"CHEATING CHEATERS" CAST PROMISES BIG AUDIENCE

Rehearsals Held Every Day As Eve of Presentation Approaches

On March 19th Bates actors will present "Cheating Cheaters" by Max Marcin at the Empire Theatre for the benefit of the Gym Fund. The play is being coached by Miss Louise Clifford, of New York, who was responsible for the phenomenal success of "Nothing but the Truth" two years ago.

The play to be given this year is of the crook variety, pearl robberies and house-breaking stopping just this side of unpleasant loss of life. There is suspense enough to keep everyone on

It had a tremendously successful run on Broadway—well, not too many years ago,—and since that time it has been popular for amateur production.

The part of the leading lady is an extremely difficult one, demanding beauty, cleverness, and so on, through quite a staggering list of good qualities. Lucy Fairbanks, '27, a Lewiston girl

JORDAN SCIENTIFIC HOLDS ANNUAL EXHIBIT

On the evenings of March 13 and 14, the Jordan Scientific Society held in Carnegie Hall its seventh annual exhibition, to which were invited the general public and high school pupils of Lewiston-Auburn, as well as the undergraduate body of the college. Since 1917, this particular club has sponsored the idea of setting aside two evenings of the college year when anyone who so desired might become to some extent acquainted with the methods and purposes used in the different departments of scientific instruction offered at the college. Accordingly the instructors and students in each department have undertaken to present in a graphic and attractive way the lines of that represented by that particular phase of instruction and to show in a number of ways why instruction in these things is considered worth while.

A certain part of building was set aside for the use of each department. The part of the exhibition belonging to the science of biology occupied both laboratories on the first floor. One room was devoted to general biology, invertebrate and vertebrate anatomy, where there were museum specimens and drawings representing the various forms of living matter from the lowest microscopic plants and animals to the highly organized vertebrate types. In another laboratory the work in histology and embryology was explained. Here the displays were intended to demonstrate the meaning of histology and to show the methods used in the preparation for microscopical examination of the tissues that make up animal organs. A very interesting demonstration of the development of vertebrate embryos was accomplished by the use of eggs opened at the various stages of incubation to show the progress in growth that the chick makes before hatching.

The second floor was given over to the work in chemistry and physics. The exhibition in chemistry included experiments in general chemistry, qualitative and quantitative analysis, industrial, organic, and bio-chemistry, with particular emphasis on the last three. Here one project was the complete process used in the manufacture and use of indigo dyes, taken from the coal-tar stage and carried thru to the colored fabric. To show the application of chemistry to industry, the analysis of steel and the electro-analysis of brass and copper was shown.

Fletcher Shea, will present a medal in behalf of Andrew Carnegie, while Bob Chandler will play the detective chief. A squad of policemen have been chosen who will fill borrowed uniforms without the aid of pillows or other padding.

The two cities and students who were here at the time remember Miss Clifford's last offering as one of the most finished amateur plays ever seen here, and rehearsals give promise that this year's production will be as successful in every way. Certificates are already on sale, and the seat exchange will take place on Tuesday of next week.

The Orphic Society's orchestra of 30 pieces will present an elaborate program under the direction of Allan B. Smith.

ARCHIBALD WINS GREAT RACE AT PORTLAND MEET

"Cyk" Victor in Long Grind Wills and Baker in Fine Finish

RELAY MEN FORCE FAST H. C. OUTFIT TO BREAK RECORD

Tuesday night at the Portland meet, given by the American Legion, the Garnet came through once again. The most exciting race of the evening was the 600 yard run. In this event Archibald covered himself with glory when he defeated Jake Driscoll and Shrimp Marsters, two of the fastest middle distance men in the country. Archie took the lead at the first bank and was never headed by his competitors. He breasted the tape first by a scant few inches but these inches were enough to win the race.

In the two and one half mile run Bates again ran off with the honors. "Cyk" McGinley, the captain of the cross country team carried off first honors, winning the race by an easy margin. "Allie" Wills upset the dope by finishing third in spite of the blisters on his feet.

In the 45 yard dash, Baker the latest freshman sensation finished third with a two foot handicap.

Although the relay team was defeated by Holy Cross they turned in the fastest time of any of the Maine colleges. This year the Worcester outfit is represented by one of the fastest relay teams in Intercollegiate circles, and has yet to be defeated.

On measuring the track it was found that the Purple flyers had established a world's record for this distance.

This meet has been a revelation to many of us, and our hopes of having the Maine Intercollegiate Track Championship at Bates have taken a decided rise. After such an exhibition the college is proud to have been honored by the deeds of our Garnet flyers.

Coach Wiggin's Call Nets Fifty Candidates Four New Teams on Year's Card

CHAMPION TEAMS GIVEN TOASTS AT CHASE RECEPTION

On Thursday night the students and faculty held a rally in Chase Hall in honor of the hockey, winter sports, track, and debating teams.

Frank McGinley opened the rally and jokingly told of the difficulty he experienced in obtaining President Gray as toastmaster for the evening. After much searching he cornered his man and made him consent to act in the roll of toastmaster.

Capt. Elberton J. Tiffany of the winter sports team told of the team's progress during the winter and Henry Rich supplemented Capt. Tiffany's remarks with a talk about the cups that the winter sports team has won this year. Prof. R. A. F. MacDonald, speaking for the Outing Club, reminded the students that the purpose of the Outing Club is to cover activities not covered by other athletics and to provide enjoyment for all the students. Mr. James Carroll, Bates '11, spoke on the development of hockey at Bates. Capt. "Diek" Stanley in responding for the hockey team lauded the system of Coach Wiggin. The successes of the track team were related by Coach Cutts. Capt. "Cyk" McGinley of the track team responded. Principal Moulton of Edward Little High School told of Bates' success in the field of debate. William E. Young spoke on behalf of the debating team.

All the team representatives praised the systems of the coaches of the respective teams.

After the rally refreshments were served and dancing was enjoyed until eleven o'clock.

Monday night at Chase Hall Coach Wiggin met all candidates for the baseball team save the battery men who received their instructions from the mentor two weeks ago. About fifty reported to the Coach among them being seven letter men. These seven veterans are training to hold their position from new men. Short instructions were given to the men and they will start indoor work in the cage at once.

Charlie Ray, who was the thorn in the side of many an opponent on the football field, was among the newcomers. Charlie handled the hot corner in his High School days and will make a strong bid for an infield position. Roscoe Peck of the freshman class, who hails from New London, Conn., is reputed to be a first class performer on the initial sack. He will have to compete against the Jordan brothers combination in an attempt to hold his place permanently. Palmer, Hinds, Osgood, and "Hans" Dimlick were on hand to put in applications for positions on the keystone sack. Dimlick and Osgood have both won the coveted B while Palmer is a new comer. "Rosy" Young, formerly of Livermore Falls fame, is a contender for third base along with "Violet" Ray and "Johnnie" Daker.

Guy Rowe is the only veteran outfielder left, but there is plenty of good material on hand to furnish a good battle for the garden berths. All is in readiness for Spring. If anyone can invent a way to dry up Gareelon field in a week his fortune is made.

The full list of the men who reported to Coach Wiggin is as follows: Captain Cogan, John Daker, "Rosy" Young, Roscoe Peck, Knight, Holland, W. Gilpatrick, Jakeman, Wade, Hintze, Haskell, Ray, Perham, Hinds, McCullough, Peables, Dimlick, Goody, Osgood, Adams, Kippy sr. and Kippy jr. Jordan, Guy Rowe, McGinley, Chandler, Burke, Holman, Milderberger, Wyllie, Rhuland.

Girls' Glee Club Gives Banquet at DeWitt Hotel

In celebration of the success of the recent operetta, the Girls' Glee Club held a banquet at the DeWitt Hotel, Monday evening at 6:30 o'clock. The menu consisted of: cream of celery soup, mashed potatoes, green peas, roast chicken, cranberry sauce, hot rolls, apple pie a la mode, coffee, nuts and mints.

The decorations were in keeping with St. Patrick's Day, with green crepe paper streamers, place cards, and green pinks.

The program consisted of short witty toasts, with Mildred Stanley '25, the Glee Club pianist, and accompanist to the recently organized Orphic society, as toastmistress. Catherine Lawton '26 gave a toast "To Jan" (leader of Glee Club). Emma Abbott '24, one time prince, gave a toast "To Cinderella" (Celeste Lombard). Ruth Wass '25 and Belle Hobbs '27 gave a clever greeting "To the Prince We Didn't Get," Elizabeth Powers, '24 in a short poem, toasted "Miss Jones!" (Catherine Lawton). Priscilla Frew '25, the Romantic Girl rhapsodized Wilma Carl, '26 in "O, Juliet." Leah Shapiro covered everything in "To Ourselves!" Janice Hoyt, in her toast "To Mrs. Sleeper," the guest of the evening, expressed the gratitude of the girls for the able direction of the operetta. Mrs. Sleeper was presented with a Bates bar pin, a token of appreciation and esteem.

Music was furnished by the Ladies' Trio. There were thirty-two members present. The committee in charge was composed of Mildred Stanley '25, Helen Hamm '24, Vera Eldredge '24, banks and Fred Googins. The former is a graduate of Jordan High where she won 2 medals and a cup for public speaking. The latter has had quite an extensive career in debating and public speaking at Deering High.

The contestants were: Nathalie Benson, Francis Cutler, Lucy Fairbanks, Aline Johnson, Marian Peables, Jessie Robertson Katherine Thomas, Elmer Campbell Elthimios Couzinos, Edwin Goldsworthy, Fred Googins, Fletcher Shea, Bernard Solar, and Leon Townsend.

FROSH PRIZES GO TO GOOGINS AND MISS FAIRBANKS

Last Saturday at 2:00 o'clock in Hathorn Hall the Freshmen Public Speaking Prize Division contended in their annual event for the much coveted laurel. The competition was very keen and the judges had a great deal of difficulty in making their decision. Fourteen members of the Freshmen class were selected to speak. A good audience attended.

After much deliberation the judges finally awarded the prizes to Lucy Fair-

THE RECEPTION, THE COACHES, ETC.

Because we were, unfortunately, one of those most intimately involved, we cannot with modesty say much about the reception tendered on Wednesday evening to three Bates teams—no, four Bates teams, for the track men won a superb victory.

The victories of the hockey team, the winter sports team, and the track men, have been among the most distinguished in Bates history. Now, as we look back upon the winter sports season, we can appreciate best what our snow and ice athletes have done. Two state championships—in the only sports, as has been explained, in which Bates has a fair start with the other Maine colleges. The two championships are due, we know, in no little measure to the untiring work of the men and the indomitable and fighting spirit which was consistently displayed. A great portion of the credit, we feel sure, belongs to Coaches Woodward and Wiggin. Every Bates man should realize to what an enormous extent success in sport is due to proper coaching. The efforts of Messrs. Woodward and Wiggin have been untiring. Their examples to the men have been most inspiring, and have brought out superb results. No little portion of the formidable athletic position which Bates is rapidly gaining is due to her coaches.

Coaches Woodward and Wiggin are young members of the faculty who have demonstrated beyond the shadow of a doubt their ability. Bates should keep both of them. Now we all know that to men like Messrs. Woodward and Wiggin the desire to look for advancement is ever present. We know that they must have, from time to time, looked for advancement in their respective fields. They must have looked toward larger fields to conquer. Because of this, it is up to Bates to present sufficient opportunity to successful coaches, that they may do their advancing on our own campus. We do not know that the younger men at Bates have actually contemplated leaving us. We do know that the authorities here would make a fatal mistake if they do not exert every influence in order to keep with us men who have demonstrated their ability so convincingly. May the future careers of Coaches Woodward and Wiggin bring further glory to Bates! Bates needs them.

NEWSPAPERS

We know that college newspapers are regarded with great disgust and disdain by regular members of the profession. Whenever you want to make a newspaper man laugh long and loud, make some innocent remark about a college newspaper. And so, offering all due apologies to those worthies, we would say a word about contemporary newspapers.

A student in a neighboring college has been receiving an enormous amount of newspaper publicity. Maine and Massachusetts newspapers have revelled in displaying all the sorry details in the largest type which they possessed. Why should newspapers print such copious and pitiful scandal? Why do newspapers delight in muck-raking? As far as we know, the only justification for these disgusting tactics is that such muck is "news", and "what the public wants". William Randolph Hearst and his cohorts will tell you this. But if these estimable folk would carry the doctrine of "give the public what it wants" to its inevitable conclusion, the public would demand things which even their own yellow-journalism mentalities would refuse. You cannot give the public what it wants, for if you did, you would have to give everything banned from the Mosaic Decalogue to the Revised Statutes. In our opinion, there is no justification for "scandal sheets" and as soon as the decent public rises on its hind legs and puts them into the deep blue sea, the better.

In the Final Analysis

Again the dramatic season has lagged.

But if we may be allowed to disinter a little ancient history, we should like to say a few short words about the most recent 4a performance, the one at Webster Hall a month ago.

The whole subject was brought to our mind as we sat listening to the crisp remarks of Miss Louise Clifford as she viewed one of the first rehearsals of "Cheating Cheaters." Some of the most talented of the performers were trying to bridge painful gaps in their memory with little improvisations of the "er-er" variety, but the forceful young lady with the manuscript insisted that that document be given a chance.

"I think you will not be able to improve upon it," she said.

Three cheers for her. If she succeeds in breaking the histrions of this campus of the habit of thinking that to "fake" is more meritorious than to learn parts, she will have earned her salary ten times over.

Why, at the Webster performance, there was nothing to be heard back-stage except boasts of this variety:

"Ha, ha, ha, I forgot a speech back there, but I faked it for about a page, ha, ha, ha."

"Ha, ha, ha, did you notice we left out a page, ha, ha, ha?"

"We had to go back and repeat two pages so as to get back into the story, ha, ha, ha. But we faked it all right, the audience never noticed it."

We felt the calamity of this state of mind at the time, and being out in the dressing-room where all, or almost all the actors and actresses were gathered, we climbed upon a desk and shouted, "Fellow artists, this must not go on!"

"All right, they agreed unanimously, 'Shut up, then!'"

What could we do but comply? Our hair is not bobbed, and we do not live in New York. As for the audience not having noticed it, we watched their faces as they left the hall, and we rather think that they did.

The honor system as it is administered around these parts was epitomized by the instructor who recently said to his class before giving them a written lesson, "Now you're on your honor, and I'm watching you, so I shan't expect any cribbing."

We have attended mournful faculty meetings in our time, but we never have seen so grave and anxious a lot of professors as those who were present at the recent one to which we were called for consultation.

"Sir," said the president, "We need the assistance of someone who holds the public ear, and we believe you to be the man."

"You do us no more than justice," we replied.

"A grave problem confronts us," he continued, "One of the gravest with which a Bates faculty was ever confronted."

"Yes!" we queried, seeing that he was slightly embarrassed.

"Yes. Briefly it is this:

"There is at the present time on the Bates campus a person or a group of persons who are distributing literature of the lowest and most salacious sort among the students."

"The first evidence of their activities came when word was brought to us that a copy of 'Simon Called Peter' was being circulated through Parker Hall. We endeavored to learn who was responsible for this, we endeavored to capture the book itself, we put our agents to work—"

"Pfaugh, they are children!" we interrupted angrily.

"We see it now," he said, "And we are calling upon you. To continue, our agents were able to do nothing. They could neither lay hands upon the volume, nor could they find out who first brought it to the campus."

"All this was bad, but imagine our chagrin when on one day we were informed that 'Simon Called Peter' had been seen in Rand Hall, and that a new atrocity, 'Horses and Men,' written by one Anderson, later ascertained not to be Hans Christian, had appeared in one of the men's dormitories.

"Since that day, things have gone from bad to worse. These books seem to have a regular route of travel. Starting in John Bertram, apparently the headquarters of the movement, they go to Parker, thence to Rand, thence to innocent Cheney House, thence to even more innocent Chase House, from there down to Milliken and Whittier; and gentlemen, while I shudder to think of it, I must tell you the whole truth, these scoundrels, not content with polluting the minds of the girls of the Freshmen Class, do worse—they introduce those damnable books into Roger Williams Hall.

"Gentlemen," he continued, and the tears streamed down his face, "There was a time when not a vile nor an improper thought or word was harbored in all the Bates student body. There was a time when Bates men and women were never known to blush; they did not know that there was anything to blush about. But today all is changed, and I lay every bit of the responsibility at the door of the Judas Iscariot who is bringing improper books onto our campus."

A sympathetic snuffle was heard from one of the professors, and the president continued. He had pulled himself together now, and there was a hard glint in his eye.

"We are going to stop it," he shouted.

"We are going to do it through this young man who combines the astute detective with the able publicist. Only today I learned that the villains have imported two new ones, a dog-eared 'Decameron' and 'The Plastic Age'. The former I could stand, but I would not touch the second with fire-tongs! Yet these books are at this very minute in the hands of the men and women confided to our care!"

"Can you give us a clue?" we asked.

"We possess two, one of which I have already given you, namely that the books seem to come from John Bertram Hall. The second is that they always pass through the Spofford Club, the Bates literary society. This club appears to talk over these books, in fact, as far as we can determine, that is all they do talk about. Shall we have them suppressed, or should we let them go on in order to assist you with your work?"

"Let them go on by all means," we answered. "We think that we see our way clear to the solution of your problem."

"Gentlemen," we continued, "We have concluded to accept the commission which you proffer us. Our office is at this minute swamped with the written matter incident to the carrying on of the twenty or more investigations which we now have on our hands, but out of our personal regard for you, we will accept and carry this case to a successful conclusion."

Having said this, we rose to take our leave, but we were unable to escape before the faculty had given three cheers for us and our investigation.

Let the panderers beware!

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

"Is Christianity a failure," asked Dr. Alexander Purdy of Hartford Theological Seminary in an enlightening talk at the "Y" last Wednesday evening. In reply he indicated that it need not be, and then he discussed in a clear manner the difficulties encountered by the church and minister in being an adequate force for producing Christian life in the community. While he dealt with the necessity for a thoughtful decision, yet a clear call was sounded.

"DADDY" MORRELL ELECTED "Y" PRESIDENT

In the elections the following were elected for next year's cabinet: President, Herbert Morrell, '25; vice-president, Ronald Perham, '26; secretary, Fred Googins, '27; advisory board, Oliver Cutts, Clarence Clark '25, and Stanley Stuber '26.

NOTICE

Owing to the Easter Recess there will be no issue of The Student next week.

Sport Notes

Donald A. Hall, Editor

The celebration at Chase Hall in honor of the three championship teams was a most fitting compliment to the men who took part in bringing the honors to Bates. The success of the evening is due in large part to the Chairman Arthur Moulton and to the co-operation of the three departments who combined to make the event a successful one.

The great race run by Archibald against "Jake" Driscoll and "Shrimp" Marsters is still the talk of the campus. The fleet Garnet runner surprised everyone by defeating "Jake" as Driscoll was a heavy favorite before the event. "Archie" is in possession of a large silver loving cup as a reward for his well-earned win.

The annual interscholastic basketball tournament was run off without a hitch. All the competitors were pleased with the treatment they received during their stay on the campus. The refereeing of Cobb and O'Connell was of the best and no protests were entered against the work of these two men. Each year more interest is shown in the games, and it is certain that the tournaments will become a fixture in Bates athletics.

The baseball schedule recently announced by the manager is a very complete card. Four new teams appear on the schedule; Brown, Providence College, Middlebury, and the University of Vermont. Lowell Textile is once more on the schedule after a lapse of several years.

Seventeen games are listed on the baseball card of which but six are home games. The remaining eleven will be played away from Lewiston. Some criticism has been directed toward the small number of home games in baseball. But, two of the out of town games are scheduled at Brunswick which will enable Bates men to see the big games.

Two Maine Coaches have been picked to serve on the Olympic coaching staff Mike Ryan, coach at Colby and resident of Auburn will have charge of the training of the long distance runners, while Jack Magee of Bowdoin will assist in the field events and the long runs.

It is reported that Holy Cross set a new world's mark when defeating Bates at Portland. If the track was correctly measured the wearers of the purple and white knocked one-fifth of a second off the old mark.

SOPHOMORE CO-EDS BASKETBALL CHAMPS

Sophomores—30 Juniors 16

The championship game, fought to a finish Tuesday night—the finish of the Juniors—was alive from the start with growing vigor. The first half was an almost even game, each team snapping along, and the Sophomores only two in the lead, 10-8. With the second half, the Sophomore team gained momentum, plucking the ball from nowhere, and scoring basket upon basket unerringly. The center pass work was notable, and the forward's eye for the basket unflinching. The final score was 30-16, favor of the Sophomores.

Seniors—34 Freshmen—35

Between halves, Seniors and Freshmen teams played off, with a close victory to the Freshman, 35-34. Though far behind at the end of the first half, the Senior team showed a lot of fight before the close, losing by a solitary point. The baskets, as a class were good, but one stood out—Campbell's long shot from the center court was a beauty. No serious casualties are listed; "Steavie" had two temporary knock-outs but soon was back to the game.

BATES COLLEGE — An Appeal

Prominent Bates Alumnus In Open Letter Urges Loyalty and Gratitude to Alma Mater
by ALBERT F. GILMORE

"Who seeks for aid
Must show how service sought can be repaid."

These words borrowed from Lord Lytton's "Siege of Constantinople" epitomize a situation which is of keen interest to every graduate of Bates College, since all who have entered her portals as students have sought the beneficence within her power of bestowal.

American college men and women are noted for their fine idealism. Inspired with a zest for service, they eagerly grasp every opportunity offered for promoting the welfare of mankind. Of no body of graduates is this more characteristic than of Bates' men and women. During the three score years of her existence, in many lines of human endeavor, her more than two thousand graduates have very generally devoted themselves, often without stint, usually without hope of large material reward, to some cause which has for its high purpose the improvement of the general welfare through ameliorating the conditions under which we live. They have learned the blessed privilege of true service. Their devotion to a chosen calling, however, has not prevented them from according full measure of fealty to their Alma Mater, as was proved by their splendid support of the Loyalty Fund, and their generous contributions to the more recent Million Dollar Drive.

The conditions surrounding college life have materially changed during the last quarter century. Because of the rapid increase of population in our country, and because of a keen stimulation of interest in education among all classes, and its broadening lines, new institutions of learning are springing up everywhere. In addition to the traditional lines of education, business and technical training are greatly in demand, and the older institutions are finding more difficulty in maintaining the traditional lines of education. Thus the problem of education is seen in a partially new setting.

As institutions of learning multiply, each becomes more dependent upon the support of the clientele which it serves, —the recipients of its benefits. The students, graduates, trustees and such friends as each institution may raise up by virtue of its good works, have become and must continue to be its chief supporters. It is not, apparently, too much to say that in this way alone will our colleges be enabled to carry on their indispensable work—work without which, it seems, our country cannot go forward to its high place as leader in promoting that idealism of which the world is so greatly in need. No longer may colleges justifiably look to the wealthy alone to support them out of their generosity. While the munificence of Americans is proverbial in its extent and diversity, yet so great have become the demands upon our well-to-do that in many instances the situation amounts to nothing less than harassment. The rich will continue to give, but with the rapid increase in the number of institutions seeking their aid, the colleges will inevitably more and more become dependent upon their own resources. The direct beneficiaries of each institution, its graduates and friends, must cherish and provide for Alma Mater, as the dutiful son and daughter in token of filial gratitude and appreciation love, cherish and care for their parents.

Moreover, there is a definite obligation to the discharge of which the graduate of a college is in duty bound. It is undoubtedly true that no college, surely none maintaining chiefly an Arts course, is receiving from its students in the form of tuition and other payments more than a part of the expense of such education. The college, thus, becomes in some degree at least a philanthropic institution which dispenses its largess in the form of education for which it receives only partial payment. Because colleges are not self-supporting, each student is the recipient of benefits bestowed in some part by the hand of philanthropy.

Furthermore, entirely apart from the monetary cost of education, the student receives something which could scarcely be paid for in terms of money. What could recompense the love, solicitude, and tender care which a parent bestows upon a child? Likewise, what could compensate a college for that finer something which a student derives from his Alma Mater which, like Bates, looks yearningly to the moral and spiritual well-being, as well as to the mental development of each student? Is there not a relation established between our college and its students which is sacred and worthy to be cherished? Have not we, each one, gained something from our beloved Bates for which we can scarcely make adequate return?

This is a problem which each undergraduate may well ponder; and in proportion to his recognition of the value of his experience, and to his right understanding of his obligation toward

Prof. Robinson to Attend Trustee Board Meeting

Professor G. M. Robinson will leave college on Tuesday, March 18, in order to attend a meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Curry School of Expression in Boston.

The professor is a graduate of this school—an institution which has trained many successful teachers and public speakers. S. S. Curry, the man who is largely responsible for its present important place in the province of expression, belongs to the modern school. He believes in straightforward and direct public speaking as the expression of inner thought. Professor Robinson promulgates this same doctrine, and emphasizes particularly the student's breaking away from the sheer superficiality of elocution.

On the following Saturday evening, Professor Robinson will be the invited guest at the Boston Bates Alumni Banquet.

During the week or vacation, he is planning to visit New York City. Here it will be his delight to attend plays and concerts. Particularly is he interested in seeing the spectacular production—"The Miracle Play."

the college will be his sense of gratitude, and the desire for its full expression in terms of loyalty. Accordingly, one's obligation to his college is by no means discharged by the mere giving of money. The college vastly needs something more than the necessary funds, important as they are. The loyalty that springs from a lively realization of the benefits received through her manifold bestowals; from firm faith in her ideals; from an abiding confidence that her highest purpose is the development of true Christian character; from the assurance that integrity, industry, service, are her watchwords—this type of loyalty induces that appreciation and consequent gratitude which look upon the opportunity to bestow the support which is so greatly needed, mental, spiritual, and financial, as a blessed privilege.

The value of a gift is by no means measured in terms of dollars. The spirit in which it is given, the joy which rises from the pleasure of giving, is a better criterion of its true worth. It is said of the Japanese that the giver thanks the recipient for the pleasure of giving. May not we graduates of Bates thank our beloved college for the privilege of being permitted to continue our participation in her glorious career through giving some evidence of our good-will, and some proof of our love for her ideals, in addition to material support? The widow who cast two mites into the treasury gave vastly more than many who put in a larger sum without recognition of the blessed privilege of giving to a righteous cause, which inspired her act.

That the future of American colleges is to a very great degree in the keeping of their graduates is a foregone conclusion. Is it not well, then, for each student, while still an undergraduate, to give such attention to the needs of the college as will enable him to understand her problems? The value of a course at Bates will be substantially enhanced by recognizing for what the college stands, her present needs, and what she will continue to need for her support. The relationship between the college and its students is one that entails a duty to be discharged—a duty that may become a glorious privilege when seen in the light of opportunity for direct service to mankind. The State of Maine, New England, the United States, the World have need of Bates College. Those who have been and those who will be her beneficiaries are under obligation to see to it that her altar fires be not allowed to smoulder; that they burn ever brighter, fed by the love and gratitude of her rapidly growing body of sons and daughters.

GET OUT AND PUSH

In the days of romance and stage-coaches, before Great Britain was covered with a network of railroads, Jeremiah Small drove an old coach between London and Exeter. The route covered a long and very steep hill at a place named Barnsfield.

As the passengers entered the coach he would inquire "How will ye ride, sir, first, second or third class?"

The passenger, unless familiar with the route, always selected the cheaper ticket, as everyone was huddled together and there appeared to be no advantage in being a first class passenger.

At the foot of Barnsfield Hill the coach would be slowed down to a walk and then stopped and Jeremiah would appear at the door and say:

"Gentlemen, this be Barnsfield Hill, a hard and long pull for the horses. First class passengers keep your seats; Second class passengers step out and walk; Third class passengers get out and push."

The faculty and student body will receive the announcement of the presentation of the cantata "The Seven Last Words of Christ" with much anticipation. It will be given by the College Choir assisted by Mrs. Eva F. Spear, soprano; Mr. Vance W. Monroe, tenor; Mr. Fred A. Clough, baritone, and Mrs. Cecelia C. Goss, organist. Mr. Edwin L. JORDAN SCIENTIFIC HOLDS EXHIBIT

In the physics laboratory were shown all manner of machines and pieces of apparatus for the demonstration of the physical laws of nature. Here particular interest was focused on the operation of X-Ray tubes, the radio, and other electrical inventions, as well as upon the process of photography and the methods of spectrum analysis.

On the third floor the Stanton Natural Museum, always a source of interest, and the exhibitions of geology and mathematics completed the series of displays. A new feature introduced this year by the department of geology was the showing of a large collection of Indian and historical relics loaned for this purpose by the State Museum at Augusta.

The work in mathematics was represented by an extensive display of conical sections, solid mathematical figures, plane tables and surveying instruments, and other apparatus necessary for the demonstration of the relations of numbers.

This society which was organized in 1910 under the auspices of the late Dr. Lyman Jordan, has at the present time the following membership: Elberton Tiffany, (Pres.); D. Stanton Ross, (Sec.); Linwood Hilton, Rudolph Kempton, Arthur Pollister, Arthur Bragg, Guy Rowe, Albert Dimlich, Stanley Wilson, Howard Lary, Frank Dorr, William Raymond, Elmer Watson, Kenneth Jones, Carrol Bailey, Donald Buck, Victor Reed, and Wilbur Luce. The members of the exhibition committee are Victor Reed, Linwood Hilton, Arthur Pollister, Marjorie Manser, Howard Lary, and Elberton Tiffany.

A Class Distinction

The Hinge-Cap is the insignia of Williams Shaving Cream and of Williams only. You'll notice three things about Williams every time you shave. 1. Williams lather is heavier and holds the moisture in against the beard. Quicker and more thorough softening takes place. 2. Williams lather lubricates your skin — your razor actually seems to "glide" the hairs off. 3. Williams lather leaves the skin in marvelously fine condition. No matter how frequently you shave, your face stays cool, smooth and comfortable.

You'll enjoy every shave with Williams. It is a pure, natural-white cream without any artificial coloring whatsoever.

BATES STUDENTS OFFICERS MAINE VOLUNTEER UNION

Noted Speakers Heard
at Conference

The second annual conference of the Maine State Student Volunteer Union, was held at University of Maine last Friday, Saturday and Sunday, with more than 175 delegates representing Bates, Colby, Bowdoin, Bangor Theological Seminary and the University of Maine.

During the convention addresses were delivered by some of the leading missionaries to the Near East and the Orient, foreign students from Greece, Serbia, China and Japan, as well as by the Maine college students. Much individual thinking was stimulated by numerous group discussions led by students upon various topics, including: Racial problems, with particular attention to campus problems at Maine colleges; foreign missionary enterprises; and world problems, with hearing on the linkage between racial, social and industrial problems with Christianity. The decisions reached were of a broad and tolerant nature, showing a spirit of endeavor for Christian service.

Among the speakers at the various sessions, were: J. Kingsley Birge, formerly a professor at the International college at Smyrna; S. Ralph Harlow, who was also at Smyrna, and is now on the faculty of Smith College; Dr. George H. Hamlin, who for eighteen years was an educator at Balasore, India; Homer E. Wark, professor of missions at Boston University and recently returned from the Far East; Miss Grace A. Denton, a missionary who has been in Japan for several years, and Dr. C. C. Little, president of the University of Maine, who gave a series of talks on the Principles of Religion.

The foreign students who spoke were: Henry Matsushita, a graduate of Waseda University in Japan, and now a student at Bates; Efthimios Couzinos, who formerly attended Anatolia College in Turkey, until forced to leave, and now a student at Bates; Miss Danitza Aran-celovich, of Belgrad, Serbia, and Diong Dick Uong, of Fooshow, China, both students at the University of Maine.

The following officers were elected at a business session of the union: President Miss Helen E. Hill, Bates; vice president, eastern district, Virginia Baldwin, Colby; vice-president, western district, J. William Graham, Bowdoin; secretary, Hazel R. Looke, Bates; treasurer and registrar, Owen T. Williams, Bangor Theological Seminary; alumni secretary, Harold E. Mayo, Bates; Mary Harris, University of Maine.

ENTRE NOUS

Entre Nous had a truly literary meeting on Monday evening. From the English department three of the best written themes of the year were selected and read, though not by the authors. Frances Cutler played a mandolin solo, accompanied by Helen Benner. There was a reading, "Lascia," given by Natalie Benson, president of Entre Nous. Charlotte Haines, affirmative, and Elizabeth Shorey, negative, debated the question, "Resolved that the Freshmen Dormitories should have Pantries." The decision was granted to Miss Haines. Jeanne Low, Maystelle Farris, and Ruth Canham were the committee for the meeting.

Y. W. PRESENTS PAGEANT

The 1923 Y. W. C. A. Board brought the year to a successful close last Wednesday night in the Bates Chapel when the pageant "The Chalice and the Cup" was presented.

The program was in charge of Elsie Brickett and Mary Worthley. Constance Barrett lead the meeting. The acting of Emma Abbott as "The Church" was excellent. Alice Swanson's portrayal of "The Association of Spirits" is also worthy of comment. All the parts showed careful handling and the music contributed greatly to the success of the affair.

Next Tuesday, the annual meeting and banquet will be held in Rand dining-room. At this time the officers for the coming year will be elected.
