Gregory, expected to fight for the individual title, were forced to be content with third and fifth respectively. Cleaves and Noyes, the two Bowdoin Freshmen, did well to finish in the first ten, a thing which neither of the Thompsons of Colby could accomplish. The time was very fast, however. Herriek, doing 28 minutes 15 seconds for the five long miles, while five other men finished in the next 45 seconds.

The Bates team was the only one to offer any opposition to Maine and had three men in the first ten, but the other two men to count were so far in the rear that the fight was hopeless. The Bates men started out with a lot of fight and five of them were well in the lead when the bunch struck the bottom of Pole Hill. Here Captain DeWolfe was taken ill, and though he pluckily stuck to his task and finished, he was far back of the position he might well have been expected to hold, and was exhausted at the finish. He has not been in good condition for some time and this was only the culmination of distress that has worn him down in all his races this fall. He will not be able to run again this fall, but will endeavor to recover from his poor physical condition and compete next year. All praise is due to a man who has labored as faithfully as the gritty little Bates leader, regardless of his scoring record.

"Hi" Lane, last year regarded as one of the best distance runners that ever donned a spiked shoe in Maine, was the Garnet hero of the race. He showed the Bates spectators what it is to get the idea of winning so strongly in the foreground that one cannot be beaten; that it is a different thing to be good in practice and to have the fight that wins the race. Lane barely lost the individual honors. He took the lead at the start and only lost out after a long struggle with Herriek that made the time faster than ever before on the course. He entered the field with a good lead over Dempsey, the winner of the Bates-Maine run and a veteran favored to win the state race. Gregory and Jenkins were the other two Bates men to finish in the first ten, truly a worthy achievement that shows that Coach Ryan is developing a team that will give a good account of itself in the New England Run Saturday. Jenkins earned his letter in this race. Turner and White were the other Bates men to count, finishing together. Larkum, the seventh Bates man to run, finished well before Colby had finished scoring and nearly passed the last Bowdoin man to score.

The day was ideal for cross country and the Bates track, though partly torn up, was fixed so that the men could run the two laps to start on it and the half lap at the finish. The Bowdoin men were late on the field, and the pistol was fired by Mayor Brann of Lewiston at quarter of four. Lane of Bates at once jumped into the lead, with Jenkins at his shoulder. Noyes of Bowdoin had the lead for a few yards, but the Bates men soon drew ahead and by the end of the second lap Lane had a big lead. The time for the half was 2 min. 18s. When the men went out through the gate, four Bates men were out in front, Lane, Jenkins, Gregory and DeWolfe appearing before the first Bowdoin man with a fine man before the rest of the bunch.

During the wait for the men to appear again, the Bates band gave several selections to the good sized crowd that waited in the grand stand, on the bleachers and around the athletic field. The men could be seen going up over Pole Hill, the big hill of the course, in about the same order as they left the field, with Lane still in the lead. As the course is not run on the roads it was impossible to follow the runners across lots, but the crowd watched the sidewalk along Campus Avenue to see the leaders. When the men came up over the last hill, Mountain Avenue, Herriek of Maine had passed Lane of Bates. Then came Dempsey, Gregory and Wunderlick in order, all running strong.

When the men were seen running around John Bertram Hall it was apparent that Maine was winning, as the blue jerseyed runners flashed by in nearly unbroken succession, with only here and there the white jerseys of the Bates men apparent and a lone Bowdoin representative. There were several fairly close finishes, but no men were passed on the track, though Turner of Bates and White of Bates had a fine sprint ahead of Libby of Maine.

The order of finish was as follows: 1, Herriek, (M) 28:15; 2, Lane (B) 28:27; 3, Dempsey (M) 28:28; 4, Wunderlick (M) 28:37; 5, Gregory (B); 6, Noyes (Bow); 7, Preti (M); 8, Jenkins (B); 9, Emery (M); 10, Cleaves (Bow); 11, P. Thompson (C); 12, Crane (Bow); 13, M. Thompson (C); 14, Fillmore (Bow); 15, White (B); 16, Turner (B); 17, Libby (M); 18, King (M); 19, Evertts (C); 20, Mosher (Bow); 21, Larkum (B); 22, DeWolfe (B); 23, Maddox (C); 24, Tooker (C); 25, O'Donnell (Bow); 26, Smith (Bow).

The team scores were:
Maine 1 3 4 7 9—24
Bates 2 5 8 15 16—46
Bowdoin 6 10 12 14 20—62
Colby 11 13 19 23 24—90

SENIORITY

At Seniority, last Friday evening, the program took the form of a study of Verdi's four great operas. Miss Hazel Campbell, who was in charge of the meeting, opened with a short sketch of the great musician's life. Miss Sara Chandler told briefly the story of Rigoletto, after which two virola selections from that opera were played. Miss Ellen Aikens summarized Il Trovatore, which was followed by the familiar Anvil Chorus.

FIRST GEORGE COLBY CHASE LECTURE OF YEAR TO TAKE PLACE FRIDAY EVENING

HERBERT B. DAVIS OF PITTSBURG TRAINING SCHOOL WILL SPEAK ON "INDIVIDUATION"

The first lecture in the George Colby Chase course for this year will be given in the chapel tomorrow evening. The speaker will be Herbert Berman Davis, a graduate of Bates in the class of 1890.

Mr. Davis received his Doctor's degree from Clark College after graduating from Bates, and then taught for several years in various schools. He finally became the head of the Pittsburg Training School for Teachers, a position which he now holds. The ideas embodied in this school are the most advanced and practical, special attention being given to the individual. Mr. Davis is recognized to be an authority on this subject. His topic will be "Individuation."

The lecture will be free and all students are urged to attend as well as to invite all friends who might be interested. Seniors who are prospective teachers should learn something of especial interest to them.

La Traviata, by Miss Reba Sawyer, was followed by a charming medley known as Gems from La Traviata.

The last opera discussed was Aida, sketched by Miss Esther Green. Caruso's rendition of the overture, Celestial Aida, ended the program.

JAMES SHATTUCK TO CAPTAIN GARNET FOOT BALL TEAM NEXT FALL

POPULAR CENTER UNANIMOUS SELECTION AT MEETING OF B MEN LAST WEEK

Prepared For College At Franklin, Mass., High School

James Shattuck, '18, of Andover, Mass., was unanimously elected captain of the 1917 Bates football team at a meeting of the "B" men held last week. The new leader prepared at Franklin High, where he was a basketball star. Since coming to Bates he has been very popular, being president of his class in the Freshman year and a member of the Advisory Board of the Athletic Association.

As a football player, "Jim" has been a steady man, winning his letter for the first time in his Sophomore year, when he took the place of Merrill, who broke a rib, and played center enough to earn the letter. Shattuck was late back this fall and did not figure much in the early games.

But when it came to the state series, Shattuck was one of the sensations of the season. His two drop kicks in the Maine game were responsible for the defeat of the State university, and his trusty toe scored the only points for the Garnet against Bowdoin. These two feats have made him nearly a unanimous choice for an All Maine center. It might be noted that the only player of note who does not include Shattuck on this mythical lineup also excludes Captain Cawley of Colby, so his standing does not appear to be affected by this dissenting vote.

But dropkicking is not the only thing that Shattuck has done. He has played a steady game at center and, though only weighing 160 and being tall at that, he has held his own with the bulkiest of them. With practically the entire line and backfield, with the notable exceptions of DeWever and Davis, remaining in college for next year, Captain Shattuck may well look forward to a successful season with his 1917 warriors.

JUNIORS WIN HOCKEY CHAMPIONSHIP BY DEFEATING SENIOR GIRLS 2 TO 1

EXTRA PERIOD NECESSARY TO PRODUCE WINNER IN CLOSE CONTEST

Latter Part Of Game Played In Darkness

An especially exciting afternoon was Thursday, November 9, when the Junior hockey team played the Senior veterans, somewhat worn, scarred, and lame from the conflict of the preceding afternoon.

The first half was not worthy of special note, as neither side scored; but the Seniors were just getting their lame limbs into working order as was attested by the record speed in which both forwards and halfbacks covered the field. In spite of the fact that neither side scored, the Seniors kept the ball in their opponents' territory for the greater part of the period.

The second half witnessed the beginning of offensive playing on the part of the Juniors who rushed the ball up to the Senior goal, and took advantage of the goal keeper's loss of equilibrium to drive the ball over the goal line. At the end of the second half the score was tied.

The captains agreed to play an extra five minutes, but at the end of the time limit neither side had scored. A consultation was again held, and the captains agreed to play fifteen more minutes, but the game was to go to the side which scored first. The last few minutes of the game were played in darkness. Intuition was the only means of knowing the whereabouts of the ball. One Senior halfback was detected in the act of unmercifully whacking the turf with the vain idea that she had

JORDAN SCIENTIFIC SOCIETY

REGULAR MEETING HELD MONDAY EVENING, NOVEMBER 13

The discussion at the Jordan Scientific Society meeting last Monday evening was furnished by Smith Hopkins, '17, who read a paper upon the "Fixation of Nitrogen from the Air."

He mentioned the decreasing supply of Chili saltpeter, and its necessity both in agriculture and modern warfare. He continued by giving a development of the methods used in extracting nitrogen from the air. The first was by two Englishmen, Lord Cavendish and Priestly, and consisted of passing electric sparks thru air contained in a test-tube. Later attempts by Chas S. Bradley and D. R. Lovejoy at Niagara Falls, and by Birkeland and Dr. Eyde, two Scandinavian inventors, resulted in the efficient "arc process," in which nitrogen of the air was converted into nitric acid by electric sparks.

Germany has made use of two processes, he said. The Haber process consists in fixing nitrogen directly in the form of ammonia by uniting nitrogen and hydrogen in the presence of a catalizer. The process which Germany is using now, however, is called the calcium cyanamid process, which requires less power than the arc process. It consists of heating calcium carbide with nitrogen of the air, forming calcium cyanamid, and then forming ammonia by heating with steam under pressure. The ammonia burned in the presence of a catalizer is transformed into nitric acid.

Germany's output during the war has been increased more than tenfold. If it had not been for the perfecting of this process, he said, Germany would probably have been unable to continue the war, since she is using at the rate of 300,000 tons of nitric acid each year for explosives.

A motion to have the meetings begin at 7:30 was defeated.

BATES ROUND TABLE

Subject Of Education Discussed By Members At Home Of Prof. Stanton

Prof. Stanton and his niece, Mrs. Morrel, entertained the Round Table at their home on Main Street, Friday evening, November 10. Prof. A. F. Hertell presided. D. E. Andrews was made the new member of the executive committee.

The subject of the evening was Education, and proved the source of much interesting and instructive discussion. Prof. Carroll read a paper on the "Practical in Education," after which Prof. Chase led in the discussion of "The Humanities in Education." Dr. Britan brought the two together in his talk on the "All-Round Education." After the discussion light refreshments were served.

The next meeting will be held December 1 with Prof. and Mrs. Gould. Mrs. Blanche Roberts will have charge of the program and Prof. Whitehorse will be the speaker.

JUNIOR CELEBRATION

The Junior girls celebrated the hockey championship Saturday by a general good time. Fun began with a parade of the girls' dormitories, ending in the gymnasium at Rand Hall, where games and dancing continued until after nine o'clock. In spite of the rivalry between the classes, Seniors and Juniors serenaded one another with good spirit and joined in the singing of the Bates Song.

found the ball. The ball moved down toward the Senior goal, and the referee's decision that a goal was made ended the game in favor of the Juniors.

Neither side can congratulate itself on its good playing. Viewed from the sidelines, it appeared that a game of golf, not hockey, was in progress. Many were the fouls that were called and many were the fouls that escaped detection; but both teams can be congratulated on their fighting spirit.

EDITORIALS

MAGAZINE SUPPLEMENT INFORMATION

Our readers will recall a statement in the editorial columns of the Student News Section for September 28, 1916, to the effect that the Magazine for November and December would be issued on November 23 and December 14 respectively. In view of difficulties which have but lately arisen, the editorial board finds it necessary to make a change in this plan. There will be no November Magazine Section. The next number of the Magazine, which is also the last to be issued by the present board of editors, will come out December 14 and will combine the November and December issues in one. There will be two more numbers of the News Section. The first will be published one week from today—November 23—and the second and last under the direction of the 1917 editorial staff, will be issued with the final Magazine Supplement on December 14.

INTERCLASS FOOTBALL

Yearly, about this time, after the regular football season has closed, there invariably sweeps over the college a craze for interclass football. Thus far such contests have been confined to the two upper classes and, although the lower classes have often organized teams, opportunity has never been given them to prove their ability in actual conflict. This fall the interest manifested in interclass football is as keen as ever and plans have been made for a game between the Seniors and Juniors. As in past years, the same unwritten law, that only the men who have not been out during the football season are eligible to play, will be enforced, but with an added requirement: namely, that the teams must train for at least ten days prior to the contest. As interclass football seems to bid fair to develop a problem which the college will be called upon to face annually, the question as to whether or not it is advisable to add it to our list of athletic activities naturally arises. Should it be considered advisable to take this step, such questions as: Is there sufficient interest in interclass football to insure its support, if adopted? If so, shall it be restricted to the two upper classes? and, if interclass football games are to become annual events, should not schedules be arranged, definite training rules insisted upon, and suitable regulations made to govern the contests? must be answered. We will not attempt to deal with these issues. We only suggest that, if interclass football is to be continued, some means should be adopted whereby the men who engage in this "brutal game of football" may become in a degree physically fitted to undergo the strains to which, of necessity, they must be subjected. Otherwise, there is grave danger that the injuries which may be received will far outweigh all other considerations.

REQUIREMENTS FOR ADMISSION TO MEDICAL COLLEGES

Application for admission to medical colleges seem to indicate that college students in this country are not sufficiently informed of the requirements for admission to medical schools. F. W. Palfrey, M. D., of Harvard University Medical School is authority for the following statement of medical requirements.

"In recent years developments have taken place in the requirements for admission to medical colleges in the United States of which students in following their academic studies should have knowledge.

"Under the influence of the American Medical Association, of the Association of the American Medical Colleges, and of State Boards of Medical Registration, all of the better colleges in this country now require, or are about to require, for admission not less than two years of college work, together with the training represented by full year college courses of eight semester hours value each in physics, inorganic chemistry, and biology (at least half of which shall be zoology), all including laboratory work, and a knowledge of either French or German.

"Many medical schools have requirements in addition to these, but the requirements above mentioned are needed for admission to all colleges of the better grade. The Harvard Medical School, and certain other colleges, require organic chemistry before admission. Certain colleges require a degree in arts or science instead of two years of college work. Other special requirements exist.

"Students considering the study of medicine are therefore advised to write early in their college course to the Deans of medical colleges which they may wish to enter to ascertain exactly what they must do to gain admission."

AN OPPORTUNITY

In the last two issues the Student has printed announcements of events, not directly connected with the college, but having a value for those students who desire to attend those functions outside that are worth while. We often feel that the idea has become too prevalent among students that a college education is confined to the courses of study required in the catalog or that may be elected by the student himself. Such an idea is erroneous. The study of a subject is not valued according to the number of facts actually learned and remembered, but by the increased ability to analyse a new situation as developed by training in study, and by the appreciation of a wider variety of interests.

Speakers in the George Colby Chase lecture course, together with other speakers who visit the college, furnish an excellent opportunity to combine facts with the present day subjects that concern us; and as many other opportunities should be utilized as are presented and convenient. Three avenues are open to knowledge of a wide variety of things,—reading, travel and conversations or lectures. No man can say that he has bettered his citizenship who does not have a knowledge of the principles for or against which he casts his vote or influence. No man can rise above the narrow confines of his own small sphere who has not traveled or read. Excellent openings for two of these avenues are presented here at college in the form of books, magazines, and lectures.

OBSERVANT CITIZEN

Two events have not failed for the past thirty years to bring a stormy day—A hare and hound chase and a picture of the musical clubs.

The nearest we ever came to having a barber shop installed on the campus was to place a chair in the assistant treasurer's office for the inconvenience of those who have business there.

Now that election is over we may settle down to study for two weeks.

The first snow of the season came last Sunday evening. The weather is making us think of the hockey season. It is about time to begin reviving Lake Andrews. By the way, who named this body of water?

Coming—A beautiful park with settees on the green banks of Lake Andrews, swans gracefully floating on the smooth surface of the waters, and the handsome peacock strutting about soliciting compliments on his magnificent plumage.

Freshmen are about to "See their father this morning."

In respect to public speaking contests, debates, and athletics we may put this down as an infallible rule: You never hear a winner complain of the decision of the judges.

It is hardly fair to expect a bunch of husky men to act real "lady-like" in the waiting-room of the Commons. A large clock set at standard time and placed over the openings where bills are paid would reduce the difficulty. Without one we often think we are cheated out of a minute or two because we do not know what time it is.

The present Junior class has more pretty girls than any class that ever entered Bates. Maybe they can't play hockey too!

Prof. Baird welcomes visitors at his sophomore class-room debates. No attempt is made to verify statements made in these debates, for not infrequently some student quotes from the book of Hezekiah or from the one hundred and fifty-first Psalm.

Library conferences are on. A further opportunity to get acquainted with your class-mates, even though you don't remember a thing that is told you.

Manager Mills of the Senior track team is doing excellent work. His duties are weighing heavily upon him, but he thinks he can pull through the year without an assistant.

You may search all the back numbers of the Student, but you won't find in any of them something that appears in this issue.

Perhaps Dr. Tubbs can tell us about when to expect some cataclysmic event that will produce a good-sized permanent lake near the campus.

There is one poor little gray squirrel that wont eat any nuts in the new park between the lake and Bardwell St. The creature was shot at seventy-five yards by an expert marksman from Parker. Why did he do it?

"Rol" Purinton says Bowdoin has a population of 814 exclusive of trees and fence posts.

A record of bible study attendance occupies all the blackboard space in the Y. M. C. A. office, reminding us of our childhood days when we strove for a perfect attendance at Sunday School in order to get a prize.

REGULAR WEEKLY MEETING OF SPOFFORD CLUB HELD TUESDAY EVENING

Lawrence Thompson Of The Senior Class Admitted To Membership

Spoftford Club held its regular meeting in Libbey Forum on Tuesday evening, November 14. The first business transacted was the reading of a trial poem by Mr. Lawrence Thompson, and the election of the author to membership in the club.

Mr. Thompson is a member of the Senior class, and although entering the club rather late in his course, will be a valuable member for the part of the year still remaining. During the last two years he has made science a specialty to such good effect that he has been made one of the Senior assistants in Chemistry. He is already an active member in several college clubs, among them Jordan Scientific Society, Deutscher Verein, and the Military Science Club.

The program of the evening consisted of a fanciful sketch, "A Thing of Beauty," by Miss Ruth Capen; A Sonnet by Miss Alice Lawry; and an allegorical poem, "The Miller," by Mr. Conrad Coady.

Miss Capen's contribution showed a combination of Art, both in substance and style, and of an interesting bit of philosophy on the mission and indestructibility of beauty. It represented a bereaved man's dream of his beautiful wife, whose perfect loveliness remains unmarred even in death. The setting is in India and was skilfully used to create an atmosphere strongly suggestive of Poe.

Miss Lawry's sonnet was an exceptionally good appreciation of the cynicism of Youth and of the world-weariness which looks back wonderingly at the freshness of early enthusiasm.

In Mr. Coady's poem the miller is the symbol of Society whose age-old watchword is competition and the survival of the fittest. The Christian

MEXICO DISCUSSED BY DR. TUBBS BEFORE AUBURN BOARD OF TRADE

Powerful Constabulary Necessary To Settle Chaotic Conditions

On Monday night, November 13, Dr. Tubbs addressed the Auburn Board of Trade on the situation in Mexico, speaking largely from his own experiences in that country which was his home for six years. He prefaced his address by remarking that during his residence there he had learned to admire and love the people, who enjoyed the only happy days that the country ever knew under Porfirio Diaz. He spoke of the many changes in the head of the government that have taken place during the past forty years, giving a clear and concise explanation of the manner of voting as he himself witnessed it. "A legal election there is an impossibility," he said, "because only a small percentage of the population ever vote, and because it is impossible to have an honest election in a country of which only two-thirds of the people can read and write."

Dr. Tubbs described the geography of the country, pointing out how large it is and saying that plenty of land can be bought for fifty cents an acre, though the majority of the Mexicans are foot-loose and have no home ties.

He spoke of the method used by Diaz for keeping down revolutions and small outbreaks during the thirty years of his presidency, and said that one of the principal factors in Diaz's peaceful reign was the fact that he established a constabulary which the bandits could join. He said that the only way to settle the chaos in Mexico today is to have a similar police force established, with Mexican aid if possible, if not without Mexican aid.

In concluding Dr. Tubbs said: "At the present time we have troops in San Domingo and Nicaragua guarding customs houses and collecting taxes. If these measures are right and if we persist in straightening out the affairs of the little countries why step in and straighten out Mexico?"

DR. McDONALD ADDRESSES Y. M. C. A. ON THE RIGHT USE OF SUNDAY

Open Forum Brings Out Interesting
Questions

At the Y. M. C. A. meeting last evening, Dr. R. A. F. McDonald spoke on "The Right Use of Sunday." While wondering why he was chosen to speak on this subject, he said it occurred to him that possibly it was because he was known to be a Scotchman and Scotchmen usually keep whatever they lay hands on.

The subject of Sunday observance is an important one. From the standpoint of the physicist and mechanic, a lathe will last longer if it is used only intermittently. A pair of shoes will seem, at least, to last longer if they are given a rest occasionally. It is the same with the human machine. From the standpoint of mechanics and physics, a periodic rest is well worth while. The psychologist says that there is no mental fatigue, yet he admits that a change enriches. From his viewpoint it is worth while to have a periodic day off.

What is man? Is he a thinking or a social animal? Dr. McDonald is inclined to believe that man is a thinking-social animal. Men like to talk things over.

A day off is decidedly valuable from the moral and esthetic standpoint. We gather reserve force after the toil of the week. In talking with a student in regard to the more profitable course the year after graduation, whether to begin immediately to specialize or to take a year off, Dr. McDonald advised him to take a year off. It may seem costly but it is worth while, for in that time one can gather reserve force to go on. The one day a week is a parallel. Sunday may be a day in which to gather reserve; a day in which to find where one is at.

There are certain institutions that have served and are serving the race invaluable. The question arises, "What is an institution?" An institution is a device by which human forces are directed into channels. Some are conservers of civilization, such as, schools, the state, and the church. If the schools are a little deficient, we do not cast them aside; but rather we furnish funds to improve them. Why not give to the church the Sabbath?

What is the best use of Sunday? At least a change should be secured. If one is a toiler, it may be to attend church, rest, read, or think; if a student, it may be to attend church, go for a stroll, or to visit.

Is the Sabbath to be kept simply because of the commandments? Did truth late from the Bible or was it before the Bible? The Jews obeyed because of commandments. We should obey because we see it is for our own good.

The meeting closed with the open forum in which several very interesting questions were discussed.

STUMP SPEAKING NOW CLAIMING THE ATTENTION OF BATES MEN

Charles C. Chayer Aided in No-License
Campaign in Groveton, N. H.,
Last Week

Bates has upheld her reputation in many lines of work and in various fields. Now we find that her students may be called upon to act as campaign speakers.

About a week ago, a request came from the W. C. T. U. of Groveton, N. H., to send them a man to speak in the interests of No-license. Mr. Charles C. Chayer consented to go. In company with a resident of that town, he left the Grand Trunk station at 8.40 on Monday morning, Nov. 6. The train reached Groveton at 12.30 P.M. The afternoon was spent in looking about town and obtaining some local statistics which proved to be rather startling.

The time for speaking was 7.30 in the evening and the place was the main street of the town. At the appointed time scarcely a person was to be seen. Four or five young men of the place sang two of our national songs—"Columbia, The Gem of the Ocean" and "The Star-Spangled Banner." When they finished, quite a crowd of men surrounded the automobile in which they were standing. After a very brief introduction, Mr. Chayer began to speak. He spoke for about twenty minutes while the crowd listened as intently as if he had been a celebrated humorist come simply to entertain them. Many comments of a favorable nature were heard afterwards. The meeting was brought to a close by singing "America."

Perhaps it would be of interest to our readers to know that the result of the balloting the following day gave victory to No-license.

CERCLE FRANCAIS SEASON OPENED WITH AN INTER- ESTING SESSION

Several Papers On French Writers
Presented At First Meeting

On Thursday evening, November 9, the Cercle Francais held its first meeting of the year. The President, A. Dyer, addressed the society, extending welcome to the new members and outlining the work which is to be done during this semester. At the conclusion of his speech the president introduced Mr. Mervin Ames, who spoke before the Cercle for his first time on the subject, "Les Chroniqueurs de la Guerre." In this article Mr. Ames gave the views of the most eminent writers in Contemporary France concerning the outcome of the war.

The second speaker, also a new member, was Mr. George Lawson. The subject of his paper was "Maupassant et Poe." Mr. Lawson made striking comparisons and contrasts in the theories of the two writers and illustrated his statements by numerous references to the works of both.

Mr. Frank Blackinton spoke on Pierre Loti. He traced the career of Loti up to the present. In general, Mr. Blackinton dealt with the numerous works of Loti to show the wide experience and travel of the author; but in particular he dealt with "Pêcheur d'Island" to show the soul of the great novelist.

Professor Hertell was unable to be present during the entire meeting but arrived in time to hear the last paper and to address the society.

Business was transacted and the following were elected to the Cercle: Edward Wade, '17; Dyke Quackenbush, '18; Roger Fiske, '17; Lewis Baker, '18; Frank Googins, '18. The next meeting will be held in Libbey Forum on Nov. 23.

CROSS COUNTRY TEAM TO PARTICIPATE IN NEW ENGLAND RUN AT BOSTON

Garnet Harriers Will Bear Watching
Over Franklin Park Course

Our cross country team will participate in the New England Intercollegiate Run over the Franklin Park course, Boston, on Saturday. The team leaves with every prospect of making an excellent showing. In considering the work of our team this year it should be remembered that in both races we have had Maine as an opponent, and that Maine is conceded by many to have as strong a team this year as that which won the National Intercollegiate Championship last year. Consequently our cross country team, in holding Maine to a 25-30 score and in finishing second only to Maine in the State intercollegiate, has done work which is a credit to themselves and the college. Coach Ryan says they are ready to do their best work Saturday, and, while they may not win out, the work of our team down there Saturday will bear watching by all.

REGULAR MEETING OF Y. W. C. A. HELD WEDNESDAY EVENING, NOV. 8

The House That Jack Built Resolved
Into Its Constituents

The Y. W. C. A. meeting was held as usual Wednesday evening, Nov. 8. Myrtle McIntire was the leader and Hilda DeWolfe the speaker. At the opening of the meeting, Leonora Hodgdon gave a piano solo and Grace Berry a vocal solo.

Miss DeWolfe treated her subject, "The House that Jack Built," in a most unusual and interesting manner. She first displayed a picture of a house which represented the income and expenditures of the Y. W. C. A. She then developed the simile further by comparing the foundation of the house to the regular dues, the body of the house to money received from systematic giving, the top floor to the various special funds, and the windows to the members of her committee. The smoke coming from the chimney illustrated where the money went. In conclusion, Miss DeWolfe explained the various ways in which the money was expended, and the good that was done with it in various fields.

SENIOR GIRLS CELEBRATE CLOSE OF HOCKEY SEASON WITH A BANQUET

Eats, Charades And Music A Prominent Part Of Entertainment Saturday Evening

On Saturday evening, November 11, the Senior girls celebrated the close of the hockey season by a banquet and an impromptu jollification. At 7.30 the class gathered at three long tables in the dining room at Rand Hall, where the most excellent shrimp wiggle was served, "piping hot," from a half dozen chafing dishes. With it came dainty sandwiches and sweet pickles. The second course consisted of ice cream and fancy cakes, and the third of coffee en demi-tasse.

Between courses, the Cheney House girls cleverly acted a charade representing the compound word "hockey-match"; and sang an original song extolling, individually and collectively, the prowess and worth of the team.

During the banquet and the merry-making which followed, the victrola played constantly a variety of airs, ranging from the sublime to the hilarious. The evening wound up with cheers and class songs, old and new, and finally with the Alma Mater.

The College Trio made a hit at the prize speaking exercises.
