Alward Plans Maine CA Conf.

The Bates delegation will have charge of recreation at the annual Maine Area Conference of Christian Associations in Augusta this weekend.

Robert Alward, chairman of the conference, states that its purpose will be "to acquaint CA leaders with the problems they will be facing and to provide them with some methods of overcoming these problems."

Aiming at a delegation of 15 students, Frederick Dickerman is in charge of registration at Bates. All students are eligible.

"Our Task in World Crisis" is the conference theme. William Stringfellow and Dr. Peter Bertocci, formerly a Bates professor, will be among the speakers on topics related to this theme.

Lasting Friday through Sunday, the conference program will include a panel discussion on the World Student Service Fund, an explanation of the structure of the Student Christian Movement, and group discussions on the work of the separate commissions and of the movement as a whole.

The conference will be held in the Augusta YMCA and Congregational Church.

One Act Play Features Dramatic Club Meeting

"Portrait of an Old Lady", a one act play by Richard Madden, was presented last Wednesday night at the regularly scheduled meeting of the Robinson Players.

Those in the cast are: the old lady, Elaine Annas; attendant, Anne Sparta; Jerry's mother, Joan McCurdy; Emily, Natalie Conner; the doctor, Adelbert Jakeman; Andrew, William Dill; dancer, Hugh Penny; lad, Max Bell. The assistant director is Jane Seaman.

The plot revolves around the reminiscences of an elderly woman. In a series of retrospective day-dreams, the principle events of "the old lady's" past are revealed to the audience.

Debaters Council Selects Members

Varsity teams have been chosen for this coming debating season here at Bates. Members of the varsity squad are: Arnold Alperstein, Robert Alward, Jean Chapman, Ray Cloutier, Joseph Dow, Barbara Galloupe, Edward Glanz, Jean Harrington, Gordon Hiebert, Evelyn Kushner, Richard McMahon, Charles Radcliffe, Marion Schwartz, William Stringfellow, and David Tillson.

Freshmen try-outs were held Monday, Oct. 6 with seven being selected for the freshman debate squad. Some have experience in high school debating and speech. Max Bell, from Wilmington, Del., was senior class orator. Art Knoll, Seymour, Conn., figured in debating and round-table discussions and was honor speaker at graduation. Richard Nair, New Britain, Conn., was captain of a club debating team and featured in oratorical contests. Other freshmen chosen for the squad are Wilfred Barbeau, Haverhill, Mass.; Donald Peck, Hollis, L. I. N. Y. and Rae Stillman, Wareham, Mass.

Freshmen Meet In Discussion Groups

Freshman discussion groups met for the first time last night in ten faculty homes. "Leisure time and extra-curricular activities" was the topic discussed.

Organized by Scotty Mason, chairman of the CA Freshman Commission, the groups will meet with their student leaders three more times in the same faculty homes. On Oct. 28 the discussions will center around the topic, "effective study."

"Dorm life" is the subject scheduled for Nov. 4. At their final meeting Nov. 11 the groups will consider "religion in college life."

Refreshments are served at each meeting of the discussion groups.

Year's Plans Outlined By Future Teachers

Under the leadership of George Billias '48, president, the local organization of the Future Teachers of America discussed plans for the coming year in a recent meeting.

It is the purpose of the organization to create or simulate an interest in teaching among Bates students. Well known members of the profession, and authorities on education are to speak at its meetings this winter.

The Future Teachers intend to take part in the Maine Teachers Association convention scheduled for the end of this month. The club extends a general invitation to students interested in teaching to join the organization at a meeting to be held before the convention.

College Appoints New Frosh Advisory Board

A board of advisors for freshmen has been appointed, consisting of the following faculty members: Charles H. Sampson, chairman, Lawrence D. Kimball, Fred C. Mabee, Arthur J. Monk, Paul Whitbeck, Clinton Ray Thompson, and Robert E. Daniels.

The function of this board, as the name suggests, is to advise freshmen in any matters related to their college life, scholastic or otherwise. The members of the board are anxious to be helpful and freshmen should not hesitate to present problems to them.

Stu-C Discusses Current Problems

At the weekly Student Council meeting held Wednesday night, October 8, Freshmen Rules were the first subject of discussion and it was agreed that any alterations of those rules would have to go through the council before being put into effect.

On October 14 and 15, four Bates girls on the staff of "The Prologue," a magazine published by the four Maine colleges, will be taking a poll on fashions, and Freshmen men will be permitted to speak with them during that period on the subject of skirt-lengths.

It was decided that 20 Freshmen, taken in alphabetical order will be drafted to help with chairs before and after each rally.

On the subject of training tables for those out for athletics, Mrs. Cross asserted that instead she will endeavor to increase the quantity of food for all the men. The idea of colored cards for the different time-periods for the evening meal will be discussed with Mrs. Cross.

In a conference with Mr. Moore it was learned that the J. V. numerals are expected in a few weeks and three of them will be presented to last year's cheerleaders. Basketball can be played Saturday afternoon until 3:00 o'clock when dances are being held in the gym that night.

Students are asked to cooperate at the 'commons' by permitting the members of the football squad to eat first.

If enough students are interested, a train for the Colby game will be made for the cheerleaders and also wives of the players.

A recommendation for co-ed luncheons was approved. The First Regional meeting of N. S. A. is being held at Mt. Holyoke October 25-6 and Stu-C hopes to send a representative.

Vote Bates Man O-At-Ka Head

Also at O-At-Ka last spring Robert Alward was elected chairman of the Maine Area Conference of Christian Associations to be held in Augusta this weekend.

William Stringfellow is co-chairman of next spring's annual conference of the Student Christian Movement in New England, it has been announced by the Boston regional office of the National Student Christian Movement.

Stringfellow was elected on the third ballot in the final session of the legislative assembly at the conference last June. In the first ballot he was voted into a three-way tie with Harry Barns of Amherst and Ernest Howells of Harvard, who is now co-chairman of the National Student Christian Council.

Stringfellow, recently returned from the World Student Christian Conference in Oslo, Norway, was chairman of the BCA Public Affairs Commission which managed Political Emphasis Week last year. A junior representative on the Student Council, he is a charter member of the Bates chapter of Student Federalists and has been active in the Politics Club, in the Canterbury Club, and on the varsity debate squad.

Seniors Register

The Placement Office urges the members of the senior class, particularly those who will have completed their work at the end of the first semester, to get the proper registration papers from the office as soon as possible so their papers may be in order when inquiries are made by prospective employers. Seniors who will be graduating in June are also welcome to register during the first semester. There is no fee for this registration.

Faculty At Bates Increased By 17

Seventeen new hands have joined the Bates faculty and administration since last spring.

In the language departments, Miss Isabelle Brown now teaches German and Latin. A graduate cum laude from Mt. Holyoke College, she has her master's degree in classical languages. Formerly a teacher in Vermont, Miss Brown has also assisted in the art and archaeology department at Mt. Holyoke.

Mr. Arthur Monk, who attended the University of Massachusetts and the Bread Loaf School of English, is new to the English department. After two years' service in the army, he returned to Yale and received his master's degree. He has taught English at the University of Massachusetts and the Junior College of Commerce in New Haven, Conn.

Miss Ruth Lawrence, now a member of Coram Library staff, received her AB at the University of Richmond in Virginia, and her master's degree at Drexel Institute of Library Science, Philadelphia.

Miss Barbara Varney '46 is now director of the News Bureau. She has taught at the State School for Girls in Hallowell.

In the women's physical education department, two new members of the staff are Miss Patricia Robinson, who received her AB at Connecticut College for Women, and Miss Patricia Rowe, a Bouve-Boston School of Physical Education graduate. Both instructors will teach hygiene and physical education under Professor Walmsley.

New to the sociology department is Mr. Xenophon Michopoulos, who received his AB and MA degrees at Boston University. Before entering the teaching profession, he was a criminologist and staff member of the U. S. Prison Association of Massachusetts.

Robert Daniels '47 now a mathematics instructor. A member of Phi Beta Kappa, Daniels taught science in New Milford, Conn., while taking graduate work at the University of Connecticut.

Edward S. Herman, instructor in economics, received his AB and AM at the University of Pennsylvania. He is a member of the American Economics Association.

Mr. Roy Fairfield '43 is a new instructor in cultural heritage. Associated with the Saco-Lowell Mills (Continued on page two)

Facilities Increased For Vets' Payments

With a record number of 1,325,000 World War II veterans expected to enroll in colleges this fall, the Veterans Administration has increased its facilities to handle the payment of subsistence allowances. Veterans should plan to receive their first subsistence check no sooner than November 1. This check will include all subsistence allowances accrued during September and October.

Those veterans whose study costs are in excess of $500 have the choice of paying the extra costs themselves or letting the VA pay the excess amount. The VA however, charges one day's entitlement for every $2.10 paid in excess without allowing the accompanying subsistence allowance.

Veterans studying full time in colleges and universities under the GI Bill will no longer have to make periodic reports of earnings unless the total earnings are greater than the amount they estimated when they registered. Veterans taking part time courses in regular colleges or full time courses in business schools, secondary schools, vocational or trade schools and technical institutes are still required to report earnings once a semester.

Tea At Dr. Vernon's

A tea will be held Sunday, October 19th at 4:00 p.m. at the home of Dr. Vernon 336 College Street. Mrs. Amos Hovey, Student Counselor of the Womens Society of the Lewiston Union Baptist Church is in charge of the tea.

Initial Meetings Held By Clubs

Philologia Holds First Meeting

Philologia held its first meeting of the year Tuesday night, Oct. 14, in Room 5, Hathorn. The business session was under the direction of the officers: Frances Briggs, president; Genevieve Wallace, vice-president; Helen Rankin, secretary-treasurer; and the new-appointed adviser, Miss Isabelle Brown.

Tentative plans for the year were discussed and the members were especially asked to consider the annual Christmas party which will be held some time in December. It may also be decided to postpone the November meeting because it falls on the day of the Bates-Colby football game.

A program of Latin and Greek games, including riddles, word puzzles, and a brief review of Philologia's history was presented by Rachel Eastman, the program chairman.

MacFarlane Club

Last night the MacFarlane Club, a member of the Maine Federation of Music Clubs, held its first meeting at Libbey Forum.

After the business meeting, Mr. Crafts spoke on "The History and the Founding of the MacFarlane Club". A program was presented consisting of two piano selections by Edith Routier, two vocal solos by Mary Skelton, and a violin rendition by Carlton Davis.

Lawrence Chemical Society

Last night an organizational meeting of the Lawrence Chemical Society was held. After a program committee was elected, the purpose and program of the society was presented to new members.

The officers for the coming year are: president, William Chamberlin; vice-president, Fern Dworkin; secretary, Marilyn Roth; treasurer, Helen Papaioanou.

SCM Will View BCA In Survey

The Bates Christian Association will be one of the four or five such campus organizations to be investigated this December in a survey by representatives of the Student Christian Movement in New England, it has been announced by the Boston regional office.

This was decided at a meeting Oct. 4 of the New England organization's study committee on the purpose, nature, and function of the local college organizations which make up the NESCM. William Stringfellow is a member of this committee.

The committee plans to conduct its survey with a view to the possibility of making the local Student Christian organizations more consistent with each other. The BCA was selected because of its situation in a small, coed college and because of its unique policy of maintaining non-sectarian membership.

Stringfellow expects to circulate a questionnaire to all Bates students and to collect other fundamental data before the arrival of the NESCM representatives.

Stu-G Meeting

At the Student Government meeting held Wednesday night, Oct. 8, plans were made for the opening of the Women's Union on Frye street for coed entertaining.

The student Government also drew up a plan whereby each town girl will choose a dorm with which she will be affiliated. She will thus be able to attend all house meetings and parties and the Student Government hopes that a closer connection between the town girls and the dorm members will result.

Tufts Bows To Bobcat; N. E. Is Next Hurdle

Student Interest Aim Of "Garnet"

The main aim of the "Garnet" this year according to new editor 'Em' Stehli is to "get kids interested and make them feel it's their magazine." The staff hopes not to have it confined to those few "who always write for the 'Garnet.'" The student's writing should be expressed in good literary style and founded on concrete reasoning. Humor in good taste is welcomed. The Declaration of Principles and Policies will be printed in the first issue.

The manuscripts, are judged as objectively as possible and without prejudice by members of the advisory board: John Ackerman, Charles Plotkin, Leon Wickup, Ann Lawton, Joyce Cargill, Wendell Wray, and Alida Wilson. The staff this year consists of Emily Stehli, editor, James Fasco, Associate Editor, William Perkins, Art Editor, Hugh Dinwoodie, Business Editor, and Dorothy Stetson secretary to do proofreading.

Students who will write for the Garnet are asked to attach a sealed envelope with their name inside so the board members can always discover whose work was accepted, after impartial judgment by each member. Acceptance and rejection slips will be sent out to contributors by the staff.

The deadline for material to be published in the Fall issue of the "Garnet" has passed, but the next deadline will be approximately December 14, since the second "Garnet" comes out in January.

Any person who wants criticism or help on their material may indicate this on his manuscript and the editor will be glad to relay to him criticisms which board members made while judging the material.

Outing Club Plans Outing At Sabattus

Final plans for an afternoon and evening trip to the Sabattus cabin, October 18, were made at last week's Outing Club Director's meeting. A baked bean supper will be served in traditional camper's style.

The afternoon will be devoted to clearing brush from the trails while the evening program will include dancing and other entertainment. Registration for the Sabattus trip can be made immediately.

Other business at the director's meeting included the appointment of Bert Knight and Nancy Norton-Taylor to the directorships of Cabins and Trails to fill the vacancies left by Al Catheron and Molly Ramsay who is now Club secretary.

Vail, Kovler Present "Beat Tufts" Rally

The "Beat Tufts" rally was held in the Alumni Gym last Friday night. Planned by Bob Vail, the program was led by Abe Kovler, master of ceremonies.

Talks by coaches Ducky Pond and Ed Petro gave everyone pep and confidence.

The hit of the evening was Floyd Smiley's pep talk to a ragged bunch of freshmen posing as the Bates varsity. Three freshmen "girls", Ace Bailey, Larry Jenkins, and George Stewart, led the crowd in some rousing cheers.

Music was provided by the trio of Waring, Lloyd, and Lategola on the piano, clarinet, and electric guitar respectively. The college band and the cheerleaders contributed much to the success of the rally.

The fighting Bates Bobcats suddenly came to life in the last quarter of their game with Tufts last Saturday and with Art Blanchard and Al Howlett taking turns with the pigskin, marched sixty-two yards to a second touchdown, and with it a 12-7 victory. Up to that time, the Bobcats had been trailing by one point for over half the game.

The Garnet's first score in the second period came as the result of an intercepted pass by Howlett and a quick kick by Blanchard which went outside on the two yard line of Tufts. They punted a few plays later and Blanchard returned it to their 34 yard line. Howlett went around end to the 27. Blanchard advanced the ball in two plays to the 5 yard stripe, Nick Valoras brought it to the 1 foot line, and Art scored on the next play. Thomas failed to convert.

A few minutes later saw the Jumbos recovering a Bobcat fumble on the home 12 yard line and they were back in the game. Doliner scored in two plays, and his conversion was good. Tufts led 7-6.

In the final period with fourth down and the ball on the Bates 38, Tufts had three yards to go for a first down and elected to try a rush from punt formation. The Bates line held and the Bobcats had the ball on their own 38. The home fans immediately sensed the situation, with less than half a quarter remaining.

The Bates march to paydirt took nine plays, featured by a beautiful 21 yard advance by Howlett. On the final dash, the Garnet line opened up a big hole for Mr. Blanchard, who raced 15 yards for the (Continued on page three)

CA Plans Its First Meetings

The first meeting of students interested in work on the Christian Association commissions will be held in the chapel next Tuesday night, Oct. 21, at 7 p.m., it was announced by President Harvey Warren at last Wednesday's CA cabinet meeting.

Luella Flett, as vice president, is in charge of the program, which will be followed by organizational business meetings of the nine commissions.

The cabinet agreed that the CA should handle a drive for funds to send underprivileged Lewiston-Auburn children to camp next summer. This project was initiated last spring by a group of students headed by Mr. Norman Temple, '47, who as a graduate recently passed the idea on to the CA.

Five boys were enabled to attend the YMCA camp in Winthrop for one month each during this past summer. Patricia Snell's Community Service Commission will manage the drive this year.

EXTRA-CURRICULAR POLITICAL EMPHASIS

The eyes of many millions of people are anxiously focused today on the explosive international situation. And their minds are wondering whether the two great polar nations, Russia and the United States, are prepared to follow the logic of their present policies until they possibly culminate in a devastating third world war.

Here on campus, to be sure, political awareness and civic responsibility have been emphasized again and again by recent chapel speakers, Harry Jobrack, Bill Stringfellow, and Ray Cloutier all have related the vital need for international political thinking. And President Phillips himself in his First Chapel address re-emphasized the importance of position to the successful fulfilling of the third aspect of the Bates Plan when he stated "From all of you... the society whose cultural heritage you share... can expect intelligent voting and a deep and abiding interest in the community life of the area in which you... live."

Curricular vs. Extra-Curricular

The core courses in economics, sociology, and especially government are likewise doing much fine work to develop this needed political awareness. HOWEVER, extra-curricular activities too should help to instill this sense of obligation. Perhaps indeed extra-curricular activities are MORE important for they involve spontaneous student activity and develop initiative of the type which will be needed as we reach the age of active citizenship.

All three of the primary extra-curricular organizations in the political field are considered in essence "departmental" clubs by the Faculty-Student Activities committee and therefore each can meet only once a month for a one hour period. They—the Politics Club, Student Federalist group, and the Public Affairs Commission—must compete with each other and with two dozen other organizations such as the French Club or the CA Social Commission for attendance on the Tuesday nights set aside for club meetings. Thus these organizations are severely limited in scope. Moreover, the CA as a whole has planned as yet no programs comparable to its last year's Political Emphasis Week and its United Nations discussions of the year before and is not likely to. Thus it appears that unless something is done about it this year it is likely to be one which will see a negligible number of campus-wide political discussions. We believe that this situation is distinctly deplorable.

Two Proposals

Therefore we propose two proposals the following two steps—at least for discussion.

- 1. We urge that the Politics Club, Student Federalists, CA Public Affairs Committee, Debating Council, and the student government organizations set up, together with the STUDENT, an informal committee to stimulate and coordinate extra-curricular political education at Bates—through Chapel programs, library exhibits, etc.
2. We urge secondly that this group seek permission of the Faculty-Student Activities Committee to sponsor a series of monthly campus-wide political discussions held either in the dormitories or in the Little Theatre. Sponsored in rotation by the various above listed organizations, these political discussions we believe, could become a Bates tradition, valuable both to Bates and to Bates students.

We have, we think, established the need for more extra-curricular political discussion. We have likewise, we think found possible means to remedy the situation. We therefore propose them to you for your discussion.

GOOD NEWS

Our ardent hopes for a happy world in the days to come have received a good stiff shot in the arm recently. According to Mr. Le Master and Mr. Covell, there seems to be more co-eds taking Government courses these days than there usually have been in the past.

Just what desires have motivated the fairer sex we really don't know. Maybe their best beau is taking the course and they can't stand too much separation. Maybe they think the instructors are cute. Or maybe (and this we hope and think) it is a sign of growing political maturity among college students.

We hasten to add at this point, that political immaturity is not exclusively to be laid at the doorstep of our fairer sex. It has been usual, however, to have most political science courses show a great numerical majority of men, if not an intellectual majority. It is for that reason we interpret this change as a healthy sign.

We will not attempt to summarize the values of these courses nor even to discuss the value of an enlightened people in a democracy—something these courses help to bring about. We will say, however, that if certain institutions which have protected us for many years are to be kept, we need enough political consciousness so that we will know when they become threatened and take the proper steps to preserve them.

What Does NSA Offer To Students?

By Harry Jobrack
(This is the second of a series)
"Isn't it true that Bates has more to offer the National Student Association than the NSA can offer to Bates?"

This question has been asked of us many times since Burt Hammond and I introduced NSA to this campus.

The answer is, "YES, BUT ONLY AT THE PRESENT TIME!" Let us remember that NSA is a new organization. To be accurate and legal, at present there actually is no such association per se, for NSA is operating provisionally until the constitution is ratified by a majority of the colleges present at the constitutional convention.

If we examine what we must give to NSA, the list is rather brief, although not unimportant. Financial support totals a $35.04 per year assessment. We will give them information for their research polls on such items as student government structure and function; conditions of student social welfare, housing, and physical welfare; the courses of instruction; and many others. Most important of all, we would be giving our name, and, as a member college, to a certain degree we would share in responsibility for NSA's actions and statements.

Now let us look on the credit side of the ledger. Once again, to be accurate and fair, we admit that it will probably be at least a year before Bates could receive any concrete benefits from membership in NSA, and it will probably take several years before the full program is underway.

Once the association is fully organized and operating, however, there will be no organization on this campus that will not benefit from this association. Further, I openly challenge any individual to spend a half hour's conversation with me and remain convinced that to him, NSA has absolutely no value whatsoever.

NSA's ambitious program takes time, effort, and money. No one section of that program has universal appeal, but taken as a whole, the various parts can't fail to coincide somewhere with the interests of any student on this campus. But NSA's plans cannot succeed unless it is backed by its members and unless that membership becomes large enough so that the National Student Association can truly say that it represents the students of this country.

New Faculty

Mr. Norman Temple '47 is replacing Prof. Quimby in the speech department this semester. Mr. Temple, who was graduated cum laude, was one of the Bates debaters, who toured England and Scotland last fall.

Two additions to the medical staff are Dr. Rudolph Haas and Dr. John James. Dr. Haas succeeds Dr. Goodwin, who has completed 25 years of service. A graduate of the University of Berne Medical School, Dr. Haas interned in Switzerland and served as resident physician at Boston City Hospital.

Dr. James, a Bates graduate of 1942, is assistant physician in charge of medical care for the men's athletic groups. Mrs. Dorothea Powers, Spanish and Latin instructor, received her A. B. and A. M. degrees from Boston University where she was a member of Phi Beta Kappa. During the war she worked overseas with the Red Cross.

Dr. Dalton, assistant professor in the biology department, received his A. B. and A. M. degrees from Wesleyan College in Connecticut, and his doctorate degree from Leland Stanford University in California. A Phi Beta Kappa member, Dalton taught at Rochester and Brown before coming to Bates.

Peter Waring, organist and instructor in music, received his A. B. and A. M. degrees in music from Harvard. He has taught at Kingsley Preparatory School in N. J. and Mercersburg Academy in Penn. Prior to his arrival at Bates, Mr. Waring served with the Army.

Surface Noise

Was he a Trojan or a Greek? God or mortal? Looks like we're back in the grind again what with cultural heritage keeping all the chairs in the Libe occupied. That one and seven o'clock dash for "The Iliad" is worse than getting into Mike's during chapel period.

Uh, huh, that intriguing twosome Waldo and Donny are still playing the field, girls. Betcha can't catch 'em!

The cat class over at Carnegie seems to be getting underway early this year. Mike Lategola has his specimen all skinned and covered with a fig leaf ready for dissecting, but poor Lee Fox's cat escaped from the basement of Parker and now she has to find another. Good luck, Lee!

Little Stevie Waring has got a finger in the pie, too. Didn't you see him conducting the band at the football game? And by the way, haven't we got a terrific band?

Over at Mitchell House there is a good Samaritan who keeps the fellows happy. It's Al Sparks whose generosity with all of the food that comes from home has won him fame with his dormmates.

But here is the latest scoop: All you have to do, girls, is let our Bobcats know which one of the members of the opposing team you're dating Saturday night. They guarantee no more cut lips!

Before signing off let's all extend our best wishes for a very successful season on Broadway to Anton Mainente, one of our Lewiston pals and a former Bates man.

See ya' next week. Gotta run to the Libe and get in line for an "Iliad".

Whit.

Revised Football Band Has Up And Down History

By Marilyn Bayer

MacNamara might have had "the finest in the land", according to his Irish backers, but they'd have to concede that Mr. Waring's football band at Bates could have given them a run for their money.

Exhibits A and B are the Trinity and Tufts games. Besides keeping the student body on key throughout "The Bobcat", the band during the half and before the game, gave forth with the marches and songs which should always be part of a football game. The rallies also surely owe much of their success to the spirited music of the new football band.

Complete With Helmets

For the historians in the crowd, here's the tale of how it all began: About 22 years ago, someone on this campus felt that Bates should have a band. With lots of effort and little financial support, a band was formed under the direction of Mr. Seldon Crafts, then in charge of the Bates music department.

Ackerman Gives Frosh Advice "Tact, Blackjack Work Wonders"

By John Ackerman

Welcome to the fellowship of educated men, Class of 1951. Your jour de gloire has arrived. Behind you lie the gray Azores of high school, ahead the Sargasso Sea of college.

You are now surrounded by freckless sophomores, sophisticated juniors, and blase seniors. But most of all, you are surrounded by your roommates.

With respect to these, be intolerant of nothing but intolerance. If your roommate likes to hang from the chandelier by his tail and sing "Colombo" — smile and be patient. If he or she steps on your face while climbing into an upper, don't bite. Merely point out in a firm, but courteous tone, that your face, appearances to the contrary, is not a door-mat. And add that if it happens again, the offending foot will be replaced by a bloody stump.

However, if your roommate minces when he walks and sings contralto, notify the administration. He is obviously a Harvard man.

Share And Share Alike

The problem of studying with four in a room is not as bad as it seems. Tact and a blackjack work wonders in quieting noisy companions.

Clothes-storage is often a problem and is best solved by wearing your roomate's. If your roomie has a tux while the three of you have tickets to a formal, point out that only a heel would not loan a tux to a friend. This works — sometimes.

College may be an ivory tower, but the faculty mans the battlements. Next step up from your roommates are the ladies and gentlemen who instruct you.

Pitty Your Teachers

For no good reason, there is often a tendency to regard the faculty in a light other than human. This is a grave error. They are beset with all the problems that our parents are, plus our parents' kids. Can one blame them for, occasional fatigue? Year in and year out, they must cope with sincere students, bootlicking goldbricks, glib memorizers, and blank-faced boneheads. That they unflinchingly do so is proof of their depth, sincerity, and guts. They are easy to get along with if you grant them the same courtesy and attention you give to your roommates.

Inattentiveness in class has torpedoed many a Q.P.R., thought in some required courses, the professors are resigned to it. But that resignation does not carry over to hour writtens and finals.

When you are graduated, you will have many pleasant memories of the faculty — of "Doc" Woodcock demonstrating an oscilloscope with an ancient recording of "I Must Have One More Kiss, Kiss, Kiss" — of "Sammy" Harms cheerfully informing you that, while your parents may think you wonderful, the faculty sees you only as a biological consequence — and many more.

The Hot Potato

A step up from the faculty comes The Administration. The students and The Administration have many things in common. The students' best interests, for instance. Here the disagreement comes when an effort is made to define "best interests". If the faculty mans the battlements, The Administration holds the drawbridge — mostly against the high-cost of living. Perhaps we should be thankful that we have no greater cross to bear.

One aspect of The Administration's job could be defined as an effort to correlate the students' biological instincts with their Christian ethics. The subject of morals is a hot potato lateraled from the parents to The Administration and intercepted, whenever possible, by the students.

Among The Administration's accessories is the cut-book. The importance and sanctity of this awful tome cannot be exaggerated. On its word, you could be acquitted of criminal assault or swung for murder. With the blind impartiality of the Recording Angel, it records your losses to temptation — and forgives you not. The good intentions with which you paved the road to Hell are here. Here also, the good that you have done is interred and the evils you have done live after you. Check the cut-book closely. It never conceals, but it seldom lies.

The Wide World Beyond

Also present is the library. Here — if they're in — are many of the books you'll need to get through Bates successfully. Downstairs are found all regular magazines you will require — Life and The Saturday Evening Post — while upstairs are found the reference shelves.

Note the two graceful statues — one of General Washington denying that he wants a presidential nomination and the other, the classic "Greek About To Take A Shower".

Beyond the campus lies the wide, wide world — Lewiston. Lewiston is on the Androscoggin River,

CA Is Way To Church Unity

By Bill Stringfellow

(This is the second of a series.) I mentioned last week that a unity developed at the Oslo Conference that somehow transcended all of the differences of characteristics, belief, and custom among us. The ease with which we were all able to talk and become friendly with foreign youth demonstrated this sense of togetherness.

It was, however, precisely as we realized the depth and profundity of our unity at Oslo that we became acutely aware of the tragedy of the division of the churches we were representing at the conference. To an American-hardened to this condition of numerous and competing denominations—the disillusionment that came with this awareness was devastating.

I felt personally the impact of this realization at the great celebration of Holy Communion in the Norwegian Lutheran Cathedral in Oslo. The service lasted that Sunday morning for three hours while 1200 of us from every land received and worshipped together in a moving and tangible witness of the basic unity that we had discovered in the World Conference of Christian Youth.

But the disillusionment which was felt at the conference because of Christian disunity in the world at large was a creative disillusionment. For there resulted from our meeting together concrete plans for the formation of a World Christian Youth Commission which will unite the agencies that sponsored the Oslo Conference, integrate the follow-up program of the conference on a world level, and carry forward the pioneering effort of youth initiated at Oslo and directed to ward the ultimate achievement of an ecumenical church.

The formation of the World Commission, which is to be culminated within a year, has significance for us at Bates. The Bates Christian Association now takes on new importance because it is the channel through which all of us can join in this pioneering effort begun at Oslo. No longer can any of us properly regard the CA as simply an isolated campus group. Rather it is more than ever a part of the ecumenical movement which the late William Temple has called "the most important fact of our time."

To strive in all its functions and services to achieve a unifying motivation of the character and intensity of that developed at Oslo should be the constant objective, I maintain, of our CA and of all those who desire religion to become a basic, respectable, and vigorous factor in college life.

as you can tell by the smell. In town there are several good movies, a couple of good restaurants, one bar for every 150 inhabitants or thereabouts, and some other items best left to the Board of Health reports.

When you don't have an hour written some Monday, take advantage of an Outing Club trip. West and north of Lewiston lie endless lakes and mountains, east lies as beautiful a coast as the world knows.

To come to Bates and not see Maine is to go to Boston and not see Scollay Square.

Frosh Squad Engages In Competition Friday

By Joel Price

This autumn, freshman football offers a popular addition to the Bates sports curricula. With the charge comes a person who will direct all freshman sports throughout the year. He is blonde, Erwin Heuther, genial and indeed very capable.

A glance at the individual positions reveals the following contenders for starting assignments in Friday's home game with Huntington Prep.

At the ends Jack Greim and Hal Cornforth holds a temporary advantage. Jack, a 5 ft. 11, 179 pounder competed four years at Marlboro High as a center, guard and end. Hal is a 166 lb. trackman, converted from a fullback, in which capacity he performed for three seasons at New Bedford High. Leading under studies are Mo Morrison and Glen Collins.

At center Dave Kuhn, sturdy 6 ft. 1, 190 pounder, maintains a slight edge. Dave, hailing from Framingham, Mass., was a stalwart letterman there. Al Dunham and Larry Fischer provide reliable depth.

Roy Faulkner will most likely get the green light at left guard. Migrating from far off LaGrange, Ill., Roy was a regular tackle there for two years and in 1946 was captain of the Huntington Prep eleven. Don Russell and "Chick" Somers are contesting for right guard, 6 ft. 1, 184 lbs., Russell has three seasons of football under his belt while small, 146 pound Somers has five years of pigskin background.

Middle, J.B. Dominate First Week Intramurals

The second game of the 1947 intermural football season opened on October 7th when John Bertram toppled Smith North 12-0. A highlight of the game came when North was down in scoring position. North passed down to the line where J. B.'s fast back Rog Howard intercepted and went the limit to score.

Not taking any bets or anything, but if Smith Middle continues to play the brand of ball they played in the game of October 8th they season's crown. In their encounter with Off-Campus, Bill Simpson should have no trouble taking this was Middle's big factor in carrying away an easy 33-6 victory.

Smith South got off to a bad start by losing to J. B., 18-0 on last Thursday. The J. B.'s had the game from the start as South failed to threaten throughout the game. John Bertram's passing attack was flawless compared to South's many intercepted attempts to pass into scoring position. Jenkins hit pay dirt twice for J. B. and his teammate Bob Strong went into the end zone once.

All games are played on the main Garcelon gridiron, and mgr. Abe (himself) Kovler issues a special invitation to all coeds to come out and cheer their favorite down to victory.

Walt Sorenson

"Wimp" halfbacked for two seasons at Methuen High. Ralph provided Attelboro High with a capable backfield man for two years.

Shirley Hamel looks impressive in the left halfback spot. Speedy and shifty, Shirl was a monogram recipient for four campaigns in football and captained the Bridgton contingent last fall.

At right half are Roland Keans, Roland is a drop kick specialist Ray Lindsey and Herb Bergdahl, and will attempt freshman conversions.

Around Garcelon

The student body had occasion to spend a very anxious half game Saturday as the ball kept changing hands with Tufts one point to the better. The complexion quickly changed as Art Blanchard and Al Howlett, aided by the midgets Norm Parent and Jesse Castanias, plus the entire Bates line, proved that they rank with the best ball handlers in small college football.

In a game played Monday which was too late to make the intramural story on this page, Middle continued to overpower all challengers by tripping up North, 14-6. The Middies were sparked by a new freshman sensation (Coach Heuther, take notice) by the name of Tony Zonerelli. He scored both touchdowns for Middle. North scored on a pass from Don Davis to Lefty Stephanian. (Courtesy of A. Kovler, Ltd.)

Coach Pond is exceedingly pleased with the work of his boys. In addition to the first eleven of two weeks ago, he feels that such men as Perham, Hawkins, Porter, Tessicini, Thompson and Valoras have made marked progress since the season began. Another man to watch is Ed Noel who may get into action at end.

It is our intention to include timely news from WAA every week, since in this age of liberalism (?), women must receive their just share of attention. All girls who would like to contribute interesting material during the course of the year should contact Minnie Chiotinos at East Parker.

Four men who reported for varsity football after the roster was made up and who have not received previous mention are: Joe Mitchell, wing back; Bill Rutter, tackle; Don Newton, tackle; and Red MacArthur, end.

Nick Valoras is coming along in fine shape as a replacement for any one of the above mentioned backfield quartet. He has been gaining the much needed experience that is bound to pay off in future games.

Angelosante Plays Great Center Game

Al Angelosante, "the boy with the musical name," is the well-known center of the football team, completing four years of athletics at Bates.

"Ange" as he is known to most, is a "State of Mainer", hailing from Old Orchard Beach. There he attended high school before Ange's athletic endeavors included transferring to Hebron Academy. In his prep and high school days basketball and football.

The Navy V-12 first brought Ange to Bates in 1943. In '43 and '44 he played with the informal football and basketball teams. Then the Navy sent him to Columbia and from there out to sea.

Ange returned to Bates in 1946 to perform at both center and tackle for Ducky Pond's gridiron champs, and at guard for Petro's championship quintet. In the spring he was out for track to round out a full athletic schedule for the year.

Ange was the team captain for the first two games this season, an honor accorded each year to the leading seniors on the team, (Continued on page four)

ON TO NORTHEASTERN

By John Heckler
On Saturday, Bates moves down Boston way to meet Northeastern University. For the Bobcats, it will be the last non-series contest of the '47 grid campaign and their only Eastern Mass. appearance of the year.

Northeastern started the season off by dropping a decision to a strong Springfield team and then traveled up to Orono, only to be set aside by the powerful Maine club 26-6. Last Saturday saw Northeastern hit the win column with a 14-6 nod over Devens. Their brand of ball has steadily improved, and the Huskies will be waiting to avenge last year's 20-0 win by the Bobcats.

Coach Johnny Grinnell has an entirely revamped team this year. The reserves are more dependable, and his backfield has been injected with insulin, this particular variety called Herb Von Euw. "Big Sid" as his teammates call him is a top flight line-crasher and was responsible for all the Huskies scoring last Saturday. Their line is big has been hampered by injuries all season and has not been at full strength at any one time.

The Bobcats head into Huntington Field in good shape, the best they have been in all season, and the kickoff is scheduled for two. Rumor has it that a liberal representation of the Bates student body will be on hand to watch the alma mater in its last test before series action starts against Maine on the following Saturday here in Lewiston.

Look At WAA Finds Full Fall Program Of Athletics

By Nancy Norton-Taylor

The W. A. A. hockey season is underway. Fifteen or twenty girls have come out each week to get some exercise and join the fun. There is ample opportunity for a beginner to learn the basic strokes, for an ace to perfect her fancy ones and for everyone to have a good time just beating the ball up and down the field. This fall sport, managed by Pat Cartwright and Judy Witt, is the first of the W. A. A.'s regularly conducted seasons.

The doubles badminton tournament started off with a slam last week as nine pairs of girls played off their first rounds. The competition is close and the scores are high. Even dark horse competition is included, as the playing abilities of the freshman team of Bovine and McKee are relatively unknown. The tournament is now in its second week with two more to go. The team which wins three out of four games takes the title. The teams competing are: Jackie Jordan and Phyl Webber, Rita Stuart and Carol Jenkinson, Lee Davis and June Zimmerman, Jane Cathart, and Rella Sinnamon, Barbara Chick and Shirley Mann, Jane Brown and Kathleen Kelly, Jo Cargill and June Cunningham, Bev Young and Dot Collins, and the two freshmen.

Just because you're no expert doesn't mean that you can't play at all outside class, so come practice those techniques you've learned. The outdoor courts are available any time that there are no classes using them, and the same holds true with the gym in bad or too-windy weather.

Voluntary health training started for the girls this week and a quick poll reveals that a large percentage of the girls are going "on training". That means not quite so many trips to the Hobby Shoppe and the butt rooms for those who are on it. It means we go to bed before Walt Beaupre's "Are You Lonesome?" program. It's well worth it though, to know you're living up to the best health rules of food, showers, and sleep. A year of training is a prerequisite for any W.A.A. awards and requires a girl to cut down her smoking, to get sufficient sleep, to eat three well-balanced meals a day with a minimum of eating between meals, and to take one of those refreshingly cool showers first thing every morning.

Bike Trip

How about joining the gang for a bike ride this Saturday afternoon out near Lake Auburn with a stop for refreshments? We'll leave soon after lunch and be home for supper.

Cross Country Team Drops First Decision

The Northeastern University cross country team defeated the Bobcat harrier by a score of 20-41 last Saturday on the home course. Coach Thompson will take his team up to the University of Maine this weekend for their second meet.

Jim Mahany led the Bobcat entries in the scoring by coming in third. Jascha French placed fifth, followed by Joe Brown (tenth), Don Wilson, and Dwight Quigly Jr.

On Friday, the freshmen harriers dropped a 25-32 decision to Gardner High School.

Four Maine College Units To Found New Magazine

College students are actively interested in social, political, and economic affairs and should be given a chance to voice their opinions through an inter-collegiate magazine. This was the opinion of two enterprising Bowdoin men, Roy Gallant and Don Strong. During the summer they thought of an idea to combine the four Maine colleges in a magazine, under the title "Prologue." It is their belief that through contributions from all four colleges the magazine will present a composite picture of opinion and thought from college students in Maine. The purpose of the publication is to reflect these opinions of students, to publish and edit the magazine exclusively by students, and to circulate it through the colleges as well as on newsstands outside the campuses.

In addition to articles on current affairs and topics of a non-fiction nature the magazine will seek fiction writing to add variety. Short stories, poems, essays are to be featured. Under the heading of art, story illustrations and fillers are needed. Another important aspect of interest to coeds will be the fashion news to be covered for this issue by Brig Svane. Material used for the "Garnet" may be published in "Prologue." May we stress the point again that the magazine is not sponsored by any particular college, it is not an official publication but a student endeavor. Material submitted will be chosen for accuracy, clarity, timeliness, interest and good taste.

All students who are interested in writing or illustrating for "Prologue" are urged to contribute. Material printed will have the student's name, class, and college.

Material done at Bates will be submitted to an editorial board, then sent to Bowdoin where an inter-collegiate board will select the best from the four colleges.

Football Band

Hey-Day Before War

In 1930 came the revolution. The band was to be exclusively for Bates men. Mr. Crafts put a student director in charge. Later on the college bought the uniforms the players now wear — the sharp affairs with the white coats and maroon trousers.

The hey-day of the band was in the years just preceding the war, when 40 members went through their paces in formations and complicated marching patterns.

This year Mr. Peter Waring the new music director, has taken up where Mr. Crafts left off. Mr. Waring says he has always had an interest in the goings on at a football game. He modestly claims that as a student he made a much better cheerleader than varsity football player.

Money Still A Problem

His plans for the band are to build it up in members and number of selections. The ever present problem of money enters the picture again, but Mr. Waring hopes somehow to take the band to all the "away" games in years to come.

Heading the board at Bates is John Ackerman with the present staff listed as Judy Barenburg, Fiction Editor, Ray Cloutier, Political Editor, Brig Svane, Fashion Editor, William Perkins, Art Editor, James Towle, Business Manager, and Helen Odgaard, Publicity Manager. In addition, acting in an advisory capacity, are Harry Jobrak, Sue McBride, Joyce Cargill, Midge Harthan, and Jean Harrington.

Deadline for the first issue is October 25th. Subscription price is 25 cents per copy, $1.00 a year, four issues published a year.

String Concert Opens G. Colby Chase Series

On Oct. 10, Charlotte and Artiss de Volt, well known violinist and harpist, presented a most successful concert at the Bates College Chapel, as the first program of the annual George Colby Chase Lecture Series.

An enthusiastic audience, filling almost the entire chapel, thoroughly enjoyed the music of the de Volt sisters. Besides the presentation of duets on the violin and harp and the harp solos, Artiss de Volt talked a short while between numbers about the composers whose solos she played on the harp. Also, Artiss de Volt went into the historical background of the harp — how it originated, who the people were who first played it, and the makeup of the harp as it is now.

So thoroughly did the audience enjoy the music of Charlotte and Artiss de Volt that, because of their enthusiastic applause, the artists played a number of encores.

Angelosante

On the statistical side, Ange is 22 years old, stands six feet, and weighs in at an even 200; and the number to watch for out on the field is 96.

Academically he is a Math major.

Throughout the season you will be hearing a great deal about Ange, and although the football season ends shortly, you soon will be hearing a great deal more about him as the basketball team swings into action.

Club Prepares Sunday Report

The program committee of the Bates Canterbury Club has announced that Sunday evening, October 19th, at 7:30 in Trinity Church Rectory, 9 Curtis Street, William Stringfellow will report further on the World Conference of Christian Youth and the Anglican World Youth Conference which he attended this summer.

An informal meeting is planned and there will be opportunity for questions. Sunday night's program will be open to all students and faculty members.

Frosh Football

The spinning back position has two top contenders in Bill Paradis and Tony Rotundo. Husky, 200 lb. Paradis was a starting lineman two seasons at Lewiston High, leading the team in his senior year. At Maine Central Institute Bill tried his hand at fullback, acting as co-captain. Compact, diminutive, 5-3 1-2 Rotundo, a speedster, captained both the football and baseball squads at Stoneham High in Mass. last year. Al Evans, Pat Hymes and Stan Innman are other backfield possibilities.

Cloutier Explains CA; Tells Aims, Methods

"Returning veterans and new students have received an inadequate impression of the real purposes and active services rendered by the Christian Association as it was before the war and as it will be this year," said Raymond Cloutier, chairman of the CA Public Affairs Commission, in chapel Monday morning.

"Although the underlying philosophy of ethics giving direction to the movement is Christian faith, denomination is never a criterion for participation," said Cloutier, and he went on to point out that the CA is strictly a student organization, although faculty support is welcomed. Though it is Christian Federation, he continued, campus and civic service are the CA's primary aims. He concluded by giving a resume of his commission's program for the year.

Cloutier was introduced by CA President Harvey Warren, who afterwards directed the registration of students for work on the commissions. Each student received a catalog of CA activities illustrated by Marjorie Dwelley and prepared by Robert Foster's Publicity Commission.

Fashion Magazine Opens Annual Girls' College Board Contest

WAA Sponsors Rally; Training Season Opens

A "circus" rally by the Women's Athletic Association was held last Thursday in the Women's Locker Building. The purpose of the rally was to promote interest in the voluntary training program. Ruth Martin was mistress of ceremonies and led the evening's entertainment.

Jane Brown, Vice President of W. A. A. announced that training sheets would be given out by the dormitory proctors Sunday night, October 12. Trainees were urged to report their breaks in training rules at the end of the program rather than drop training altogether since the board has the authority to excuse minor rule infractions.

Recently, Mademoiselle, the fashion magazine, announced that its annual contest for College Board members is open to all girls attending an accredited college.

The girls chosen will form the College Board for next year, and from these, twenty will be Guest Editors, editing the College Edition for '48. The girls selected as Guest Editors have a chance of being picked as a delegate to Mademoiselle's Annual College Forum, which will discuss current social problems. All the girls on the College Board will have an opportunity to attend Mademoiselle's Career Conference, sponsored by the Jobs and Future Department to help them find the right vocational niche.

Any Bates girl interested in applying, will find a poster in Chase Hall, carrying complete information about the contest.
