INTERESTING SERIES OF VITAL TALKS GIVEN TO COLLEGE REPRESENTATIVES

Dr. Wright Addresses Y.M.C.A. Men

Dr. Henry B. Wright, of New Haven, Conn., a former professor in the divinity school at Yale University, gave a series of five lectures before a group of thirty or forty Y. M. C. A. men in the Music Room, Chase Hall, last Saturday and Sunday. McGown, Towle and Row were here from Bowdoin, while Colby was represented by Estes, Eastman, and Peaslee.

The first meeting held Saturday afternoon at three o'clock was in the nature of a get-acquainted gathering. Dr. Wright explained his ideas of personal evangelism and showed vividly how any man can will himself to be a friend to all mankind. "The true Christian," he declared, "is not the one who goes about condemning his brother's faults, but he who has a friendly and helping hand for all. The practise of such friendship is what I mean by personal evangelism."

Saturday evening at seven o'clock he continued his theme, speaking on "The Fine Art of Meeting Men." He pointed out how the majority of fellows go through life in parallel lines that never cross. Get off the parallel lines. Get into contact with those about you. Be a friend now—today. Don't let the three great fallacies—somewhere else, some time else, and somebody else—stand in your way. Don't let George do it, but do it yourself.

The third meeting was held Sunday morning at 8.45 o'clock. "There isn't any death," the speaker began. "All of us are going to live together forever. Therefore let us begin today to live a life of friendship to all. What you are now will determine what you are going to be twenty years from now. We're boss of the whole business. The human will is all powerful. Let us develop our wills so we may be channels through which God can work for the benefit of the world. Learn to give rather than get. Make self sacrifices. That's the only way to live a Christian life."

The fourth and fifth lectures were given Sunday afternoon at two and three o'clock, respectively, with an intermission of fifteen minutes. The speaker once more pointed out that we must surrender ourselves 100% to God, 98% won't do. Let us put ourselves into God's hands. God will furnish the method in personal evangelism—we must furnish the pep.

In his last lecture Dr. Wright gave his personal experience. He explained how he was converted to the Christian Church and how he pledged his life to winning souls. He gave several interesting illustrations which he could vouch for personally and closed the meeting with an earnest prayer.

JORDAN SCIENTIFIC SOCIETY

The Jordan Scientific Society held its regular meeting in Science Hall, Wednesday evening. Mr. Varney contributed a discourse on "Surgery," dealing especially with the history of surgery and a few of its most significant triumphs. The remainder of the program was furnished by Mr. Manter who discussed the subject: "Old Age."

Another meeting of the Society will be held next Wednesday evening, in order that future conflicts might be avoided.

THE DEAD COMES BACK TO LIFE

PROF. CHASE IS MAKING GREEK, LONG A "DEAD" LANGUAGE, A VERY LIVING ONE

In accordance with the new custom of The Student in supplying some information as to the more important departments here at Bates, Professor Chase of the Greek Department was approached for a summary of his work, which follows.

"We like to think that Bates is at the front in all worth while things, and we find her Department of Greek no exception. It is doubtful whether any other college in New England has so large a proportion of students taking this subject. Recently, in response to inquiries sent to the leading New England colleges, it was found that Bates had a larger proportion of students taking first year Greek than any other institution reporting. Smith alone approached within measurable distance, and the actual number of students taking this course at Bates was practically as large as at Harvard, Wellesley or Brown."

"This interest is not only strong, but growing. This year's class in first year Greek is the largest ever, numbering some thirty. More than half as many more are taking the second year work. At present these are eagerly reading Homer's "Odyssey," and before the end of the year they expect to study the "Alcestis" of Euripides. The advanced class—the real "sharks"—have been reading the Odes of Pindar, and are now browsing on the pastoral poetry of Theocritus. Another group are studying the New Testament in the original tongue. This course will enable them, if they later attend a theological seminary, to be excused from all Greek requirements there, and so enlarge the time available for other courses.

Professor George M. Chase

"Bates was one of the pioneer colleges in making Greek literature accessible to students who do not know the Greek language. In the second half of the Freshman year a general course is offered in which the class will study translations of whole works, such as Homer's "Illiad," Herodotus, speeches of Demosthenes, and dialogues of Plato. The course in Greek Drama, offered to Juniors and Seniors, is highly prized by those who have taken it, but it is not

DR. HARLAN ADDRESSES COLLEGE

Day of Prayer Observed with Special Chapel Exercises—Urbanity as a Personal and Social Ideal Discussed.

Yesterday morning at ten o'clock, Dr. Rolivix Harlan addressed the college at special chapel exercises held to observe the collegiate Day of Prayer. All regular college activities were suspended, attention being given to the speaker of the day.

A large number of visitors were in attendance at the service of the morning, and taken with the entire student body, they filled the chapel to overflowing. The exercises opened with Scripture reading by Professor Knapp, prayer by Professor Chase, and several anthems by the choir. President Clifton Gray then introduced Dr. Harlan to the audience, expressing his pleasure to welcome his friend to the college.

Dr. Harlan immediately impressed his hearers with his singularity, his quiet humor, and his keen knowledge of his message. Having first complimented the faculty and undergraduates upon having secured a most excellent leader in the new President, the speaker proceeded to his subject, "Urbanity as a Personal and Social Ideal."

The text chosen for the address was in Ecclesiastes, but the speaker referred to a quotation from "Life" which he declared struck a mighty truth when it said, "Ideals are the guiding angels of this life." The importance of ideals was dealt with, and the fact that they had within them life and power was impressed upon all. The great force of personality was next considered. Dr. Harlan drove home this point with such phrases as "it is a distinct asset to every human being," and "it links man with the infinite."

Coming next more directly to the text, the speaker considered the great ideal of urbanity, defining one who attained this goal as "possessed of the qualities of life which make one fit to be part of the great life of the world." In experiencing the truest life which urbanity symbolizes, work and worship were given as indispensable activities. The majesty of labor, its priceless value in occupying the best talents of man, and its real importance in a well-ordered life were vividly painted. The second activity, worship, was described as linking man with the infinite, and breeding a loyalty which nothing could shake.

The address was closed with a most powerful appeal to all men to strive for the ideals set before them, and to attain that in life which is good. "There is," concluded the Doctor, "a need of securing life's best through the agency of God."

Tonight, in City Hall, the Bates Basketball Team meets the crack Boston College five. The latter college has not been defeated in any line of athletics since the opening of the present college year. Our team is going to meet that proud boast and hand Boston College a defeat tonight. Every loyal Bates man and woman will witness this glorious victory and he who stays away without just cause is unworthy of his Alma Mater.

BATES DEFEATS BERLIN IN SENSATIONAL GAME

Cutler Shoots Puck for Lone Tally in Overtime Period

The Bates hockey team met and defeated the fastest skating and hardest shooting hockey seven in northern New England, last Thursday. With a record unstained by defeats for two years the ice wizards of Berlin, N. H. died hard under the splendid attack of the Garnet. According to their own confession taken from the paper of that town, the result of the game decided whether their team would be able to secure matches with the crack teams of Harvard and Boston A. A. With this fact to spur them on the New Hampshire team faced the Bates seven confident of an easy victory. They failed to take into consideration the determination of their opponents to wipe out the poor showing they made in the game with Boston College last week. Captain Cutler's men, under his excellent leadership and assistance, sprang an unexpected surprise on the Berlin team and broke the long spell of success of which they boasted.

From start to finish the game was a series of thrills and the puck was carried first to one end of the rink and then to the other, each team fighting with all its might to send it into the net of its opponent. Two periods, each ten minutes long, ended with a clean slate, neither team being able to score. Captain Cutler then won the toss and chose to extend the game to two more periods of equal length. The third period proved the lucky one for Bates. The Garnet continued to threaten the goal of their rivals but were repeatedly driven back. Then, quick as a flash, Captain Cutler stickhandled his way down the center and from a difficult position lifted the puck and sent it by vigilant Alphonse Beaudoin, the Berlin goal guardian, and Bates was in the lead. But one point is a narrow margin and only by splendid defense and wonderful team work was she able to maintain the advantage.

ENKUKLIOS TO ENTERTAIN

ENJOYABLE TIME PROMISED FOR TOMORROW EVENING

The culminating event in the social activities on the campus for the present week will be a very informal reception given by the Enkuklios Society in Fiske Room, Rand Hall, tomorrow evening. This social function will be open to all the students in college and the committee assures everyone of a very enjoyable occasion. Refreshments will be served and a novel program of games and impromptu entertainments will be provided. The Enkuklios is a society which includes in its membership all the young women in this institution. Its purpose is to provide wholesome social entertainment and participate in general social service among them. The president is Miss Edna Merrill, '21, of Mechanic Falls, Maine, who is assisted in her official duties by representatives from each of the four classes.

THE RAMSDELL SCIENTIFIC SOCIETY

Last Thursday evening the Ramsdell Scientific Society held a meeting at Carnegie Science Building.

Mabel Haley gave a most interesting paper upon "The Uses of Selenium," showing its importance in long distance telephoning and telegraphing. This meeting proved to be the most interesting this year.

PHIL-HELLENIC PRESENTS PLAY

Iphigenia a Huge Success

The Phil-Hellenic Club presented Iphigenia in Tauris before a large audience in Hathorn Hall last Friday evening. The acting and interpretation of the characters was well done and that together with the Greek costumes and scenery combined to make a very pleasing effect.

Preceding the opening scene Charles Paul played a selection on the piano and Helen Burton entertained with an accordion solo. Professor Chase then spoke, briefly outlining something of the events that take place before the time of the play.

The story on which the play is based is as follows. Agamemnon while hunting had killed a stag which was sacred to Diana, and the goddess visited the Greek army with a pestilence. Calchas, the soothsayer, announced that the wrath of the goddess could be appeased by the sacrifice of a virgin on her altar, and that it must be the daughter of the offender. Agamemnon gave his consent and his daughter, Iphigenia, was sent for under the pretence that she was to marry Achilles. When she was about to be sacrificed the goddess, Diana, snatched her away and carried her to Tauris, where Diana made her a priestess in the temple.

Agamemnon, upon his return home found that his wife had been false to him and with Aegisthus had conspired for his murder. A great banquet was given in honor of his return and he was murdered. Orestes, the young son,

BETTER PHYSICAL EDUCATION

FIRST WESTERN MAINE CONFERENCE HELD AT BATES WATCHES THE GYMNASTS

The first conference of the Physical Education Association of Western Maine was held here last Saturday, January 18. The organization is a new one and represents the first attempt in the State to bring together men and women interested in physical education.

At the morning session, the members of the Association watched work in the women's gymnasium of a regular freshman class together with special demonstrations of dancing and apparatus work by Sophomores, Juniors and Seniors; in the men's gymnasium they visited a class of freshmen. In the afternoon the conference was addressed on the general subject of physical education in public schools by Miss Doris Kimball and Mr. Lewis L. Canter. Both Miss Kendall and Mr. Canter are working in the public schools of Auburn. Miss Lena Niles of Bates spoke on "Physical Tests." A very practical and interesting part of the program was the discussion which followed the addresses of the afternoon.

The officers of the Association were elected as follows: President, Oren MacKnight of Portland; vice president, Miss Clark of the Gorham Normal School; secretary-treasurer, Miss Desmond of Saco; chairman of the executive committee, Miss Lena Niles of Bates College.

OUR HOCKEY TEAM

In all the stress and hurry of the winter term there are many activities claiming the attention of the student body. Great interest is apparent in basketball, track is calling forth support from many quarters, but there is one major sport which is being actually neglected by the college in general. We refer to hockey.

Hockey in itself is one of the most specular and thrilling games in existence. In fact, there are many sport devotees who declare that it is unequalled as a bloodstirring contest. Consider for yourself. Where else can one see the desperate sprints made on flashing skates? Where can one observe the unanny team-work of six expert players to better advantage? And where else can one be carried along by the supreme endeavor to shoot the goal, until the tension momentarily ends by success or failure? Hockey is a great game, a stirring game, which richly repays those who witness it by providing true sport.

The very game itself should call out a great number of Bates men and women, but when a Bates varsity team is playing that game there should be a mob present. We have an excellent team, under the leadership of Captain Cutler. To be sure, the team lost its first game, but what of that? In the second game they defeated the "invincible" Berlin squad by displaying a brand of hockey that made their opponents gasp. And just the other day they handed Bowdoin quite a bit of competition. In short, our hockey team is starting to clean up the schedule. The point is that every one of us should be at the home games and see them do it! So let's all get together and send a crowd down to the rink at the next game that will make the ice grunt at the weight.

The Bates "pep" is certainly sizzling—now we'll use it!

THE GREEK DEPARTMENT

Elsewhere in this issue will be found accounts of the history and work of the Greek department. Too few students realize the great service which is being done by this progressive department in linking up the Greeks of this community with those who are most interested in them and their work. We believe that work such as this department is carrying out exemplifies the most lofty purposes of an institution of higher learning, since it uses knowledge for the betterment of fellow men through an exchange of ideas.

Again, we commend the department for the interest which has been aroused, through the Phil-Hellenic society, in all Greek culture. The performance of Greek plays is but a small part of the activity of the society, yet it illustrates the real interest taken in the subject as a whole.

Professor Chase has indeed builded well in carrying on his work—and the college as a whole testifies to his success in the regard which is shown to all Greek culture.

At the monthly meeting of the newly formed Lewiston Bates Club, 50 alumni turned out for the banquet and enjoyed the entertainment furnished by the College Musical Club. Announcement was made that the annual session of the Stanton Club, which is the State organization of the alumni, will be held in Lewiston, at Chase Hall, Friday evening, February 4; and that the speakers will be Congressman Carroll L. Beedy of Portland, a graduate of Bates in 1903, and also Brigadier General Frank Hersey of the class of 1884. President James H. Carroll outlined the activities of the Bates Outing Club providing for skating on Lake Andrews, tobogganing on Mt. David, and skiing privileges together with participation in exhibitions and races. He stated that Bates Alumni are eligible to the Outing Club.

SOPHOMORE CLASS PARTY

Chase Hall was the scene of a merry party last Saturday evening, when the Sophomores, with Professor and Mrs. S. Harms and Coach and Mrs. Johnstone, as chaperones, gathered there for their class party. Professor Baird and Mrs. Roberts were also present as guests.

As each person entered, he was given a card which matched up with another, so that none should be left out of games because of a lack of partners.

The festivities began with a promenade which swung into Five In and Eight Out, and which proved a good game for getting acquainted with one's classmate.

Next a short program was enjoyed. Mr. Gavigan '24, entertained with a toe dance. This was followed by a series of informal toasts, in which roasts also seemed in order. Raymond Batten, acting as toastmaster, introduced Robert Wade, who gave a toast to "Our Girls." He was followed by Marjorie Pillsbury, who replied with a toast to "Our Boys."

Partners were again taken and Tucker was played for a time. Then, to complete the program, a talk on Co-education was given by Dorothy Wheat, and an essay on Man and Mosquito, showing the relationship between the two, by Vivienne Rogers. Next, Gertrude Lombard amused the company with an imitation of Paderewski, bushy hair and all. After a few stunts by the boys, Professor Baird was invited to explain the Sewing Circle Column of the Boston Daily Globe. He evaded this very cleverly, at the same time giving to his aspiring Sophomore debaters a good example of a brief and concise speech.

Refreshments were then served and marshmallows produced for toasting, after which all descended to the basement to enjoy pool and bowling until the winking of the lights gave the signal to depart.

IPHEGENIA PROVED PROFITABLE

The Phil-Hellenic Club met in Fiske Room, Tuesday evening, enjoying the following program: "Homer as an Artist," by Miss Nellie M. Milliken, '23, of Island Falls; "Homer as a dramatist," by Professor George M. Chase; piano solo, by Miss Maude Heywood, '22, of Millbury, Mass.; "Homer and Vergil," by Miss Esther Baker, '23, of Kennebunkport.

A report on the recent Greek play was presented by Raymond Buker, '22, of Hampton, N. H. Mr. Buker announced the fact that the club had realized eleven dollars from their presentation of Iphigenia, last Friday evening, these proceeds to be used in giving a reception to the Greeks of Lewiston and Auburn on the 15th of next month. Mr. Herbert Carroll, '23, of Cyrus, Mass. reported on the budget for the rest of the year and assessed the members.

FORTY-LOVE

To The College Commons This Column Is Gratefully Dedicated.

WE DO NOT wish anything which is said herein to be taken in any wise offensively. We recognize the fact that the present management of the Commons and our good matron, Mrs. Hilton, have made this indispensable institution a place that every Bates man should support and be proud of. At no time since the writer has been in college has it been run more sanitariously, more efficiently and in a more satisfactory manner than at present. We take this opportunity to congratulate everyone connected with our college cafe on its excellent administration and assure them of our loyal support.—DEL.

THE YOUNG LADY ACROSS THE CAMPUS SAYS:

I've heard some awful stories of how our boys act over in the Commons, but I really don't believe they are true.

The Bates College Commons

How dear to this heart are the scenes at Bates College,

When fond recollection presents them to view!

The campus, Lake Andrews, and lofty Mt. David,

And ev'ry loved spot my co-ed 'n I knew.

The Parker Hall Zoo, how I hated to leave it!

Rand Hall and the steps where the gentlemen fell,

The crib of the freshmen, the cabaret 'neath it,—

The Bates College Commons we all loved so well.

Ref:

The Bates College Commons,
The oyster stew Commons,
The Hamberger Commons in John Bertram Hall.

The thots of the Commons quite made my mouth water,

When ravenous hunger impells me to chew

The breakfast, the dinner, the left-over supper,

And ev'ry good meal which my breadbasket knew.

How eager was I to eat all unknowing,
The string beans and onions that were ground up in hash,

Outside in the waiting-room filled overflowing,

To stop at the window and cough up my cash.

The Bates College Commons I hailed as a treasure,

For often at noon, when returned from the class,

I went to the Commons and filled up my measure,

With sausage and mutton, slum-gulion and hash

And tho I may feast with society's finest,

In deeds of politeness my conduct may fall—

I'll fancy I'm sipping that dish-water coffee

Suggestions to the Commons Committee:

1. Equip the soup dishes with fly paper bottoms to prevent sliding.
2. Extend the plumbing system to supply each table with running water.
3. Give the "shimmy" desert a glass of Moxie for its nerves.
4. Employ a quarterback to give the signals for each meal rush.

SPOFFORD CLUB

Every one of the thirteen members of Spofford Literary Society was present at their meeting last Tuesday in Libby Forum. It is unusual for any club to report a hundred per cent attendance, even when the membership is as limited as that of Spofford Club. Miss Clara H. Buswell, the Dean of the young women, was the guest of honor at this meeting, altho no special program had been planned. The business was disposed of rapidly, a report on the sleigh ride a week ago, and a committee was appointed consisting of Dwight E. Libby, '22, of West Poland, and Miss Marguerite Hill, '21, of Auburn, to investigate the suspension of the publication of the Bates Student Magazine. The literary program consisted of a beautiful little poem, "A Song of The Lost One," by Miss Irma Haskell, '21, of Auburn; a clever piece of comedy, "Hey, Gus!" by Rudolph Stiekney, '22 of Sebago, and a historical narrative, "The Squire's Husking," by Miss Eleanor Bradford, '22, of Buckland, Mass.

SENIORITY

The members of the Seniority will entertain the girls of all classes at an open meeting, this evening at the Girls' Gymnasium. The meeting will take the form of a "Match of Wits." A prize will be given to the winner of the match. Refreshments will be served. The committee of entertainment consists of the following:

Mildred Edwards, '21, chairman;
Constance Walker, '21, and Georgianna Hays, '22.

THE DEAD COMES BACK TO LIFE

yet known as it should be to Bates students generally. Any students who have a strong interest in English literature can hardly afford to miss the flood of light that is reflected on Shakespeare and the English drama from a careful study of the works of the great masters—Aeschylus, Sophocles, and Euripides.

“The Phil-Hellenic has its own club—the Phil-Hellenic—famous for its work on the campus and outside. Besides carrying on the regular meetings, this club has each year its special events—namely, the Greek play performed by its members, the annual ‘symposium’, and the reception to the Greeks of Lewiston and Auburn. The Greek play of last year—Euripides’ ‘Hippolytus’—was repeated by the club at Haverhill, Mass., bringing glory to the organization and attracting students to Bates. This year’s play, ‘Iphigenia Among the Taurians,’ may have the same experience. The annual reception to the Greeks is but one of the many ways which the members of the club find to enter into helpful relations with the modern sons of Hellas.”

“If you are looking for ‘dead languages’, look further. There is nothing dead about Greek at Bates.”

Further comment on this department of Bates life is quite unnecessary, except for one point. We must remember that the credit for this remarkable showing, which Prof. Chase has outlined, is due largely to his own efforts to revive Greek as a real, living language. Bates was indeed fortunate to secure so able and scholarly a man to bring back to us those gems of a civilization which had waned before Northern Europe was more than a wilderness, yet whose influence has been felt thru all ages.

was saved by the quick action of his sister, Electra, who carried him to Phocis. Here Orestes was brought up by his uncle, Strophius. Electra frequently reminded her brother of his duty of avenging his father’s death, and this being confirmed by the oracle at Delphi, Orestes murdered Clytemnestra and her lover.

This act, the slaughter of a mother by her son, aroused the anger of the furies who pursued Orestes from place to place. Finally, again at the advice of the Oracle, Orestes with his friend, Pylades, went to Tauris where they fell into the hands of a barbarous people whose custom it was to sacrifice all strangers. The two friends were seized and carried to the temple bound to be made victims. But the priestess of Diana was no other than Iphigenia, the sister of Orestes, who had been snatched away by Diana at the moment when she was about to be sacrificed. When Iphigenia discovered who the prisoners were she disclosed herself to them, and the three made their escape with the statue of the goddess, which the oracle said they must have.

The parts of Iphigenia and Orestes as taken by Gladys Hall and Philip Nason, were very well done. Some mention should be made of Lawrence Kimball in the role of King Thoas, Clarence Forbes as Pylades, and Grace George as Athena and of the rest of the cast for their part toward making the Iphigenia in Tauris one of the delightful events of the year.

The cast is as follows:
 Iphigenia, priestess of temple

- Gladys Hall
- Orestes, her brother Philip Nason
- Pylades, friend of Orestes
- Clarence Forbes
- King Thoas Lawrence Kimball
- Athena Grace George
- Herdsmen Carl Purinton
- Messenger Herbert Carroll
- Leader of Chorus Ruth Colburn
- Attendants, soldiers, and chorus.

GARNET GETS ANOTHER WIN
 Bates, 37—Portland A. C., 34

The Portland A. C. Basketball Team was outclassed for the second time last Thursday by the Bates five. The boys of the big city had revenge in their eyes while waiting for the referee’s whistle to start the game, but in a very few minutes of play the spectators were swapping alibis for their team, declaring that the collegians were invincible. Captain Spratt soon won the affection of the rooters and his wonderful ability, while shooting fouls, to make the ball do a ‘shimmy’ dance around the edge of the baskets and then provokingly drop through the center, earned their admiration and applause. At one stage of the game he performed this singular feat six times in as many minutes. And then, Portland had to contend with ‘Stonewall’ Davis. Davy just placed both feet solidly on the floor and player after player of the opposing team bounded from him in all directions; and the big Bates guard just mumbled to himself. The rest of the Garnet aggregation proved their merit in the way they passed the ball and checked their men. For Portland, Jeff Foster at center played a star game.

The result at the final whistle is misleading because of the closeness of the score. At the end of the initial period the Lewiston team was in the lead with the score of 25-13. In the next half Portland came back strong and endeavored to overcome the visitor’s margin.

The referee also worked for a close score, but Bates successfully pulled through in the last few minutes of play.

The summary:

Bates		Portland A. C.

BOWDOIN BEATEN BY BATES
 Hockey Team Scores Overwhelming Victory

Last Saturday afternoon Captain Cutler took his men to Brunswick and furnished the Bowdoin hockey team with a little bowdoin. Hockey the rival team played hard and gave all they had, Bates easily outskated, outpassed, and outshot them at every stage of the game. The Bowdoin team showed lack of team work and individual skill. On the other hand Bates showed far superior coaching and obliged the Brunswick men to play constantly a defensive game. The work of the Garnet’s forward line was that of excellent coordination and caused Wiggin much consternation because he craved for competition around his position. Bowdoin was unable to furnish even a ghost of it and never threatened the Garnet’s cage seriously.

Cutler was the individual star of the game. Eddie Roberts at left wing again showed his old time fight and proved his value to the team by his excellent work. Stanley, Cogan, and Smith teamed up well in offensive plays, and Belmore broke up what few attacks the Bowdoin team attempted.

Summary:

Bates		Bowdoin

The fourth period was as exciting as its predecessors. During the last few minutes of the battle the Garnet’s captain played with a severe injury. With blood streaming down his face, from a wound received by a kick from a skate, the plucky leader was unwilling to quit the game and perhaps lose it. After the final whistle he was attended by a local doctor who took several stitches before the wound could be closed, but he was well contented for he had defeated a team that was a worthy foe.

Wiggin, the Bates goal tender also starred, especially in the second half when he made a beautiful stop of a drive that seemed a certain shot for the net. Belmore, Smith and Roberts also did commendable work for Bates.

Bates		Berlin

A DOUBLE BIRTHDAY

Last Tuesday night Beatrice Clark and Dorothy Holt enjoyed a Bohemian Supper given in honor of their birthdays.

The affair was unique and original. Room four of Milliken House was converted into a Bohemian Palace, ‘Krazy Kat Koop.’ Each table was presided over by a black cat and lighted by a candle. The guests were in Bohemian costumes.

Entertainment was furnished by Misses Davis, Parsons and Dearing, who gave an original skit entitled ‘That’s Where My Honey Goes.’ The plot was taken from life.

Those present were, Misses Holt, Clark, Parsons, Little, Gould, Hanscom, Fernald, Davis and Dearing.

It is rumored on the campus that Cy Tarbell of the class of 1924 has been asked to accept a position as swimming instructor at Camp Maqua, Belgrade, next summer. Cy says that we cannot tell how far a frog can jump by his looks, but Captain Spratt and his basketball team know that Cy has all the qualities in the art of natation that would make Annette Kellerman’s swimming resemble mere dog-paddling. We suspect that the ice will not have left Lake Andrews long next spring before Cy will astonish us by exhibitions of high diving and fancy strokes of every description.

PROF. HARMS SPEAKS TO Y. M. C. A.

A joint meeting of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. was held Wednesday evening in Chase Hall. Crete Carl was the leader and Professor Harms the speaker of the evening. A large number of students were present though the majority were Y. W. C. A. members.

The subject of Prof. Harms’ talk was ‘Prayer.’ The first quality necessary to the right kind of prayer, according to Prof. Harms, is humility. In substantiation of this he cited the parable of the Pharisee and the Publican going up to the temple to pray. His second point was the advantages of prayer. He spoke of the appointing of David and pointed out that David knew God and that this was an advantage of prayer.

Professor Harms made as his third point action comes only by prayer. He spoke of one of his former professors, Lady Sanford, ‘the most beloved woman in Minnesota’ who had found that action came only through prayer. In conclusion Professor Harms pointed out some of the blessings of prayer. It brings rest, faith in men, power and strength.

Round Table Banquet

The long delayed moose banquet to the Bates Hunting Club took place Friday evening, January 21st, with the ladies of the Bates Needle Club as the hostesses. It will be remembered that this moose was captured by the Hunting Club up in the wilds of Maine during the Thanksgiving vacation. After much difficulty in appointing a suitable date, Friday evening was finally decided upon and the banquet was given in Chase Hall on that night.

Like the Norsemen of old in their banquet halls, the Bates banqueters gathered about the table and devoured the moose meat ravenously (although they might have been more ravenous had they not been dining on moose meat for the whole month preceding), after which they pushed back their chairs from the banquet table and enjoyed the songs of their bards, who told vividly and more or less accurately of the hazards and triumphs of the hunt.

Mrs. Leonard, as chairman of the committee in charge of the banquet, introduced Mr. Elwin K. Jordan of Alfred, Maine, as toastmaster. Dr. H. R. Purinton was the first speaker and gave a discreet statement of his own hunting experiences and complimented the mighty hunters upon their prowess. Mr. Jordan then announced that to procure speakers it had been necessary to confer degrees on them. So he called upon Dr. Britan, whose degree was K.K.K.—Konduktor of the Kamp Kwartet. Dr. Gray, the Doctor of Cosmopolitan Eunciation, next spoke on Mankind, as divided into two classes, the hunters and the hunted. The next number was a ballad entitled "The Little Old Moose," rendered by the Camp Quartet, composed of Mr. Finnie, Dr. Bickford, Dr. Britan, and Mr. Jordan.

Next Dr. Bickford, the Master Moose Hunter, spoke on "How I Got My Moose." Professor Pomeroy, as President of the club, spoke of its history. Probably the most popular bard of the evening was Mr. Finnie, whose epic poem was exceedingly humorous, although there was some doubt as to the meter used. The last speaker was Dr. McDonald, who spoke on "Hunting as a By-Product of Education."

The committee in charge of the banquet was Mrs. A. N. Leonard, Mrs. C. T. Gray, Mrs. F. E. Pomeroy, Mrs. G. M. Chase, Mrs. G. E. Ramsdell and Mrs. William H. Hartshorn.
