"No More Peace" Places Faith In Humanitarianism

By Dr. Arthur N. Leonard

On January 11 and 12 the Robinson players are to present, in English translation, Ernst Toller's "Nie Wieder Friede". The following notes on Toller's life and works are offered in the hope that those who attend the play will feel a quicker response to the satire which underlies "No More Peace".

One easily thinks of Toller's life as an epitome of his generation; and his works, like Goethe's, are "fragments of a great confession." Born in Bavaria in 1893, Toller developed a genuine dislike for German militarism. At the outbreak of the World War he joined the German forces, and was promoted for bravery at Verdun; but his experiences convinced him of the injustice of war. His radical views and activities resulted early in 1918 in his incarceration in a military prison. This resulted in his first drama, "Transformation", in which the germs of the later expressionistic movement are clearly evident.

Social and Spiritual Themes Haunt Dramas

Toller was released from prison in the summer of 1918, but was rearrested less than a year later and sentenced to imprisonment for five years in a military fortress. During this period several plays were written, the two best known being the significant titles "The Machine Wreckers" and "Masses and Man".

The former depicts an episode in the industrial revolution in England shortly after the Napoleonic wars.

This play reminds one strongly of Gerhart Hauptmann's "The Weavers".

The theme of "Masses and Man" is the conflict between the individual and the mass group; the question as to whether one shall follow his own conscience, if the social group seems to him to be at fault. The play is in seven scenes, showing marked evidences of the expressionistic school. It is interesting to note that the part of Sonja Irene, the only character individualized, was played at its first performance in Berlin in 1921 by Marlene Dietrich. Whereas in "Transformation" the crowd is shown following a spiritual leader in "Masses and Man" the crowd is easily led by the rabble-rousers.

Places Faith In Humanitarianism

By this time Toller had become quite disillusioned and for the time being his philosophy of humanitarianism gave way to one of pessimism. Lack of space forbids comment on others of Toller's plays. "No More Peace", one of his later works, written in the original in seven scenes, is a satire on peace and war; and the spectator must bear this in mind if he is to understand the message which Toller wishes to convey. One might think of Toller agreeing with Goethe who said 150 years ago: "Against the superiority of another there exists no weapon or remedy save love". Toller believed finally that a sincere humanitarianism is the one remedy in this world so torn with strife and conflict.

Actors Offer Peace Play Tomorrow Night

"No More Peace", termed by its director—an experimental play, promises to receive enthusiastic support of its performance tomorrow and Friday evenings.

A satiric comedy, it attacks the more or less ridiculous phases of modern warfare in a rather serious vein.

Scenic effects are particularly good as we move from Heaven to Earth and back again throughout the two acts. Heaven with its blue skies and white clouds affords a rather incongruous setting for the wranglings of Napoleon and St. Francis. Earth with its black atmosphere is perhaps more fitting for the warlike nation of Dunkelstein.

The play does not follow the ordinary rules of good playwriting and acting in which the chief end is realistic motivation, characterization, and action. Here, the action is mechanized and exaggerated, the characters, although having modern counterparts, are not real or human.

Noah, the shrewd yet lazy, ne'er-do-well, is perhaps the most charming character and Jack Senior '42, whose ability was apparent in "Our Town", handles the role capably. John Marsh '43, as the clever financier Leben who sells out his jam factories at war prices, is equally able to supply a pair of silver wings for Angel 1100 in return for her calling the war to a halt. Most amusing is Socrates' ride on the elevator from Hades to Heaven where he is called in to advise about the war situation on Earth. Robert Oldmixon '42 takes this part. Theatre-goers will feel no sympathy at the downfall of the dictator—a role ably filled by George Kirwin '42. Connie Roy '42, a veteran of two years, will please in the appealing role of Rachel.

Included also in the cast are such stars as Rowena Faischild '41, Betty Swann '41, John Malone '42, Myron Kellen '43, Jack Morris '41, George Antunes '43 and Bill Lever '41.

Prize Speaking Tryouts Take Place Tomorrow

The tryouts for the annual Junior-Senior Prize Speaking Contest tomorrow afternoon in Libbey Forum will begin at 3:30 with each candidate reading from manuscript a 1000-word speech suitable for presentation before the student body. The four best speakers selected tomorrow will later be heard in chapel programs, in which competition the winners will receive cash awards.

All contestants are asked to see Prof. Brooks Quimby to make a definite appointment for the tryouts.

President Clifton D. Gray is this week attending the annual meeting of the Association of American Colleges at Philadelphia.

Bobcat Five Seeks Mule Hide Tonight

Probable Starting Line-ups

BATES	MAINE
Rafferty, lf	McRimouskas
Stover, rf	Peters
Webster, c	Malins
Witty, lg	Hatch
Kenney, rg	Shiro

The varsity basketball team will be battling against its State Series rival tonight as they attempt to down a strong Colby Squad in Alumni Gym tonight. Buck Spinks' boys, still smarting from their 51-47 closing minutes loss to Maine Saturday night, will be trying to annex their first Series victories in three years. It was against Colby three years almost to the day that Bates last won a league battle as a result of Normie Tardiff's one-hand shot from the foul line with seconds to go. Captain Howie Kenney and his brethren will be back in their home stall tonight trying to make history repeat itself.

Performing that task will not be easy, however. Coach Eddie Rounly's 1940 edition of Mules has not a too-imposing record, but they have shown potentialities. The Colby bunch have won two against four losses, but the victories have been in their last two starts, and one of their defeats was to Hartwick by four points. Bates has won two and lost two.

Rounly's main problem was to replace Burrill, Hopkins, Spina, and Irish, all first string men who graduated last spring. Left from last year's squad are Malins, Peters, Rimousukas, Hatch and Pearl. Malins, a forward, and Pearl, a guard, are, incidentally, the only two members of the team who played on Colby's first varsity squad, three years ago, which tied Maine for the pennant. Malins is fast and aggressive, Pearl is steady and probably the most experienced man in basketball on the Colby team. Bates fans will recall the Peters lad also. It was this rangy forward who flipped the ball through the strings in the last half-minute of play to take a game away from the Bobcats at Waterville last year.

Chick Hatch, who plays guard, is familiar for his role in Colby's backfield last fall. He utilizes an aggressive style of attack, along with "Baron" Pearl who did not see service last year due to a back injury. Individual star of the team is probably Rimousukas, a lanky, stoop-shouldered lad, a smooth passer, fast on floor play, with a fine eye for the hoop. He is high scorer on the team to date. He started playing for the team as a regular last year, when only a sophomore. He starred for the fresh aggregation the year previous, and moved up to the varsity after mid-year.

Preparations Continue For Annual Carnival

Outing Club enthusiasts celebrate the 20th Annual Winter Carnival this year, when the fateful dates roll around—Feb. 9 and 10 being this year's dates. Already prominent Outing Club members have been heard praying to Allah for snow. Richard Martin '40, carnival chairman, announces that the Auburn Ice Company has consented to donate 20 extra large cakes of ice for the royal throne, of the royal carnival queen.

Committees for the execution of the various activities connected with the carnival have been announced by Martin, and are as follows: Coed Banquet, Dorothy Dole '41 and Orrin Snow '41, chairmen, Marguerite Mendall '41, Margaret Hubbard '41, Natalie Webber '42, John Davis '40, Stanley Austin '41, Malcolm Holmes '40; Chase Hall Open House, Katherine Winne '41 and Richard Wall '41, chairmen, Barbara Fish '41, Patricia Bradbury '42, Ruth Ulrich '41, Richard Hoag '42, Joseph Millerick '41, John James '42.

Interform Competition, Donald Pomeroy '40 and Aino Puranen '41, chairmen, Ruth Nuckley '42, Lucille Leonard '42, Virginia Yeomans '41; Muriel Swicker '42, Frank Coffin '40, Harry Shepherd '40, Ernest Johnson '42; Open House at Thornecrag, Joan Wells '40 and Hamilton Dorman '40, chairmen, Priscilla Simpson '42, Irving Fisher '41; Queen's Committee, Kay Gould '40, chairman, Martha Blaisdell '42, Joanne Lowther '41, Elaine Humphrey '42.

Ski Meet, Robert Ireland '40, chairman, William Lever '41; Carnival Hop, Gail Rice '41 and Harold Goodspeed '40, chairmen, Janet McLean '41, Barbara Abbott '41, Jean Kennerton '42, Carl Andrews '40, John Lloyd '42, John Howarth '41, Ernest Oberst '41; Awards, Patricia Atwater '40 and Julie Thompson '42, chairmen, Ruth Beal.

All-College Skate, Robert Langermann '42, chairman, Dexter Greene '42, Clyde Glover '41, Richard Wise '42, Wendall Bishop '42; Lollypop Race, Katherine Curry '41, Jack Morris '41; Snow Sculpture, Robert Hulsizer '40, Bernice Lord '40; general electrician, Ralph Caswell '41.

Boston Lawyer To Speak At Men's Coffee Sunday

Mr. Pierce Long, eminent Boston lawyer and loyal Bates booster, will be the speaker at the third men's coffee at Chase Hall Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock, it was announced by Richard Wall '41, Chase Hall activities chairman.

A cordial invitation is extended to faculty members as well as students.

Girls' Gym Prof Goes On Leave Jan. 24

On Jan. 24th, Prof. Lena Walmsley will leave for New York City where she will take advantage of her belated sabbatical leave by studying at New York University and Columbia University. The general objective of her study will be to increase her fund of knowledge of various subjects related to physical education.

Miss Walmsley is at present trying to squeeze into one short semester the most profitable and useful courses. While her curriculum at Columbia is still indefinite, the outline for her work at New York University is well organized. The most important course to be pursued is a six point

Musical Clubs Feature 'Songs of Old' At Pops

The Orphic Orchestra and the Choral Society of 90 voices will feature the "good old songs of the good old times" at the annual Pop Concert on Friday evening, Jan. 19, in the Alumni Gymnasium, it was announced last night by Professor Seldon T. Crafts.

The Concert will open at 8 p. m. with selections by the Orphic Orchestra. Dancing will follow from 8:30 to 9:45 with music by the augmented Bobcats. The highlight of the evening will be a 30-minute floor show by the musical clubs, consisting of a balcony chorus of 70 and a floor chorus of 20, and including the following soloists: Marguerite Shaw '40, Charles Crooker '40, Genevieve Stephenson '43, Robert Oldmixon '42, William Kuhn '43, John Marsh '43, and Harry Vaughan '43. The Men's Glee Club will also render three numbers. Dancing until midnight under the baton of Stanton Smith '41 will bring the program to a close.

Table reservations at $2.00 per couple may be made at the library with Miss Eaton, who is serving as hostess for the concert. This is the only formal of the year to which townspeople come, making the affair a pleasing combination of students, faculty, and friends.

Rollo Brown Will Discuss Differences Between Novels

Rollo Walter Brown, biographer, novelist, teacher and lecturer, speaks in Chapel Monday evening at 8 on the subject "Should Intelligent People Read Novels?" The lecture title was recommended by Mr. Brown himself as being "a lively discussion of the difference between the flimsy novel and the one that has been created with a true artistic purpose."

The name of Rollo Walter Brown is already well known to most Bates students through his writing, especially his biographies. He is generally regarded as one of the finest modern biographers. But in addition to his reputation as an author, he is extremely well recommended as a lecturer for student audiences.

He has spoken at almost every educational institution in America. G. I. Rohrbough, president of Monticello College, describes Mr. Brown as being "by odds the most effective lecturer that we have had on the campus. I am not acquainted with any other American author who has so sought to translate the awakened life of the creative-minded into the language and the substance of students' lives."

Many of Mr. Brown's books have their setting in his native southeastern Ohio, where he worked as a boy on a hill farm, in a clay mine and a coal mine. He attended Harvard and later taught at Harvard for many years.

Some time ago he gave up teaching in order to concentrate on writing and lecturing. His best known books include "Dean Briggs", "Lonely Americans", "The Firemakers", "Next Door to a Poet", and "I Travel by Train".

He was a pioneer in behalf of the creative spirit in American education. He likes his work and believes in it. "I always have a good time," he says, "discussing these subjects before student audiences."

The number of repeat performances he is asked to give would seem to indicate that the students also have a good time.

Leap Year Comes In And O Johnny O

Girls! Here's your chance. We hope that we will see you all at the Leap Year Dance next Saturday night. Better get your dances now, girls, and make sure of your intermission with that "S. P.", the Bates ideal ed. Imagine escorting him home! But don't forget that the boys' dorms have lights on their front porches, too.

Community Service and Studies Top Activities of Class of '39

By Richard Dearborn '41

Despite the fact that the economic aspects of the year 1939 showed little improvement over preceding depression years, the consistent high level of unemployment figures, and the general pessimism regarding the outlook for college graduates, statistics regarding the graduate activities of the members of the class of '39 show that for most part they have been able to evade the dreadful bugbear of unemployment. Of the 132 members of the class, 62 have found active employment, 42 are continuing their studies in graduate school, the remaining 28 being unemployed or uncontacted.

Of the 57 per cent who found positions after graduation, nearly half have become teachers, mainly in secondary schools. Five are in junior high or elementary schools, two of which are principals. Twenty of the pedagogues are employed in Maine while the remaining seven are teaching in Massachusetts and New Hampshire schools. The second largest occupational field is that of social work in which eight are engaged mainly as investigators and case workers for the state or federal governments. Three members have become occu-pled in the field of journalism, four as chemists, two in psychiatric work, and three in the insurance field. Other occupations include sales clerks, laboratory assistants, bank messenger, pastor's assistant, manufacturing and statistical work.

A large per cent of the 32 per cent who chose to continue their training at graduate schools have positions as graduate assistants and fellows. Nine students are at medical school and four are engaged in the study of public health. Law and theology are being studied by four students each and the department of economics and sociology claims seven. Of the graduate schools represented, Harvard and Tufts share top honors with seven students apiece. Other colleges attended range from Minnesota, Iowa, Illinois, and Ohio State in the mid-west, McGill in Canada, to Princeton, Yale, Columbia, Boston University, New York University and Clark in the East.

Thus last year's graduates continue to maintain the high level of employment set by classes of previous years and uphold Bates' record of representation and achievement in many diversified fields of endeavor.

College Students Announce Engagements Over Holidays

Lib MacGregor—Charlie Crooker
When a group of coeds gave Lib MacGregor '40 a surprise party in the Women's Union, before vacation, they were themselves surprised when Lib's engagement to Charlie Crooker '40 was announced. They plan to get married a year or two from this June because next year Charlie is entering Yale Divinity School to study for the ministry, and Lib wants to go to the Hickox Secretarial School in Boston. Then, when they get married Lib says they'll be living wherever Charlie finds a church.

It is interesting to note that the stone in Lib's engagement ring is a golden beryl from a hill here in Maine, and was cut and set by a Bates graduate.

Martha Greenlaw—Bob Allman
The very night Martha Greenlaw '40 arrived home for Christmas vacation Bob Allman '39 gave her an en-agement ring. The stone is a ruby because their favorite color is red. After graduation Martha is going to do social work "as near Boston as possible", and she plans to continue social work after she is married. In about two years—just as soon as they can afford a radio, victrola, and a car, they'll be married and be living in a suburb of Boston. But their future aim is to raise minks in Surry, Maine.

Hazel Turner—John Leard
Another engagement which was announced during Christmas vacation was that of Hazel Turner '40 to John Leard '38. Johnnie received his M.A. last year from the Columbia Graduate School of Journalism, and also received there the Pulitzer Prize. As a result of this scholarship, he now is on his way to South America, and will arrive there Jan. 15.

The Campus Radical

What makes a radical? The obvious answer to that question is that it is largely a matter of viewpoint. Mr. Dies would term radical anyone who knows the name of the Russian foreign minister. In Cambridge, Mass., the council wished to label all owners of books containing the name Lenin as radical. To people in the United States, long used to the privilege, it seems strange that totalitarian rulers consider critics of the regime as radicals. But, as we said, it is a matter of viewpoint.

Who is the campus radical—that stranger in our midst? It still depends on how you look at it, but four years of study seems to indicate that he has one or both of two qualities. First, he may be what we off-handedly term "different". Second, he has a tendency to criticize the existing order of things.

He may be the fellow who studies on Saturday nights; or the coed more interested in biology than boys; or the Joe College in high-water pants and brightly colored shirts; or the woman who prefers to go to class in overalls. He is the star who quits a sport because he is tired of it or the coed who refuses to join a club because she can see no sense in it. They are just different that's all. Somehow or other, they are strange—they're radical!

OR

He is the fellow who complains either to the professor or to the office when a course is consistently dull; while this is a matter of professional viewpoint, he may be the man who insists on questioning dogmatically presented conclusions; or granting the administrative point of view, it may be the critic of administrative decisions.

We can appreciate the "personal affront" first reaction of student, professor or administrator, but before condemnation of the person who is critical or "different" should come a second thought accompanied by tolerance. The tolerant outlook will usually bring understanding. It is then an easy step to acceptance.

The first person to use a knife and fork instead of his hands was a radical. There was talk about radicalism when they suggested the steam-engine, the telephone, flying. Compulsory education, social security were once radical ideas. Perhaps the radical has something to offer. Doesn't progress require a certain amount of radicalism?

Brains In Maine

(The following editorial clipped from the "Boston Globe", we reprint with what we feel is justifiable pride.)

"The sturdiness of college life in Maine is one of the glories of this country, although there are enormous numbers of Americans who never realize this. That is because the Maine college is too earnestly engaged in education to go in for the sort of publicity that has been often used to attract attention to an academic institution.

"Those who appreciate the point of view of Maine faculties never look for the spectacular and are not surprised when they learn of some quiet development along cultural lines. This week-end something is happening at Bates College in Lewiston. The debating teams of a dozen Maine high schools are coming together in a tournament.

"There are parts of the country where a tournament suggests athletic skills, but in Maine this assemblage of talent means exercises intellectual.

"When the roll of the intellectuals is called it will be found that institutions in Maine stand very near the top."

DAZE DREAMING

By I-know . . .

PERSONALITY of the week: Who is THE man-about-campus — or should we say "fly"—about-campus this week? Not only this week but all the "last" weeks we've known he had the three B's for Bates: brawn par excellence in football; brains, too, as Peter's psych assistant; and certainly bravery in chapel last Saturday where he presented clearly and constructively a problem pressing and pertinent. What this college needs is more Don Pomeroy; what Don Pomeroy needs is a raft of March '40 magazines—men's especially—to christen his campaign for coeducation; and what we as students need is initiative to initiate important improvements when the opportunity is given! . . .

Bates Representatives (Bob Morris, Ruth Nucky, Marion Loveland, Dick Carroll, Beatrice Wilson, Harry Shepherd, Irving Mabee, Marty Blaisdell, Frank Coffin, Ruth Ulrich, John Tierney, Kay Curry, Dave Nickerson, Jack Lloyd, Carolyn Hayden, and Dick Martin) ushered in the New Year by blasting forth the "Alma Mater" on the corner of Boylston and Tremont streets . . . Lib pulled a fast one—her birthday tune turned out to be a surprise for the surprisers. . . Hazel Turner's birthday party must have been good—three blown fuses with the party winding up eating cookies in the hall . . . At last we know the real reason for those "honorable intentions" — "Johnnie promised me a dog . . . I love dogs and I never had a dog" . . .

"Butterball" Thorn of Roger Bill is compiling an edition of original proverbs—one that bears repeating is "He who shoots for eleven and seven, will not find himself in heaven" . . . The ambassadors of Aroostook and Penobscot counties, New Wilder, ex-mayor of Bates, and Ed Edminster, flew south once more to set their standard of approval on ye campus wishing they were back again, and boy do we! . . . "We love life" and you can buy it for 19 cents and see our own Kitty Winne as still life in the Bowdoin art gallery . . . Breaking New Year's Resolutions are in vogue . . . Most of the girls are "reduction" bound . . . The eds resolve to stop shooting dice.

OPEN FORUM

"Pomeroy Discusses Vital Problem" To the Editor:

A word concerning the Chapel address of last Saturday by Donald Pomeroy '40 is perhaps apropos because it brings to a head and hence into the sphere of concerted action a problem which has long been the subject of ineffectual and for the most part unconstructive grumblings.

On the subject of student social relations as on that of the cut system the paternalism of the college has seemed unnecessarily exaggerated. Few doubt the sincerity of the administration, but as with every form of government, many of their methods draw criticism.

Here, then, is one of several campus problems which concerns both administration and student body. There is one effective means of dealing with these matters. I offer them here for what they may be worth:

1. Form a student committee representing both sides of the campus.
2. Meet and discuss with the proper representatives of the administration, the concrete and logical suggestions made by Pomeroy.
3. Keep an open and receptive mind for the ideas and explanations of the administration, trusting them to do the same, for it is only through co-operation and sympathetic thought that we may adjust these differences, the result of our constantly changing ideas.

James R. Walsh '41.

Reception Rooms And Wolves

To the Editor:

When we have someone like Don Pomeroy to get up in chapel and bravely sally forth on a problem such as the "reception room versus wolf" one, we know that at least we have the material with which to cope with our difficulties. It seems strange that a situation which is as important as this one is to our college life has been allowed to lie dormant on the Bates conscience for such a long time. Of course, enjoying the capacity of a freshman, I wouldn't know about the efforts of previous years but I can remember nothing which had been

February 9—Everyone was glad to know that Barbara Kendall was announced Carnival Queen. Roberta Smith and Bob Morris are co-chairmen of Carnival Activities. Two new faculty members, Charlotte Parrott and Joseph Conant, were named by President Gray.

February 15—Bates Coeds were terribly disappointed to learn that Jeff Lynn is not going to be able to attend carnival.

February 22—Carnival is over and it was wonderful. The Scientific Exhibition comes soon and 4000 are expected to attend.

March 1—"Life in New York" will never be forgotten by those fortunate enough to see it.

March 8—121 students' names were read in Chapel on Honor List. Who me? Of course not!

March 15—Gym Exhibition was a big event for the coeds this week. We learned that Mark Lelyveld and Harry Shepherd will head the STUDENT Staff next year.

March 21—Kay Gould has been elected to head Stu-G, and Frank Coffin is the new Student Council president.

April 19—Peace Day demonstration today. Classes shortened for the program. I enjoyed hearing the Harvard Glee Club this week. "Ham" Dorman is president of Outing Club. Health Week began today. Early morning hikes and lots of fruit! More fun!

April 26—We all agree that Bertha Feineman should be chosen Betty Bates as the final event of Health Week. Initiation of a Co-op movement on campus is being considered. What is the campus opinion?

May 3—Frosh Sport dance. Hearts Abutter! Students disapproved of Voluntary Chapel Plan. 103 singers appeared in the seventh annual Spring Concert of the Bates Musical Clubs.

May 17—The fellows had a chance to entertain their Dads this week on the first Father's Day to be had at Bates. Mayoralty candidates are

PRESIDENT DELIVERS ANNUAL MESSAGE

This week's news revolves about one event—the assembling of the third session of the Seventy-sixth Congress. More specifically, the President's annual message on the state of the Union and the presentation of the national budget were of special importance in this election year.

The President's message before the combined House, Senate and Cabinet—as well as the entire world—was a grave, serious outline of necessary American policies in the light of unhappy conditions throughout the world. American troops will never be sent abroad, he promises, but isolation is equally impossible in the world of 1940. National defense must be increased. The Reciprocal Trade Program must be continued. America's salvation in this alone—that she justify Democracy by solving her economic problems through finding a middle path between isolation and involvement in foreign entanglements.

Criticism was as usual: some Republicans could see no value in the message; some Democrats lauded it to the skies; the middle, least-prejudiced group considered the speech one of the President's best—much in accordance with sentiment throughout America.

OF HIGHER TAXES AND REDUCED EXPENDITURES—BOTH OF WHICH POSSIBILITIES ARE SURE VOTE-LOSERS.

The President's estimated 1941 deficit is, however, less than half that of '39 and '40. Reductions are promised in work relief and farm relief (already the sparks are flying about that). General business improvement, and $700,000,000 from the excess capital funds of government corporations are big helps on the income side of the ledger.

On the other side, as the President's message prophesied, is increased expenditure for national defense. Nearly two billion of the total $8,400,000,000 is for army, navy, and air expansion.

News from abroad is varied. The Russian army is discovering that Finland is a very cold country. The Allies are giving increasing aid to the Finns and relations between England and Russia are becoming proportionately strained.

HORE-BELISHA REPLACED

Leslie Hore-Belisha was replaced in the British cabinet by Oliver Stanley. Considerable agitation has been raised throughout England as to the explanation for Chamberlain's sudden removal of the active Secretary of State for War.

British censorship of American mail to Germany has raised a minor storm cloud. The American Embassy presented a note objecting strenuously to a continuation of such practices.

Attorney General Frank Murphy became the fifth member of the Supreme court appointed by President Roosevelt. Robert Jackson became the new Attorney General.

The Dies Committee for the investigation of un-American activities last week submitted a 15,000 word report. Remarkably mild for the enthusiastic Chairman Dies, the report stated that not more than one million Americans are affected by foreign activities. About 131 million Americans are still loyal to American institutions. Dies wants more money to examine more people to find more un-American activities affecting more loyal Americans. He'll probably get it.

A board of inquiry has decided that a submarine did not sink the Athenia. Everyone who saw the ship has been found prejudiced. Unprejudiced people do not see submarines. They drown just the same, though.

Triple Header Features Hoopsters' Schedule Today

Frosh and Raiders Clash in Pre-Lims

Bobkittens Face Bridgton Academy Tuesday Night

The hoop pupils of Coach Wendall Mansfield will take to the court this evening in a duel of baskets against the habitual state champion high school team of Winslow. The game will be played as a preliminary to the Colby-Bates game.

The Kennebec County hoopsters have suffered but one defeat in their season thus far. The all-powerful five has collected the scalp of the Black Raiders while the Brewer and MCI delegations have suffered the wrath of the invaders. The MCI game was won by a one point tally that is familiar to Bates basketball fans. The loss of the "champs" was a decisive defeat.

Leading the yearling delegates against the invaders will be high point man of the season to date, Carl Monk. In the probable starting line-up with Monk will be Harlan Sturgis, Slinging Sammie Boyan, Red King, and Ted Sweet. Boyan, who played in the MCI game after a practice lay-off due to a weak knee, was unable to hit his usual stride in that game, but has resumed practice and is expected to be back in his deadeye role this evening.

The freshman win in the MCI game, illustrated all too well the importance of the foul shots scored. In that battle the basketekers of the class of '43 claimed seven foul shots out of twelve tries, while the preppers failed to collect when offered enough free throws to win the game. Thus Coach Mansfield has continued to tutor his charges in the art of foul shooting this week.

The frosh will next take to the court on the following Tuesday in a prologue to the New Hampshire-Bates game when they meet the Bridgton five.

SPORT SHOTS

By Bill Howland '40

Best performance of the week: Off-Campus hockey and basketball teams, for cleaning up in Saturday's games.

It has been a long time since we last had to sit down and pound out this column. Now that we are back at the old job things are really buzzing in Bates sportdom. In this season, probably the biggest ever, we are occupied with varsity, freshman and junior varsity basketball, varsity and freshman indoor track, swimming and winter sports, and inter-dorm competition in hockey, handball, basketball, and volleyball.

The basketball team is off—and started in stride by losing the close one at Maine. The record now stands at two wins and two losses, but this defeat at Maine was unexpected. Even Coach Kenyon predicted a Garnet win. However, the Pale Blue always is a mighty tough club to down on their home court. The game was a thriller all the way, and that brand of basketball should draw crowds in Lewiston.

Here's one for the book! You can't be a hero unless you're away from home. Red Raftery, who has been high scorer in three of the four games with the Bobcats, went home during Christmas vacation with the full stature of an established college star. Accordingly, he was asked to be captain of his alumni basketball team to play the high school team of Naugatuck (Conn.). Alas, either the high school youngsters had not heard of Raftery's reputation, or they had no respect for their elders. At any rate they swarmed all over Red during the game and held him to nary a single point on the tally-sheet.

Saturday evening, on Larry Durgin's Sports Talk, Win Durgin was interviewed anent the Garnet ski team. Win predicted this to be the top season for the Bobcats with next year not quite as good since Bob Ireland, an important cog among the ski men, will have been graduated. Win explained the various types of harnesses, ski equipment, and the terms used by skiers.

Here and There
Bowdoin has just organized its basketball team, the Independents, again this season. . . . It is doubtful if they will be added to the Bobcats' schedule in a formal game, but Buck Spinks' crew may play them in a practice session some afternoon. . . . The hockey rink is a welcome addition. . . . those interested in hockey are expected to keep the rink clear of snow—a fair proposition. . . . Coach Thompson's riddled track team received another blow when Mal Holmes met with a recurrence of a muscle injury which will undoubtedly confine his efforts to pole-vaulting, and hamper him in that event. . . . Bates could sponsor a mighty fine hockey team judging from Saturday's game. . . . Dick and Julie Thompson, Bill Donnellon, Al Topham, and Walker Briggs in the nets looked good for the off-campus club. Warner Bracken starred for West Parker, and other good players in school include Ken Tilton and Mike Bucelgross. . . . Possibly a team could be organized to play a challenge game with some Lewiston and Auburn clubs. . . . A good take-in for campus hockey fans interested in seeing how the locals play the game would be a visit to St. Dom's Arena. . . . Sunday the Cyclones play St. Dom's and fur should fly. . . . these clubs are bitter rivals for the city championship. . . . Last year the Cys beat the Doms for the first time in 17 tries. . . . this year, with both featuring reinforced clubs, their first match resulted in a 4-4 tie. . . . the Cyclones present an imported goalie in their line-up in McEwan who hails from New Brunswick.

Monk Leads Scorers To Defeat M. C. I.

In their first game since before the Christmas recess, the Bates frosh downed the Maine Central Institute quintet, Saturday evening, by a tally of 32-28. This was the third successive win for the yearlings of a three-game history. The frosh looked a little ragged in spots after their long lay-off but managed to keep six or eight points ahead of the preppers all the way.

The Bobkittens put on their first drive in the middle of the first period and went into a 10-4 lead but two last minute baskets by MCI cut their lead to 10-8 as the period ended. Early in the second period the second unit of the Mansfield machine entered the fray, where they more than held their own. When they left they left the game late in the period, they had built up the lead to 16-10. One more basket by the first team gave the Bates boys an 18-10 lead at the half.

MCI played much better ball in the second half and had the frosh hustling to hold their lead. The end of the third period saw that lead

Frosh Schedule Causes Postponement of Relays

The Interclass Relays, scheduled for Saturday, have been postponed to Feb. 17. Through some error in assembling the schedule, the freshmen have a track meet this Saturday, and thus could not compete in the relays. The freshmen are strong challengers to the supremacy of the seniors who have won this meet three successive years.

This meet will be run off in conjunction with the frosh-soph meet originally scheduled for Feb. 17. The meet will be figured on the basis of the freshmen vs. the sophomores, and the other two classes will compete at the same time and the meet will also be scored on the basis of the four separate classes.

Basketball Interest Prompts Co-ed Club

Because of the very great interest shown in the inter-dorm basketball competition, an attempt is being made to form a Basketball Club under the sponsorship of WAA. This, like the recently formed Swimming Club, will be on trial and will consist of about thirty members selected by try-outs. Many girls have signed up indicating their desire to join, and the date for try-outs will be posted on the bulletin board.

Kathryn Gould '40 and Patricia Atwater '40 will have charge of the group that will be chosen by their ability and technique in handling the ball and in their knowledge of the game. Membership in the club will also enable the girls to get instruction and practice in coaching and refereeing. If the club is accepted by WAA the girls in it will receive credit just as the members of the other sport clubs do.

With Carnival so near at hand everyone seems especially interested in winter sports. To get in some extra practice and lots of enjoyment come on out to the rink on the hill. Four hours of either skating or skiing (not a combination of both, however) will give you WAA credit and proficiency in winter sports. For the novices there will be one hour of organized skiing a week, the time to be announced later; and those who desire instruction in skating are asked to sign up with Tottie Coney '40 who is coach of Winter Sports. The four hours required for credit may be taken at any time and in any week, but no less than one hour of the sport may be taken for credit. Sign up the time and the date of the sport in the gym on the list posted.

The Round Robin tournament will get under way this week. Anyone who has not signed up as yet and who has had archery in gym can do so with Coach Shorty Bailey '41. Shooting off may take place any morning, from 1:30 to 2:30 any afternoon, and at 4:30 on any day the gym is not being used by those taking basketball.

Remember to be sure to go out for basketball so as to get in shape for the Garnet and Black tournament. There's a banner to win; and since neither team has much of an edge on the other, this is one sport which has much to do toward winning the banner. So let's see you all out there practicing your dead-eye shots and tricky guarding.

FOOTBALL SCHEDULE

The football schedule for 1940 was disclosed early this week by Athletic Director E. Monte Moore. The card features meets with no large colleges. It is as follows: Sept. 28, American International in Lewiston; Oct. 5, University of New Hampshire at Durham; Oct. 15, Tufts at Medford; Oct. 19, Northeastern at Boston; Oct. 26, University of Maine at Orono; Nov. 2, Bowdoin at Lewiston; Nov. 11, Colby at Lewiston.

Waterboys Face Week With Three Swim Meets

The swimming team will meet Springfield College at the Auburn Y Friday, according to a late announcement. Rawston, Springfield's New England record holder, will compete in his specialties, the 220 yard and 440 yard dashes.

The Bates swimming team takes to the road for its second and third meets of the season. On Saturday they travel to Portland to splash with the Portland Boys' Club and on Tuesday they invade Brunswick to clash with Bowdoin. Both of these meets should give the Garnet mermen an excellent test of their 1940 strength.

The Bobcat opponents next Saturday, the Portland Boys' Club, walloped the Bowdoin junior varsity to the tune of 42 to 24 last Saturday at Brunswick. The Portland boys swept all but two firsts and proved that they have a well balanced team.

Tuesday, the 16th, the Garnet mermen tackle their old rivals from down the river, the Polar Bears. As usual Bowdoin appears to have another strong team. Last Saturday they opened their 1940 season with an impressive one-sided victory over Boston University, the score being 54 to 21. They swept every first place and popped up with two new surprising sophomore stars, Bob Fenger and Art Keylor. Besides Fenger and Keylor, Fisher, Jenkinson, Harr, and Marble helped the Polar Bear cause.

However strong Bowdoin and Portland Boys' Club may appear, they are sure to have a real fight from the Garnet. The Bobcat prospects are much brighter than last year as they lost only John White via the graduation route. Among the many veterans of last year's team are this year's captain Harold Goodspeed and Earle Zeigler, stars in the longer swims and the free style sprints respectively. Therefore, both the meets at Portland and Brunswick promise to be close and well contested.

Maine Edges Garnet As Series Opens 51-47

The Bobcats, ordinarily a great second half team, went into reverse and were passed by a great rally made by the Pale Blue in the second half, with the final score being 51 to 47 in a furious game played at Orono Saturday evening.

Don Webster and Red Raftery led the Bobcats in a great first half spurt, scoring 11 and 12 points respectively. Raftery scored on neat passes under the basket, and Webster was superb in battling in rebounds. Brud Witty made several great one-man defensive stands when two and three Maine men swarmed down on him, only to lose the ball to this stalwart guard. The Bobcats employed a zone defense that was very effective for the first half, despite the huge size of the Pale Blue court. The first half was played with the Garnet using their organization, set plays and continuity.

Thereby hangs a tale. . . . When the Garnet plays came out for the second half, they promptly started playing free lance ball. Messieurs Tracy, Small and Wilson started connecting with long shots and the Bobcats lead of 34 to 27 at the end of the first canto started to evaporate. The large near-capacity crowd was on its feet for nearly the entire duration of the second half in which the Garnet only scored 13 and the Pale Blue counted 24 points. However, with only four minutes to play the Garnet was still ahead by two points, when instead of freezing onto the ball and slowing down the game, the Bobcats played faster than ever in an attempt to bolster the lead. The result was that Maine's forwards broke through for three quick baskets in a demonstration that let pandemonium loose in the gym. Harry Gorman and John McSherry showed amazing speed, while Artie Belliveau came through with some beautiful passes in the few minutes that he played.

Colby Invaders Here For First Series Home Tilt

The Colby team has lost to New Hampshire, Trinity, Clark, and Hartwick, while they have defeated Northeastern and St. Anselm's. Reports from the Waterville campus claim that the pass-work has been good all season, but the Mule eyes have not started clicking until recently.

The Garnet squad will probably be favored in tonight's game by the so-called experts on the basis of their records and their promise as a team. However, to win tonight and thus stay in the running, the Garnet will have to play more consistent ball than they played at Maine. There has been too much temptation to keep pace with their opponents instead of sticking to their own attack which has been proven capable of use under fire.

Coach Spinks will probably start Red Raftery and Vic Stover at forwards, relieving them with Harry Gorman, Art Belliveau and Johnnie McSherry. The find of the season, Don Webster, will start at center, and he will be spelled by Ray Cool. The old dependables Kenney and Witty, will be back in the old stand at guard, with Norm Tardiff ready to hop in for Howie, and Fred Whitten replacing Brud Witty.

The game tonight will probably be quite a battle and if past games are any criterion, will be decided in the last few seconds. If we are wrong on the last prophecy, it will certainly be a relief to weak-hearted Bates fans.

Hilltoppers To Attack Jayvee Hoopsters Today

Within the next few days the Jayvee hoopsters will clash with two unknown opponents in an attempt to climb into the win column. This afternoon they are slated to tangle with the stalwarts from Kents Hill. Little is known of the strength of the Hilltoppers except that their teams are always worthy of respect. On Friday they face the Portland Y team.

While they dropped their first encounter to the powerful Hebron team, there is every possibility that before the season is finished the Bobcat seconds will have a creditable record. Coach Spinks voiced the opinion that the outfit is functioning as a unit better than last year's group did at any time during the season. McLeod, Aucoin, and Raymond are a trio of smooth workers who are coming along fast and every man on the squad is potential varsity material. As a whole the greatest need is actual play-experience to give the men polish and self confidence.

Brown To Speak At Annual Stu. G. Banquet

Monday night, Jan. 15, is the date of the annual banquet of the Women's Student Government Association. Mr. Rollo Walter Brown, the guest speaker, will lecture in the chapel after the banquet.

In addition to Mr. Brown, the guests will be President and Mrs. Clifton Daggett Gray, Dean Hazel M. Clark, Dr. and Mrs. Edwin M. Wright, and Prof. and Mrs. Paul Whitbeck.

The committee in charge of the affair consists of Frances Clay '40, chairman, Ellnor Wilson '40, Ruth Ober '41, and Virginia Day '41.

Engagements . . .

Next year Hazel wants to teach English somewhere in Massachusetts and then in about a year from this next June they'll be married, and, if possible, they will live in the southern part of New England.

Stanley Williams—Mildred Stevens
Stanley Williams '40 was engaged to Miss Mildred Stevens of 101 Montrose avenue, Portland, on Christmas eve. Miss Stevens is a graduate of Deering High School, Westbrook Junior College, and Boston University. She is employed as a secretary in the business offices in the Maine Eye and Ear Infirmary in Portland. "Stan" is also a graduate of Deering High School and attended Portland Junior College. At Bates he has been active in many clubs and outside activities. No date has been set for the wedding.

June Good—William Soule
The announcement of the engagement of June Good '41 to William Soule was made during the Christmas holidays. Mr. Soule is a graduate of Bowdoin College, a member of the Student Council there and the Zeta Psi fraternity. He was also a star track and football man. He did post-graduate work at Boston University and last summer received his M.A. at Bates. They plan to be married in June.

David Jennings '41 and Patrick Harrington '42 debate the University of New Hampshire this noon before the local Kiwanis Club with the visitors, Stanley Shmiszkis '40 and Forrest Parsons '42, proposing isolation as the American foreign policy.

Tuesday night two junior varsity teams are debating before a Leavitt Institute audience at Turner Centre on government ownership of railroads in which Stanley Smith '42 and David Nichols '42 are speaking on the affirmative and Thomas Howarth '42 and Robert McKinney '42 upholding the negative.

Last Minute Changes In Courses Announced

The following are last minute course changes as announced by the office of the Registrar:

History 212 will not be given; Philosophy 330 will not be given; Philosophy 330 will be given; Geology 202 will be open to freshmen who have taken Geology 101.

Gordon Philip Eglintine who is employed by the General Electric Co. Miriam stated that no date has been set for the wedding.

Rivals Renew Clash As Thornton Meets Frosh

A freshman track squad, termed by Coach Ray Thompson to be the smallest in years, will inaugurate their season this Saturday against Thornton Academy of Saco, in the local cage.

This year's frosh squad numbers only 14 members, the smallest turnout in years. Several prospective point winners have deserted the running game and turned to skiing this winter and this combined with the loss of Strachan, a star hurdler, makes the outlook none too bright.

Coach Thompson is counting on a couple of his cross-country men to come through with a majority of the points in the coming meet. McLauthlin, the undefeated cross-country star, is figured to take down laurels in both the mile and the 1000, while Ken Lyford, also a member of the harriers, is counted on to bring home the bacon in the 600, the broad jump, and the low hurdles. Other men to watch are Welch, Tufts, Gates, and Thompson.

The highlight of the meet will probably be the high jump duel between South Portland's Tommy Winston of the Frosh and Ladd, Thornton star. These two boys were keen rivals in high school competition, each holding several victories over the other and they will be eager to continue the clash.

The freshman squad is made up of McLauthlin, Lyford, Welch, Winston, Tufts, Gates, Thompson, Boucher, Metzlevich, Hamlin, Stoughton, L. Smith, Howarth, and Vaughan.

Garnet Tangles With Wildcat Five Tuesday

A rampaging Wildcat basketball team comes out of its lair in Durham, New Hampshire, to scratch with the Bobcats Tuesday evening. The New Hampshire quintet is stronger than ever this season and is out to continue their streak of victories over the Bobcats.

In their last game the Wildcats bowed to mighty Tufts by a score of 47 to 38. The Wildcats showed a well balanced scoring front as every one of nine players entered the scoring column. In the backcourt the NHU team boasts of Griffiths who, although a guard, has been the team's high scorer in several games. Matt Flaherty, hammer throw champ and All-New England football player, teams up with Griffiths at the other defense post. Monica plays center, and the flashy forward, Cryans, holds down one offensive post. Cryans is a sophomore and is rated as one of the best forwards to enter the New Hampshire institution. Adams, a consistent floor man, teams up with Cryans. Leading substitutes include Zedorsky, Hodgson, Plante and Hall, the last named being another football star.

The Bobcats will floor Witty and Kenney at guard, Webster at center, Rattery and either Stover or Gorman at forward.

John McSherry will see plenty of service as a substitute, as will Artie Belliveau, Normie Tardiff, and Pete Haskell. Fred Whitten and Dick Raymond also may see service.

Intramural Program Announced For Week

sliced by one point and the tally reading frosh 22, MCI 15. Coach Mansfield again sent in the reserve unit as the last quarter began, but they didn't fare as well. As MCI started a potential Frank Merriwell finish, the starting five returned to the game. The score was then 28-24. Baskets by Norm Boyan and Ted Sweet put the game on ice and the laurels were showered on the frosh for a conquest in their third straight win.

Outstanding players of the game were Carl Monk, of the invading team, and Mickey Pulla of the preppers. The pair tied for high score honors of the evening each collecting a tally of ten points. Monk scored four baskets in six attempts, and held a 100% average in the free throw column by claiming two for two.

Review of Year . . .

November 1—Frosh rules dropped today. . . that is all but coed rules! Too bad, Freshmen! "Our Town", the first play of the season, showed up even New York productions.

November 15—Mothers of Freshman and Junior women had a busy week end. I wish I lived nearer school. A flying course was offered to Bates students. Poppy Giles was the first coed to enroll. A memorial to "Goosey" Chase is to be in Coram Lib.

November 22—The Library is to be open on Sundays from now on. It certainly will help. Soph Hop will be this week. Thanksgiving dance.

December 17—Varsity initiation. As usual. "Buff sed! Went to hear Burton Holmes give a lecture tonight.

December 19—Norman Marshall was elected President of the Freshman class. Well, when I come back from vacation 1939 will be over. 1940 at Bates ought to be bigger and better! Let's help make it the best yet! Happy New Year!

But Professor Walmsley will not forget Bates entirely on her leave for she is already scheduled to speak at the Bates New York club's next meeting.

done in the past three months about the situation until Mr. Pomeroy took the floor last Saturday.

Everyone knows that the "reception room" and "wolf" conditions are bad ones. The administration, faculty, and least of all the Bates students do not have to be told that what goes on in the reception rooms is not a good idea, nor does it make sense to any of them that a boy who takes two girls out should be dubbed a "wolf". It is because we are a small coed college that such difficulties are present but that doesn't mean that they can't be overcome.

The "wolf" problem is a complex one because evidently it is an old Bates tradition to go steady. However, if the reception room problem were solved the "wolf" one would be minimized. Mr. Pomeroy's suggestion to cure the evils were good ones. Perhaps we cannot have a new joint game room or a soda bar in the near future but why can't we start off in the right direction and have radios in the reception rooms, allow the girls to have small parties, and serve light refreshments. (Leave it to a Bates man to suggest food!) Bates students, thank goodness, are not too blasé to get together and have fun playing games, dancing, and eating. The reception room would become the place for the gang to get together and have a good time. If this became the thing to do the couple-in-every-couch-corner-business would go out. Being with the crowd would be less important and there would be less emphasis in going steady.

The response of the student body to Don Pomeroy's speech showed how much they are interested in improving the situation as well as how much they appreciated Mr. Pomeroy in general for getting up on his feet and starting something about it. As for you, Mr. Editor, the STUDENT ought to be a real help in such an enterprise, don't you think? It is a good Hecate who keeps the witches' brew well stirred.

P.S.—Orchids to Don Pomeroy!

To the Editor.
We would like to place an emphatic stamp of approval upon the suggestions set forth in the recent chapel talk on coeducational conditions.

One of the most most helpful and needed ideas seems to be the initiation of a coed playroom where it would be possible for the "guys" and girls to get together during the day and play such games as ping-pong, pool, cards, etc. Obviously this suggestion seems to point toward "downstairs" in Chase Hall and obviously that would arouse justifiable objections on the part of the eds who prefer privacy. However, isn't it within the realm of possibility that somewhere, aside from the present male domain, a room could be found that might be appropriated for coeducational amusements?

A suggestion that was missed — that has been wandering around campus intermittently for quite awhile is the instigation of Vic-dances for an hour or so, following dinner, two or three times a week. This is one idea that doesn't appear to involve any drastic changes in the present order and probably Vics and records would be donated willingly by the students. These are suggestions which, if followed, might be a decided improvement. If there are enough people who think so, why don't we work for it?
