Four Bobcats on All-Maine Team

Telegram Picks Kenison, Long, White, Fisher on All-Star Eleven

Now that Bates has its State Championship tucked away for the season, and has made preparation for adding souvenirs commemorating it in the trophy hall in the Alumni Gym, students about campus have little more to talk about except their own choices of an all-Maine team.

The Portland Sunday Telegram has already picked its mythical "all" eleven, and though Ned Lehan et. al. failed to pick thirteen Garnet men—the eleven regulars and their two coaches—nevertheless the critical scribes did see fit to ascribe four stalwart Bobcats to their Hall of Fame.

Of these, Red Long, whose phenomenal work made him the outstanding star of the series, was an unquestioned choice. The other three, Sam Kenison at end, Ben White at tackle, and Fisher at halfback have been bulwarks of strength in the Garnet's irresistible march to State dominancy, and their selection occasioned no surprise.

Along with Long, two other players, Wally Donovan of Colby and Crimmins of Bowdoin, were practically certain of selection. The other places were filled only after careful consideration, as several players of nearly equal calibre were eligible.

Al Turner of Colby at tackle stood out in the line as did Long at guard, but Ben White under varsity fire for his first year, was ranked above the other aspirants and chosen for the second tackle berth. Ben improved with every game, and at Colby was very instrumental in breaking up the White Mule's assaults.

Kenison received the wing berth due to dogged, alert performances. Never sensational, he rose to great heights when the occasion demanded, and was especially troublesome to opposing punters.

Stan Fisher's punting in the Colby game, as well as his all-round ability as a ball carrier and a defensive star, contributed to his selection, and the scribes point out that his performances, next to those of Long's, were the greatest (Continued on page 4, column 5)

A. A. U. to Consider Max Wakeley's "600" Mark Set Last Year

One of the many record claims being considered by the record committee at the annual convention of the Amateur Athletic Union now being held in St. Louis, is the mark of 1.15 2/5 for the National Junior 600-yard indoor title made by Maxwell A. H. Wakely, '28, former Bates track captain. The performance was made at the Boston Garden on February 22, 1929.

While at Bates, Wakely was a very popular and a busy individual. He was a product of Coach Jenkins' training. As a middle distance runner he starred for three seasons. He was also the mainstay of several relay teams. In addition to his track activities he was prominent in debating, dramatics and clubs, and an honor student.

After graduation "Max" took up a position in Riverdale Academy at Riverdale-on-the-Hudson, N. Y. where he taught geography and coached track. He kept in touch with track at the same time being a member of the Brooklyn Central "Y". He took part in several races under these colors one of which was his record-breaking "600" in Boston last winter.

This year Wakely is employed by the Oxford Paper Company located at Park Avenue, New York City where he is a member of the treasury department. He has a bright future ahead of him in this field. He is soon to be sent to New York University by the company, where he will take up a special course in preparation for more advanced work and responsibilities.

He plans to continue his running this winter as a member of the "Y" team.

Short Reviews Of New Books At the Library

Additions in Poetry, Fiction, Biography, Religion and Information

"What have you that's new and interesting?" asks a student as he approaches the library desk. Perhaps he does not know that a number of the latest books are placed on a shelf on top of the bookcase near the desk on the left as one enters.

Last week on this shelf were Anslander and Hill's "The Winged Horse Anthology" a collection of the best verse known to the English speaking world; A. K. Foster's "The Coming Revival of Religion", an attractive statement of religion which modern minded people can understand; and one of Robert Frost's recent books of poetry, "West Running Brook", a group of poems which have as strong an appeal as his previous ones.

New fiction does not include as large a number of books as non-fiction does. But the outstanding novel is Remarque's "All Quiet on the Western Front". The popularity of this book is revealed by the fact that it is in constant circulation. Another novel that has been vividly reviewed is Freeman's "Joseph and His Brethren".

Biography is well represented among the recent books. Andre Maurois, author of "Ariel, The Life of Shelley" has brought together six of his scholarly and very readable lectures on biography and has published them under the title "Aspects of Biography". More than those who are required to use this for an English course should become acquainted with its interesting pages. For biographies, then, are Boas's "Cotton Mather"; H. W. Morrow's "Splendor of God", the slang of Adoniram Judson's stimulating life as a missionary; Dakin's "Mrs. Eddy"; Francis Hackett's "Henry the Eighth"; Florence Emily Hardy's "Early Life of Thomas Hardy"; and Mary E. Best's "Thomas Paine". Mrs. Hardy has made a fascinating story of her husband's life, narrating many of his early boyhood experiences and including nu- (Continued on Page 2, Column 4)

Stu. G. Leaders' Annual Meeting

Miss Withington is Bates Delegate to Bucknell Nat'l Conference

Delightfully interesting and instructive was the annual conference of the Women's Intercollegiate Association for Student Government held this year at Bucknell University, Lewisburg, Penn. Constance Withington '30 represented Bates at this meeting.

The conference was mainly a series of general sessions and informal discussions where the various problems of over fifty colleges from all sections of the eastern part of the U. S. were considered. Among the principal speakers were Mrs. Brand Blanchard and Miss Helen Marks, Deans of Swarthmore and Pennsylvania Colleges respectively, and Mr. Norman Thomas who, it will be remembered, was candidate for president on the Socialist ticket in the last campaign. Besides, these lectures and discussions there was much else to enjoy. The Bucknell women were exceedingly cordial and showed their hospitality especially in teas and banquets. A motor trip to Saurelton State Village, the home of over 500 feebleminded girls and the only one of its kind in the U. S. was an interesting feature. It was indeed with regret that over fifty delegates left Saturday morning after such a pleasant three days.

GARNET CROSS COUNTRY TEAM BRINGS HOME NEW ENGLAND TITLE

Close-Formation Style of Running Spells Victory

Finish Five-in-Line for Low Score. Jordan Wins Frosh Race

Placing five men in the first eight runners to finish, the Bates cross-country team captured the New England Intercollegiate title Monday afternoon at Franklin Park in Boston with the low score of 30. By the individual brilliance of Lindsay and Richardson who took first and second, the University of Maine scored 52 points and gained second place.

Coach Ray Thompson

Corydon Jordan, freshman ace, won the freshman race in record-breaking time to place the Bates freshman team in second place. The New Hampshire first-year men took first honors.

Bates went to the New England's realizing or expecting serious opposition from New Hampshire and Maine. Gunning of Maine did not run in the Maine-Bates dual meet and his appearance at Boston was expected to make Maine certain of victory. New Hampshire had beaten Springfield by the same score as Bates so stiff opposition also was expected of them.

The race was run during a pouring rain over a slippery soggy course making footing at times ankle-deep in mud. During the first mile the leaders stuck well together but Lindsay and Richardson then stepped out and many others fell behind. The Bates runners stayed in a group well up in front, cheering each other along and talking one to the other. (Continued on Page 4, Column 1)

Noted Lecturer Talks to Students At Little Theatre

"The Hope of the Future", Says Mr. Williams, "Lies in a Third Party"

Howard Y. Williams of New York City, Executive Secretary of the League for Independent Political Action expounded the need of a new alignment of political parties in the United States, before an open meeting of the Men's Politics Club and Y. M. C. A. in Hathorn Hall Wednesday evening. Mr. Williams painted the black picture of corruption which has darkened the history of both our major parties.

He described conditions in the Pennsylvania coal mines strike and the southern cotton mills as he had observed them, exclaiming, "Think how government could be used!"

In contrast to all this he told of the successes and failures of the non-partisan and Farm-Labor movements in the west. The hope of the future, he said, lay in a new third party free from the domination of capitalistic interests, which would fight for social justice, peace and clean politics. He thought the mistake of the past which caused the failure of the third party movements in 1912 and 1924 was an attempt to build from the top down instead of from the bottom up. This is the purpose of the League for Independent Political Action in acting as a clearing house for research and publicity aiming to advance this movement.

Kiwanis Club Fetes Champ Gridders

Morey Guest of Honor at Banquet. Capt. Long Speaks

Last Thursday evening the Football Squad was the honored guest of the Lewiston and Auburn Kiwanis Club, at the Auburn "Y". Representatives of the three other Maine colleges spoke. Coaches Morey and Spinks were especially lauded.

A banquet given by L. A. Kiwanis Club to the 1929 Football Squad featured continuous praise for the season's fine showing. President Ben Jones of the Kiwanis presided. When the eating part of the evening was done, the president began the speaking part by introducing the numerous guests from the twin cities. Chairs were shoved back and everyone gave a good hand as the guests were presented. Among those familiar to Bates students were President Gray, Seldon Crafts, Jack Finn, and Manager Cliff Shea.

The president then asked Manager "Shaker" Shea, to introduce the various members of the squad. As "Shaker" named them, each rose. The order of introduction as he picked them out from among the Kiwanians all over the hall is as follows: Butterfield, Spofford, Peabody, Kendall, Ryan, Fisher, Mandelstam, Fitz, Sahl, Barton, Hubbard, Cascadden, Howe, Garelon, Secor, McDonald, Larabee, Wing, Chick, White, Gordon, Jekanowski, Shapiro, Kenison, Whittier, Valicenti, Gorham, Fortin, Rogers, Louder, Lizotte, Bornstein, Fuller and McCluskey.

Next President Ben Jones called upon Red Long, captain of the team, for a few words. Red rose amid hearty applause and told his observations of the leading players as they appeared to him in the huddle. Pete was always urging the boys to "now give them the gini-ker". Red drew a living analogy of (Continued on Page 4 Column 2)

Harvard Professor Will Lecture Here

The first of the George Colby Chase lectures will be given by Professor William H. Weston Jr. of Harvard. Professor Weston, who is a personal friend of Professor William H. Sawyer of our faculty, is of the department of Botany at Harvard College. He has travelled extensively in tropical regions and will take for his subject, "The Importance of the Tropics in the Various Aspects of Biology." The lecture will be given on Monday evening, December 2.

Sophomores Win Coveted Contest With Frosh, 13-6

King and Lovell Score to Overcome Early Lead '33 Pays for "Eats"

Flashing an unexpected attack the Sophomores won a hotly contested game from the yearling eleven 13-6, played last Saturday afternoon before an appreciative crowd. Although each class many times tried to give the game away to the other the contest in its final stages developed into a real football game and the winner was not decided until a few seconds before the whistle when King catapulted through the Frosh defense to score the second Sophomore touchdown breaking the hitherto 6-6 tie.

Visions of a free banquet and plenty of healthy class rivalry made this annual interclass event as ruggedly played as those of past years and the contest generated some high power enthusiasm. For three periods the Frosh gridders held tenaciously to their slim 6 point lead made possible by Derby's thirty yard sprint over the goal line after he had scooped up Mayberry's freak fumble. Fireworks were started in the final canto when Lovell, former member of the N. H. freshman team, stepped out from the quarterback's position, skirted the yearling left end, cleverly dodged two would be tacklers and completed his 55 yard jaunt behind the goal posts putting the second year eleven very much in the running. The freshmen line held like a stone wall and the rush for extra point was smothered.

Public Speakers Have been Chosen from Sophomores

The semi-finals in Sophomore Prize Speaking were held last week and those to compete in the finals have been chosen. They are: Ruth Brown, Gertrude Diggery, Lucile Foulger, Margaret Hines, Edith Lerrigo, Muriel MacLeod, Carolyn Woodman, Valery Burati, Charles Kendall, Mashe Lightman, Norman MacDonald, Abe Mandelstam, Randolph Weatherbee, Norman Whitten. The finals will be held in the Little Theatre, Saturday afternoon, November 23, at 2 o'clock.

THAT BRIGHT NEW CROWN

Our sturdy little group of distance-runners has taken up the unspoken challenge presented by our football successes and made it good. Their victory may not appear as cataclysmic as the football victory, since it is only four years since we last won the New England title, yet it is every whit as praiseworthy.

There is more connected with the success of the team than the mere physical stamina of the runners. There has been a co-operative spirit that is hard to maintain in a sport of this type where there is considerable stress on individual performance. Their manner of finishing each race proves, not necessarily that each member is very equal to the other in ability, but that the more able fellows have been willing to sacrifice personal glory to encourage their teammates.

Behind it all has been felt the strong, genial personality of coach Ray Thompson. Whenever a candidate has trouble of any kind in practice he finds no person more sympathetic than "Ray". If a team or any individual receives a set-back in competition, "Ray" is always ready with some humorous, optimistic remark. At all times does he inspire confidence and willingness to work by his consistent sunny disposition. This is part of the secret of his success during his brief period as head coach.

This harmonious bunch—Coach and team—has earned the right to carry the Garnet at the Nationals in New York. More power to them!

Incidentally, the Freshmen, led by Jordan, deserve a large slice of the cheers for capturing a very respectable second place.

ON USING THE LIBRARY

There is probably none connected with the college and who, by this time, does not know that we have a very up-to-date library right in our midst. However, it would appear, from casual observation, that, with many of us, our acquaintance ends with that bit of knowledge. We know how to get there, have an idea what we want, but for some reason cannot, or do not, find it independently.

One of our professors recently remarked that he hesitates to assign work which might require any degree of individual research for fear of over-burdening the librarians. One of the latter verified this implied accusation later, stating that often the greater part of each day is spent in placing material into the very hands of the students.

The reason for this is puzzling on the surface. The library system is explained to us as freshmen in order that we may use this knowledge during our four years. Still there are some who cannot find an author in the card catalogue, and many more who are "stumped" when it comes to looking up an article in a bound magazine. And yet, according to a librarian, it isn't ignorance that is so manifest as the laziness—lack of initiative.

Coram Library contains over fifty thousand bound volumes of all descriptions. All the bound volumes are catalogued; books according to the Dewey decimal system and the bound magazines in the Readers' Guide to periodicals. In addition there is considerable pamphlet material which is difficult to catalogue in the ordinary way. The librarians are willing to help students in finding this material, and are always ready to help when there is real difficulty. But we should bear in mind that their regular duties, in keeping the books arranged and in cataloguing new ones, are exacting. We can help them by forcing ourselves to be independent. Let's get the blood-hound instinct and smell them out without having them placed directly under our noses.

Editor's Note: There will be no Student printed next week. The next issue will appear immediately after the recess.

OPEN FORUM

To the Editor of the Student:
Dear Sir:

With indignation I have watched the recent fall elections into clubs, societies, cliques and gangs, for in very few cases have I been able to observe just and impartial selection of members. Rather is there an ever increasing tendency (sanctioned by campus opinion) toward ensnaring individuals, already prominent in one club or another, long enough to get their signatures on the membership list of the secretary's books. In fact it has almost become a tradition that individuals with "pull", popularity, or a marked degree of pragmatism are automatically eligible to membership in any club or society on campus. And whether they are vitally concerned with the interests of that club, or whether they possess ability in amount surpassing that of a more humble aspirant does not enter into the discussion. No, there is no discussion. "Of course we want 'X'. Isn't he prominent in this and that?" And "X" has "made" another club.

This situation does and will continue to do irremediable harm, not only to the individual so boosted into prominence, but to those victims of injustice who find themselves thwarted before they even reach for the tiller rope of some promising craft. Time and again I have seen students of real ability pushed to the wall out of deference to the popularity, position or "pull" of a rival candidate. And this is a disease which unconsciously, insidiously fastens itself upon us. The faculty may catch it unless they are clearer-sighted than we.

There are, as I see it, three types of students concerned in a discussion of this problem: those who with little effort obtain almost anything they wish, those who have to tackle hard-pan for every single thing they want, and those, who, despite desire and just desert, never obtain anything. For by the time the first two have gathered the plums from the limelight tree there is nothing left for the third!

You may claim that it is the latter's failure to assert himself which makes this discrepancy and hence the situation is his own fault. But I claim that there is current a species of politics which despoils the meek but worthy aspirant of his goal through preference for the gods of the already wreathed and honored brow.

I beseech you to reflect and deliberate before accrediting "X" or "A" with superhuman powers simply because he or she holds three or four chairs in the assemblies of the gods. There are silent and unpretentious mortals who are much more valiant in the fight!

Respectfully,
Dorothy Burdett.

Judge Elton Fales Addressed "Y" Wed.

Judge Elton Fales, Bates '17, spoke at the "Y" meeting Wednesday evening. He talked on the impressions he has received in his court work.

Livingston Lomas, Harold Richardson, Fred Dingley, George Austin and Charles Horton composed the deputation that made Standish and Liminton its headquarters over the week-end. There are five churches in this "regional parish." The deputation conducted the Sunday services in each of these.

CLUB NOTES

The Men's Politics Club held an open meeting last Wednesday evening in the Little Theatre. Mr. Howard Williams, general secretary of the League of Independent Political Action, spoke on the subject "Wanted—A new alignment in American politics". A more detailed account of the lecture will be found elsewhere in the paper.

Franklyn Burriss read a paper on "Rubber" at the meeting of the Lawrence Chemical Society in Hedge Lab last Monday.

In continuing its study of Russia, the Women's Politics Club held a meeting last Monday night from 7-8 in Libbey Forum, when Louise Day spoke on "Political Conditions in Russia".

Last night the first regular business meeting of the Sodalitas Latina was held in Libbey Forum. The program consisted of five readings on Roman Life.

The speaker this evening at the Y. W. meeting is Miss Alice Van Doren, educational secretary of Burma, India, and Ceylon, who will speak on her work. The vocal and instrumental music is in charge of Lillian Hill.

In a cabinet meeting of the Cosmos Club held at Chase House Tuesday evening, it was decided to hold the annual fall initiation service at Thornecrag, Thursday, the twenty-first. Programs for future meetings were also discussed and the plans auger a fine series of meetings.

More Geology

Voluntary field trips were made by members of Geology I this last week over to Mt. Apatite in Auburn. On sighting from auto a veritable mine of rock specimens was encountered. Note taking and lecturing were dispensed with while the amateur collectors satisfied their acquisitive instincts.

Intercollegiate News

Dorothy M. Haskell, Editor

Under the direction of Professor Everett Getchell, head of the English department in the School of Education, an anthology of verse will be issued in the near future. It will include the best poems of students, faculty, and graduates of Boston University.

In a recent issue of the Nation, Dr. E. L. Wilm, former Boston University professor, enumerated the following reforms for improvement of education: stiffer entrance exams; abolish intercollegiate athletics and foster intramural contests; advance professors' salaries; abolish fraternities; avoid duplication of courses; reduce free electives to a minimum; abolish unit and marking system; abolish honorary degrees.

The men of Rochester University, having decided that blind dates are a waste of time, recently evolved a very clever scheme for the interchange of knowledge concerning co-eds and their ways. But it's a secret!

Students of North Carolina State College are required to pay a fine of 50 cents for each class they cut.

One-fourth of the girls in American Colleges are paying their own way in whole or part.

And following that comes the report of Dean Virginia Gildersleeve of Barnard College who says, it is practically impossible for all except a very few unusual women to work their way through college without serious injury to their health or their academic standing or both.

Graduate Compiles Bates Verse from Past Ten Years

"An Anthology of Recent Bates Verse" is the title of a book being compiled by a graduate, Adelbert M. Jakeman, '27 of Lexington, Mass.

This book is a collection of nearly sixty poems by Bates students and graduates gleaned from the pages of The Student, Garnet, and Alumnus which have been published in the decade or so since the World War.

It contains about one hundred pages, attractively bound in the college colors. There are approximately fifty contributors, representing practically every one of the last ten or more classes. It is a book which should be of interest not only to every Bates man and woman but also to all those who care for the poetry of youth.

The introduction to the book is written by Dr. Wright of the Bates Faculty.

Mr. Jakeman obtained the A.B. degree in June 1927, having majored in Latin. Aside from being a good student he held membership in the Glee Club, Orpheo, Band, Men's Politics Club and took part in the Greek Play.

Note: The book will be on sale Dec. 1. Anyone wishing to have a copy, at the price of $1.50, should see the editor of the Student.

VISIT BROWN PAPER COMPANY

Twenty-three members of the Bates Chemistry classes accompanied by the Chemistry faculty and Mrs. Lawrence visited the paper mills of the Brown Company at Berlin, New Hampshire on Thursday of last week.

The start was made at 6.30 from Hedge Laboratory. The weather at the beginning unpropitious, improved somewhat and the sun finally appeared. With the exception of a few miles the roads were entirely of concrete or macadam so that little difficulty from mud was experienced.

Arrival at the plant was at 9.45. The party was divided into three groups each accompanied by one member of the faculty and led by some Bates graduate employed by the Brown Company.

Visits were made to the laboratories and to the experimental plant connected with them, and to the chlorine plant.

The plant of the Burgess Fibre Company, controlled by the Brown Company, was visited directly after dinner, and here the processes were followed rather completely.

After leaving the Burgess plant the party went to Cascade to see the plant where wrapping paper and paper towels are made. This mill uses a sulphate process rather than sulfite. The result is a dark colored paper unsuited for writing papers. The trip through this mill was similar to that at the Burgess plant but here samples of some of the Brown Company products were seen ranging from paper twine and artificial leather to paper aprons and bakelite impregnated bearing cases.

The return to Lewiston was made from here leaving at about 4.30 and arriving in Lewiston at about 7.00 P.M.

ATHLETIC COUNCIL AWARDS CHARMS TO FOOTBALL CHAMPS

Eighteen Men Winners Of Varsity Letter

At the regular meeting of the Athletic Council last Thursday evening several of the athletic awards of the season were decided upon. It was voted to award gold footballs to each of the letter men in football as trophies of the Intercollegiate State Championship.

It was also voted to present Coach Morey and Coach Spinks each a special bonus of $700 as "an appreciation of their splendid and remarkable success with the football team this fall and as evidence of the high esteem and affection of the college as a whole."

Eighteen men were awarded letters at the meeting. They are as follows:

B. Bornstein, '31, C. B. Chamberlain, '32, S. W. Farrell, '32, S. C. Fisher, '30, R. A. Fitz, '30, J. T. Fuller, '31, H. W. Howe, '30, S. M. Kenison, '31, L. Lizotte, '30, R. H. Long, '32, H. W. Louder, '30, R. E. McCluskey, '32, N. McDonald, '32, M. H. Seor, '30, I. Shapiro, '31, D. K. Spofford, '30, P. R. Valicenti, '32, and B. F. White, '32.

Nothing definite has been decided yet concerning suitable awards to the cross-country men for winning the state and New England Championship.

SHORT REVIEW ON NEW BOOKS

merous rural incidents, which embody customs and manners of the old west-of-England life that have entirely passed out of use. Enlightening comments are made concerning the connection between Mr. Hardy's personal experiences and happenings in his books. Another intriguing life story is Mary E. Best's "Thomas Paine", the biography of a man who was a prophet and a martyr of democracy, whose head for more than a century was crowned with infamy, but who now is given credit for his ideas too wise to be credible. Every student should be interested in the life of a man who fought valiantly "for the promotion of everything that can benefit the moral and political conditions of man".

In the field of religion one will find "Jesus or Christianity", by Kirby Page, the editor of "The World Tomorrow"; "Unravelling the Book of Books" by Ernest R. Trattner; and "The Man Who Dared to be God", by Robert Norwood. Trattner's book is a story of how the puzzles of the Bible were solved and its documents unraveled. Its answer to "Who Wrote the Bible?" is an attractively written explanation of the science of Bible criticism. Norwood's book is a story of Jesus, revealing Him as the most important man this planet ever produced, one who satisfied the vivacity of youth and the sensibility of the mature.

Something different and full of action is "It's a Racket" by Hostetter Bresley. This gives the development of rackets, especially as carried on in Chicago. A unique section is "The Glossary of Hoodlum", an abbreviated dictionary of the colorful and expressive language which the racketeers use in their evasive world.

Two new books, written by Bates Alumni, have been presented by these authors to the library. Mabel E. Marr '00, and formerly, assistant librarian at Bates is the author of a book of verses, "Comrades and Other Poems". Another book of special interest to Bates people is "The A. B. C. of Accounting", written by Dr. Stanley E. Howard, Bates 1910, and at present a professor at Princeton.

The "New Encyclopedia Britannica" should not be overlooked. As most students have learned, this is a valuable addition to reference books.

And do not forget that the list of new books in the Bates library is changing continually.

PHI BETA KAPPA READING CONTEST IS ANNOUNCED

Professor Chase met the sophomores who wish to enter the Phi Beta Kappa Prize Reading Contest. The meeting was held last Friday noon in the Greek room.

Professor Chase explained the purpose of the contest—to encourage further reading of the great authors. He distributed lists of the recommended books.

It is planned to have the contestants report once each semester. In May, 1931, the final report and a short examination will be held. A first prize of twenty-five dollars, and a second prize of fifteen dollars will be awarded at that time.

Constance Withington returned Sunday evening from a week's trip to Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, where she attended a Student Government conference at Bucknell University.

Mildred and Muriel Beckman '30 visited Ruth Patterson Bates '29 Friday and Saturday at New Gloucester where she is teaching.

The barriers convincingly maintained their reputation for balance by finishing in five consecutive places in the first eight. A few other records were also established. No team ever before has finished its seven men within the first seventeen positions. Furthermore the entire Bates team crossed the finish line before any team except Maine had finished its third man.

In

The Bates score of 30 was within two points eclipsing the record low score of 29 set by Maine two years ago. Some teams with totals up in the seventies have been returned winners in this event.

Bates

One Brooks Quimby of forensic fame contributed lustily to the results. Brooks opened his case in the dressing room with a neat little introduction and presentation of issues. At the two mile mark he plunged passionately into his arguments as the runners passed and on the stretch near the finish he closed with such a convincing rebuttal that the Garnet runners were smitten with the necessity of winning.

Athletic

Li'l Normie Whitten (indicated by patch) carried the colors home in fourth place and he's only a boy yet. Wait until he grows up and learns how to run. With Richardson, Lindsay, Whitten and Viles up at the front we conclude that the best barriers are produced up in the rear sticks where they are born in track shoes and have to canter nine miles to the nearest grocery store.

History

"Whit" had it all figured out that if Hayes had passed Hobbs and Viles the team would have beaten Maine's low score of 29.

We

There were two bad spills on the slippery rain soaked course. Gunning, Maine's keyman, took a bad fall on the first two mile loop. He was pretty well shaken up but managed to finish in fifteenth place by running on sheer nerve. Jellison, who won the Bates North eastern dual meet here, fell on a short rocky hill to badly twist his ankle forcing him to retire from the race.

Pulled

Coach Thompson isn't at all short on psychology. He had the boys worked up to perfection in that first place spirit.

Hard

Ray's kids got a big bag of candy Tuesday evening. Immediately arose the big war whoop. Hooray, Bates won.

For

Now is the time for the chest expansion of all good alumni and true to more nearly approximate their lower girth.

Football

"Cory" Jordan romped through the Freshmen race in great shape. He finished well ahead of the pack and was fresh at the end. It wasn't such a significant happening in his life, however, merely another crown to add to his other Maine, New England and National honors.

And

The entire Freshmen team turned in a fine performance. By finishing second they outdid any freshmen team Bates has ever entered in this race.

Cross-Country

Cummings of Tufts who finished second in the freshmen race is a varsity cross-country letter man at Colgate. Figure that one out.

Now

Two teams started the race wearing heavy wool knit toboggans and mittens. It didn't take then long to shed the surplus haberdashery, however. They were dropping mittens and helmets all over the course.

Let

The team had a nice restful stay at the Bellevue and were bothered very little by a profusion of alumni.

Us

Some of the boys who finished up around the sixties were so tired when they hit the tape that they bounded back instead of breaking it.

Start

Now for the nationals. But what a different race that will be. The entry list for this premier event is now up around 250. This means that at least 140 or twice as many as started the New England will listen for the gun.

Pulling

Penn State or the U. of Penn. will probably be favorites. Both teams have been unusually successful in their dual meets. Each has a well balanced all star outfit. Practically every team entered will have two or three outstanding men who will be in there for individual performances if not for team prize.

For

The course is quite long being six miles or one mile longer than that at Franklin Park. It is also rugged having a long steep climb called Cemetery hill.

Mid Year

It is hard to figure Bates chances against infinitely stiffer competition than was offered at Boston. The team should be well up in the race and perform creditably.

At the two mile mark just before going up the rocky muddy Schoolmaster Hill Lindsay and Richardson were followed by Viles, Hobbs, and Whitten running side by side with Jellison of Northeastern, Hazen of New Hampshire, Thorsen of Tech and Hayes and Cushing side by side, running slightly in the rear. On this hill Jellison twisted his ankle and was forced to retire.

Near the two and a half mile mark Hayes and Cushing were running side by side just behind Gunning of Maine when Gunning slipped, fell, and badly shaken up, was forced to slow down.

At the three and a half mile mark Hobbs got a pain in his side and slowed down a little. Hazen of New Hampshire began to speed up and soon was pushing Whitten and Viles. At this point Hayes and Cushing passed Thorsen.

The last mile was much speedier than the preceding miles. Jones and Chapman came up exceptionally fast. Hazen set out after Lindsay and Richardson with Whitten and Viles following closely. Hobbs came next with Hayes and Cushing side by side trailing a little behind him. The finish saw Lindsay and Richardson tied for first; Hazen, third; Whitten, fourth; Viles, fifth; Hobbs, sixth; Hayes and Cushing tied for seventh; Thorsen of Tech, ninth; Stanley of Maine, tenth; Jones, eleventh and Osie Chapman, seventeenth.

The remarkable team running of the Bates Harriers in taking fourth, fifth, and sixth, seventh, and eighth places shows that good consistent running without any individual stars wins the meets. Chapman was the last Bates runner to come in but four-fifths of the field was still behind him.

All the Bates runners made their letters again, this time major letters. The first five got gold medals. All seven will probably get gold track shoes. Next Saturday at six P.M. the New England champions will entrain for the Nationals to be held Monday at Van Cortlandt Park, New York.

Summary: Varsity.
1. Richardson, Maine; 2. Lindsay, Maine; 3. Hazen, New Hampshire; 4. Whitten, Bates; 5. Viles, Bates; 6. Hobbs, Bates; 7. Cushing, Bates; 8. Hayes, Bates; 9. Thorsen, M. I. T.; 10. Stanley, Maine; 11. Jones, Bates; 12. White, Conn. Aggies; 13. Gilman, M. I. T.; 14. Sheridan, Northeastern; 15. Gunning, Maine; 16. Wiles, Tufts; 17. Chapman, Bates; 18. Bean, Rhode Island; 19. Lajure, New Hampshire; 20. Richardson, New Hampshire.

In the Freshmen race the Bates team finished second with Cody Jordan leading the pack home in the splendid time of 17 and 16 1/2 seconds. The Bates star took an early lead and with the approach of the final mile opened up a gap of 100 yds. over the second man, Cummings of Tufts. Adams finished ninth, Hardcastle 15th, Long 20th, and Freeman 22nd to give the first year men a total score of 67 and to place them second to the New Hampshire Frosh. The work of the entire team was very good and the second place is the highest a Bates first year team has placed.

Summary: Freshmen.
1. Jordan, Bates; 2. Cummings, Tufts; 3. Le Moulpied, New Hampshire; 4. Haskell, Maine; 5. Booth, Maine; 6. Masters, M. I. T.; 7. Roberge, New Hampshire; 8. McKay, M. I. T.; 9. Adams, Bates; 10. the team as a real Fighting Bobcat. The presiding officer next introduced Asst. Coach "Buck" Spinks. Coach Buck gave one or two anecdotes about the team and ended by calling for a hand for the "Scrubs" who "helped make the Champs".

President Jones then made a few remarks about the coaching staff and called upon Coach Morey. An avalanche of applause reverberated through the banquet hall as Head Coach Morey arose. In his typically graceful manner he began with a football fable and went on with a confession of the thrills and heart throbs of the past season. The Maine game he said was the turning point of the season; it was the game that tested the Bates morale. From then on the team manifested a keen fighting spirit—the spirit of victory. He praised the team for its oneness of feeling and purpose. The spirit throughout the season was on the whole the best of any team he had known. He briefly described the exchange of hearties incident when a substitute went in to take the place of a regular. It was: "Come on, we want ya", and "Nice work, old man, you played a great game".

In closing Coach Morey paid verbal tribute to "Buck" Spinks, "the other coach." "There is no assistant coach; we're both head coaches". Finally, Coach Morey stated that the rumors current of his receiving "offers" were entirely false. It was news to him, he said. He felt that it was too early to think of next year, that keeping one eye on football and the other on what he was going to get out of it would be disloyalty. He said that working with the boys was his greatest source of pleasure as a coach.

Immediately following, the attention of Kiwanians, guests, and squad was turned to three cripples at one corner of the hall. Each was profusely bandaged and bound. One represented Maine, one Bowdoin, and the third in a wheel chair, Colby. Then in concert they gave a cheer for Bates!

The remainder of the evening was consumed with speeches by three prominent men representing the Maine colleges. After each speech their respective Alma Maters were sung. Then after a sparkling "line" from Judge Manser the banquet came to a close with the Bates Alma Mater.

Throughout the banquet laud after laud was offered to Bates, her team and her coaches.

SPOFFORD HOP HAS NOVELTY FEATURES

An interesting feature of the Spofford Club Dance held Sat. night at Chase Hall was an elimination dance in which titles of famous works of famous writers were employed, the final elimination to rest with the holders of the letters G. B. and S. the initials of George Bernard Shaw. The winners of the contest were Elizabeth Corey and Eugene Jekanoski. Some of the interesting titles of the dances were: The Wordsworth Wiggle, The Shakespeare Shimmy, the Goldsmith Grab, etc.

Chaperones were fittingly chosen to represent the English Department and those interested in pursuit of literary projects: Prof. and Mrs. Sawyer, Prof. and Mrs. Berkelman, Miss Eaton and Dr. Wright. The proceeds from this dance are to be used by the Spofford Club for a song contest later on in the year. "Gil" Clapperton's Bobcats furnished music for the Spofford revels.

SOPHOMORES WIN

but the end was a matter of seconds. Again King stepped into the breach and crashing between center and tackle he bruised his way straight over the goal line through the very center of the freshman cohort. It was the crowning play of the game and Allison added the extra point by a beautifully executed kick. This is the second time that the Class of '32 will be the guests at the annual banquet, but there is no doubt that this year's meal was well earned. Burch and Knowles were powerful defenders of the Freshman cause and the brilliant work of King, Lovell and Mayberry shows good prospects for the 1930 edition of the Moreymen.

CHAPEL HIGHLIGHTS

Seldom are we confronted at once with so clear an example of the power and influence which religion, especially Christianity, may have on a human life, not only to enable it to carry on through tragic sorrow unembittered, to undergo sacrifices of pleasures, even common necessities, to struggle against apparently insurmountable obstacles, and yet come out of it all with greater strength and finer spirit; or on the other hand to make it a bitter, cynical, indeed an utterly ruined life and personality. For this we are indebted to the chapel talks of Edwin Surt, rural-work representative of the American Home Mission Society.

PROFESSOR QUIMBY SPENDS BUSY WEEK-END AT BOSTON

An extended week-end trip by Professor Brooks Quimby included an after dinner speech, a cross-country run and a debate. Last Saturday evening he was guest of the Worcester Alumni Association at Worcester, Mass. where he was one of the speakers. He was in Boston Monday morning in time to witness the annual New England Intercollegiate cross-country race. That evening he was present as one of the judges at an intercollegiate debate between Harvard and Radcliffe.

WHO'S WHO AT BATES

Prof. H. R. Purinton

Herbert R. Purinton, D.D., or "Pussy", as he is known on campus, is one of the best-liked professors on the Bates faculty. He has been here since 1892, the first two years as a student at Cobb Divinity School and the rest of the time as a teacher.

He received his college degree at Colby and has done graduate work at Newton Theological Institution and the University of Chicago. While a student, he came under the influence of Pres. Albion Small, one of the founders of sociology in the United States, Prof. Shaler Matthews, Prof. E. D. Burton, and Pres. W. R. Harper. These four men were to quite an extent responsible for changing his views and giving him a modern interpretation of the Bible, opinions for which he has been criticised.

Dr. Purinton taught in the Divinity School for eight years and in 1908 he established here a department of Biblical Literature. He has been the head of it since that time. This department is well-known for sending a good number of able students to graduate schools.

He has traveled in Palestine, Egypt, Syria and Europe and has picked up some things of great interest. Much of his time is spent in lecturing on Palestine, as he saw it and as it might have looked in the time of Christ, 2000 years ago.

He has published four books, two of them in collaboration with other authors. They are used in courses here at Bates and are also used in many other colleges which have such a department.

He has a reputation, a hobby, as he calls it, for keeping up with new books on comparative religions, the psychology of religion, etc.

Dr. Purinton has also established the Maine Bible Credit Course, which carries on a course of study in fitting schools and churches for students of high school grade. A branch of that work is in the United Baptist Church of Lewiston where a department of sixty-five students is conducted with the help of advanced students in the department of Biblical Literature.

His nickname, so he says, is an abbreviation of his name into "Purry" and then it was changed recently into "Pussy".

FOUR BOBCATS ON ALL-MAINE TEAM

factors in the success of the Bobcat. Coaches and captains of the various schools favored Bates generously in their choices, and many felt that Cal Chamberlain's inspired line plunging against Bowdoin entitled him to a position, despite his inability to participate against the Garnet's other rivals. Howe, Fuller, Bornstein, Louder, Valicenti, and Secor attracted the eye of opposing teams, all receiving one or more votes.

Beulah Page '30 and Bernice Parsons '30 spent Saturday and Sunday at South Paris.

Marcia Berry '31 visited a friend at South Poland over Saturday and Sunday.

His work here has been invaluable, in establishing the department of Biblical Literature which has sent out many students to graduate work and to responsible positions everywhere.
