ON THE DEATH OF CARL HAYDEN

Carl Hayden will be remembered in many ways. His astonishing record of fifty-seven years' service in the Congress is in itself more than enough to have earned him a prominent place in our history. His energy and devotion to public service has been a source of inspiration to hundreds who came to the Congress after him and left before him.

Most important, I think, is that Senator Hayden embodied a life and a tradition uniquely American. This man who was a frontier sheriff; this man who was a soldier; this man who was a politician and a statesman -- we will miss him.
