4-A Players Will Close Season With Production Of Popular Play 'Granite'

Mary Abromson and Owen Dodson Make Final Appearances As Dane's Work is Presented at Little Theatre

ENGLISH COAST ACTS AS SCENE OF PLAY WHICH WILL BE HELD THURSDAY, FRIDAY

Presentation is Marked by Much Psychological and Physical Action; Has Been Named As Favorite in Drama Classes Here

The 4-A Players will close a most successful season with performances of Clemence Dane's powerful play, "Granite", on tomorrow and Friday evenings at 8:00 in the Little Theatre. The presentation should be the most memorable of the year, for it offers a variety of attraction.

To begin with, Mary Abromson '36 and Owen Dodson '36 will be making their farewell appearances on the Little Theatre stage. It is fitting that the parts they are playing in "Granite" should be so perfectly adapted to their capabilities. The unquestioned excellence of the rest of the cast, all tried and true veterans, makes the success of the play a surety.

Robert Crocker

A Store of Action
The play, itself, should prove to be the most popular of the season. It is one of the favorites in Professor Berkman's drama class, which shows that it has student appeal. It offers a store of both psychological and physical action. The author, Clemence Dane, has had remarkable success both as a novelist and dramatist. Her plays, "Bill of Divorcement", which was made into an excellent movie, and "Will Shakespeare", one of the best of modern historical dramas, have placed her in the front rank of living dramatists.

The scene of "Granite" is the island of Lundy, a few miles off the English coast. The period is the 1820's. The granite foundation of the island seems to have solidified the hardness and avariciousness of most of the characters in the play. The stage set will attempt to catch the effect of granite in the house itself. Jonathan Bartlett '38 has the role of Jordan Morris, as hard and cold as the granite of the island. Mary Abromson '36 plays the part of Judith, Jordan's emotional wife, who hates the drabness of the island and longs to get away from it. Owen Dodson '36 is cast as the Nameless Man who comes to the Morris household in a raging storm, and is sheltered by Judith. The subsequent action of the play is built around his mysterious figure. This character is a perfect example of modern expressionism, for allegorically speaking, he is the personification of Judith's anger. Prosper, Jordan's half-brother, is played by Robert Crocker '38, while Marjorie Hewes '39 has the role of Penny Holt, the pretty, winsome little maid-servant in the Morris home. John Smith '38 plays the part of the clergyman.

Weird Atmosphere
In the weird atmosphere of the drab room of the granite house, an atmosphere pervaded by the off-stage sounds of the wailing wind, the beating rain, and the mocking laughter of the Nameless Man, as he crouches in the shadows of the fireplace, these characters live through four acts of intense, emotional drama.

The play is being directed by Millie Thorp '37, newly-elected president of the 4-A Players. The production staff consists of Clark Noyes '37, stage manager; Seranush Jaffarian '37, costume mistress; Trenor Goddell '39, property manager; Francis Clark '37, business manager; Evelyn Klerk '37, prompter, and Earl Dias '37, publicity manager. Tickets are on sale at the College Bookstore.

"In Spring, A Young Man's Fancy Turns..."

By Evelyn Kelsor

Some people go to Paris in the spring, a few of us more conservative ones remain here at Bates. There really isn't much difference. Of course we have no Eiffel Tower, but there's a fine view from the windows of the geology "lab". We can see the campus all green and glowing (that is, if it hasn't snowed the night before), the co-eds parading in their new spring finery of "heliotrope" or "London Tan" (it's probably pride alone that keeps them warm) and the "ods" in resurrected light trousers—and not so light shoes.

While Paris has its parks to offer as rendezvous for budding romances, each girl's dormitory here at Bates is provided with especially comfortable front steps to accommodate those gentlemen, addicted to the wide open spaces, who feel that the reception rooms are—shall we say, "restraining"? Ah! well, boys will be boys—especially in the spring—and porches, porches. Speaking of porches, the one on Parker Hall seems to need an extension, the men overflow, some reclining on the steps like modern Mt. Olympuses (or more appropriately, Mt. Davids), and some even reaching the two by four plot of grass in front of the building. When they get that far, they start in with putting practice. Maybe they're just digging for fishing worms.

I don't know whether this inspiring time of year brings out the would-be athletes among the French or not. Perhaps that phase of the spring is exclusive at Bates. However, I'm quite sure I've never seen any Parisian mademoiselles running around in blue gym bloomers and goose-flesh, sweating at tennis balls the way our co-eds do. And as I recall, I doubt very much if Maurice Chevalier turns out in shorts like our mile and dash men, and races around a track to keep from freezing. It takes the beef-eaters of Bates to stand up under such an ordeal.

Even the "profs" get spring fever. At least it must be something that makes them so warm they raise all the windows sky high and turn the classrooms into veritable wind tunnels.

Ah! but spring is not without its sorrows. The campus "widow-season" has started once more, only this time it's baseball instead of football that tears the young lovers apart. Mourning becomes electric! And while on unpleasant subjects, Doc Fishgr tells us that warm air holds more moisture than cold; it must also hold more odors. Have you noticed how potent the smells of the "chem. lab." become in the spring? It's as sure a forecast of warmer weather as the appearance of the first fat robins.

Statistics show that the town-girls' popularity with their sister co-eds notably increases during the months of April, May, and June. The poor inmates of the "dorms" have to stay off campus somewhere if they want to go to the Pier on Saturday nights. Those that don't go to the Pier, go to Chase Hall instead. Latest reports from that popular resort show that the dances are becoming more and more couple affairs rather than the regular stag "grab and grab".

And if you aren't yet convinced that spring has really come to Bates, just look around (you'd better look around if you value your life) at the sudden crop of cars that has sprung up among our poverty-stricken students. Why even the "Beer-Chaser" is resplendent in a new coat of paint.

So, my friends, let me urge you to cancel that passage to Paris, and stay here at Bates for the season. It's much more amusing, and though we can't offer you the Riviera, the river bank is close at hand.

Soph Girls To Assist Rhythm And Romance

Surprises and Novelties Will be Features of Their May Dance

"College in the spring, um mm, um mm,
"Hearts begin to dance, um mm, um mm;"

Or should we say, "Feet begin to dance"? For on the evening of May first, Mademoiselle Spring will be mistress of ceremonies at the annual Sophomore Girls' Dance. Here flower-like dresses and spring suits will make their debut—hurray, no tuxes!

The programs are novel: instead of naming each dance by number as usual, it will be named by a song-title—some favorite hit, which will be played during the dance.

The music is to be furnished by the Bobcats, better than ever. And don't miss the entertainment by those outstanding merrymakers, Bob Fish '36, John Garrity '37, and Nils Lennartson '36, accompanied by Stan Sherman '36 on the banjo.

The committee in charge is as follows: Chairman, Alberta Keane; subscriptions, Grace Jack; attendants, Anita Gauvreau; refreshments, Mary Chase; programs, Evelyn Jones. Eleanor Dearden has charge of the chaperones, who are to be Professor and Mrs. Samuel Harms and Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Leonard.

Surprise! Several surprises await you during the evening. And you should save the fifth dance for your escort, so they say. So—well see you and your own "maybasket" there.

Boston Y Team Run Tracksters Here Saturday

The Bates-Boston Y meet scheduled for Saturday has several unusual features. It is a good chance to compare the long mooted question of the superiority of the college or club runners. Bates is probably the strongest college team in New England, while the Boston Y scored more points at the N.E.A.A.U. meet in Providence this winter than any other club. They won the national Y relay championship in New York, also, their times compare favorably with the college times: Eldridge, 51 sec.; Pannier, 52 sec.; Daugherty, 52.3 sec.; Callahan, 52.2 sec. The same night the Rhode Island-Massachusetts Championship.

Bates Has Contact With Team
Bates has had long personal contacts with the Y. No Y squad in recent years has failed to have a Bates man, or prospect on it. Wiley Viles won the 1000 for the Y before coming here; Jack Buddington and Swede Nelson have competed for them; and this squad will have Rutzki, a former javelin thrower. Allan Roberts, who is capable of a 4.35 mile, has made application for admission here for next year's freshman class. Roberts won the 1500 metre N.E.A.A.U. championship this winter. He is championed by Paul Kanaly, the Yale track coach's son, and a two-miler of national fame.

Walking Meet Will Be Feature
Among the events will be one that hasn't been seen on a Bates Outdoor Track since before the war. Louis Welch, at one time member of a world record holding two mile relay team while at Boston College, and winner of the N.E.A.A.U. senior walking title for the past six seasons, and former holder of the 1500 metre walking record, will compete against Julius Steinberg, an Olympic candidate for the event, and Dick DuWors of the freshman class. This does not count in scoring.

Billy Murphy's Noted Band To Be Ivy Feature

Popular Acclaim Brings Back Unit Which Was a Hit Last Year

The social season at Bates will be climaxed this year as usual by the Ivy Hop, May 26. The unusual feature of this dance will be the return by popular approval of Billy Murphy and his Royal Arcadian Band which has just completed a very successful season on the Great White Way in New York, playing at the sophisticated Arcadian Ball Room.

Ever since the first signs of spring dance minded undergraduates have been asking about the Junior Class spring dance and who would provide music for the occasion. John Garrity, chairman of the dance, noting the consensus of opinion for Billy Murphy and his band sent communications to the band leader to arrange for the Ivy Hop. Garrity is being assisted by Nick Pellicani, Bernard Marcus, Elizabeth McDonald, and Kathryn Thomas.

The motif for the affair will be a summer garden. The committee is being assisted by Clark Noyes, who has made several sets for the dramatic organizations on campus.

Those who acclaimed the music of Billy Murphy last year will be more than pleased this year when they note the vast improvement in his musical organization.

Reservations per couple are three dollars. They may be made through any member of the committee.

Trojan Women Will Be Annual Senior Drama

"Trojan Women" by Euripides has been selected as the twenty-fourth annual Greek play. It will be given on Saturday evening, June 13, during Commencement week in front of Coram Library.

Coached by Louise Geer '36 and Owen Dodson '36, the cast is composed of nineteen seniors. Ruth Coan '36 plays the role of Hecuba with the part of Andromache being played by Lenore Murphy '36. Doris Maxim '36 takes the part of Cassandra and Bernice Dean '36 assumes the role of Helen. Menelaus is played by Louis Revey '36, and Talithibius by Sumner Libbey '36. Priscilla Heath '36 is the leader of the chorus which consists of Ellen Bailey '36, Kathleen Torsey '36, Carolyn Blake '36, Mary Ham '36, Antoinette Bates '36, Carolyn Jerard '36, Muriel Underwood '36, Delia Davis '36, Eleanor Morrison '36, Elizabeth Doolittle '36, Bernice Winston '36, and Matilda Barattiero '36.

Deals With Fall of Troy

The Greek play an annual Commencement week event, had to be omitted last year because of the illness of Professor Grosvenor May Robinson. Translated from the Greek by Gilbert Murray, it is an anti-war play dealing with the wives and daughters of the Trojan leaders directly after the fall of Troy. It takes place just outside the walls of that city. According to a statement by Owen Dodson '36, one of the two coaches, the coaches are "trying to emphasize the naturalness rather than the staturesque of the drama, at the same time endeavoring to keep the beauty of the blank verse."

The Faculty Advisers are Professor Angelo P. Bertocci and Professor George M. Chase. The Class Committee on the play consists of Sumner Libbey '36, chairman, and William Swallow '36, Owen Dodson '36, Lenore Murphy '36, and Priscilla Walker '36.

Kishon Triumphs Again At Penn Relays In Hammer; Places In Discus And Shot

Anton Kishon

Tony Retains His Records But Does Not Equal Last Year's Marks

WOOD OF CORNELL AND OWENS ALSO STAR; BOTH TAKE TWO FIRST PLACES

By George Lythcott

And history repeats itself—to be sure, to be sure! Anton Kishon, Bates' premier weight man, has for his second successive year been victorious at the Pennsylvania Relays. At this 42nd running of the annual Penn relays, our Tony won the hammer throw with a heave of 164 ft. 1 3/4 in.; tossed the discus 146 ft. 10 1/4 in., to place second in that event, and snagged a fifth place in the shot-put.

Diamond Crew Faces Colby In Series Opening

Game Away Thursday Will See Revamped Outfit Fully Tested

The Garnet pastimers, slightly the worse for wear as a result of their southern crusade which cost them Captain Bill Callahan, will invade Seavern Field at Waterville tomorrow afternoon at two o'clock, there to do battle with the Colby Mule, the champions, in the first game of the State series. The pale blue has already tasted victory with a win over the University of Maine in an exhibition game played last week. Bates lost a heart-breaker to Bowdoin at Brunswick, 12 to 8, in the season's opener.

Strengthened by the fine stick work of Stan Bergeron and Bill Johnson, two first year men, the garnet nine should be a formidable factor in the race for the flag. The yawning chasm at third base left by last year's captain, Chick Toomey, will be filled by either Joe Pignone or George Morin. The pitching department paced by the veteran Bob Darling, looks to be even stronger than that of last year. Bob Malone and Goon Webster, freshmen, evidently have plenty of stuff if their early season work is any criterion. Bob Malone did a swell job on the mound for the first five innings of the North-eastern game limiting them to three runs. Coach Morey then removed Malone because of his lack of experience, the fact that it is very early in the season, and that his speed cannot last a whole game. Verdelle Clark then proceeded to blow the game. Darling stopped the Huskies' rally and set them down with only one hit for the remainder of the game. Boston University smothered the team with a score of 16 to 6. The University of New Hampshire pasted the nine to the tune of 11 to 2 behind remarkable

Although Kishon was slightly below his last year's form, one can safely say that as the season progresses he will hit his stride, and even surpass last season's records. Kishon holds the Penn Relay hammer throw record at 171 ft., and his heave Saturday at Philadelphia is exceptionally good, considering the fact that this was his initial trial in hammer throwing competition this year.

Spurred on by last year's victories, the western teams went on this year to dominate the meet again. Four relay records were smashed; two of which were broken by the Flyers, from the University of Texas—Ohio State and Michigan won major relay races also. And had it not been for such individual stars as Kishon and Wood, and the Manhattan University distance medley relay team, the meet might have ended in a landslide for the Westerners. As it was, the boys east of the Mississippi took their worst drubbing in the history of the meet.

Owens Stars
The individual stars of the meet were Jessie Owens, the Buckeye Flash, and Walter Wood of Cornell—each captured two first places. Owens easily took the 100 meter dash and set a new carnival record at 10.4 sec. Eulace Peacock, former holder of the record, was unable to defend his title, as he was forced out of competition Friday with a pulled muscle. Owens' lead of 23 ft. 5-8 in. was sufficient to win the broad jump. Wood of Cornell, on Friday, won both the shot-put and the discus throw. His heave of 150 ft. 11 1/2 in. fell far short of Kishon's record in that event last year.

So ends the 42nd running of the Annual Pennsylvania Relays—East is East and West is West, and never the twain shall meet.

Four starts and four defeats, not such a good record. However, the ball team has well remembered the old axiom—don't ever alibi, your friends don't need alibi and your enemies won't believe them. The State series has not yet started, and benefited by having played three games in the southern climes the club will undoubtedly give more than a good account of itself. We'll see you at the first home game—because since when was a Morey coached team not worth going to see?

Tennis Girls' Favorite; Men Like Track Best

By E. S. and G. W.

The spring athletic period, from Easter till June, began last week and is now in full swing, in spite of the chilly weather.

Among the co-eds, tennis is the favorite spring sport, having a registration of seventy. Juniors rank highest in this sport, boasting of thirty-one. Three tennis courts behind Parker Hall have been pressed into use for this group during the class hour. Sixteen sophomores and twenty-three freshmen are signed also for tennis.

Speedball is the next highest sport, with a registration of forty-six. This year it is equally a favorite with both sophomores and freshmen, each having twenty-three. The juniors, who, in their increasing age, are feeling the urge for a less strenuous sport, have no class in speedball, the few who signed having gone over to tennis.

Archery follows close behind speedball—forty-five girls have signed for it. The sophomores are most keen on it, with twenty-three up-and-coming young archers. The juniors have eighteen and the freshmen five.

A course in swimming at the "Y", in Auburn, is given for twenty-two girls. There are seven in a life-saving course, two juniors, one sophomore, and four freshmen. The intermediate class consists of three juniors, four sophomores, and four freshmen. Two freshmen and two juniors are beginners.

On the male side of the campus the enrollment of Coach Ray Thompson's track squad, sixty, only outstrips intra-mural tennis by two, fifty-eight racket wielders having signed up to take either P. T. on the courts three times a week. Varsity and intra-mural baseball rank next in the size of enrollment—twenty-eight men on the lists as members of Coach Morey's varsity squad and twenty-one hopefuls devoting their athletic prowess to the "Twilight League."

An innovation at Bates, a life saving class, held down at the Auburn Y.M.C.A., occupies the next rung on the ladder of popularity, twenty-two men being signed up for it.

Thirteen men comprise the varsity tennis squad which in popularity rates sixth place. There are ten men enrolled in a class for special exercises. These men being those whose physical condition prohibits their taking more arduous exercise. Six men on campus prefer the leisurely game of golf, while seven are engaged in spring football. It is understood that the number enrolled is by no means all inclusive. The lists include mostly freshmen and sophomores, but many upperclassmen who have completed their Physical Education requirements come out and play for the "sheer love of playing."

Doing Your Part?

ALL YOUR NEWSPAPERS—metropolitan dailies, home-town papers, and college weeklies—and most of your magazines depend on two main items for their composition: news and editorial material, and advertising.

It has long been an American newspaper's boast that two or three cents would buy a daily paper, and the colleges can be equally proud of the fact that less than ten cents will buy one of their issues.

The reason for the low cost? Advertising. Actually, it is the advertisers that make it possible to publish the papers. We've just finished planning budgets, and talking with the advertisers. From this experience some interesting figures came to light:

The STUDENT sells for ten cents a single copy. Yearly subscriptions, naturally reduced in price to compensate for less book-keeping, are two dollars and a half per year, and student subscriptions, under the student activities fee allotment, are approximately 6.2 cents per issue per student—this through the courtesy of the advertisers.

IF there were no advertisers, and IF there were no increased expense for type work to fill in space now reserved for advertising, the subscription price would HAVE to rise to 14.7 cents—without the possibility of a reduced yearly rate. A further hypothesis shows that increased typesetting to fill in the space would make the cost per copy at least 17.5 cents.

In other words, advertisers save each student about eleven cents a week, or a total of $3.08 a year.

Furthermore, it is the advertisers who make it possible for the Publishing Association to sanction a dollar-a-year subscription plan for members of the graduating class; it is the advertisers who give the seniors a worth-while opportunity to follow the activities of their proteges after graduation.

Certainly the advertisers are doing their part to give students a newspaper, to give students an organ of expression, to give graduates a means of keeping in touch with campus activities.

On the other hand, are those benefited doing their part? Read the ads carefully this issue. Remember the stores and firms who advertise in the columns of the STUDENT. Remember what they are doing for you, and in return at least give them consideration when purchasing a product which they make or sell.

The advertisers don't and can't ask you to boycott non-advertisers. But when it's a toss-up, why not give the break to someone who is helping you? You've heard of "returning favors" time and again. Here's a chance to return some. At the same time, you'll be adding evidence to the fundamental business principle of "It pays to advertise"—which wouldn't be a bad way to help stabilize the business cycle at that.

Tony Turns The Trick

LAST THURSDAY a solitary individual—tall, blond, with powerful build—alighted from a railroad train in Philadelphia. Tired from a trip of nearly seven hundred miles, he found no friend to greet him. Maine to Philly alone.

Friday afternoon, and evening telephones in Lewiston and in other parts of the country buzzed with queries, "Any word on Kishon at the Penn Relays? . . . How'd Kishon make out? . . . Second in the discus? . . . Fifth in the shot put? . . . Fine . . . Thank you."

Friday evening, Bates campus hums with information: "Say, didja know that Kishon got a second and fifth? . . . Yuh, four points . . . Gosh, he's good . . ."

Friday evening, Philadelphia hotel lobbies discuss the day's activities, anticipate Saturday's events.

Saturday morning, Franklin Field saturated with athletes from all over the country. Hammers around and around. Announcements. Bates' Kishon, no longer the lone figure from the North but now a friend of former foes, receives compliments.

Saturday afternoon, Lewiston's phones hum again. "First in the hammer? . . . That's final? . . . You're sure? . . . Thank you VERY much . . . Hey, fellows!" And at 1.55—Hathorn tolls out its message of victory. Hathorn has had a pleasant task of paying its tribute to the successive triumphs of Kishon: New England's, Penn Relays, I. C. 4-A., dual meets, state meets, and the like.

Aren't we students missing our opportunity? How about a testimonial? Student Council, it's up to you.

Hats Off

In consideration of the general campus opinion of the last week, we express thanks and congratulations to ALL connected with the recent improvements in the Commons.

Several carloads of students will leave the campus on Friday afternoon and Saturday morning to attend the Massachusetts Institute of Technology Open House, held from 2 to 10 p. m. on Saturday, May 2. The trip is under the auspices of the Chemistry, Physics, and Biology Departments.

Mr. Philip Jacobs, representative of the Emergency Peace Campaign, paid a visit to Bates during the past week, and presented the purpose of the Campaign to interested Bates undergraduates.

With the two scourges of war and unemployment eternally present in this present age of ours, the Society of Friends, composed of Philadelphia Quakers, founded the Emergency Peace Campaign in 1927.

The chief purpose of the Campaign, Mr. Jacobs explained, is to arouse public sentiment against imminent war, and to encourage modern youths to meet the emergency in which peace finds herself in our generation by taking active peace measures. The group maintains the policy of asking students to give their time now to prevent war, just as they will be asked later to give themselves for war.

The improvement of unemployed conditions is the main objective of the American Friends Service Committee, working in cooperation with the Emergency Peace Campaign. Since 1934, the Friends Service group has joined the workers in various fields of labor in West Virginia, Pennsylvania, and Tennessee and measures have been taken for the improvement of living conditions in those localities.

Maintaining permanent peace is the main objective of the Society. To this end, the organization has a platform which calls for: (1) Strengthening pacific alternatives to armed conflicts. (2) Bringing about such political and economic changes as are essential to a just and peaceable world order. (3) Recruiting and uniting in a dynamic movement all organizations and individuals who are determined not to approve of or participate in war.

The facts that people are depression weary and that militaristic nationalism is spreading makes this platform exceptionally important to our generation. Peace Drive Leader Visits Bates Campus

Philip Jacobs States View to Interested Peace Students

Mr. Philip Jacobs, representative of the Emergency Peace Campaign, paid a visit to Bates during the past week, and presented the purpose of the Campaign to interested Bates undergraduates.

With the two scourges of war and unemployment eternally present in this present age of ours, the Society of Friends, composed of Philadelphia Quakers, founded the Emergency Peace Campaign in 1927.

The chief purpose of the Campaign, Mr. Jacobs explained, is to arouse public sentiment against imminent war, and to encourage modern youths to meet the emergency in which peace finds herself in our generation by taking active peace measures. The group maintains the policy of asking students to give their time now to prevent war, just as they will be asked later to give themselves for war.

The improvement of unemployed conditions is the main objective of the American Friends Service Committee, working in cooperation with the Emergency Peace Campaign. Since 1934, the Friends Service group has joined the workers in various fields of labor in West Virginia, Pennsylvania, and Tennessee and measures have been taken for the improvement of living conditions in those localities.

Maintaining permanent peace is the main objective of the Society. To this end, the organization has a platform which calls for: (1) Strengthening pacific alternatives to armed conflicts. (2) Bringing about such political and economic changes as are essential to a just and peaceable world order. (3) Recruiting and uniting in a dynamic movement all organizations and individuals who are determined not to approve of or participate in war.

The facts that people are depression weary and that militaristic nationalism is spreading makes this platform exceptionally important to our generation. Students wishing to see active service in furthering the peace campaign and in improving unemployment conditions should obtain information from Jean Warring '36 or Carleton Mabee '36, or by writing to the American Friends Service Campaign, 20 South 12th Street, Philadelphia.

Council's activities, including Mr. Quimby as faculty adviser, are Margaret Robinson '37, President; Margaret McKusick '37, Secretary; Donald Welch '37, Men's Manager; Harriet Durkee '37, Women's Manager.

Pepys Through The Keyhole

Well, well, well, if it isn't dear little Junior back again after a hard week spent gathering dirt from all the crannies and crevices on campus (and off too).

Dear Pa and Ma: Bob Braddicks of J. B. won't get gay again in a hurry if it has the same results it had last time. Tut, tut, Robert. . . Don't believe everything you find in your mail, either.

Seen at the Freshman Picture: Dana Hull attempting to imagine to look insignificant and being so much against having to be in the front row. . . Junior Hurwitz being asked to be the class mascot and sit in front. . . Various fellows quite disappointed in not being able to stay over on the co-ed side of the picture. . . Gus Clough looking bashful. . . Larry Doyle who must have thought he was a freshman entering the scene on a table.

Residents of Frye Street House were quite surprised to discover that their own Marion Jones seems to be running a kindergarten for there certainly was an intellectual group of young men in there the other day. . . Just a bunch of Lewiston High boys gone wrong, I guess. . . Did you know that Akers has been seen out in front of this same girls' dorm in a car? . . . Hitherto, Bob has just been another monk who kept on the original straight and narrow path, but now, ah! . . . And did you know Slim Williams has fallen? . . .

Lewis Mills, one of Bertram's brilliants, not being content with being Doc Johnson of past days, must needs be a Walter Winchell of today and post the third floor dirt of JayBee on that floor. . . We learn that the poor doctor was smitten on the head by a rapidly traveling spheroid over at baseball practice the other day. . . Such a catastrophe could not hurt the doctor, however, as he is above such things. . .

Weekly Leather Medal: To Miss Hope Flanders who seems to be after an out and out record. . . We wish you, "Good Hunting!"

To Pa and Ma—the mike is yours. Your loving son, Junior. It's too bad Dot couldn't have been consistent in showing Seeckts he is not a lady-killer. . . And Petie Duncan went for the blonde debater, but was he taken aback when he found she was only a high-school freshman. . . Heil Hitler. . . Max comes into his own and a box of chocolates from Connie. . . Al, can't you tame those rowdies? . . . after all, you are the gentleman of the bunch. . . Anne-Marie "sox" the men and women at Bates. . . we wonder what a man with a sweater on "right side out and front side to" looks like. . . must we go to France? . . . "Any rags any bones, any bottles today" . . . Webber rummages thru Parker. . . better watch your old clothes. . . Come join the smoker at Chase any time, gurrlls. . . Johnnie Barkis, cuddle your own. . . Those sophisticated socialites, Rimmer and McCray, dine at the Qual. . . and it is just too, too utterly, utterly. . . Do you understand it, Miss McDonald? . . . well, explain it then. . . Libby wept but it was only a cold. . . May first ushers in the Sophomore Girls' Dance, we hope you remember. . . soft lights and sweet music plus a very exclusive crowd. . . and anything else your little heart desires. . . Twenty percent does go right up in smoke. . . oh, yes it does. . . Aunt Tillie knows. . . Prexy sent Alice the report on the baseball team and brought the key to—ahem—his heart, shall we say. . . "If you have nine sons in a row, baseball teams make money, you know", lusty voices shattered the quiet Friday midnight helping Mammy keep her sunny side up. . . Well since you say so and you're always right. . . Learned at

Chase: Sam thought it was a conference at the University of Maine, but it turned out to be a formal at Colby. . . Well, well. . . and many strange faces at Chase. . . Courageous Rockland Nick had only to get started, it seems. . . Perhaps Bob Crocker's idea of a date bureau for timid eds wouldn't be so bad, after all. . . Somebody, we can't remember who said "The man who blushes is not quite a brute". . . Then there was a man who asked "Why should the devil have all the good tunes" . . . when we all love to dance. . . You could have seen it at Chase Bravel. . . Val Wilson was sitting with the co-eds on the left hand side of the hall and very few people noticed it. . . Hevings. . . the ethiopian rainy season. . . and maybe Dinsmore didn't tear up a few trees. . . Wesmore, you parasite. . . Jason Lewis didn't know her name and she just wouldn't tell him. . . When she asked him to give three reasons why the light should be turned off. . . he said that it was more conducive to romance, it lent atmosphere, and it was—oh well. . . everything is sunny again. . . The battle rages. . . who is the best dancer in the senior class. . . Negro says he is. . . and Glazer. . . well. . . he says that if he isn't he should be. . . Kimmach opened the yachting season and was sailing over the bounding main. . . or he thought Maine was bounding. . . Fred Martin smiled but he smiled like Mona Lisa. . . because the West Parker pictures taken by young doc goodwin came out all too well. . . Hevings. . . Gordon Williams went to Chase and was he ultra. . . new blazer and that tie. . . wow! . . . now if Gordon were here he would say. . . you're just jealous. . . but if you'll pardon us saying so, we are like sweet violets. Bates Pastimers Chased By Tough Luck On Boston Trip

Team Returns From Tour Of Baseball Losses

Victims of B.U., N.U., and N.H., Get Experience For State Series

Bates returned from a rather disastrous trip to Boston on the short end of three baseball games. The Garnet nine was taken over by Northeastern 11-9; by B. U. 16-6; and by N. H. 9-2. Surprisingly enough Bates played its best game against N. H. which was by far the best team of the three.

Bates started off in great style against Northeastern by scoring 3 runs in the first inning. Johnson and Gillis aided considerably with base-blows. Northeastern tied up the score by crossing the plate in the third, fourth, and fifth innings. While Bates apparently put the game on ice by scoring 2 runs in the 6th and 4 runs in the 7th.

However, Northeastern put a short end to Bates' lead by scoring 8 runs in the 8th inning. Meehan, husky first baseman, opened up the inning with a single and closed the same inning with a two run single into center field. Verdelle Clark, elongated right-hander who had relieved Bob Malone, was the victim of most of this barrage while Bob Darling, who licked Northeastern last year, was in the box for the last two runs.

Captain Bill Callahan collided with Bennett in a force play at second and was forced to retire with a leg injury. He will likely be out of action for 10 days.

B. U. gave Bates a good shellacking the following day, beating them 16-6. Bates could never get going while B. U. had a good day. The Bobcats bunched three hits in the sixth for three runs, nailed another marker in the seventh, while Bill Johnson's lone homer to right accounted for the final brace of runs in the ninth.

In the meanwhile Boston hit Atherton and Webster rather hard. Bob Gibson garnered five safeties out of six trips to lead the Terriers. Tunell pitched good ball giving Bates one hit in the first five innings. He also helped his team considerably by hitting safely three times.

Against N. H. Bates played the best ball on the trip but were up against one of the best collegiate teams in the East, as well as one of the best pitchers in collegiate baseball in the personage of Lefty Weir. Weir was in great form and gave Bates 4 hits and one walk in nine innings. Malone pitched good ball but was not able to hold the N. H. heavy hitters at bay.

Freshmen Squeeze Out Victory From Rumford, 68-58

The Freshman track team had things their own way in yesterday's track meet, taking nine firsts to open the outdoor track season.

George Lythcott, with two firsts and a second, led the way for the Freshmen, while Arsenault was outstanding for Rumford. The score, 68-58, opened the way for a clean looking slate. With such a galaxy of stars as Lythcott, Hull, Wallace, Briggs and others there is no reason why the wins shouldn't continue.

Freshmen Tracksters Hosts To High Schools

Next Friday Bates will welcome to its campus an invading host of picked men from the combined schools of Edward Little, Gardiner, and other high schools. It will be remembered that this invasion occurred once before with little success. The freshman track squad is prepared to meet the brunt of this attack. Although the Bobkittens are weak in the jumping events and lack second place point winners in the running distances, Coach Thompson has pinned his hope on the ability of sure winners such as Lythcott, Hull, and Wallace, who are major factors in the success of the freshmen.

The first outdoor meet brought into the limelight new potential point win-

After the quiet winter season ending with a ping pong tournament won by Helen Carter, and the Health Week managed by Ida Miller, A. A. began its spring season of tennis, speedball, hiking, and riding. There seems to be a chance for everyone.

Speedball includes all those interested in the team sport. All the classes are preparing for the final Garnet and Black games. Tennis, besides the co-ed tournament, has the regular girls' tournament starting this week. Muriel Tomlinson was the winner last year. The finals of this will be held on playday.

Riding has gained quite a lot of interest this year. Put on your habit and ask Lois Wells for information. Hiking is still going strong. A five mile hike a week is fine for your figure.

Are you earning your training awards? Don't cut the corners. Be fair to the ones who are really keeping the rules.

ners in events that could not be staged in the cage. Reiner and Clough have distinguished themselves in the Javelin throw. Canavan has recuperated enough from his hand injury to offer competition in the broad jump and Lythcott, who is noted for his sprinting ability, has turned his attention to another event—the 220 low hurdles.

All in all, the prowess of these starters should worry the best of any high school cinder man, and if the smooth running continues Coach Thompson should give a sigh of relief for future years.

SPORTS SHOTS

By Barney Marcus

Thanks, Profs

Probably you have believed at one time or other that the Profs are a bad sort—that they try to make life miserable for you. But they really aren't like that. In fact they have your interests at heart. Last week you may have noticed that evergreen trees were planted around the athletic field. Probably you gave it no other thought than just a passing glance. You didn't know that Prof. George Ramsdell procured these trees for the school from a friend of his free of charge. And then that he donned boots and overalls and started the planting of the trees. Norm Ross, our bursar, then continued the planting, aided by several students. And if you saw these members of the faculty and administrative staffs dirty from head to foot, you probably would have realized that they aren't such bad fellows after all.

Tony Achieves Again

A first, a second, and a fifth. Once again Tony Kishon's name goes down in the records of winners at the Penn Relays. Once again Tony Kishon's name is deeper impressed in the record of those who have done things—big things—for Bates. Undoubtedly no other man in the history of the college has done more in spreading the name of Bates across the country. Anyone who is the slightest interested in athletics has heard of Kishon's achievements in the New England's Penn Relays, I.C.A.A.A.A.'s, and the National Intercollegiate. Mounting successes—still they continue.

Charge It to Experience

Scores, scores, scores. 11-9, 16-6, 9-2. They do tell a story that the Garnet nine lost three ball games. But they don't tell the whole story. They don't tell of valuable experience received by every member of the squad who made the trip. They don't tell of the fine pitching done by some of our hurlers. They don't tell of the injury received by Captain Callahan which necessitated many changes in the personnel of the club. They don't tell of the fine hitting done by freshman Johnson. They don't tell of the fun enjoyed by every member of the squad which partially atones for the drudgery of daily practice. No, scores don't tell the whole story.

We Are Told That:

Ed Flynn of Brockton, all-scholastic basketball player, is interested in Bates. . . . Bill Johnson is over 30 years old and has been married 12 years. . . . Al Bell's 197 ft. 2 1/2 in. javelin toss against Springfield would have taken the Penn Relay event. . . . New Hampshire has the best college ball field in the East. . . . Les Hutchinson is planning to come out for track. . . . Johnson is hitting about .450 so far. . . . Bergeron walked 10 out of 15 times at bat the first three games. . . . Larry Johnson may come back to school next fall. . . . as may Pickering. . . .

Campus Workmen Do Spring Planting

Spectators who for many years have enjoyed Bates sports contests from the "outside looking in" will enjoy that economical pastime for a very few years to come. Campus workmen were busy this last week planting four hundred pine trees at both ends of Garcelon field to make a wall of pine that will eventually enclose all the field.

Small trees, dwarfed by the half a century elms and oaks, have been set out this spring in places where it was necessary to cut down diseased or dead giants. The plan is to replace a tree where one is removed thus always preserving the beauty of the campus.

Golf Men To Play On Riverside Links In Spring Season

Once more the turf and sand will fly at the Riverside Golf Course, for through the efforts of Coach Buck Spinks and John Garrity '37, the course has been made available to Bates students again. If fifty students sign up for the sport, which has been added to the Physical Education credit list, a blanket membership will be granted to the school. Both men and women will be allowed to participate under this year's arrangement. With prospects of a pretty good team composed of Nick Pellicani, Nils Lennartson, Charles Cooke, and Bob Fish, plus several freshmen who are as yet of undetermined quality, Bates hopes possibly to be represented in a state meet against Maine, Colby, and Bowdoin. Last year Bates students took part in the tournament, but they were not sent as representatives of the college.

Although Cooke may spend most of his time in getting ready for the outdoor track season and pole vaulting, he will nevertheless be one of the mainstays of the golf team.

Eds, Co-eds, And Profs To Have Tennis Meet

Come on, you tennis fans! Here's a chance for eds, co-eds, and professors to get together for some real fun. Expert or not, everybody is welcome.

The Women's Athletic Association, in co-operation with the men's side of the campus, is sponsoring a co-ed doubles tournament to begin next Monday. The dead-line for registering will be Saturday noon, May 2. Professors are invited to sign with their wives or singly. One court on each side of the campus will be reserved entirely for participants. The time for playing off matches will be posted. For any further information, see Muriel Tomlinson, Frye Street House, and Howard Becker, W. P. H.

Tennis Men Work For Maine Match Next Saturday

Coach Buschmann Polishes Off Promising Squad; Five Veterans Out

One of the largest and most enthusiastic squads in tennis is working out this spring under Coach Buschmann in anticipation of the first match of the season with the University of Maine on the home courts on Saturday afternoon at the same time as the Bates-Boston Y.M.C.A. track meet.

Although there has been no selection of players for the match on account of the poor outdoor conditions which have postponed the coach's decision, the returning letter men are Captain Howie Buzzell, Burt Reed, football end, Don Casterline, Louis Revey, a much improved player, Jimmy Carter, a member of last year's aggregation, and Arnold Ken-seth.

Milton Nixon, a promising freshman, who captained Hebron Academy's strong team last year, is fighting for a high berth on the team. He may even play Number 1 position if he shows up well on the outdoor courts with the slower bounce than the gym floor.

Little is known of Maine's team which will come to Lewiston Saturday. Last year they had a finalist in the singles by the name of Perkins who will be a great help to them if he is out for the team this year. Another good player is Wadley who scored many a Maine victory last season.

Outing Club Will Hold Several Trips In Near Future

At a meeting of the directors of the Bates Outing Club, April 22, a spring schedule for trips was drawn up. They are: a Sabattus Cabin trip, a hike up Saddleback Mountain, also canoe trips, and a cruise on Casco Bay.

Sabattus Trip

Next Sunday, May 3, a trolley car will leave Chase Hall after dinner for a co-educational trip to the Henry Rich Cabin at Sabattus. The cost will be twenty-five cents.

Saddleback Mountain Trip

May 10th, there will be a co-educational hike to Saddleback Mountain near Rangeley. This is one of the most interesting Maine mountains, according to the club's former president, "Ace" Bailey. The hike will be on the Appalachian Trail, this section of which may be the part that the Bates Outing Club will keep in condition in the future. Cost, seventy-five cents.

Canoe Trips

A women's canoe trip may be arranged in the near future by Ruth Jellison and Professor Walmsley. Also a men's canoe trip is to be arranged by "Ace" Bailey. It is hoped to have this trip on Belgrade Lakes. It will be an all-Maine college trip with men from other Maine college outing clubs participating.

Memorial Day Cruise

Plans are being made for the annual cruise in Casco Bay on Saturday, May 30th. A special train will leave Lewiston for Portland and then the group will transfer to a special boat chartered from the Casco Bay Line. The cruise will be in and around the many beautiful islands of the famous Casco Bay. Besides the cruise there will be swimming, games, and a clambake on one of the Student Government Conference At Orono

Carol Wade '37 newly-elected president of Student Government, and Jeanette Walker '37 have been chosen to attend the annual Student Government Conference at the University of Maine from April 30 to May 2.

The main speaker of the week end will be Professor Wunderlich of Bennington College, Vermont, who will speak on the "Experiment in Student Government in Bennington" and "The Part of Women in European Politics". The entire program will include discussions of the problems of Student Government.

W. A. A. RUMMAGE SALE TO BE FRIDAY

The Women's Athletic Association is sponsoring a rummage sale, May 1, on Chestnut street. It is especially hoped that the flood sufferers will be able to find suitable clothing in their stock. All the co-ed dorms are being canvassed and quite a collection of worn and outgrown clothing has been gathered together. It is chiefly in charge of the retiring members of the board and is, in that sense, a farewell gesture. The proceeds will go to the White House. The committee includes Dorothy Wheeler '36, Chairman, Valeria Kimball '36, Ruth Webster '36, and Connie Redstone '36.

islands. There will be dancing on board during the trip back. Last year one hundred and seventy-five went. This year a larger group will be expected. The cost for the entire outing will be one dollar.

Partridge '38 Writes Hit Song For Bobcats

Donald Partridge, tenor saxophonist of the Bates Bobcats, has written a new snappy song which he calls "Swingsstomp", a featured number at the Chase Hall dances. He has also arranged the music for the "Medley at Dawning" which is composed of four songs and regularly used by the Bobcats. "At Dawning", "Trees", "Japanese Sandman", and "When Day is Done" are the numbers of the medley.

Lambda Alpha To Have Farewell Party

The Lambda Alpha Society will give a Farewell Party for its senior members on Tuesday evening, May 5.

The committee in charge of the program is headed by Margaretta Butler '37, with assistants, Esta Isaacson '37, Cora Meservy '37, and Eleanor Walsh '38.

Bates Joins Colleges In N. Y. Conference

Ellen Craft '38 and William Metz '37, secretary and president, respectively, of the Bates Christian Association, were Bates delegates along with twenty-eight other campus leaders of New England colleges on a trip to New York City last week-end.

Christian Ass'n To Hold Retreat At Winthrop, Me.

A novel Retreat will be held by the Christian Associations this year in that the affair will be attended by both the men and women who have served on the Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. Cabinets in the past year besides the newly-elected members to serve on the one joint Cabinet of the coming year.

The Retreat will be held at Winthrop, rather than the customary camp at Monmouth, and will extend over the ordinary period of time, from Saturday noon to Sunday evening, May 2 and 3.

Student Volunteers Meet At Bangor

The Student Volunteer Association of Maine colleges held its annual meeting at Bangor Theological Seminary, Bangor, on April 25 and 26.

Dr. Marion J. Bradshaw, professor of religion at the Seminary, was the principal speaker. Students from Bates who attended the conference were: Jean Leslie, Katherine Emig, Jean Lowry, Anne-Marie Diebold, Helen Dickinson, K. Hirasawa, and Dr. Fred Mabee.

The Publishing Association, in charge of electing the officers of the 1937 Mirror Staff, met Monday afternoon, and after the regular business was disposed of, elected as Editor-in-Chief, Arnold Kensch '37, and as Business Manager, Donald Welch '37.

No Classes May 9th On Account Of State Meet

The administration has set aside May 9, Saturday, as an official holiday, so that students may be able to attend the State Meet at Orono on that day. The announcement was made this week by Harry W. Rowe. The track meet will begin in the morning with try-outs and in the afternoon beginning at 1.30 the finals in all events will take place.

April Birthday Tea Held On Last Friday

Mrs. Gray's birthday tea for the girls and faculty women who were born in April was held on April 24, at her home.

In honor of the hostess' birthday, which also is in April, the girls presented her with a bouquet of spring-like flowers.

The faculty guests included Mrs. Pomeroy, Miss Dora Roberts, Miss Lena Walmsley, Miss Mildred Fisher, and Mrs. Foster. The students included Erna Berzin '36, Frances Linnehan '36, Selma Shapiro '36, Cora Meservy '37, Isabel Butterfield '37, Mary Metz '37, Marjorie Buck '37, Margaret Bennett '38, Elizabeth Kad-japeroni '38, Helen Dickson '38, Evelyn Jones '38, Ruth Butler '39, Helen Cary '39 Joyce Smith '39, Wilma Hatch '36.

Several Changes For Next Year

Among other important changes, another history instructor will be added to the Bates faculty next year, it was announced in view of the fact that preliminary registration for the next semester will be held May 5-15. The name of the new instructor will be announced in June.

This addition means that Professor Hovey and the new instructor will conduct all history courses. Professor Gould, who at present conducts a course in American history, will instruct in government only.

Social Science 101, now required of freshmen, will not be offered next year. Instead newcomers may elect a course under the direction of the new instructor, covering the period in European history from the fall of the Roman Empire to the twentieth century.

A course of instruction covering the nineteenth century of European history, under Dr. Hovey, will be added to the curriculum.

Commenting on the above changes, President Gray remarked, "People are making history faster than we can organize courses."

Women's Annual May Breakfast To Be Held May 2

The annual May breakfast sponsored by the Y.W.C.A. and the W.A.A. organizations will be held on May 2 at seven o'clock in the morning on the top of Mt. David.

Co-eds will either have to get up early enough to hike to the mountain top or start the day off without breakfast as no meal will be served in the Fiske Dining Hall.

With the kind co-operation of Miss Roberts, dietitian, the arrangements for a full course breakfast are being made by Ruth Jellison and Margaret Melcher.

The Freshman Sport Dance Committee, of which John King is chairman, announced yesterday that the dance would be held on May 16 in Chase Hall. The Bobcats will furnish the music for the affair.

the SANTA MARIA
Columbus' Flag Ship

the ship that brought Columbus to America ..and tobacco to the world

...and now throughout the world smokers are saying They Satisfy

History tells us that when Christopher Columbus' sailors took tobacco back home with them everybody hailed it as one of the first new pleasures in years.

Today tobacco gives more pleasure to more people than ever before.

Many different claims are made for tobacco, but most everybody agrees on this . . .

Smoking is a pleasure and the cigarette is the mildest and purest form in which that pleasure can be enjoyed.
