An aggressive Bates football team ended its season last Saturday afternoon when it outplayed but was held scoreless by a highly touted Colby eleven.

The first period opened with Bates continually carrying the ball and punting under pressure.

In the second period, Pritchard flashed through for eight yards and a successful pass from Valicenti to Hill gave Bates a first down on the Colby twenty-five yard line.

Allen W. Ring, Margaret Perkins Take Play Leads

4-A To Give Barrie Comedy As Varsity Production

Allen W. Ring '36, Concord, N. H., a transfer from the University of New Hampshire, and Margaret Perkins '35, Portland, will take the leading roles in the varsity play, 'All-Out-By-The-Fire'...

Ring will take the part of Colonel Gray, who has represented the Crown in India and in the play returns to England with his wife, played by Miss Perkins...

The part of the children, Amy and Cosmo, will be taken by Lenore Murphy '36 and Henry Sawin '36 respectively.

The other characters in the play are: Steve, played by Jack David '34, president of the 4A players; Ginevra, Amy's school companion, Edith Jordan '36; Fanny, Muriel Underwood '36; a nurse, Florence Wells '35, and Richardson, Harriet Baker '37.

Vin Gray's Villa Venice Band To Play At Cabaret

Plans for the Junior Cabaret have been completed. The Cabaret, one of the smartest formal of the year, will be held in Chase Hall, Saturday night, November 25.

Vin Gray's Villa Venice Orchestra will furnish the music for the twelve dances and two extra.

The hall will be decorated in unusual motif to give the effect of a Spanish sidewalk cafe, carried out in creamy yellow, and black.

The committee in charge of arrangements is: Charles Paige, William Fellows, Norman Greig, Evelyn Anthol, and Elizabeth Durell, all of the class of 1935.

Bates Students To Start on Trip After Christmas

Murray And Seamon To Be Representatives Of Garnet

TEAM TO DISCUSS SIX RESOLUTIONS

Federation Invites American Forensic Group To Be Their Guests

A tour of Canada as the guests of the National Federation of Canadian University Students is the latest triumph of the Bates Debating team.

Outstanding Record

Bates record for debating in the last few years is unique and outstanding. As early as 1908 Bates participated in debates with Canadian institutions when it met Queen's College of Ontario.

In intercollegiate debating the record of Bates is scarcely challenged. Three times in the last four years the championship of the Eastern Intercollegiate Debating League has been brought to the 'Little Maine college'.

Subject of Debates

On the Canadian tour, six questions have been chosen for discussion at the various stops. Bates will present both sides of the question on the emergence of women, and both sides of that on modern advertising.

The Bates team will be the same that debated at Iowa and which needs no introduction to followers of debating here on campus.

We Must Be Neighbors Under Code of Jesus, Says Dr. Arbuckle

That 'The principles of Jesus are not hung in thin air' but are of challenging practical importance was the point emphasized by Rev. Charles N. Arbuckle, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Newton Center and professor in Andover-Newton Theological School, in his vesper service address last Sunday.

'The Code of Jesus', which was his title, he showed to be the principles of neighborliness as expressed in the Golden Rule. This spirit, consisting both in considering others as good as ourselves, and in asking nothing for ourselves which we would not ask for others.

It is not easy to live up to ideals, he continued. Up to Jesus' time people had accepted this rule with mental reservations.

The principles of Jesus are as applicable as the law of gravitation, and we must follow them. Why should the Nordic feel superior when his civilization was the latest to develop?

Dr. Rayborn L. Zerby led the service. The college choir, under the direction of Professor Seldon T. Crafts, furnished the music, singing the anthem, 'Comes at Times a Stillness', by Galbraith.

Law-making has changed within the last generation, said the speaker, to illustrate the second point of Jesus' code—to treat ourselves no better than anyone else.

Bowdoin Professor, Held As Spy, To Speak Here Monday On Impressions of Far East

Prof. William W. Lockwood Jr. To Give Address At Open Meeting Of Politics Club In Chase Hall

'Impressions of the Far East' will be the subject of Professor Lockwood's address to an open meeting of the Bates Politics Club in the 'Y' room at Chase Hall on next Monday night at 7:15.

Such experiences are not uncommon incidents in the life of oriental travelers, but it caused Professor Lockwood five hours of inconvenience while the police grilled him.

Professor William W. Lockwood Jr. is a member of the economics department of Bowdoin College. He was born and spent his boyhood in Shanghai. His college training was received at DePauw and Harvard.

Bobcats to Play at Lambda Alpha Tea Dance Friday

Reservations Filled—Fitting Decorations Planned For Hall

All reservations have been made for the Lambda Alpha tea dance, to be held next Friday afternoon in Chase Hall, and there is a waiting list of those who still wish to attend.

Music for the occasion is to be furnished by DeMarco's Bobcats, and as usual the hall will be decorated in colors appropriate to the season, with soft lights to bring out the tones of the decorations.

This is the first dance of the year to which freshmen women are allowed to 'drag', the rules against co-education being removed for the occasion.

The affirmative will be represented by James Grossbard of Berlin, and William Ernest Lawrence Froid of Ebe and Metz Robinson will speak on the negative.

Dr. Zerby Speaks at Y. W. Directors Monthly Meeting

Speaks On Proverb 'All Things Come To Him Who Waits'

Dr. R. L. Zerby of Bates College was the speaker at the monthly meeting of the directors of the Y.W.C.A., which was held last Wednesday at the 'Y' headquarters on Pine Street.

The text of Dr. Zerby's talk was the proverb, 'All things come to him who waits.' In developing this idea, he stated that he himself is willing to admit the truth of the statement, provided that he who is waiting, works hard in the meantime.

Dr. Zerby referred to the overthrow of old time principles of life: thrift and economy were regarded as the foundation of happiness. One must work hard and save as much as possible.

Business and industry must be organized so that all may have some share. Even religion will come to include more largely a sense of dependence on others.

Mrs. George M. Chase announced the topics for the biennial convention next May.

Julius Lombardi Reports Conference

The fundamental purpose of a college conference is to make each delegate feel that his particular college or university is far better off than all the others. This sweeping conclusion may not be true, but the Bates delegates to the New Hampshire conference at Durham like to think it is so, in order to soften their own sentiments and cover up any evidence of smugness which may come to the surface as they express their own self-satisfaction. They feel after several meetings with representatives of other colleges, during which ideas were exchanged and problems discussed, that Bates is especially favored by having very few of the many problems which are causing other institutions of learning a great deal of worry and distress.

Perhaps one of the foremost is the question of "freshman initiation" and "freshman rules". When Bates struck out into the field where both these "institutions" became things of the past, she broke new ground, from a timid experiment it has become an established reality. The foresight has done away with a problem that is still troubling practically every other New England college.

Many of them are going through a stage which Bates underwent some years back, that of modification of rules rather than total abolition. They are encountering practically the same results—as much if not more contention and strife that a strenuous program of initiation.

Another stumbling block at other New England institutions is the question of a blanket tax. Many of them are trying to establish this but with little or no success, while Bates is already enjoying its second year under the plan. As a result other colleges have inefficient Christian Associations, useless outing clubs, ineffective student publications, weak debating teams, and poor dramatic clubs. We do not wish to imply that Bates is strong in all these departments, but we do mean that she, as a result of this progressive spirit, is in a far better position to make advances in each of these fields.

We cannot help feeling that where "summer vacations are made to make us appreciate home more", conferences were made to make us see how really well off we are.

JULIUS LOMBARDI

A Plethora of Conservatism

The editorial above was written at our request. With the writer we had the opportunity to attend a conference last week-end of student leaders and editors at the University of New Hampshire. Unlike the usual conference, this one, at least in the section with which we worked, was noteworthy for its excellence. In the group of editors of ten New England colleges, subjects pertaining to the conduct of undergraduate papers were discussed freely and with considerable benefit, we feel, to all.

Among the subjects discussed were the editorials, organization, finance, advertising, and circulation. We discovered that not only is our advertising easily able to hold its own with any of the colleges represented, but that the report of the circulation and finance of the Student was such to command the respect of nearly every editor present.

The editorial content, however, we cannot compare adequately. Especially striking, however, was the overabundance of conservatism shown by the undergraduate editors. Some agreed that they ran only one editorial in ten upon national subjects, including war, politics, etc. Others kept no rigid count, yet admitted approximately the same arrangement, while scarcely a single one was in favor of energetic editorials on these subjects. They purposely avoided the mention of the morass into which our civilization has descended. In fact, we cannot recall a solitary one except the Brown Daily Herald who even attempted a definite stand on campus problems.

All this opinion was expressed not more than two hours after the thirty odd delegates had listened to Robert Blood, managing editor of the Manchester Union, President Lewis and Dean Alexander of New Hampshire. The dean first declared that a college paper should adopt an unequivocal view. The president, a few minutes later, reiterated this bold statement, and Mr. Blood, elaborated the scheme by linking this right to the freedom of the press. The freedom of the press should not be denied, he said, but, of course, of more significance was his assertion that college papers should be positive in their attitudes.

We interpret these three statements to imply that a campus or extra-college question deserves the meticulous investigation of the editorial board; with this completed, it is imperative upon the board to determine a course and pursue it fearlessly. We agree that fallibility is a human trait, and that the course may be based on false premises, nevertheless, we insist that judicious decisions are not possible, nor forthcoming, unless thought is stimulated. Such stimulation is scarcely possible, we believe, if both sides are indiscriminately discussed editorially. The human mind, and especially the present college generation with its inertia, is not capable of arousing a consuming interest in such intellectual observations. Dogmatic, energetic, provoking, and irritating editorials, with all their fallibility, are the answer. If we cannot persuade college youth to clamber out of its shell, we must arouse its anger. At any rate, we are not in favor with the plethora of conservatism displayed last week by editors with a challenging obligation to their readers. While their constituents may not demand action, they will appreciate it when it is forced upon them.

War is a Senseless Thing

What a senseless thing is war! What a futile thing. What a brutally insane orgy of witless killing. It's murder if one man does it. It's heroism if a thousand do. Are you, as a college man, willing to be a murderer because a world of "good fellows" put you on the back? Remember war is not merely being killed, you have to kill. It is not merely being blinded, you have to blind. War is not merely having both legs blown off, you have to blow off the legs off the men. It means killing men who might have become in times of peace a close friend. War is a complete confirmation of George Bernard Shaw's conclusion that the world is the mad-house of the Universe.

Our sincere wishes for a speedy recovery are extended to Miss Elizabeth Saunders '34, women's editor of the Student, who underwent an operation for appendicitis yesterday. In no danger now, we understand that her recovery should be rapid.

OPEN FORUM

To the Editor of the Student:
Indeed, Bates is cosmopolitan. Choosing a college is one of the most difficult factors in the life of a young person, because his future career depends primarily, on his achievements in his Alma Mater. When I began to contemplate furthering my education, I wondered many times if Bates college would be the right institution for me. Such questions as these arose in my mind: (1) Is Bates a conservative institution? (2) Is the spirit of the student body cordial and cosmopolitan? These two thoughts made me choose Bates College, in spite of the fact that I had many other promising opportunities.

Indeed, I have not had an easy time to glean my education. It has meant hard work, made more difficult by numerous failures. Obstacles should not discourage any human being but should only help to make us face the future with greater determination and zeal.

Surely, the spirit of the Bates' student body is democratic. Yes, I am a foreigner. I am neither ashamed of the fact, nor am I trying to conceal it, but since having associated with the Bates student body, I no longer feel myself clothed in a foreign spirit. The only time when I face the reality of the fact is when I look into my mirror. There I behold my dark hair and complexion and remember once more that I am not an American.

It is no exaggeration to say that the interests of every professor are manifested toward me in such a way that I feel assured that they are here to see that I get the best possible advantage of all that they have to offer. I, therefore, feel proud that I chose Bates College. Even though I grow old, my hair turns gray, I know that my friendships at Bates will never die. There will always be written around my heart golden letters in acknowledgement of my deep appreciation and gratitude to Bates. When, some day, I shall return to my own country, one of my proudest memories will be that of the days of fun and toil spent at Bates.

EDITOR URGES NEW BLOOD TO FIGHT FOR RIGHTS OF PRESS

Thomas Musgrave, Julius Lombardi, Carl Milliken Participate In Conference At University Of New Hampshire

By CARL MILLIKEN

The Bates Student and the Student Council were both represented at the convention of New England college student governing bodies and publications held at the University of New Hampshire on Friday and Saturday, Nov. 10 and 11. The conference agenda also included discussions for the inter-collegiate organizations of the inter-collegiate fraternities system. Thomas Musgrave '34, Julius Lombardi '34, and Carl Milliken, Jr. '35 represented Bates at the conference.

Pres. Lewis Of N. H. Speaks
The conference assembly was addressed by President Lewis of New Hampshire University and by Dean Alexander under whose guidance the conference materialized. As key speaker, Robert M. Blood, managing editor for the Manchester Union spoke of the opportunity for college-trained men in the newspaper profession. Citing several recent instances in which high powers have transgressed upon the rights and freedom of the Press in America, he pleaded for fresh enthusiasts to carry on the age-old struggle of the newspaper against outside control.

Comparison Favorable
In the various conference groups problems relative to the three fields of college activity were discussed. Practical difficulties about the management and financing of college papers were thrashed out and comparisons were made between the parallel student government organizations of the different campuses. Many of the problems at present facing these organizations at present colleges are those that have already been satisfactorily settled on the Bates campus. Bates was represented at the inter-collegiate discussion, and here, too, comparison seemed favorable to the Bates campus.

About nine colleges were on the conference registration list; Bates, Maine, and Colby form the Maine group were represented. This conference represents the first of what may become an annual affair.

"The spirit of base indifference which was rather prevalent up to last year, seems now to have entirely disappeared."—Dean Virginia S. Gildersleeve of Barnard College.

These rallies are very interesting and should not take over half an hour. They could be held in the evening, preferably soon after supper, in some hall or classroom. The writer believes that such rallies should be adopted at Bates. They are the logical way to further interest in participating in the various intercollegiate sports, without the added expenses which would be incurred if more trips were added to the schedule.

LAST WEEK'S ELECTIONS

LaGuardia's election in New York city probably caused as much jubilation in Tammany quarters as it did among the Republicans and liberals who supported him. The election of McKee would have meant the loss of control of the machine. The election of the Fusion ticket means that Tammany can carry on during the interval of four years, wait for the fusion movement to break up and then reelect another mayor. Regular Republicans of Ogden Mills' type and liberals of Paul Blanchard's stamp helped organize the Fusion ticket and they certainly make strange bed-fellows. There is one measure which LaGuardia is pledged to support that will give permanent finance to the election. That is proportional representation. With Socialists and Republicans on the Board of Aldermen it is hard to conceive of the wholesale corruption of the city government.

Bridgewater, Connecticut, Socialists pointed the way toward reformation of our racketeering city governments by electing "Honest Jasper" McLevy mayor of that industrial city. McLevy is a 50 year old roofer, prominent in the trade union movement and a member of the national committee of the Socialist Party. A class conscious political party of workers is the only one fit to rule a city government because it is unattached to powers seeking special privileges. Witness, Milwaukee.

ANTI-WAR RIOTS

Students in America and England joined in displaying their opposition to war on Armistice Day. Rioteous disorders in Cambridge, England resulted in clabbing by police of students engaged in an anti-war demonstration. Students at Smith, Amherst, Mount Holyoke and Massachusetts State college joined Socialist and church groups in anti-war parades on Armistice Day. Placards bore the inscriptions, "Peace Fills Schoolhouses, War Fills Bughouses", and "A War to End War Will Not be Fought with Guns". About 75 Wellesley college students, barred from participating in the Legion parade, held a parade of their own over the same course. As the imperialist nations of the world are busy laying the foundation stones of another war it is refreshing to see of the American youth with guts enough to shout their defiance.

SWEEP TO LABOR

The British Labor Party is greatly excited over the results of the municipal elections last week. They scored a gain of 22 seats in the town and city offices, the largest gain in Labor's history. In all British by-elections the Labor candidates have won the most enthusiastic reception by the repetition of their pledge not to support any war not caused by actual invasion of England's shores. Sir Stafford Cripps who will undoubtedly be the head of the next Labor government is an uncompromising Socialist. He is ready to have his party pass at the first opportunity an emergency powers act which in case Labor wins the next general election will create a parliamentary dictatorship of the working class. Sir Stafford has urged the British workers to be prepared to resist class war by force, if necessary.

2 about Cigarettes

There are 6 types of home-grown tobaccos that are best for cigarettes

- BRIGHT TOBACCOS
U. S. Types 11, 12, 13, 14.
- BURLEY TOBACCO
U. S. Type 31.
- SOUTHERN MARYLAND TOBACCO
U. S. Type 32.

U. S. Type 11 is produced in the Piedmont Belt of Virginia and part of North Carolina.
U. S. Type 12 is produced in eastern North Carolina.
U. S. Type 13 grows in South Carolina.
U. S. Type 14 is produced mostly in southern Georgia—a few million pounds in northern Florida and Alabama.
U. S. Type 31 includes what is called White Burley tobacco. It was first produced by George Webb in 1864. It is light in color and body, and is milder than the Burley used for pipes.

U. S. Type 32, Maryland tobacco, is noted for its "burn". In this respect Maryland excels most other tobaccos.
These are the kinds of home-grown tobaccos used for making Chesterfield Cigarettes.
Then Chesterfield adds aromatic Turkish tobacco to give just the right seasoning or spice.
Chesterfield ages these tobaccos for 30 months — 2½ years — to make sure that they are milder and taste better.

BATES GEOLOGY STUDENTS TO ESTABLISH WEATHER BUREAU

Will Attempt To Forecast Weather For This Section Of Maine From Day To Day Under Direction Of Dr. Fisher

Students in Geology 321 under the direction of Dr. Lloyd W. Fisher are making a study of weather phenomenon, and in the near future will establish a campus weather bureau which will attempt to correctly forecast the weather for this section of Maine from day to day.

Although the major interest of the department is geology, and the weather studies are supplementary, they are placed in the department because of the work in human geography. Certain factors will handicap the student forecasters, and those in charge hope that the college family will be lenient if too many days are wrongly forecast.

The Department of Geology has recently acquired a recording barometer which gives the department permanent records of pressure changes. In April the college purchased a high grade recording thermometer which is installed in the boiler room. Daily readings of both instruments, together with observations on wind direction, sky conditions, humidity, etc., make possible the prediction of approaching weather conditions.

At the present time students are busy preparing charts of storm tracks for individual maps. These charts are made from the Daily Weather Map, which normally reaches the college 36 hours after its publication in Washington. It is hoped, however, that after the barographs obtained since Oct. 10, have been studied, some rule of thumb methods may be developed which can be used in conjunction with the weather maps as a basis for forecasting by individual members of the class.

Borrow Records
There is a dearth of weather records in the departmental library and these records are needed for comparative studies. Paul Bean, of the Union Water Power Company, has been kind enough to loan all available records on past weather that are on file in his office. Students of the department have been studying these records in order that they might ascertain the prevailing type of weather for each month during the past and make use of the data thus obtained in forecasting future weather.

The weather elements of November 1933 are being compared with averages of November weather which have been computed by the Department of Geology from records in possession of Mr. Bean. These records go back to 1900 so that the averages are for 33 years.

November Averages
A study of these records indicate the following average conditions for November: average temperature of 33 Novembers—35.8 degrees; with 74 maximum—Nov. 7, 1924; and Nov. 10, 1931; the lowest November temperature recorded was four above, Nov. 29, 1904. If there should be zero temperatures this November it will be one chance in 33.

Precipitation
For 32 Novembers averaged 3.83 in., slightly higher than the October mean; with 6.85 in. the greatest monthly precipitation occurring in 1926, and the least—1.05 in. in 1931. Some of this precipitation is snowfall and the average snowfall for November during the past 32 years has been 7.18 in. with the heaviest fall occurring in 1921 when a record of 27 in. was established. In the 32 Novembers in record, no snow fell in 1915; traces were recorded in 1918, 1923, and amounts less than one inch fell in 1902, 1930, and 1932. Thus there were 26 chances out of 32 that there would be snow this month.

Ten Rainy Days
On the basis of the averages in hand there should be 10 days in November during which precipitation should be greater than 0.01 inches; in 1921 there were 19 rainy days and the fewest number of rainy days, 6, occurred in 1922. With ten rainy days as an average there is a possible range between 6 to 19.

The average number of clear days for the 32 years is 9.5; with the most clear days recorded in 1904 and 1916 when there were 14, and the least number of clear days—3, in 1921. Average of partly cloudy days is 9.8 and for cloudy days 10.7. It appears then that one day out of every three should be clear, if the averages are to be maintained. The first ten days of this November surpassed that average, as four out of the ten were clear.

Frosh Gridmen Win 12-6 Over M. C. I. Eleven

Marcus Makes 55 Yard Run For Touch-Down

The Freshman football team wound up its season last Friday with a win over Maine Central Institute. The score, 12-6, was a fair indication of the teams' relative power. The freshmen completely outplayed the visitors in the first half and at the start it looked as if they would run up a high score. But everything was reversed in the second half and M. C. I. gave the Frosh a good scare.

The game started fast with Bates bewildering the prep school boys with a series of passes and a few line rushes by Marcus and Morin mixed in. Soon after the game started Marcus climaxed his brilliant running with a 10 yard touchdown run, twisting away from several tacklers. During the rest of the quarter and nearly until the half Bates was continually on the offensive but could not seem to go the distance to the goal. Then Marcus made the most brilliant run of the year in these parts as he ran 55 yards for a touchdown through the entire opposing team.

After the half the M. C. I. boys seemed like a different team. They ran through the line and around the ends. They fooled the defense with double and triple lateral passes.

hand there should be 10 days in November during which precipitation should be greater than 0.01 inches; in 1921 there were 19 rainy days and the fewest number of rainy days, 6, occurred in 1922. With ten rainy days as an average there is a possible range between 6 to 19.

The average number of clear days for the 32 years is 9.5; with the most clear days recorded in 1904 and 1916 when there were 14, and the least number of clear days—3, in 1921. Average of partly cloudy days is 9.8 and for cloudy days 10.7. It appears then that one day out of every three should be clear, if the averages are to be maintained. The first ten days of this November surpassed that average, as four out of the ten were clear.

AWARD LETTERS TO VARSITY HARRIERS

At a meeting of the Athletic Council Monday night varsity letters in cross country were awarded to Captain Robert Butler of Livermore Falls, Maine; Sumner Raymond of Salem, Mass.; and Carl Darke of Dover-Foxcroft, Maine.

The track report of Lloyd George, deferred from last year, was read and accepted and he was granted his varsity sweater.

SOPHS, JUNIORS TIE IN HARRIER RACE

Due to the brilliant running of Bob Saunders and Damon Stetson, the sophomore class cross-country team earned a tie with the juniors. Thursday afternoon both teams were deadlocked with thirty five points each. The freshmen trailed with fifty-two points.

Taking the lead at the half mile mark, Saunders ran the field into the ground. He was not pushed at all until Stetson made his final bid. Saunders was clocked in 13 minutes, 37 seconds. This time was nineteen seconds under the old record. Stetson came up fast in the last quarter mile, to take a second place, four yards behind Saunders.

Murray '34 and Theodore Seamon '34, both of Lewiston, have been members of the squad since their freshman year, both are outstanding debaters and outstanding students. Mr. Murray is president of the Senior Class, president of the Debating Council, member of the Student Council and student par excellence. Mr. Seamon is president of the Politics Club, honor student in economics and assistant in argumentation.

Seven Week's Trip
This trip, which will extend for seven weeks during January and February, places these two men under considerable difficulty. Not only must they prepare six different questions, but they must also complete their studies for the semester before leaving.

"From Halifax to Vancouver," becomes the phrase of the hour as this latest triumph is accorded Bates and the men quietly go about their preparation.

Bates-Colby Game

Twenty yards around right end and Wellman crashing off yardage but the whistle blew, and the game was over.

Pricher was the most consistent ground gainer with Paige, Dillon, Purinton and Wellman each having a turn with the pigskin. Defensively Bates was powerful. Bill Stone was breaking up Colby plays all afternoon and was the most impressive guard on the field. Soba and Bier-nacki were sifting through and Lindholm was playing his usual hard game. The ends, Mendall and Hill looked good. They were seldom out-run and continually crashed the Waterville backs.

For the Mules, Peabody and Alden did most of the ball carrying. Davidson, Steigle and Lary were outstanding on the defense for Colby.

STATE YMCA BOYS' MEETING TO VISIT CAMPUS, SATURDAY

College To Entertain With Track Meet, Basketball Games, Boxing, Wrestling, Handball, Squash Exhibitions

The delegates to the state Y. M. C. A. Boys' Conference which will meet in Lewiston this week-end will have an opportunity to visit Bates on Saturday afternoon. For their benefit a special exhibition of athletic events in the Alumni Gym is being planned which will include inter-class basketball and track as well as boxing, wrestling, handball, and squash.

In addition to the athletic program, the delegates will have an opportunity to visit the campus building under the guidance of members of the Varsity Club and other leading campus organizations.

Good Program
Despite the fact that the athletic program is composed of so-called winter activities which as yet have not got into full swing, an interesting program has been arranged and anybody who is interested in or ordinarily takes part in these events, is invited to sign up in the track office.

A basketball team will be organized to represent each class and a series of games will be played for the visitors. The juniors, who came second to last year's senior team, in the inter-dorm games of last winter should again field a strong hoop quintet. Interdispersed with the basketball, exhibitions of wrestling and boxing will be staged under the direction of Coach Beveridge and Bates. Handball and squash will also be played in order to give the visiting boys an insight into the fine points of these popular games.

Interclass Track Meet

Coach Ray Thompson has arranged for an inter-class handicap track meet which should create much interest, both for the visitors and the competitors themselves. This will give the freshman a chance to show their mettle and will give the delegates a chance to get a glimpse of Kishon, Johnson, Kellar and Saunders in action.

All the members of the squad are asked to take part. Each man will be given a handicap, depending upon his ability and condition, which will assure some close and interesting races.

Among the events planned are the forty yard dash and high hurdles, the three hundred, six hundred and the thousand yard runs, as well as the high and broad jumps along with the discus.

GARNET TO PLAY POST SEASON GAME WITH FRESHMEN ELEVEN

Dave Morey's Charges To Meet Spinks-Coached Yearlings In Regulation Contest On Garcelon Field, Saturday

Football practice, freshmen and varsity, will be held to-day, tomorrow, and Friday at four P. M. —Coach Morey.

By NATE MILBURY

Well, we're all back from Watertown this afternoon and ready to pick our version of the All-State football eleven. Everybody else is doing it so why shouldn't we. In a few instances there was an outstanding candidate but in many instances it was more a matter of personal choice.

Here goes for better or worse. At pivot position we pick Cobb of Maine. For the two guard berths we nominate Steigle of Colby and Soha of Bates. Stone of Bates at right tackle leaves little doubt in our mind. Low of Bowdoin seems deserving of the other tackle berth. Davidson of Colby receives a big hand from us at left end while Parsons of Maine looked good for the right wing berth.

The choice of a backfield is a matter that has no easy solution. The game with Maine created a deep impression on us and so we make the following nominations. Butler at quarter, MacBride or Pritchard at left half, Favor at right half and Littlehale at full. There it is.

The players have been receiving their share of the glory from the great American press but one of the unsung heroes of the past football season is Al Oliver, the varsity manager. According to Dave Morey, and certainly he is a man who should know, Al is the best manager he has ever had.

He was thrown into his job last year when he was forced to take over the varsity duties due to the illness of Sam Scolnik. He had never made a trip before till he took the team to Yale. Mr. Cutts afterwards said, "I certainly enjoyed seeing Oliver boss around those Yale managers who out of their work clothes were worth a million on their own."

One of the coaches has said, "He was always on the job and he proves how important it is to have an efficient manager if things are going to run along smoothly."

Al plays his part in the other affairs of the campus too. On stopping to think, we recall that he is debating editor of the Student, circulation manager of the Mirror, president of the Publishing Association, president of the Stafford Club, an honor student in English and under consideration as a candidate for Rhodes scholar. Quite a record to get under one breath.

Although the Bates football season for 1933 officially closed last Saturday when Colby and the Garnet forces battled to a scoreless tie at Waterville, plans made the first of this week indicate that the Bobcats will go into action again this week.

Coaches Dave Morey and Buck Spinks hope to present on Garcelon Field Saturday afternoon a contest between a varsity representation and the freshman eleven, and today the players who wish to participate are scheduled to begin a three-day practice session. In the impending fray, Bobcat is to meet Bobkitten in a free-for-all that should include some great action as well as good football.

The freshman gridmen were scheduled to play only two games this fall—one with Kents Hill which they lost and one with Maine Central Institute which they won, but they are anxious for some more action and will tackle their more experienced adversaries this week with plenty of spirit. The yearlings have scrimmaged against the varsity on more than one occasion, and have reason to know what sort of opposition they will face in their post-season game.

For the varsity, it is probable that many of the less-experienced players will be outstanding. Coach Dave Morey will be glad to give some of the men who have not played much during the regular season a chance for some added experience, and it is likely that there will be many substitutions during the game.

The contest is scheduled for two o'clock.

list of highest-ranking successes. Thelma Poulin, as the maddened wife, outdid herself in the best performance of hers that we have seen, although her organ-playing did not quite follow the author's careful directions. The others—Alonzo Conant, William Haver, Owen Dodson,

Manley Kilgore, Allan Ring—did their brief parts well. The directors, Russell Milnes and Bernard Drew, are to be back-patted for catching much of the greatness of this country's leading dramatist.

"The Lovely Miracle"

"The Lovely Miracle" sounded none of the deep tones of "He" and called for little emotional acting; yet the character contrasts between the realistic old women, deftly impersonated by Nan Wells and Louise

Greer, and the poetic naïvete of the bride-to-be, winsomely interpreted by Bernice Winston, wove an appealing background, along with the open mysteriousness of John Dority's "Young man", for the theme of the play: the lovely romance-restoring miracle of motherhood. All the players and Margaret Perkins, the coach, are to be commended upon extracting from the play much of the fine poetry of sentiment and gracefully suggested meaning which the writer put there.

A word of appreciation should go also to the costume mistresses, Frances Hayden and Bernice Dean; to the men behind the scenes, Roger Flynn, Julius Lombardi, John Parfitt, John Palmer, and Harry O'Connor; to the business managers Warren Crockwell and Sumner Libbey; to the providers of music between plays, Almus Thorp and Norman DeMarco; and to "Prof Rob".

IT TAKES HEALTHY NERVES TO BE A CHAMPION BRONK RIDER!

RIDE 'EM COWBOY! Every second is crowded with danger for Eddie Woods, twice all-round cowboy champion at the famous Calgary Stampede. It sure takes healthy nerves to stay on board a fighting bronk! "Camels are my smoke," says Eddie Woods. "They never jangle my nerves."

"OUT ON THE RANCH I became devoted to riding and smoking Camels. Even if I am not in the championship class I need healthy nerves. And Camels do not upset my nerves. They are the mildest cigarette I know!"

Steady Smokers turn to Camels

EDDIE WOODS, one of the "top hands" of the cowboy world, says: "Ten seconds on the back of an outlaw horse is about the hardest punishment for a man's nerves that anybody can imagine. To have nerves that can take it, I smoke only Camels. I've tried them all, but Camels are my smoke! They have a natural mildness, and I like their taste better. Most important of all, Camels do not jangle my nerves, even when I light up one Camel after another."

If you are nervous... inclined to "fly off the handle"... change to Camels. Your own nerves and taste will confirm the fact that this milder cigarette, made from costlier tobaccos, is better for steady smoking.
