We launched the canoes and then left with the cars for Gardiner. Some the canoes underwent considerable fitting with flags, fishing gear and otha paraphernalia. Dave Sawyer and m McMurray rigged a sail of a mincoat stretched across some branches. While we paddled downstream with the current, they scudded along past us tilted at a dangerous angle. The little procession of canoes straggled down the stream with those tho were trolling taking up the rear. As we neared Horseshoe Pond, Hal Wright and Hal Hoskin were fuddenly caught in a cross-current at the same time as the wind took them over and tipped their canoe. While they shivered on the shore, some of us brought up their canoe as others lit a good fire over the knoll.

About the merry fire was circled a fing of branches with various parts of clothing steaming in the heat. Beaind this a little group warmed themselves from the cold north wind which swept over the hill. We ate our lunch, and the hot coffee and cocoa list "hit the spot". As we were finhing our lunch, John Daikus came and caught, while Clyde Glover was cause nobody wanted to take the time

When we reached the heal of navigation at a little bridge, we just turned about and glided back with the easy current. Some of us went on ahead into the Cobbosseecontee River and missed a sharp left turn. A full gale was blowing now so we coasted merrily along for two or three miles before we realized our mistake. We had reached Pleasant Pond by mistake.

The return trip back up the lake was anything but pleasant with whitecapped waves breaking over our bows and the wind threatening to capsize our frail and leaky craft. We had our choice of a forced landing on the rocky shore or a cold swim in the middle of the lake if we relaxed our efforts for one minute. From 3:30 until 6 p. m. we fought our way against

Eight Candidates Take Honors Examinations

Exam Results, Other Annual Awards To Be Announced Soon

Six senior men and two wo candidates for Honors in their major field, are this week taking oral examinations conducted by various groups of faculty members. All theses were handed in last month, and this is the final step before the results of this year's Honors work is made public.

The candidates include the following students: Richard Dearborn in the English Department, who took his exam at 1:30 on Monday; Arthur Tiffany, Religion, 3:30 on Monday. Yesterday at 1:30. Frank Bennett took his in Chemistry, followed by Stanton Smith at 3:30 in the same course. Today, at 1:30, Hope Newman in Sociology, and at 3:30, Betty Scranton in Sociology and Economics, take their finals. Tomorrow, Leslie Warren, Psychology major, and David Weeks, Education and Sociology, will appear before an examining board.

No definite date has yet been determined for the annual Honors Day, but it will probably occur during the middle week fo next month. Present plans call for the announcement in Chapel at this time of several other nominations and elections, in addition to the honor students.

It is expected that the gold Phi Beta Kappa keys will also be awaided for "distinction in scholarship, integrity of character, and promise of intellectual activity in after-college life". New members of Delta Sigma Rho, national debate society, the College Club, for outstanding senior men, and the Bates Key, for senior women, will probably be revealed at this time.

The Clason Key has made plans to ccomodate about seventy-five fathers on the third annual Father's Day, May 24. Letters have been sent to all fathers and to all the men students requesting their presence at the affair or which a detailed program has been prepared. Jack Curtis, administration advisor of the club, is trying to work up a short program of speeches and informal singing at the luncheon, Saturday. May 24.

The Clason Key will have an election soon to choose the new members to its roll who will help to carry cut the plans for this annual affair.

Swim Club Stages Neptune Water Play

Coed Mermaids Unravel Life Story Of Sea God's Son

Starting with the scene in which Father Neptune, Mother Neptune, and qualified swimming instructor teach little Nep Jr. to swim, the girls of the Swimming Club will unravel the story of his life in their demonstration, YMCA. Such familiar pictures as the old swimming hole scene, the young overs who stroll on the beach, and he traditional marriage ceremony will be traced as Neptune passes through these stages in his development. The close of the demonstration will be a swimming formation routine.

The whole club will participate in the performance and all the girls have worked on some committee. The invitation committee, with Ruth Steven. '42 as its chairman, has sent invitations to the women faculty members who are interested in the club's work. Coed students who wish to go may obtain their tickets from the members. Ruth Ulrich '42 has charge of the costumes, and Muriel Swicker '42 has taken care of the properties. The publicity committee, headed by Christine Williamson '42, has placed posters in the various dorms. The guests will be greeted and seated by Barbara Moore 44 and Elizabeth Moore '42, ushers.

Banquet, Awards Mark WAA Play Day, May 22

The annual Play Day sponsored by WAA will take place May 22. This event marks the last gym of the year ball game between the Garnets and Blacks under the directorship of "Lib" Stafford '42.

It is hoped also that the finals of the interdorm tennis matches will be played off. "Terry" Foster '44 is in charge of this part of the program. "Marty" Littlefield '43 heads all of the committees. There will be games and relays for those not interested in baseball and tennis. Refreshments will be served at the end of the program.

In the evening the annual WAA banquet will take place in Fiske Dining Hall, and at that time awards will

Smith, Antunes And Flint Line Up Strong Campus Factions

The opening verbal shot in the ighth annual Mayoralty Campaign will be fired a week from tonight when the three candidates appear on the Bates-on-the-Air program. Seek_ ing election as tyrant of the campus this year are Dick Smith '43, George Antunes '43, and Wally Flint '43.

Smith is being backed by the Ski and Discus Club and the Candy-for-China Committee. His manager is Dick Wall '41. Antunes has as his manager, Al "Dandruff" Topham, Topham promises the support of the Pen-May 16, at 8 o'clock, at the Auburn guin Club for his aspirant. Flint will be managed by Finley "Labrat" Cogsweil and Bill Lever, both of the class of 1941. Flint's managers claim that they have sewed up the vote of the coed side of campus.

Candidate Smith issued a statement for the press early this morning. It read: "When I become mayor, I'm going to be king". Strangely enough, Mr Antunes, an opponent, has been quoted by political reporters as having said: "When I become mayor, I'm going to be senator". Mr. Flint, the third candidate, says nothing but continues to smile. All of which has left the political dopesters quite bewildered.

Monday night the candidates and their managers appeared before the Student Council. At that time rules and regulations regarding campaign activities were discussed and agreed upon by the parties concerned.

Rowe Explains Draft Reclassification To Men

Speaking to the men of the three lower classes who have registered under the provisions of the Selective Service Act, Mr. Harry W. Rowe explained last Monday night in Chase Hall how they will probably be affected by the reclassification of students. The talk was primarily directed to

Bursar Endorses Insurance Plan

The Bursar's Office has announced that it will continue to endorse the Accident insurance plan which guarantees to reimburse the parent for any and all expenses up to $500 incurred from any accident to the student during the college year. It covers all accidents, including sports, sustained at college, home or traveling between school and home, regardless of how, when, or where

Mr. Ross has stated that the company which offers this policy has made tentative plans to change the cost from five dollars to six for women and from ten to twelve for men, to cover the individual for the entire year, not just from September to June.

Normal School Group Arranges Sunday Vesper

Next Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock group of students from the Farmington Normal School will present a vesper service in the Chapel. During the service there will be talks by two Farmington students, a vocal soloist, and two violin duets.

The Farmington group will present this service as a gesture of gratitude to the Bates deputation group which offered a similar vesper service at the acrmal school in March. Gentlemen And Scholars

The ideal college man, someone has said, is both a scholar and a gentleman. Intellectual development is, of course, a vital part of education, but it is only half of the picture. The college man or woman must also be educated morally, must have an active sense present. of good taste, and of good manners.

Bates is certainly not a college of uncultured ruffians. On the contrary, it would probably be a hard job to pick out 700 people Robinson Players who demonstrate, as a whole, better evidence of a regard for the feelings of others. Much as we may laugh at "empty traditions," we can't disregard the existence on this campus of some sort of Phil-Hellenic college spirit. The Bates "Hello" is a tradition which our so-called sophistication makes us mention in hushed tones, but the important fact is that we actually do abide by the custom of speaking to people when we meet them. There's little doubt that all Bates men and women are essentially decent.

But there's little point in handing ourselves bouquets. We may mean well, but that in itself is worth somewhat less than nothing day, May 12, at 7:00 p. m. in Room at all. If we make a habit of breaking windows or falling asleep in 25, Carnegie. class, it does no good to protest that we meant well.

Good Taste?

Are there then, some common courtesies in which the students of this college are lax? On a few occasions, an impartial observer might answer an emphatic Yes. It is not, after all, particularly good form to wish someone a cheerful good morning and then let a heavy door swing in his face. And most professors are strangely uninspired by the sight of a roomful of men with a half-inch Prof. Carroll. growth of beard on their faces.

We feel personally-and we may be wrong-that the men mitory one or two minutes past the deadline. are worse offenders than the women. Nor is this true simply because the feminine chin is invariably clean-shaven. Bates women are simply more careful about their appearance than the men, more polite in their contacts with the faculty, more trustworthy in their work and in their obedience to rules.

This is not a case of all black and all white. Many men show themselves to be-horrible word-true gentlemen. And the girls may occasionally slip up, as anyone who has had occasion to telephone the senior women's dormitory will bear witness. But, as a group, it seems increasingly evident that the female of the species is more courteous than the male.

Evidence? The much-maligned honor system. How many men would be as honest as are the women in their observance of their self-enforced rules? The men fail utterly to understand the spirit! don't want to.

Social Symphonies

Despite the many theses and lastminute work to be caught up before exams, this beautiful spring weather has lured many of our fellow students away. Pril Simpson, Dotty Matlack. Lib Stafford, Dolly Milliken, Chris Williamson, Ardith Lakin, Janie Hathaway, Ruth Wyer, Netta Barrus and Tempy all spent the week end at Tempy's cottage. Betsey Corsa, Pris Robinson, Peg White, and Jane Woodbury went away to Jane's house in Madison, N. H. Dot Frost and Dode Borgerson went nome together. Barbara Stanhope was away for the week end. Elaine Bush and Joe Clopeck spent the week end in Framingham. Ginny Simonds went home as did Vonnie Chase and Lee Santilli, Betty Kinney, and Eva Fow-

There was a general exodus from Hacker House. Pril Bowles, Dotty Ross, and Ruthie Carey went home. Ginny Wentworth went to "Green Key" at Dartmouth. Hacker made up for this loss by the advent of Barb Johnson's sister who spent the week end, and an unexpected visit from their former proctor, Ruthie Nuckley.

This beautiful summer-like weather ilso took three of Milliken's freshmen-Phil Chase, Mary Anne Gross, and Carolyn Parkhurst went to Phil's cottage.

The Senior girls gave a shower for Olympia Frangedakis last week. It was under the direction of Marge Lindquist and Jean Ryder.

Several of the girls were fortunate in having visits from their parents. Alice Spooner's father came all the more, and Mim Cram also entertained company from home. Mrs. Leonard, Nancy Gould's mother came up togerespective daughters. Phyl Hicks entertained Priscilla North, Subfreshmen were guests in Chase and Whittier.

The Senior girls neglected the Bates Entered as second-class matter at mary after their sojourns there.

They have some regard for the spirit of the law, as well as the letter. They smoke where they are permitted, and they manage to refrain from it at other times and in other places. In short, they are more ladies than the men are gentlemen.

We repeat again that this is not a wholesale condemnation. The entire student body has a high average in that almost intangible quality of cultural background. But instead of scorning the weak-kneed attitude of the women, the men might sometimes strive a little harder to gain an appreciation of a type of honesty which makes people be good even when they don't have to-or

By DOROTHY FOSTER '42

The pendulum of public opinion has swung steadily from non-intervention tactics to definitely belligerent aid for the democratic countries. Contributing to this change in feeling were the sequence of events beginning with Poland, and running on to an arousal of sympathy for Britain and France, the institution of a cash-and-carry policy, the swapping of fifty destroyers for base sites in the Western Hemisphere, the passage of the lease-lend bill, and just recently the proposal of the House of Representatives that the United States take over all foreign shipping now idle in our ports with the view of "pooling" them for use in handling supplies for Britain.

This ship-seizure bill is the farthest stretch of legislative lease-lend policy yet attempted, but fades to insignificance when one considers the possibility of the United States convoying its trans-Atlantic shipping. Three figures of prominence have come forth to advocate such a measure, Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard, and Wendell L. Willkie. Some recent polls indicate that 71 per cent of the people also feel this way. President Roosevelt's views may be expressed this evening, when he delivers a major address on foreign policy to representatives of the Pan-American Union.

Winston Churchill spoke last week in the House of Commons, receiving from the members a 447-3 vote of confidence and an ovation. It was his first anniversary as Prime Minister, and his

In an attempt to close the great port of Liverpool to American goods, the Germans bombed it night after night last week, hoping to cripple this second largest seaport of Britain. The people looked to the RAF for protection, which came through with surprising effect. This was due, observers believe, to the bright moon that lighted the sky. It is still problematical that the Royal Air Force can cope with night raids as successfully as she must.

Coming from behind in the last two Rowdoin won by taking a first or three events, the freshman track team remained undefeated thus far in its outdoor season by taking the measare of three other clubs, Hebron Academy, Lewiston High and Rockland High. The final score gave Thompthe field events and one in the son's crew a 17 point edge over the Hebron tracksters, 68-51, with Lewiston climbing into third place with 321/2 and Rockland settling back in the cellar with but two markers.

Surprising strength in the weight events provided the frosh with the win as they took all four in that department, as well as two out of three of the field events. Of the seven running events the frosh, who had pre viously been unbeatable, captured but two, Bert Smith in the half mile run and Hal Hoskins in the 220 yard low

Jack Shea once again stole the scoring honors with thirteen points, chalking up firsts in the javelin throw and the 12 pound shot as well as a second in the discus. The versatile Gabby Deering, who racked up 13 points in the last triangular meet with Brunswick and Cony, took but three points with a couple of thirds in the broad jump and the quarter mile.

Coach Thompson withdrew the name of his ace miler, Smith, from this event to see just how fast a half mile this powerful lad could turn in. In the most lop-sided run of the day, Smith missed getting under the two-minute mark by just a shade less than one second as he romped home in 2 min. 3-5 sec.

Hebron built up its chances around two boys, Barber and Patterson, who participated very creditably for the neighboring prep-schoolers. Barber, as a result of his two firsts and a tie for third, took 111/2 points while his speedy teammate took the two dashes as well as a couple fourths for a ½ point edge over Barber's total. None of these, however, was the high scorer for the meet. This honor went to Larry Brimigion of the Lewiston Bluestreaks. With a win in the high hurdles, seconds in the high jump, broad jump and pole vault, and thirds in the short dash and the low hurdles, Larry rolled up a healthy 171/2 points, over half of his club's total.

Bates winners were as follows: Larrabee in the hammer with a throw of 150 ft. 7 in.; Eastman in the discus at 103 ft. 1 in.; Shea, of course, in the net divot-diggers 5 to 4 in a match shot and javelin; Bruce Park with a held recently at the Martindale course 5 ft. 6 in. high jump; Crean with a 10 ft. 3 in. vault; Hoskins in the low hurdles at 27.6; and, as we have mentioned before, Smith's great perform- ped up the Bowdoin contingent. ance in the half mile jaunt.

Bobkittens Drop 7-6 Thriller To Streaks

Six Runs In Hole, Frosh Tie Game Up But Lose In Ninth

After overcoming a six run deficit, the Bobkittens weakened and dropped a 7-6 decision to the strong Lewiston streaks, in a contest staged last Wednesday.

The Streaks opened the game with a bang, and aided by sloppy fielding by the freshmen scored two runs in the first, one in the second and third, and two more in the fourth to take a six run lead.

With big "Panche" Boisvert on the mound for Lewiston the lead looked insurmountable as the later innings rolled around. For five frames "Pan cho" had Bates completely helpless only one ball, a lazy looper to left, was hit out of the infield and there was not the resemblance of a base hit for five innings.

Then with none out in the sixti Tom Young, who was tossing them up for Bates, socked one to left-center on which the left-fielder almost made a beautiful catch. It went for a double i'om scored the first Bates run as Card and Melody hit successive singles. That made it 6-1.

Then in the seventh the unexpect ed happened. With two gone Davis singled to right. Young singled him to third. Keller lined one through the box into center scoring Davis and sending Young to third. Kell stole second and scored with Young as Joey Larochelle whistled one over shortstop into left. He went to third on Card's single to center. After Card To Beat Hebron 5-4 stole second both runners scored on Melody's bullet drive over third and the score was tied at 6-6. Genetti ended the inning by popping out.

The ninth was disastrous from Bates viewpoint. After retiring the first man Young walked Parent, the big Lewiston catcher, who went to second as Boisvert was being thrown out at first. Parent scored the winning run on Leahy's single to left. The frosh started a mild rally in their half of the ninth, but Card, after walking, was thrown out attempting to steal for the third out. Final score: Lewiston 7, Bates 6.

Instantly one of the fellows stepped to the bats and straightened them, a worried look coming across his face at the same time. As is well known, to let a team's bats stay crossed is one of the quickest ways to jinx that team-according to common baseball superstition. It i surprising how superstitious baseba players, as a class, are. Many a base tall player has become as famous for as for his ability.

One of the best known pet superhat Eddie Collins used. Eddie always hewed gum in the field but when he came to bat he stuck it on the button of his cap. That is, he stuck it on his cap until a pitcher happened to get wo strikes on Collins. Then he invariably stepped out of the batter's box and took the gum from his cap and started chewing.

To bring the example up to the present we can cite Johnny (Double No Hit) Vander Meer and his pet belief. Ordinarily Johnny is as easy a is in the business, but he just won't as a southpaw pitching arm.

At the Bowdoin debacle the other, consider giving a fan his autograph o day an incident occurred which was the day he is to pitch. Bob Fellor, probably overlooked by most, if not contrary to common belief, considers all, of the spectators. During one of it very good luck if he strikes out the the early stages of the game, before first hitter and consequently Bullet

Perhaps the oddest if not most su perstitious ball player ever to don a pair of spiked shoes, was Connie Mack's eccentric but most capable left-hander, Rube Waddell. As likely as not the Rube would not be around when the game he was to pitch was about to begin. When this happened, the patient Mr. Mack just sent out the nearest policeman and told him the familiar story. Often as not they would ais little odd habits and beliefs as he find Waddell playing ball with a bunch of school boys out fishing, or just imbibing quantities of liquid restitions of a ball player was the one freshment. On this last score, it was often told how Connie's "net" foiled a detective, sent to take care of him, by getting him drunk. But the best story about him is about a contract dispute the Rube as he was called, had with Mack. Mack couldn't get his star southpaw to sign his contract. After much prying and persuading, the Rube was enticed to sign, but only after the club put in a clause which forbade his catcher and bunk mate from eating animal crackers in bed. After this incident Connie Mack always maintain going, and as obliging a ball player as ed Rube had a southpaw brain as well

Gains Hurls Six Hitter

Combining some lusty clouting with fine pitching by Bob Gains the freshman baseball team held onto an early lead just long enough to whip a mediocre Hebron nine 5-4. The win was number three for the freshmen and the third straight loss for Hebron.

Hebron jumped into a two run lead in the first half of the first inning on a walk, an error, and two very feeble singles. But Keller, first man up for Bates, smashed a liner over third for a single to start the ball rolling, and the inning ended 2-2.

There was no more scoring until the fourth when Bates pushed over two more runs making it 4-2. A baseball oddity occurred when Lee Davis hit one into right-center for a home run only to be called out for not

In the sixth the frosh squeezed in what proved to be the winning run, seventh and eighth mainly because Gains' effectiveness was impaired by what Hebron claimed was a balk with men on the bases and which the umpire was not sure of. The final score was Bates Freshmen 5, He-

Hunter Hits, Pitches Mates To Victory; Garnet Hopes Fade

The Bowdoin Polar Bears came from gated port-sider, holds over the Black behind to claw the Bobcats 9-4 in a Bears continued as the Auburn hurler game curtailed to six and a half inheld them in check and enabled his nings by rain. In recording their fourth State Series victory the winners came up with a seven run sixth Dick Thompson started the ball luning during which they chased Mike Matragrano to cover and paddled Al Wight for a couple of hits before he could retire the side.

This victory must have been doubly sweet to the Brunswickians, for not only did it place them firmly on top of the State Series flag chase, but it represented a personal victory for Bounding Brad" Hunter, Bowdoin's ace hurler. Hunter and his mates in defeating the Bobcats, rather firmly third on a passed ball, and scored on put the first nail in the coffin which encloses Bates' hopes for a state championship.

> The home diamondeers started the contest as if they meant to hand Hunter his second k.o. in recent weeks. After a quiet first inning the Garnet cosened Hunter from four runs, Witty started the uprising with a vicious iner off the pitcher's shins. Del Johnson fouled off a couple of attempted sacrifices and then pounded a single into right. Josselyn moved the runners to second and third with a beautiful sacrifice. Julie Thompson then drove one deep to left and when over misjudged the liner it went for a double and scored Witty and Johnson. After Mullet had fanned, Matragrano helped his own cause by slicing a single to right, Julie stopping at third. On the next pitch Matragrano went unmolested to second. Art Belliveau then drove both runners home with a clean single to center.

In the fourth Bowdoin sliced this advantage in half when Coombs walked. Small doubled to left-center, and Dyer drove both runners in with a clean single to left. Then came the first of two deluges, this ene from Bowdoin bats. Small opened the first of the sixth with a walk, Dyer singled to left and then stole second. Harding walked and Hunter came through with a single. After Dolan went out, Briggs kept the massacre going with a single to center and then Bonzagni doubled to left. At this point Matragrano left and Wight took the mound. Bell greeted him with a double to right and Coombs caused Al some more embarrassment when he singled to the same spot. national manifestations. Without question, the next most popular sport was bicycling. This too was an all-around year sport, though the big season was in spring time. Professional bicycle races attracted the attention of thousands of fans. Each year, during the summer, there was what was called the "Tour de France", a hard race consisting of 32 stretches of 100-200 miles each, and covering a large part of France, including the high mountains and big cities. This famous race was an internationally open contest. For the last three years this race was won by the came Belgian racer, who collected something like $12,000 each time. Incidentally, American pictures were very popular in France, especially in Paris where out of 325 theatres, 125 would present American pictures exclusively. Dancing also differs entirely from that in the United States. No girl of good family is allowed to enter a night club or stay out too late, until she is 21. The chances are pretty good that a college man or women would not even be accepted in a night club. In general, no one dances in public places until he is of age - or considered of age!

Robinson Players Honor Officers At Buffet Supper

Last Monday evening, the Robinson Players met at the Women's Union at 6:00 to honor the officers of the past season and the graduating members of the club with a buffet supper. This annual party has been revived after a ment were guests. John Tierney '42 served as head of the committee in charge of the supper. The retiring of-Catherine Winne, vice-president; and Rowena Fairchild, secretary, all of the senior class.

Shows Modern Techniques

On Tuesday, May 13, the Dance Club sponsored the showing of two reels of movies entitled "Design for Modern Dance". This is the first dance appreciation film to be used for educational purposes. The films were silent, having printed titles explaining the philosophy, methods, techniques and purposes of modern dance. The studies illustrated several approaches to composition through movement, rhythm, design, and meaning. The movies, which were half an hour in length, were shown in Rand Gym at six-forty-five.

Senior Class Girls Hold Open House And Dance

in Chase Hall last Friday night, May 9. Previous to the dance, there was open house at Rand chaperoned by Dean Clark and Mrs. Kierstead. No doubt closets were stuffed with knickknacks but several of the most popular rooms were well supplied with

In charge of the open house at Rand Hall and the dance at Chase Hall were Helen Woodward, Jean Atwater, Norma Field, Fran Wallace with Jan McCaw as chairman.

Navy Officer Shows

Lieutenant-Commander Donald E Dement, senior medical officer and flight surgeon, U. S. Navy Aviation Cadets, showed two films, "Navy developed in France. The only trou- Wings of Gold" and "Eyes of the Navy", at an open meeting of the Bates Flying Club last night at 8:00 in the Music Room, Chase Hall. After the films, Commander Dement answered various questions proposed by the attendants about naval aviation.
