PLANS MADE FOR BIG GLEE CLUB SEASON

Energetic Program Shaped Up By Leaders

Advance indications point to a banner year for the college Musical Clubs. Last year despite the unfortunate intervention of quarantine, the clubs were highly successful and were accorded a hearty reception wherever they went.

This year the Clubs are fortunate in retaining practically all of their experienced members and with the excellent material in the Freshman Class are sure to develop into the best aggregation in years. Mr. Doane has kindly consented to serve as coach for the Clubs once more, and is devoting all his available time to the training of the men.

As leaders of the divisions of the Clubs are men who are very well qualified for their positions. Meredith "Pete" Burrill '25 will lead the Glee Club. Since his coming to us two years ago Pete has shown a marked interest and ability in material lines as well as a penchant for track. Donald "Puff" Rice '24 will direct the Mandolin Club thru its paces. Puff is a popular man and a musician of the first quality. Frances Monaghan '26 who will direct the orchestra is a violinist of recognized ability and experience, and is the logical man for the position. The business troubles of the Clubs will be handled by George C. Sheldon '25, who has had considerable experience in work of this nature.

The Clubs have been rehearsing now for several weeks and are fast rounding into form. The opening concert of the year will be held in a nearby town the latter part of November. During the first part of Christmas recess the Clubs will make an extended tour of the state. In March the trip will include Massachusetts towns and will be the most desirable tour undertaken by the Clubs for some time. Week-end trips will vary the program between the longer tours with a possible local engagement.

It will be by far the most active year the college Musical Clubs have undertaken for some time. The Clubs are facing such a year with a strong personnel and aim to make it a most notable one in the musical annals of the college. There is still an opportunity for interested men to report as candidates, but such men should do so at once as the choice will be made in the very near future.

PHIL-HELLENIC

Several matters of importance were brought before the meeting of Phil-Hellenic which was held in Libbey Forum last Tuesday evening. The tentative list of new members, submitted by the chairman of the membership committee, was approved by the club. A discussion of the club's policy and program for 1923-24 was carried on, and various minor matters disposed of.

A special program was enacted after the business meeting, with Miss Ruth Nutter as master of ceremonies, and the following members taking part:
Herodotus Herbert Morrell
Demosthenes Frank Dorr
Sophocles Dan Turner
Plato Elwin Wilson
Sappho Euterpe Boukis
Homer Rubie Woodcock

BATES vs. BOWDOIN

BE AT THE GAME TOMORROW!

LET'S REPEAT! There is only one thing better than a football victory over Bowdoin. That is, two football victories over Bowdoin,—and those in succession. Is there anyone in college, who saw Bates defeat Bowdoin last year, who cannot feel a tingle of delight at the thoughts of that most Garnet of all days, October 28, 1922? Of course not! Then, let's make October 27, 1923 a Garnet day. Coach Cuts states, "I am absolutely confident that every man on the Bates team will do his duty Saturday." Their duty is play the hardest, cleanest football possible in an attempt to BEAT BOWDOIN. We feel absolutely confident that every Bates man will do his duty Saturday. The duty of every Bates man is to be a factor in pinning defeat on our greatest rivals. A year ago this column urged but one slogan,—BEAT BOWDOIN. Today,—LETS REPEAT! BEAT BOWDOIN.

GARNET ELEVEN PUTS UP STURDY FIGHT AGAINST HEAVY MAINE TEAM

Game full of thrills and enthusiasm is high pitched as Bates Men fight for Alma Mater

Maine won but going down to defeat the Bates boys covered themselves with glory. Anyone who missed that game lost their chance to see the best football battle staged on Garcelon field for years. The much touted Maine eleven, expected by many to trample on Bates and pin on a defeat which would be a lasting memory for years, struck a stone wall when they hit the Garnet line. True Maine scored two touchdowns, enough to win, but Dartmouth could do no more than Bates when it came to scoring on the University team. What scoring Maine did was by fighting a bitter war over every inch of the rain-sogged gridiron.

Despite the lowering skies the crowd filled the grandstand, the new, and the old bleachers. The game marked one of the greatest football crowds ever on old Garcelon field. Not even the memorable Bowdoin game of last year surpassed the record attendance.

The whistle shrilled and Peterson kicked off to Maine. The blue clad warriors started a powerful attack but were repulsed by the fighting Bates line. After a punting battle which found Maine on the long end, Jim Blair, fleet U. of M. halfback, circled the Garnet left end for 38 yards. This long dash was the most thrilling play in the entire game. Blair played a sensational game, and was Maine's outstanding star. Here Maine was held and Rutsky booted the ball to his own 45 yard line. But Maine was not to be denied and ripped through the Bates defense until Gruhn had planted the ball between the uprights. In the second period an exchange of punts took up most of the time but Maine again threatened when two long passes were completed. The third period found the Maine eleven scrapping with every ounce of power for another touchdown. The ambition was realized at the opening of the fourth quarter. Here Blair and Gruhn were again the big factors in the Maine offensive. At the close of the third period Rutsky pulled the smoothest play of the game. "Rut" stood way back of the line with the ball in his hands as if about to pass, when two Maine men broke thru, the East Boston flash dodged them and gained 15 yards before he was downed.

In the beginning of the fourth quarter Kempton replaced Moulton and here the Bates drive began. Calling on every ounce of power, and exhibiting that fighting Garnet spirit, the Bates men swept thru the Maine defense for their only touchdown. Kempton showed fine field generalship and coolness under fire during the gruelling drive. When his backfield men were standing in mud to their ankles, "Kempe" took the ball himself thru center for five yards. From here Ray, the flashy back, carried the ball over the line.

Fraser, Blair, Gruhn, and Gentile stood out as the stellar lights in the Maine constellation. No individual star can be picked out of the Bates eleven but the defensive work of Rutsky, Rowe, Ray and Capt. Scott was worthy of much praise.

Bowdoin next!

SOPHOMORE CLASS PICNIC

The annual Sophomore class picnic took place at the river dam on last Monday evening. Over a hundred members of the class attended, meeting in front of the chapel and dividing into two groups. Beatrice Wright, and Roland Perham were chosen as leaders of one and Eleanor Sturgis and Donald Giddings as the leaders of the other. These two groups started off on a hare and hound trail much mystified as to their final goal but after enjoying many stunts along the way they arrived very hungry at the river dam.

On the bank above the dam three large fires were built and around these everybody gathered for a real picnic supper. Everything in the line of eats disappeared at double-quick time—even the cider.

After that the company gathered around the fire, and told stories. A great deal of unsuspected talent was revealed.

About 7:15 everybody started home declaring that they wouldn't have missed it "for the world."

It is no doubt that the class earned the compliment that one of the chap-terones paid it when he said that the class should be proud of the spirit of loyalty and friendship that its members had.

Professor and Mrs. Baird and Doctor and Mrs. Finnie chaperoned.

The committee in charge were: David Wyllie, Margaret Lombard, Sylvia Meehan, Genieve Hincks and Charles Hinds.

"So you have the craze for the new steps have you?"

"No, I have hives."

"DOC" FINNIE TAKES STUDY GROUPS OF Y

Soph and Frosh Classes Begin Monday

Beginning Monday the Voluntary Groups will begin to meet for a series of six weekly meetings. They will meet from 6:45 to 7:30 P. M. every Monday. These groups are divided into groups according to classes; the Seniors and Juniors in one large group under "Doc" Finnie in the French room, Hathorn Hall met on last Monday evening. The Sophomores and Freshman will meet in smaller groups under the leadership of their several faculty advisors. The work of these groups has been outlined under the direction of the College Y. M. C. A.

Doctor Finnie's group discussed subjects pertaining to the application of Christianity to Modern Problems, the discussion taking the form of an open forum. "Doc" Finnie is especially fitted as a leader of this group where it is to be expected that many interesting and inspiring topics will be covered.

In the Sophomore groups a continuation of the study of the problems in everyday campus life as they relate to right living and thinking will be made. The meetings will begin with a ten minute discourse by the faculty leader after which the students comment on the topic or other matters of interest to them.

The Freshmen group under their respective faculty advisors will meet to discuss the customs of daily life as tested by the principles of Christianity. A text entitled "Student Standards of Action" will be used. To the Freshmen these meetings will offer an ideal chance to form college friendships and acquaintances. It will also afford them an opportunity to get into closer touch with the members of the faculty.

Although these groups are voluntary, they are always interesting and well attended.

DEBATING TRIALS MONDAY

Next Monday afternoon in The Little Theatre, Hathorn Hall, the Debating Council will listen to a series of five minute speeches to be given by any man in Bates College who is interested in the Art of Debating. There will be competent judges who will question the speakers to ascertain whether they are arguing from their own view points or that of another party. These judges will select the speakers who show marked ability and at a later date these men together with the members now on the team will give a series of debates, and from these debates another group of judges will select the team which will represent Bates this year in all Intercollegiate debates.

THAT BOWDOIN GAME

It's the "battle of the century" tomorrow on Bowdoin's athletic field.

The largest crowd of football enthusiasts in the history of the state is due to be on hand.

Can't you hear those cheers as "the backs go tearing by?"

We make no prediction as to the outcome of the game. The boys will decide that for us tomorrow. But win or lose, it's going to be a red hot fight from start to finish!

Bates is going down to that Bowdoin game 100% strong. There will be no one left on the old college campus.

Such backing as no team has ever received before will be given the Garnet eleven tomorrow. And with such backing what team can fail?

That Bowdoin game is to make history.

Watch the Bates eleven!

JUST A PRECAUTION

The college authorities are to be highly commended for the many precautionary measures taken against a repetition, here at Bates, of the Colby fire disaster of last year. Much has been done to avoid any such catastrophe ever befalling our Alma Mater. But something else can be done.

A coil of rope should be placed in every room, above the first floor, in all the college dormitories. This is done elsewhere and is a "safety first" measure, the wisdom of which is not to be doubted.

We hope the college authorities will see their way clear to take this step at the earliest possible moment.

The spirit shown at the Maine game last Saturday was made of the right stuff. Such spirit shown tomorrow will mean a lot towards helping the boys come thru.

The first warnings of the year are due. All mail service is watched with an interest akin to anxiety. "Have I got any?" seems to be the universal campus question.

There is no kicking about dry times this week as far as weather conditions are concerned. Plenty of rain is in evidence. All's wef!

"Red" wants to see every man and woman of Bates at that mass meeting tonight. Don't YOU be the one to stay away!

The cross country men are in readiness for the great race to be run off down in Waterville next week. Captain "Cyk" has the best wishes of us all to show the other Maine colleges how to win cross country. Run 'em hard, Cyk!

Remember that "Prexy" isn't going to make any more announcements at Chapel. Follow his advice and get the Bulletin Board habit. There may be something of interest there for YOU. Watch out!

Will see you in Brunswick tomorrow!

A COLUMN OF COMMENT

ON COLLEGE TOWNS AND CITIES

When Hildegard Hawthorne, granddaughter of the great American novelist, came to Maine in search of local color for her book "Rambles in Old College Towns," she did not stop off at Lewiston but made straight for Bowdoin and Old Brunswick, with a feeling tinged with inherited sentiment perhaps, that there she would find a college town at once typical of Maine as well as steeped in academic traditions. Nor would we question for a moment the authority upon which she based her judgment. What we have now to suggest is that were she making another tour of the colleges and should she decide to drop off at Lewiston for a fortnight that she would most certainly find sufficient evidence why this big, overgrown town of ours ought to be recorded along with Brunswick and New Haven on the official list of out-standing college towns and cities. For the college Bates has become such a power in this community of ours that a keen journalist in search of atmosphere could not fail but touch at some point, its ever-widening radius.

College towns and cities furnish us with much interesting data. Observation shows that small towns that happen to be the seat of institutions of higher learning seldom display any individuality apart from their central institution. In almost every case they are completely eclipsed by their college and often it results that the two are thought of synonymously. Down in Connecticut, for instance, one never thinks of Storrs without thinking of the State College, or down in Virginia, so they say, of Charlottesville, without instantaneously connotating the one and only University of Virginia.

With cities that are the sites of colleges or universities it is different. They may or may not be always tagged together with their schools, as with their mixed populations and large areas they feel the force of their colleges only in spots. In the case of such growing communities as Boston, New Haven, Hartford, and yes, Lewiston—absolute absorption of the mind of the community into the academic atmosphere is not to be expected as it is in the case of little college towns like Amherst, and Williamstown, Orono and Brunswick. Without a doubt Boston University and the other institutions of learning clustering around the Hub have contributed much to the characteristic aura that is always associated with Boston, just as Yale has from time to time helped to color the political, religious and social life of New Haven.

In every instance, however, the modern metropolis that boasts of a college within its precincts will be seen to have a well-defined civic individuality quite apart from its "haven of sweetness and light." So it is with Lewiston where Bates is—the city has an individuality of its own, due largely to factors of population and industry, but here and there, as in other college cities, evident areas are to be found, where a college has colored life and its attendant relations.

College towns regardless of where they are situated, are always expected to be atmospheric, and so it is, that when your prospective Freshman-to-be alights from the train that has brought him from Houlton or Brookline, one of the first things he looks for is the earmarks of academic existence he has been dreaming of, or reading about in books. To the imaginative visionary, fed on Owen Johnson, Ralph Henry Barbour and other writers of "college stories," Lewiston at first proves a rank disappointment, for there are no captivating vistas of ivied towers crowning beauteous hill-tops or for that matter any of the more modern attendants of scholastic life—soda shops and book stores, haberdasheries and restaurants to be seen on the horizon that is visible from the Maine Central station on Bates street.

A few moments later, when the aforesaid Freshman has reached the real business section of Lewiston and has satisfied his hunger at some one or other of the city's luncheonettes, which sad to say, do not serve Bates men with either the food or the atmosphere

SPORT NOTES

JOHN F. O'CONNOR, Editor

Try to find a scrappier eleven than Captain Scott's Garnet team that faced the U. of M. gridders last Saturday.

It can't be done.

Rutsky was a bear on the defense throughout the game, and he flashed when he carried the ball too. He was the only one injured and surely showed his nerve to finish the game with a badly lamed ankle.

Reilly, the freshman end, played a good game of football for his initial varsity tryout.

Ev. Woodman is certainly a fine offensive back. With or without interference, the Auburn lad continues to evade tacklers and gain ground.

"Hap" Price's return to the game Saturday was certainly welcome. The big center received a big hand from the rooters.

John Daker the, singing end, is expected to return to the game Saturday. If John were a quarter-back, would he yodel the signals?

Rely on "Cyk" McGinley to do his duty in attempting to gain a Bates Cross-Country championship. He can be the individual winner; we all know that. But we also know Cyk as the self-sacrificing individual who puts his team before himself. Last year he wasn't favored to win but he won because he had to—because the favorite didn't come through. We feel safe in crediting "Cyk" with more determination and grit than any one on the Campus.

Don't forget that Cross-Country is a real Bates sport. It shares with hockey the distinction of being a sport in which Bates has shown her superiority to the other Maine colleges in recent years.

The cheering section last Saturday was at its best, and was greatly aided by the band. True college football atmosphere was certainly present. A thrilling game and a crowd which appreciated those thrills gave evidence of the game being the best in years.

Hats off to cheer leader Red Menneally for his peppy work.

Mal Gray still "does his stuff" as band leader and his willing efforts are appreciated.

Start thinking about that Colby game. We want every one to enjoy that game up at Waterville. Don't miss it.

We want four straight victories from now on.

From my heart I give thee joy,
Thank God I'm a college boy.

A prince thou art,—a grown up man
Who "coos" every time he can.
Let the millioned-dollared ride!
Dime-less, trudging tracks beside,
Thou hast more than he can buy
That broad expanse of loud-striped tie,
And yet through thee we gain much joy:
Blessings on thee, college boy!

Crucial Cross Country Race To Be Run Off Next Week

"Cyk" Silent as to Result but men face ordeal with Confidence

Things look very promising for a fine cross country team this year. Coach Jenkins is drilling his men every day, and the men are shaping up rapidly. The men run from one half mile to six miles each day, and are showing rare form and endurance. The object of this hard work is to get the men in the best possible condition for the Maine Intercollegiate Cross Country meet, which is to be held at Waterville, promising candidates who are doing well.

As yet there is no definite team picked, but on Friday, when the second trial is held there may be a more definite idea as to what the personnel of the team may be. In the last trial the leaders made good time, and if the same men who were in the first six Monday, come through in the lead Friday, they will probably stand the best chance of being the sextet to represent the Garnet at Waterville on November

"Cyk" McGinley

November 2, on the Colby course.

Captain "Cyk" McGinley has great confidence in his men, as is shown by his statement: "It is useless to predict cross country results, but we have every reason to believe that we have as good a team as any of the Maine colleges." There is no doubt but that the competition will be close, and with a little more practice the Garnet Harriers will enter the race with the old fighting Bates spirit that always comes through.

Only one trial has been held, but in this trial some of the veterans showed their old class, and it also revealed some very fine freshman runners. There is no need to talk about the ability of Captain McGinley, because his past record speaks for him. Sherman Holt is in very good form, and is showing the same endurance and grit that he showed last year. Ward, also of last year's team is doing excellent work. Still another veteran Garnet runner is Hurley, whose past experience will stand him in good stead when the meet comes around. Among the freshmen who are showing up well are, Hobbs of Andover, Cahill of Dean, and Daves. Nelson and Hodgkins are also two very

2. This first trial has no direct bearing on who will compromise the team. On the trial Friday the tale may be different, as it was the first trial of the year, and the real condition of the men cannot be estimated by the first trial of the year. However, the veterans are expected to be consistent performers because of their past experience, and as for the new men, only time will tell.

When the time for this meet comes around we will be sure to find a team that any Bates man may be proud of. We are proud of the achievements of the teams of past years, and there is no reason why we shouldn't be proud of the team that Coach Jenkins sends to Colby. This meet means very much to us. If we win, we are not only the Maine state champions, but we also win the 4 year cup. Bates has won two legs and Maine one. To make the cup ours, we must win this meet.

We have the greatest faith in the ability of Captain Cyk and his men to come out on top, and one way to help is to go to Colby and see the Garnet flyers come in. It is not too soon to be preparing your plans. Think it over: you owe it to the team.

A QUESTION OF MOMENT

Why Does a Boy or Girl Go To College

(Percy Marks, in Scribner's)

And, indeed, why does a boy, or a girl, go to college? I am talking now of why he goes, not of why he ought to go. There are several reasons. His father wants to give him greater opportunities than he himself has had. (Most college boys do not have college-bred fathers.) The father knows that he has missed something, that his contemporaries who went to college have "the bulge on him" in a good many ways. He feels, perhaps, that he might have made more money if he had had a college education; at any rate he would have had more "drag." He realizes that friends made in college often prove valuable in later years. And he feels, too, that a college degree gives one a certain, if undefined, social standing. All this, you will notice, is "practical." He has, however, one other motive: He guesses that his boy is as good as any other boy, and if Billy Jones and Jack Smith can go to college—well, he'll be damned if his Ferdinand can't go too.

The boy himself? Well, the boy is only eighteen years old and he doesn't think much about it. He may spout grandly about "the advantages of a college education," but he really isn't interested in those advantages at all. I am talking about the average boy; of course, there are boys, especially those who are putting themselves thru college by hard work, who feel that an education is serious business and that it must be taken seriously. But even that boy, who is working twice as hard as his high school classmate who is "out in business" making money, does not clearly understand the reason for his own effort. He wants "to get ahead," and he knows that that is the best way to do it.

The average boy is fascinated by the glamour of college life, and well he may be. He wants to get into the activities; he wants to make a fraternity; and—I hasten to admit it—he wants to do well in his studies, partly because he wants his parents to be proud of him. Rarely, very rarely indeed, does he see any real value in the studies themselves.

WITH THE CO-EDS

LAURA WARREN, Editor

Hockey-players are now wandering in the maze of training rules, which went into effect Tuesday morning at 7.40. There is close competition for positions on the teams which will be chosen before the end of the week. Inter-class games are scheduled to start November 5. The system of hockey-playing this year is in many ways changed from that of last year, but all classes are making remarkable progress under the new coach. Miss Mildred Frances is a graduate of the Department of Hygiene at Wellesley College, and served for some time as Assistant Superintendent of Physical Education at New Rochelle, N. Y. It is interesting to know that she has been engaged in Community Recreation and Girl Scout work, and has been for four summers a counsellor at Dr. Eastman's camps in New Hampshire. For the past two years, Miss Frances has been teaching in the Department of Physical Education in Greensborough, N. C.

The weekly meeting of the Y. W. was held Wednesday evening in Rand Hall. It took the nature of a Maqua meeting—with Maqua songs and cheers.

Miss Elizabeth Riee was the leader and Beatrice Wright spoke on the "Activities and Sports at Maqua," and Helen Hill on, "The Leaders and Meetings." Group singing by some girls who had been there followed.

The co-eds are again ready to back the team for the Bowdoin-Bates game. Every girl is ready and waiting to see the team in action. We challenge the other side of the campus to outdo us in numbers and spirit.

Miss Marion Crosby '27 entertained a party of Bates girls at a dinner party recently. Covers were laid for six and the college colors very well carried out with red candles, little red baskets of candy and nuts at each place. Guests were Eloise Townsend '27, Alberta McKain '27, Cornelia Fletcher '25, Alice Swanson '25 and Audrey Estes '27.

JUNIOR HALLOWEEN PARTY

The highest expectations for a big evening were realized last Saturday at the Halloween Party and Dance given at Chase Hall by the Junior Class for the Bates Million Dollar Fund. An intense and varied program kept everyone moving. Dancing, including square dances, Halloween Games, Fortune Telling, and ghostly side shows furnished simultaneous amusement. Though the eligibility to the Chamber of Death was limited by Death's running-mate, taxes, and hence accompanied by groans, cold shivers of dismay and horror ruled the minds of those to whom the secret tortures of the Inquisition were realistically disclosed.

The program of amusement was very adequately supplemented by Halloween eats—eider, doughnuts, and apples, and the atmosphere was due in no small way to the black and yellow decorations, tastefully hung in long twisted ribbons and streamers.

Credit for this occasion is due to the committee in charge, composed of Erwin Canham, chairman, Kenneth Connor, Evelyn Parkhurst, Ruth Wass, and Helen Lovelace.

Tommy had been playing truant from school, and had spent a long beautiful day fishing. On his way back he met one of his young cronies who accosted him with the usual question, "Catch anything?"

Anything? In all consciousness of guilt, quickly responded: "Ain't been home yet."

COACH CUTTS' TWENTY-SIX POINTS OF THE GOOD SPORTSMAN

Here is Coach Cutts' code of the good sportsman:

- 1—Plays fair at all times.
- 2—Plays hard to the end.
- 3—Plays for joy of playing and success of team.
- 4—Keeps his head.
- 5—Is a good team worker.
- 6—Keeps training rules.
- 7—Obeys orders of Coach or captain.
- 8—Obys his best in all school work.
- 9—Backs his team in every honest way.
- 10—Always gives his opponent a square deal.
- 11—Is respectful to officials, and accepts reverse decisions graciously.
- 12—Expects officials to enforce rules.
- 13—He does not cheat, does not quit, is not yellow.
- 14—Does not lose his temper when wronged.
- 15—Does not play for money or reward.
- 16—Does not play to grandstand.
- 17—Does not abuse his body.
- 18—Does not shirk.
- 19—Does not bet, for it is not loyal.
- 20—Does not take a technical advantage and never erabs, kicks, or complains, but congratulates the winner.
- 21—Learns to correct faults through failures.
- 22—Does not show his disappointment, and is not a sorehead.
- 23—Does not alibi, or make excuses.
- 24—He is generous, modest, considerate.
- 25—Does not boast, crow or rub it in.
- 26—At all times he is true to his highest ideals and does nothing unworthy of a gentleman and a 100% American.

COLLEGE LIFE

If the average college freshman were asked why he came to college, he would very probably answer, "For college life." This idea continues until "Don't let your studies interfere with your college education" has become one of the most popular slogans of the college student.

What, then, is this wonderful experience that attracts men to college more than anything else? College life is generally understood to mean the clubs, the societies, the teams, the social life; in short all the outside activities and distractions which are not included in the curriculum.

The freshman and the other students are surely right when they place it high in their esteem, for college life with all that it means is an experience and a training that is invaluable and that can be gotten in almost no other way.

But lately, the more thoughtful student must have been obliged to wonder if college life is an unmixed good and if the emphasis on it is not exaggerated. With the passion for entering into as many activities as possible, the students have become so overburdened with outside duties that the careless ones neglect their studies while the conscientious ones wear themselves out in the effort to reconcile studies and college life. It becomes almost a tragic situation when students frequently remark "I have so much work to do that I haven't time to study." In this case it is evident that the student is being cheated out of the best that college can offer. In the clamor of the insistent demands upon his time and thought, the harassed student rushes by the finer intellectual things which are his birthright.

This is a real problem whose solution should be earnestly sought. Whether it lies in a wiser selection of activities by the individual, in a more equal sharing of the burden of college life or in a curtailing of the activities, can only be decided by discussion and experiment.

GIRLS HIKING
INCLUDES TRIP
TO MT. HEBRON

Recognition for Work Done
Real Incentive

Within the last three years hiking has become a very popular form of physical exercise among Bates women. An important factor in its growth has been, of course, the awarding of stripes to those girls completing, within a set time, twenty-seven one hour hikes and three long hikes of eight, twelve, and eighteen miles respectively. This year another reward, in quite a different form, is also coming to the girls who have completed their long hikes by November 12. On the holiday there is to be an early departure by train to Minot, from which station the girls will hike to Mount Hebron, where a big out-of-doors dinner will be served by Mr. and Mrs. Pickering, popular Rand Hall cooks in bygone days. Everything promises a highly enjoyable occasion for all those who have qualified.

CHOIR

The College Choir, under the leadership of Herman Faust is putting forth every effort to make this year the most successful in its history. Anthems, are to be rendered weekly, prepared under the direction of Mr. E. L. Goss. Tentative plans are being formulated for a cantata to be given at Easter. It is hoped, in addition, that arrangements may be made for vesper services.

The choir is composed of thirty-five members. Those newly elected at the last meeting and re-elected are: Misses Burns, '24; Worthley, '24; Stanley, '25; Swanson, '25; Wass, '25; Ames, '26; Lindsay, '26; Benner, '27; Hobbs, '27; Lombard, '27; sopranos; Misses Bannister, '24; Abbott, '24; Davis, '24; Hoyt, '24; Braekett, '25; Chapman, '26; Ripley, '26; Worthley, '26; Foss, '27; The tenors are: Gates, '24; Burrill, '25; Daker, '25; Fletcher, '25; Miller, '25; Goldworthy, '27. The basses are: Faust, '24; Libby, '24; Henry, '25; Oxtan, '25; Frazee, '26; Sager, '26; Bradbury, '27; Pearson, '27; Smith, '27; and Young, '27.

Mr. Faust is president of the choir, and Meredith Burrill is librarian.

VARSITY CLUB

The Bates Varsity Club held its first meeting of the year, Monday night, October 22. The purpose of the meeting was two-fold; it aimed to bring together all varsity letter men to arrange for an active year; and also to appoint a committee to assist cheer leader "Red" Menneally. The necessity for such a committee is very apparent if one considers the various duties which the cheer leader has had to assume, because the Athletic Council has not arranged for such matters as was its custom in former years. To arrange for rallies, speakers, a band, parade, adequate seating for the rooters, etc., is too much to expect of one man. "Red" has done this well and willingly, but rather than impose on good nature the Varsity Club suggested this committee. "Cyk" McGinley was elected chairman of this committee, Joe Cogan, the other senior member, Burrill and Corey for the Juniors, Arthur Leonardi and John Stanley Jr. for the Sophomores; freshmen members will be chosen later. The first duty of these men is to collect the fares from the members of their respective classes who make the Bowdoin trip by special train Saturday. The Varsity Club has made all arrangements for this trip including an attempt to reserve a section of the stands at Whittier field for the Bates section. The club is to be commended for its initiative in this very important matter. The next meeting of this club will not be till after the finish of the football team, and for the interest of the club and interest in Bates athletics no member should fail to attend. The Varsity Club is the mainstay of Bates Athletics and its importance cannot be over-emphasized.

SPOFFORD

At a meeting held in Libbey Forum Tuesday evening, the ceremony of initiation was given to Eleanor McCue '25, Katherine Worthley '26, and George Osgood '26. The regular program followed, consisting of an unusually well-written short story entitled The Tiger and the Tiger Lily by Dorothy Clarke, and a worthwhile discussion of Russia drama by Erwin Canham.

Jimmie—We've got a new baby down to our house.
Elderly neighbor—How nice—and did the stork bring it?
Jimmie—Naw, it developed from a unicellular amoeba.
