Faculty Lineup Shows Six Additions For Year

Six members have been named to the Bates faculty over the summer vacation. Five will assume their duties this fall while one will commence next January.

The list of new faculty members includes Milford S. Loughheed, assistant professor of geology; Elliot M. Rudwick, instructor in sociology; E. Finlay Whittlesey, instructor in mathematics; Walter J. Beaupre, part-time instructor in speech; Mary E. Thompson, director of nursing education and house fellow; and Laura B. Mallett, head of the library circulation department. Miss Thompson will enter her position next January.

Experience In The Yukon

Loughheed comes to Bates with eleven years of professional and academic experience in the field of geology.

Before receiving his degree in geological engineering at the University of British Columbia in 1940, he spent summers surveying in the Yukon Territory, Portland Canal area, and the Burns Lake area in British Columbia. He has held several teaching assistantships, including one at Princeton University.

Summer In Haiti

Rudwick, of Philadelphia, assumes his new duties as sociology instructor after spending the summer in Haiti. A graduate of Temple University in 1949, Rudwick received his master's degree from the University of Pennsylvania last year and is now a candidate for a doctorate from the university.

For the past year he has been an instructor at Beaver College in Jenkintown.

Princeton Math Instructor

The new mathematics instructor comes to Bates after spending last year as instructor at Pennsylvania State College. E. Finlay Whittlesey received his bachelor's degree from Princeton University in 1948 and since then has been working toward his doctorate in mathematics.

In 1949-50 he was a part-time instructor in mathematics at Princeton and is now working on his dissertation.

Sub For Schaeffer

Beaupre will take over the first semester classes of Professor Schaeffer who is now on sabbatical leave. He received his A.B. degree from Bates in 1947 and then was associated with the Twin City Broadcasting Com-

U. S. Must Practice Freedom At Home Admonishes Prexy

The United States must practice as well as preach the ideals of freedom, warned Pres. Phillips at First Chapel this morning.

As an illustration, he mentioned last summer's demonstration against a Negro couple in Cicero, Ill. He observed:

"It makes our friends wonder if we mean what we say about men being created equal in the eyes of the law. We must fight for the rights of free men in Cicero as well as in Korea."

Continuing, Pres. Phillips pointed out that many people feel that our support of these freedoms will be the very thing which will bring us into open conflict with Russia.

"We must face the fact that this may be the result since Russia does not want these ideals spread throughout the world. She knows, as we should know from our own history, that revolutions are won in people's minds, not on the battlefield — that ideas, not arms, eventually prevail."

Seniors !!

Chapel attendance will be "voluntary" for seniors this year, according to Dean Rowe. "There is plenty of room in the balcony," he reassuringly added.

Like last year, high enrollment figures prevent compulsory chapel attendance for all four classes.

Ed. note: Seniors, puh-leez stop crying!

Gamble '50 Tries On Jones' Shoes

Robert Jones, executive alumni secretary, will leave Bates at the end of October to become assistant to Sen. Owen Brewster. Replacing Jones will be George Gamble '50, who has already arrived on campus.

Jones will assist Senator Brewster in his 1952 campaign, and will handle the senator's public relations. In addition, Jones will accompany Senator Brewster on trips, manage his office, and sit with him in Senate sessions.

Gamble Takes Over

While a student at Bates, Gamble was president of the Orphic Society, in the Christian Association, and a Class Day speaker. He also worked as a staff announcer at station WLAM.

Gamble, with Pres. Phillips, will make a tour of Bates alumni organizations during the winter months. He will also edit the Bates Alumni magazine which is published three times a year.

Frosh Meet Bates

The traditional IMUR party in the Alumni Gym last night ended the intensive five-day Freshman orientation week. Sponsored by the Christian Association, the get-together gave the largest freshman class in Bates history a chance to meet the upperclassmen as well as the officers of the CA.

Frosh women take up sewing as one of the more liberal parts of the Bates Plan. Sunday's outing at Thorncrag was not too early to get in practice for bib-embroidering.

The busy Freshman week began last Saturday night at the first freshman assembly. Pres. Phillips told the gathering of freshmen and parents that our democratic form of government cannot survive unless we develop a higher degree of personal integrity than has been displayed in recent years.

Personal Integrity Lacking

"In recent months we have had many examples of the decline of personal integrity among those in our federal government," Pres. Phillips said. "It is clear that some government employees have yielded to influence and bribery in the granting of government loans. Even members of Congress have made speeches concerning the need for economy in government and then have turned around and voted for 'pork barrel' projects.

"But this decline in personal integrity is not confined to the federal government," he added. "That colleges have not escaped this trend is clearly indicated by the disclosure of bribery to influence the outcome of basketball games."

Democracy Threatened

The college president pointed out that the very foundation of a democratic government is a high level of personal integrity on the part of its citizens. The continued decay in integrity can mean the loss of democracy with its freedom for mankind.

Speaking directly to the incoming freshmen President Phillips said: "My hope for you is that you will use your four years of college to strengthen your personal integrity. Each of us needs to establish

Incoming Class Is Widespread Geographically

Fifteen states, the District of Columbia, and six foreign countries are represented in the freshman class, according to Pres. Phillips.

Among the incoming group are students from Japan, Viet-Nam, Nigeria, Formosa, Canada, and England. The majority of these students will enroll as transfer or special students.

Massachusetts has the largest representation among the new students with 38 per cent, followed by 20 per cent from the State of Maine. Connecticut has 12 per cent and New York 9 per cent. New Jersey, Rhode Island, and New Hampshire are also well-represented.

Other states represented are Vermont, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Virginia, Indiana, California, Michigan, and Missouri.

Students Get Pay Boost

Because of rising costs for the students, a faculty committee has voted to raise the pay for student jobs from 50 to 60 cents per hour. Mr. Ross added that this may be a case of "pulling oneself up by the bootstraps," since the increase will eventually be reflected in semester bills to the students.

To equalize more nearly, pay for women proctors with their responsibilities, the proctor wage scale has been revised. Reimbursement for proctorship will be $65 instead of $50 in the small women's houses, and $85 rather than $75 in the larger dorms.

Station WVBC Awaits Backing

Station WVBC, the new campus radio station, is scheduled to begin broadcasting within the next two or three weeks.

"The transmitter is already set up, and Jane Bower has been organizing programs. All we need is the backing and cooperation of the student body," announced Bruce Chandler, station manager.

Chandler reports he needs financial aid from the students before Robert Atkins, business manager; Jane Bower, program director, and Robert Williams, chief engineer, can schedule the opening date.

Student Help Needed

"Each student will be asked to contribute 50 cents. All we need is $300 before we can start operating," said Chandler.

"We will begin with a two-hour show consisting mostly of music. We want different types of disc-jock shows including campus requests programs, and will have a variety of records as Bisailon and DeOrsey in Lewiston will give us the use of 10-20 new records a day," announced Jane.

Several students have begun organizing individual programs. Tony Orlandella is planning to put on a

Five Promoted; Pay Budget Up

Be careful how you address your teachers this year.

Dr. Bortner, Miss Schaeffer, Dr. Donovan, Dr. Willis, and Professor Fairfield were advanced in rank at the annual meeting of the Board of Trustees June 16, according to Pres. Phillips.

Dr. Bortner has been advanced from associate professor to professor of education. Miss Schaeffer, from assistant professor to associate professor of speech, and Dr. Donovan from instructor to assistant professor in government. Dr. Willis and Professor Fairfield have been promoted from instructors to assistant professors of cultural heritage.

Salaries Increased

An increase in the faculty salary budget was also announced by Pres. Phillips at the annual Alumni luncheon.

"This is the sixth year in a row that the Board has been able to increase the faculty salary budget. For the year ending June 30, 1946, the total budget for faculty salaries was $153,885.00. In the budget adopted by the Board today this figure for the next year becomes $258,200.00," stated Pres. Phillips.

Politicians In Fall Lectures

A Congressman, an ex-governor of Massachusetts, and a civic minded clubwoman will be among the speakers lecturing in the Citizenship Laboratory Course this fall, Dr. John Donovan of the Government Department has announced.

The Honorable Charles P. Nelson, Congressman from Maine, ex-Governor Robert F. Bradford of Massachusetts, and Mrs. John J. Mahoney, chairman of the Massachusetts Commission Against Discrimination, are the announced speakers. All three will speak in Chapel programs in addition to lecturing to the class.

Nelson and Bradford will discuss state and national political issues with members of the class, and Mrs. Mahoney will speak on equal rights for all citizens in business, education, and public service.

Congressman Nelson was mayor of Augusta from 1947-1948 before going to Washington. Bradford was governor of the Commonwealth from 1947-1949. Mrs. Mahoney is an active club woman and staunch defender of equal rights.

The Citizenship Laboratory Course, introduced into the curriculum last year, provides training for more active and effective participation in civic affairs.

Come Ona Our House

Old and new candidates for the STUDENT staff will meet in the P.A. office in Chase hall Monday at 7 p. m. to listen to the so-called "editorial board" and business staff discuss the weekly campus newspaper.

Old members will be asked to state their preferences in assignments. All new applicants, with or without newspaper experience are requested to attend this meeting.

Theatres On Page 6

Because of an early printing of the first three pages of the STUDENT, the theater ads are appearing on page 6 this week. As we have no feature editor on this week's staff, news stories are appearing on page 5, usually devoted to features.

Faculty Renews Friendships

Faculty and administration members sampled a Barbara Varney concoction called "faculty brew" at a formal banquet in the Commons Friday evening.

In charge of entertainment, Miss Varney made a non-liquid mixture of six name cards. As Mrs. Phillips fished the cords from a tin "punch bowl," she called on Miss Foster, Prof. Walmsley, Miss Murrell, Dr. Crowley, Prof. Fairfield, and Prof. Smith to give impromptu talks on their summer adventures.

Featured speaker of the evening was Lewiston's Supt. of Schools A. Alden Woodworth, who showed pictures of the Gaspe peninsula. Pres. Phillips discussed the enrollment, budget and outlook for the year.

Guests of honor at the event were faculty and staff members who have been at Bates 25 years or more, and their wives. New faculty were introduced by Pres. Phillips, and stood in the receiving line before dinner.

Blue Book Owners!

Effective at once the Blue Book statement under "Physician's Office" will be revised as follows:

The health fee entitles each student to the following services: 1. In case of injury or illness, consultation by the physician at the infirmary. This in-patient service is limited to five office calls each semester plus those requested by the Infirmary staff.

A charge of $1 will be made for each call beyond the allotment.

The final paragraphs under Section 1 and Section 2 will remain as now printed on page 33.

Infirmary office hours for 1951-52, "to be strictly adhered to except in case of emergency," will be as follows:

Monday through Saturday: 8:30-12 m., 4-5 p. m.

Sunday: 9-10 a. m.

Dr. Haas: 11 a. m.-12 m. daily except Sunday.

Novelist Marquand Opens Literature Series Oct. 11

About 70 tickets are still available from Robert Jones, alumni secretary, for the fall series of the Modern Literature Conference lectures. The tickets are on sale for $3.

In a statement issued Sept. 24, Jones stated that he expected a sell-out crowd. Over 680 citizens of the Lewiston-Auburn vicinity have registered for this series of five lectures beginning at 7:30 p. m. Thursdays, Oct. 11-Nov. 8.

The informal programs will cover various phases of modern literature including the novel, periodical, and newspaper.

City Editor Of Daily To Talk

Vincent F. X. Belleau, city editor of the Lewiston Evening Journal and Bates graduate, will present a series of talks on various subjects relating to journalism early in October.

The four talks, to be held in the Women's Union, are open to all members of the STUDENT staff as well as faculty and student body members interested in newspaper work.

The meetings are planned on an informal basis in order to allow participation by the audience.

The subjects and dates of the talks will be posted on the bulletin board tomorrow.

Schaeffer Studying With Miss Webster

Three members of the faculty will be on sabbatical this year.

Miss Schaeffer of the speech department will spend the first semester in New York City studying under Margaret Webster and taking work at Columbia University.

Dr. Sawyer, professor of biology, will travel during the second semester. Professor Bartlett, of the department of economics and head of the placement bureau, will spend a considerable amount of time away from the campus in furtherance of the placement program.

John P. Marquand, Pulitzer Prize novelist and a leading fiction writer since 1921, will open the conference with a discussion of "The Modern Novel."

Marquand Opens Series

Ralph Blagden, editor of the editorial page of the Boston Traveler; Frederick Allen, editor of Harper's magazine; Kenneth Roberts, historical novelist; and Hoding Carter, editor of the Greenville, Miss., Delta Democrat-Times and called the "fighting editor of the South," will be the following speakers.

Henry Gross, controversial subject of Roberts' latest novel, "Henry Gross and His Dowsing Rod," will appear at Roberts' lecture Nov. 1.

President Phillips and Profs. Wright, Berkelman, and Whitbeck will introduce the speakers and serve as discussion leaders.

Den Menu Has New Additions

Homemade danish pastry at the Bobcat Den will be served with breakfast doughnuts, according to Maxine Bellavance, Den supervisor.

"An enclosure at the foot of the fountain to improve the appearance is our only major change of the summer. Besides the breakfast rolls we have several new additions to the menu and a response of approval or disapproval from the students would be very welcome," Mrs. Bellavance stated.

The grill will be heated at regular hours which will be posted, but if a student is willing to wait it will be heated on request.

The Den will be open 8:30 a. m. to 10:30 p. m., Monday-Saturday. Sunday hours will be 5-10:30 p. m., but will revert to last year's Sunday hours, 9 a. m.-10:30 p. m., when the cold weather begins.

"We are hoping that the juke box will be here by the time of publication," Mrs. Bellavance stated.

McLaren Leads Stanton Ride Oct. 6

October 6 will acquaint the freshman class with one of Bates' oldest traditions, the annual Stanton ride.

Saturday classes will not be abbreviated this year. Freshmen will be permitted to leave the classrooms at 11:45 a. m. to board buses at the corner of College street and Campus avenue at noon, according to John McLaren, chairman of the outing.

"Students are encouraged to remind professors who neglect to notify freshmen at 11:45," stated Dean Harry Rowe.

After a lunch of hotdogs and apples, the freshman class picture will be taken at Lake Grove in Auburn.

The traditional tale of Uncle Johnny Stanton, in whose honor the trip is taken, will be delivered by Dean Rowe, after which the women will match strength against the men in the annual tug-of-war.

Stanton Ride committees include Dorothy Pierce and Jerry Morris in charge of food, Cynthia Keating and Mason Tabor directing games, and Gene Harley head of the work-ing committee.

Zerby Conducted Europe Summer Tour For Students

"I liked Switzerland for its scenery, Italy for its cultural background, and France for — well, because I had the best time," stated Marshall Soloman, one of five students from Bates who toured Europe with Dr. Zerby, head of the Cultural Heritage department, this summer. Dr. Zerby spent five weeks in Florence, Italy, teaching Cultural Heritage 301.

Edward Halpert, Joan Carse, Jean Johnson '51, Beverly Jones

'51, Marshall Soloman, and students from Dartmouth, Smith, Wellesley, Wesleyan, Yale, Bowdoin, and Herbert Academy, college preparatory school, boarded the TV Georgic June 27 with Dr. Zerby and his son.

Ten days later they landed at South Hampton. An eight-day visit in London included visits to Stratford-on-Avon, Oxford, Windsor Castle, and Hampton Court.

Riich Museum

The Riich museum, famed for its

Van Gogh and Rembrandt paintings, was the highlight of the two-day Amsterdam tour, according to Soloman.

"Cologne, once the third largest city in Germany, is now about the size of Hartford, Conn., and most of what we saw of Germany was a mass of destruction," he stated.

From Florence, most of the group

Eight full-tuition, one half-tuition, and 28 other scholarships have been awarded to members of the freshman class, according to Milton Lindholm and Dean Clark, directors of admission.

Recipients of full-tuition scholarships are Sylvia Moore, Beverly Tasko, Merriam Round, David Wyllie, Paul MacAvoy, Roger Thies, and Russell Nile. Martha Lou Myers will receive the five-year nursing course scholarship.

Robert Hofferma has been awarded a half-tuition scholarship and Blaine Taylor will receive the Edgecomb Fund grant, available for young men interested in a career in religious education.

Awards Under $1000

Scholarships for $1000 have been awarded to Richard Hathaway, Harold Hunter, Edward Kent, James Pendergast, John Perry, J. Brenton Stearns, and Theodore Lewin.

General scholarships have been given to Robert Atwater, Eleanor Carver, Palmira Dellamano, Joseph DiMartinis, Carolyn Gove, Carol Hollister, Sue Hudson, Carl Harris, Lorraine Julian.

Carol Lindblow, Sylvia Magnuson, Marie Miranti, Keith Moore, Harriet Packard, Molly Plumb, Edward Ward, Jr., Helen Wood, and Franklin Yoffo will also receive general scholarships.

Bates granted $31,700 in scholarship awards during the last academic year.

"We attach special significance to this fact," stated Pres. Phillips, "because it means scholarship aid at Bates has reached a new peak. The grants in 1950-51 show a marked increase over the $26,180 of 1949-50 and the $25,445 of the preceding year 1948-49."

In addition, well over $20,000 was made available for Bates students through various jobs on the campus last year. Pres. Phillips partly attributed this increase of scholarship funds to a balanced budget and gains in gifts received and in total assets.

Campus Interviews on Cigarette Tests

No. 22...THE WOODPECKER

Woodrow almost bit off more than he could chew when he tackled the cigarette tests! But he pecked away 'til he smoked out the truth: Such an important item as mildness can't be tossed off in a fleeting second! A "swift sniff" or a "perfunctory puff" proves practically nothing! He, like millions of smokers, found one test that doesn't leave you up a tree.

It's the sensible test... the 30-Day Camel Mildness Test, which simply asks you to try Camels as your steady smoke—on a day-after-day basis. No snap judgments! Once you've enjoyed Camels for 30 days in your "T-Zone" (T for Throat, T for Taste), you'll see why...

After all the Mildness tests...

Senior Pictures Start This Week

"Senior portraits will be scheduled and underway within the end of the week," announced Mirror Editor Jean McKinnon.

The contract with a local studio is not yet signed, but Jean expects pictures will all be taken by the end of October. All the building shots have been completed.

Copies of a dummy have been made and the cover design is already decided on.

"I have consulted with layout and makeup experts on our layout design, types of print and engravings during the summer and have arranged with a Boston firm for our engravings," Jean continued.

Biographies and activity writeups will be underway within the next two weeks.

Huntington Gets Atkins' Position

Alice Huntington replaces Robert Atkins as advertising manager of the STUDENT, announced Business Manager Margery Schumacker.

Atkins resigned his position to devote his time to his new job as business manager of the new radio station WVBC.

Published weekly at Chase Hall, Bates College, during the college year. Telephone 4-8621 (Sundays only). Printed by the Auburn Free Press, 99 Main Street, Auburn. Entered as second-class matter at the Lewiston Post Office Jan. 30, 1913, under the act of March 3, 1879. A member of the Associated Collegiate Press.

Foiled Again

The U.S. government fooled us again!

Expecting a large number of underclassmen to be drafted during the summer, Bates admitted the largest tally of new students in its history, 277 frosh and 18 transfers. This makes a grand total of 295 incoming students, 151 men and 144 women. Bates was prepared for a deluge of draft calls—and what happened—Mr. Sampson reports that no underclassmen have been drafted.

Bates wasn't the only college which stumbled into a record large enrollment. U.S. schools and colleges as a whole admitted a record enrollment of 33,121,000. The nation's classrooms, badly crowded last year, were clogged with 418,000 more pupils than ever before.

Colleges, which had feared a 60 percent drop when the G.I. Bill of Rights went out and the draft came in, lost fewer than 275,000 students (11 percent) under the present deferment policy.

What's Your Grudge?

Have you got any gripes, either long festering or discovered during the summer, that you haven't decided to write us about?

Through patience and pussy footing we already know the answer.

We think there are three explanations why the STUDENT mail box is so often empty. You don't have much pride in your own opinions, you're the uncivic-minded type who drops gum wrappers on the grounds and isn't interested in improvement, or (and in 99 cases this is usually the one) you're too darn lazy!

We humbly suggest you look at the situation this way. We know you're going to air your gripes anyway, and if you do it on somebody's shoulder you're knocking on a stone wall.

If you write your complaints and suggestions to us we'll print your letter. Chances are at least half the campus may agree with you instead of just one person, and, what is more, something might be done about the situation.

It's Free But Here's the Catch

We'll be frank with you there's a catch. We ask that you be willing to acknowledge what you write in the belief that an anonymous letter carries very little weight with either faculty or students.

Just as an example of what can be accomplished, for years students complained, argued, and thrashed out in bull sessions the problem of unlimited cuts being granted only to students with a 3.6 quality point ratio. Finally Robert Foster, then STUDENT editor took the question to the administration. At the next faculty meeting unlimiteds for students with a 3.4 q.p.r. was voted on and passed.

It just takes a little action on the part of students for problems to be brought to the administration's attention and at least they can give you an official reason why your suggestion cannot be acted upon.

We wish this would fire you with new enthusiasm—that is all but a few aspirants. We would just as soon that the chronic griper, who spends his jolliest hours maligning the food while he gobbles it, continues to grumble privately—and from the seniors—we will accept no complaints at being denied compulsory chapels.

And don't think we are immune to your barrage. If you think this editorial page is about as dull as a lecture heard for the fifth time WE want to hear about it!

Passing The Buck!

The consensus of opinion seems to be that proctors, house mothers, and administration did a bang-up job acquainting the frosh with our customs and habits. Now that we upperclassmen are back the challenge is passed to us—to do as fine a job of helping them to like Bates through-out the coming year.

ON CALL

Shades of cardboard boxes and unpacked suitcases: we're back for another year, courtesy of draft boards, qpr's, and lucrative summer jobs. First topic of conversation is Mitchell. When approached on the subject, proctor Al Glass deftly crossed his eyes and said "I li-i-ike it!" Banished women's proctors, Kaye Kirschbaum and Mary Lewis, weren't quite so enthusiastic. They're "roving proctors" in Parker.

Mr. Lindholm may have picked a few "calculated risks" in the class of '55, but we've heard of at least one frosh who's offered to pull his friends through any tough course. Wonder if he's including upperclassmen? We could use a little technical advice in Cult.

In the ring dept. Peg Fuller and Jack Moore have been married since last spring. Clarice Cornforth is engaged. Also Johnne Johnson and Norm Hammer. And Mary-Edge Leckemby is now Mrs. Dave Merrill. Carleton Crook was married—so was Ollie Emerson.

Then there's the new apartment holders in Bardwell. Understand Don Barrios, Charlie Pappas ("see") Christ Nast, and Richie Raia have the best rooms in the house. They're busy planning a party for the East Parker frosh.

Welcome to several new and wonderful foreign students from both east and west of the U. S. Also please note a friendly guy named Obi Okeke, who's been introduced most of the time as "Denny's brother."

Many have left the ranks for various reasons and there are lots of transfers to help fill the gap. Dick Weber is back from the reserves for another semester or two. It may take him eight years to graduate, but he's the persevering type.

Let us note in closing that times have not changed. One wide-eyed frosh informed her proctor last Sunday night that "Already four freshman couples are going steady!" That old Thorncrag cider gives some kicks yet.

"Obi" Okeke Here As Frosh

Nnewi, Nigeria, makes its second contribution to Bates in the person of Obikuwu ("Obi") Okeke, a freshman. His brother, Dennis '50, is studying for an M.D. at B. U. Medical School.

Obi, who said that his first impressions of Bates are "good," plans to major in chemistry and hopes to become a chemical engineer.

As "vital statistics," Obi offered the information that he will be 24 in December, and has two brothers and one sister. His home town, Nnewi, is primarily agricultural, with a population of 5-6000. The last school he attended was in Uzuakoli, Nigeria, where he spent seven years.

At present, Obi is living at Dr. Myhrman's home.

Nippon Girls Find Bates Fare Best College Food

By Anza Blaisdell

"We like to think of Bates as a small college. We know it's small and we like it that way," asserted President Phillips in his address to freshmen and parents last Saturday. There happens to be a young lady at Rand who doesn't agree with this statement.

Chiyeiko Umibe who has had 14 years of schooling finds Bates the largest school she has ever attended.

Chiyeiko and her roommate Michiko Yoshii Harasana left their homeland Japan only three months ago after graduating from Tsuda College in Tokyo. Having received orientation programs, Chiyeiko at Bard and Michiko at Columbia, they plan to study a year at Bates before returning to Japan.

Trends In Japan

"This will be the first time we've been allowed an elective," remarked Chiyeiko, "in Japan our schooling was under the old system where the same courses were given the entire student body. A girl attended six years of primary school, five years of middle school and three years of college with no choices of courses."

"Men and women study in separate institutions. Men attend universities which occasionally enroll women, but not until the women have graduated from college."

Chiyeiko seems familiar with the American plan of education. She explained this as the result of the American trends which during the past year have revolutionized much of Japanese education. Now they are on the 6-3-3-3 plan, the last three referring to college, and for the first time this year Japanese students will be allowed to specialize in a particular field.

How Many Finals

Chiyeiko and Michiko are not accustomed to studying for five finals spaced in ten days. In Japan they averaged between 10-12 finals spaced in the same period, but their 30 hour a week classroom work only entailed homework in English reading and composition.

Our vacations may seem a little brief to them. The school year in Japan begins in April with a two month summer vacation, a two week autumn holiday, and a two-three week break at New Year's. The school year ends in March.

Rates Food Good

"We think the food here tastes pretty good," was their reply when questioned on their first impressions of the campus life. "Being accustomed to a pretty steady diet of rice and seafood we like the variety of the American diet."

Bates food tastes the best of any institutionalized food they've had in America. "The food at Columbia was dry and tasteless and not as well prepared as here at Bates," offered Michiko.

Like most Bates recruits they're enthusiastic about the friendliness, and especially that between student and professor.

Formality Plus

"In Japan we had a strictly formal relation and even at Tsuda College of only 400 students strict formality rules were observed."

Sampsonville Scene

By Pete Carsley

Another year of college has begun and Sampsonville is again filled although the number of veterans are rapidly disappearing. Those that stayed here all summer were Chick and Yvette Leahey — Chick managed the Auburn Asas to a very successful season and Yvette was in attendance at every home game. The Brinkerhoffs were here too — George was the early bird, getting out to work before the sun rose — a milkman for Hood's.

The Hales were the lone student family in the back of Russell House. Bill worked at a local store and mowed lawns and raised a huge garden. Pat Brinkerhoff and Lois Hale were kept busy minding their sons.

As for myself, I was hunting currant bushes for "Blister Rust" again, plus gardening, plus helping can the string beans. Paul Levesque sold men's clothes here in Lewiston while Connie continued at the bank. Ralph and Dottie Hoyt, married right after graduation, worked for Dr. Lawrance.

Summer Roles

Freddy Jones was prize jerk, soda that is, of the summer while Don MacCarthy "barked" up and down Old Orchard Beach. The two families enjoyed the beach, though. George Bryant, et al, spent the summer in Bethel; Thurbers were at a religious camp in Wisconsin, and the Colbys had planned to spend the summer in Sampsonville, but Rennie got a tar allergy and they went to Gardiner instead. Ruth Lockwood, with Richard and Dana, left early last spring and won't return until the first of November. Jack and she spent a strenuous summer taking turns watching the boys and doing their respective jobs.

We want to welcome the new families in Sampsonville which include the Moores, the Lukes, the Howards, the Putnams, the O'Mearas, and the Corys. Congratulations to the newlyweds! New faculty families include the Millers, the Leaches, and the McCrearys. The empty apartments in Bardwell are being filled with boys, while as yet only rumors prevail about the other unoccupied apartments.

The Packards were here the greater part of the summer until Dick decided to leave school to accept a job in Waltham, Mass. It will seem strange not to see Bernie out in back with Richie and baby Irene. A Ball and Chain meeting will be scheduled shortly to elect a new president.

Small Fry Reunited

The children all seem delighted to see each other again, and Sampsonville echoes once more with the familiar cries of "Get off! That's my bike," "Linda, get off the porch," and "Greg, away from the street," and "Please, Marion, don't pick any more beans off that vine."

Kathy Jones started kindergarten, while Connie Colby, Terry Miller, and Donna Fairfield are old hands in school this year. Paul Brinkerhoff looks like a future All-American though still in the playpen. Incidentally, we hope George's ankle will mend in a hurry!

Most of us have been busy fall house cleaning so it may be a relief to say, "I have to study. You do the dishes tonight." Anyway good-luck for the coming year, and "see you around."

Hedge Lab And JB Rooms Finished During Summer

Though Bates has no completely new buildings to exhibit this year, much finishing and revamping has been accomplished.

Outstanding among achievements is the Hedge Lab addition, which was begun more than a year ago and is now ready for use. Kresge Laboratory, so-named because a $50,000 gift from the Kresge Foundation was used to finance the addition, has all new equipment. A few features include fluorescent lighting, plenty of benches and cupboard space, and a "nook" for the balances. Color indicators on the valves add a factor of convenience; red for hot water and green for cold, orange for air and blue for gas jets.

On the third floor is the library and seminar room, dedicated to the memory of Linwood M. MacKinnon, father of Jean MacKinnon Cary '45, and a gift of Joseph F. Ford.

Improvements in other parts of Hedge include drinking fountains on each floor, new benches in the instrumentation room, and a redecoration job in Dr. Lawrance's office. A boon to lumbago sufferers with slippery shoes is the new non-slip linoleum on the old stairs.

Turning to other parts of the campus, JB has nine new rooms for students, in the space which was formerly the Commons. East and West Parker, Hacker, Milliken, and Frye all have refurbished reception rooms, and various redecoration projects have been completed in the Women's Union. Besides all this, the usual repair and reconstruction work has been going on during the summer in various areas of the campus.

Rowe: Come Down To Earth

At an assembly Monday morning Dean Harry Rowe told freshmen to "bring your visions down to earth, put a foundation under your castles in the air" with the foundation subjects chosen by the faculty for the Bates Plan.

After numerating the subjects in general terms, Dean Rowe remarked that he wished the freshman to gain a broad learning "shot through with the fine traditions of this splendid college."

Following Dean Rowe to the chapel microphone, Prof. Paul Bartlett declared that Bates was trying to build the subject matter of an arts education toward the practical needs of the individual.

Individual Forgotten

"We have, in the past, forgotten the needs of the individual," the guidance director stated. The second goal of the Bates Plan, he said, was the laying of a pre-vocational foundation for an arts education.

Monday evening was Bates Tradition Night, at which time Prof. Karl Woodcock of the physics department and Dean Rowe reviewed interesting sidelights of campus traditions.

Tuesday morning Dr. John Willis, assistant professor of cultural heritage, spoke in Chapel, as did Dr. Rayborn Zerby Wednesday.

A game night for the women and a sports night for the men was held Tuesday night.

No Bates men were drafted this summer except some in last year's graduating class, according to Prof. Sampson.

In addition, two Army reservists, called back to active duty last fall, have been released by the service and are once again attending Bates. They are Richard Weber, who was stationed with the 11th Airborne Div. in Kentucky, and Alan Kennedy, who was stationed in the Far East. Both are sophomores.

Enlistees And Draftees

Members of the class of 1951, or undergraduates who are definitely known to have enlisted or been drafted, include Ralph Azinger and Ralph Salinger. Both undergraduates, the former enlisted in the Air Force, the latter in the Army.

Drafted men include Raymond Moore, James O'Connell, Arthur Knoll, John Hurlin, John Klezy, and Robert Hayes. Robert Purinton, former sports editor of the STUDENT, was drafted into the Marines.

William Ferguson, familiar as Mayor-Diamond Jim Brady in the Mayoralty Campaign two years ago, was recalled to active duty aboard the battleship Wisconsin. A lieutenant, junior grade, Ferguson has recently visited Halifax, Nova Scotia, and Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, while serving as the Radar Watch Officer.

Pharmacist's Mate Harvey Goddard, a Naval Reservist, is stationed at Quantico, Va.

Prof. Sampson's nephew, a Bates graduate, is also stationed in Korea. He is medical officer at an airstrip on the 38th parallel.

According to Mrs. Campbell, only two freshmen and two transfers entered school this year under the GI Bill, making a total of 46 students under the GI benefits. In previous post-war years the veteran enrollment at times was as high as three hundred.

Transferred Students

Students transferring from Bates include Richard Bellows to U. of Massachusetts, John Davenport to Amherst, Nestor D'Angelo and Robert Goldberg to Harvard. Goldberg was elected Mayor of the campus last spring as Kevin Patrick Goldberg on the Irish ticket. Richard Diehl transferred to a music school, John Kasius to NYU, James Rand to Boston U, John Wadsworth to Northwestern, and Marc Brownstein to Brandeis U.

Jerome Eckrich transferred to the U. of Minnesota, Andy Ichiki to the U. of Hawaii, George Saute to Rollins, Harry Houston to a medical school, Alan Greaves to the Massachusetts School of Optometry, Don Holstrom to the U. of Michigan, Lee Peacock to Clark U, Richard Runyon to NYU, and Eliot Castillo to Tufts.

Coed Transfers

Coeds who transferred include Suzanne Chartrand to Simmons, Virginia Edge to Ottawa U, Helen Kibler to Maine, Grace Ellinwood to Katherine Gibbs, Nancy Elsbree to New Paltz, Marjorie Finkelstein to Barnard, Barbara Anderson to Simmons, Barbara Bennett to Geneseo, Nancy Haines to Katherine Gibbs, Patricia Kingham to Chandler, and Ann Morrill to Castleton.

Other transfers are Joyce Glasnapp to Maine, Doris Jung to Vermont, Mary Newton to Central Maine General Hospital, Virginia Persons to Berkeley, Helen Hulet to Russell Sage, and Lois Keirstead to Maine.

Girls not returning for various reasons are Sally Haynes, Marilyn Jackson, Olive Emerson, Nancy Drexel, Anne Watson, Jane Black, Helen Perkins, Aphrodite Doukas, and Janice Moody.

Chartres Cathedral

A special visit to Chartres Cathedral in Chartres, France, which possesses the finest stain glass windows in Europe, was made. The group left Paris Sept. 7 for America.

The cost of $750 apiece covered the main expenses of the trip.

"We found that although the cost of living has gone up in Europe, we were able to get a good meal in Switzerland, England, and Italy for $1. Austria was the least expensive country we visited. In France, with its night life, we found expenses the greatest, but the cost of food in Paris was similar to Lewiston," Solomon stated.

By Ray Zelch

Three years ago representatives of Bates College and the Yale University agreed to have their respective football squads participate in a game in the Yale Bowl on September 22, 1951. Last Saturday this tilt took place and after watching the contest, I wondered if maybe Bates would have been better off if the game had never occurred. The Bobcats never had a chance against the Elis, and after the hosts tallied their initial touchdown, it was evident to one and all that it was going to be a long afternoon for Coach Ducky Pond and his squad.

The game itself was broadcast coast to coast via the National Broadcasting Company, and I was fortunate enough to be the Bates spotter for the broadcast. The NBC booth is situated high on top of the massive Yale Bowl, and from this spot I was at an excellent vantage point from which to view the game. Usually Bill Stern does the play-by-play, but last Saturday four different announcers were on hand, one doing a period each. This is because on certain Saturdays, Stern will be doing TV and he was testing certain announcers to take his place on AM. However, Stern was on hand for the duel and spoke prior to the game and during the half.

During his brief talking, Stern capped the history of Coach Ducky Pond while he was at Yale as head coach and then at Bates. He concluded with the following tribute which I feel warrants being printed here:

"His success at Bates College is matched only by the esteem in which he is held by the student body at Bates College and by the football coaching profession across this great nation . . . A great coach, a very fine gentleman." Nuf said.

But even Ducky Pond couldn't do anything to change the outcome of Saturday's tussle against his alma mater. The odds were just too much and Bates was way out of its class against the Elis. Yale had everything—a hard charging line, weight, numerical strength, experience, etc. You can't take it away from the Bobcats. They fought just as hard at the end of the game as when they started off. But what can you do when the opposing line is beating you to the punch every time?

One couldn't really tell how good Yale is because Bates didn't offer too much competition. But watching that Yale line operate, I saw some of the cleanest blocks in quite a while. They were opening huge holes for their runners every time they had the ball and good downfield blocking sent them going for long runs. On the other hand, The Garnet forward wall couldn't do a thing and as a result, Bates was able to garner only two first downs, one coming as the result of a blocked kick.

There is no denying that if Coach Herman Hickman had desired so, his team could have run the score up to any amount. But he used his regulars sparingly and the score was held down.

To be frank, there weren't too many bright spots on the Bates side of the ledger. But the few that were shown are encouraging. For instance, the passing of Dave Harkins was the best I've seen from him for quite a while. He was getting rid of the ball fast, tossing the ball hard and with great accuracy. He was hitting his targets every time, but they just weren't holding on to the pigskin. However, once the passing attack is smoothed out to perfection, watch out, because in Don Hamilton and Charlie Pappas, Bates possesses two of the best pass receivers to be found around these parts.

And speaking of Hamilton, he was about the most impressive of the sophomores thrown into the contest by Coach Pond. Hamilton showed much promise at his right end position and will be a tremendous help to the Bobcats both offensively and defensively. Pappas too, turned in a fine performance, and I honestly feel that if his fine play continues throughout the season, he ought to be a sure selection for the All-State team.

But the real star of the game as far as I'm concerned was a 150 pound hustler by the name of Richie Raia. Time and time again Rich was making impossible tackles and was easily the outstanding defensive player on the field. He was all over the field chasing opposing ball runners and made the majority of the Bates tackles. Rich is comparatively small for college football, but he hits like a keg of dynamite. And if the Bates line opens a few holes for him this fall, watch him take off and do some pretty fancy running.

Looks like Captain George Brinkerhoff will be on the shelf for most of the season, if not all of it. The Bates leader broke a leg in the first period as a result of a clip and he is now hobbling around on crutches. Don Barrios and Nate Boone both saw limited action, but should be ready for full duty this Saturday after a late report for pre-season practice drills.

HERE, THERE, AND EVERYWHERE—University of Massachusetts is in town Saturday to help open the Bates home slate. The Redmen are figured to be loaded this year, and could prove troublesome to the Bobcats. The locals were slated for much work this week to smooth out mistakes and polish up on their blocking and tackling.

Don't sell this Bates squad too short. They've got a difficult eight game slate, but could surprise. The spirit is there and the boys are eager for victory. A couple of teams

Back Records Illuminate Past Game Statistics

With one football game already played, and another one slated for Saturday on Garcelon Field, the STUDENT sports staff has done a little investigating and has come up with a few interesting figures in the two series between Bates and Yale and between Bates and the University of Massachusetts.

Prior to last Saturday's clash with the Elis of Yale University, the two teams had met on the gridiron six times. The first tilt between the two colleges was in 1899. All games have been played in the Yale Bowl. Including last Saturday's victory, the Bulldogs have won six decisions, while Bates hasn't been able to cop any victories.

There is one tie game on the record. This occurred in 1932, just 19 years ago, when Coach Dave Morey took an underdog Bates club to New Haven and held the highly rated Yale club to a 0-0 tie. Newspapers all over the country lauded the efforts of the Bates club in their Sunday morning editions. But the Bobcats went on to lose the remainder of their games throughout the season.

Highest Output In 1900

Oddly enough, the 48-0 lacing absorbed by the Garnet last week was not the highest score Yale has ever piled up against the Lewiston college. In 1900, the second game of the series, the Bulldogs defeated Bates 50-0, and that is a record that still stands.

Bates has yet to score against a Yale team, and except for the scoreless deadlock in 1932, Yale

New Ticket Arrangement Set For Athletic Events

This year in place of student activity card the Department of Physical Education for Men will issue a season book containing coupons to be used for admission to athletic events.

Upon presentation of this book to the gatemen, with coupons attached, the owner is entitled to one admission to each event scheduled during the season. Detached coupons are void.

If presented for admission by any person other than the owner the entire book will be taken up, all rights thereto forfeited and full admission price collected.

A lost book cannot be duplicated.

In order that all students may have their books in time for the game this Saturday and avoid excessive waiting in line for them the following plan of distribution is to be followed:

1. Books will be issued to authorized persons only. Each student must call and sign for his or her book.

2. Plan of Distribution

WAA Fall Schedule Opens Oct. 8

The opening of the fall season of WAA sports is scheduled for Oct. 8, according to WAA Pres. Jean Fletcher.

Hockey, tennis, biking-hiking, and riding will be offered. The season's schedule will be posted next week.

Women supervising the WAA fall activities are Joanne Kennedy, hockey; Larry Lawrence, tennis; Anne LaRocque, hiking-biking; and Janet Raymond, riding.

"We hope that as many freshman girls as possible will turn out for WAA," stated Jean.

WAA Libe Display

The contrast of the before and after in women's gym suit styles is being displayed in the WAA library exhibit this week.

The exhibit which shows the puffed sleeve-knee length black garments worn by Bates women athletes in 1912, also includes women's athletic awards and some of the equipment that will be used during the fall season.

A new basketball plaque that will be awarded to the dormitory winning the intramural basketball contest is being displayed with the four achievement awards and four training awards that will also be awarded.

Bobcats Seek Upset Win In Home Opener Saturday

By Ray Zelch

Hoping to break the series deadlock that now stands at eight games apiece, the University of Massachusetts invades Lewiston on Saturday to participate in their opening game with the once-trying Bates Bobcats. Not too much is known of this fall's Redmen, but reports coming out of Amherst say that Coach Tommy Eck has a squad loaded with veterans ready to get their gridiron slate underway.

Last season the Redmen employed the split "T" offense for the first time, and they are slated to employ the same formation come Saturday. The Redmen of a year ago didn't fare too well in the won-lost column, copping three decisions, including a 26-0 victory over the Bobcats, while dropping five games. Two of the five defeats were by one point, so the Eck charges lost a couple of close verdicts.

Team Captain Is Quarterback

The captain of the University of Massachusetts is John Benoit. He played at quarterback for the Redmen throughout the majority of last season, and is slated to start at that position against the Garnet. He is listed as a good runner and is expected to have his best season this fall.

The Bay Staters are really loaded at the backfield slots, and it would appear that Coach Eck is able to pick the cream of the crop. One of these is Gigi Howland who fitted neatly into the split "T" offense last year. He was injured in pre-season drills, but might be ready for action on Saturday.

A possible starter at left halfback is Charlie Redman, a 170 pound candidate. He is the fastest man on the squad and had an outstanding freshman record. Altogether, there are 18 backfield men on the squad, and all appear to be capable of stepping in at any time and playing creditable football.

The line also has a returning crop of veterans including eight lettermen and several who saw frequent action last year. The line averages about 195 pounds, with six tackles listed as tipping the scales over the 200 pound mark. Bob Nolan and Lu Prokopowitch are both returning tackles, while Verne Adams, and George Bicknell return to their guard slots. They are expected to do much of the work in the forward wall this fall for the Redmen.

Bates Must Show Improvement

No matter which way you look at it, the Bobcats will probably be in for a rough afternoon. A lot of improvement will have to be shown over last Saturday's outing if they

Yale Smashes Bobcats In Bowl; Garnet Outclassed In Opener

By Ray Zelch

With some 18,000 fans watching the proceedings, the Yale Bulldogs rolled over a gallant but nevertheless an outclassed Bates team last Saturday at the Yale Bowl. When the smoke had cleared, the scoreboard had 48 points for the Elis and nothing for the visitors from Lewiston.

Bates defense stiffens against Yale attack.

hope to do anything. The Bay Staters have been a jinx team for Bates during the past couple of years. Bates is also starting to get hit by injuries and has lost the services of its captain, George Brinkerhoff. On top of that, Dick Bergquist is not slated for action due to an ankle injury, and it is questionable as to how much Dick Berry will be able to play.

So the Garnet will really have to play heads-up football. If their passing attack begins to click as it has in the practice sessions and the linemen are able to open a few holes, then the Bobcats might be able to make it interesting for the visitors.

Pre-game dopesters figured the tilt would be somewhat of a run-away and they were correct. From the opening kickoff when Yale marched the length of the field for their initial counter, the game was never in doubt and the blue-clad hosts had things pretty much their own way throughout the afternoon. Try as they might, and the courageous Bobcats put up a hard fight, the Bates team was no match for its numerically superior and more experienced opponent, both offensively and on the defense.

Elis Scoreless In Third Quarter

The Hickman coached gridders scored in every canto except the third. Fourteen points in the first period and 20 more in the second stanza had the score reading 34-0 at halftime. Two more touchdowns in the final quarter plus the extra points put the game way beyond recall.

The statistics of the duel show pretty much how Yale dominated play the entire game. Twenty-four first downs to only two for the Garnet gave ample proof as to the superiority of the Ivy League contenders. Yale's total offense of 459 yards to only 57 for the visitors left Bates pretty much in its own territory. In fact, the Cats were able to move into Yale territory only twice in the game. That was in the third period when they reached the 49 yard stripe both times but could advance no further.

Yale Regulars See Limited Action

Coach Herman Hickman used his starters only sparingly, but they saw enough action to show the spectators that Yale possesses a backfield hard to stop. The highly touted Bob Spears and Ed Senay lived up to all expectations and with the Bulldog line opening up holes big enough for Mack trucks to drive through, they were able to reel off long runs. The Bates defense simply couldn't do a thing, and the Yale backs were able to romp at will. The line could not hold off the charge of the hard-fighting Bulldog offenders, and most of the tackles were being made by the secondary men.

The Bobcats, working out of the single wing formation, were never able to shake their runners loose for any sizable gain. It was futile to attempt to gain via the ground against the boys from New Haven, so passer Dave Harkins chucked a total of 18 forwards, but only five were completed. Had the Bates pass receivers been able to hold on to more of the tosses, Harkins' percentage would have been greater. But for one reason or another, they couldn't do so. Dave was passing with great accuracy and gave evidence that the Bates passing attack, once smoothed down to perfection, will be a hard one to stop.

Raia Sparkles In Defense

Probably the most impressive of the Bobcat gridders to see action in the fracas was Richie Raia. Raia, although never able to gain much on offense, stood out like a sore thumb on defense and more than once came charging through to nab the ball runner in his tracks. Don Hamilton and Charlie Pappas played creditable ball at their end positions, and Count Swiszewski made several tackles in his line backing position.

There was one injury in the duel for Bates. Captain George Brinkerhoff suffered a broken leg and will be out of play for the majority of the season. The injury occurred midway through the first period as a result of a clipping play for which Yale was penalized fifteen yards.

The team as a whole made an unimpressive debut against a team that to face the Pond charges are going to be in for some surprises throughout the season.

Over two hundred Bates kids at the Yale Bowl — past and present. A few recent grads spotted in the stands include Glen Collins, Bill Mobilia, Joe Kitteridge, Slim Somerville, Bill Perham, and Joel Price.

Ralph Azinger was on hand for the duel. He appears set for the Army Air Corps any day now. Also spotted was Bob Goldberg. Goldy is now a student at Harvard University along with Nestore D'Angelo. Two fine athletes lost to the Garnet cause.

Surprised at hearing of the releasing of Bill Nason from the athletic department. It is reported that he was let go for the good of the department. The popular equipment room manager will be sorely missed by his friends — the Bates athletes.

And did you hear that the proposed Varsity Club was rejected last June by the trustees at their annual meeting? They didn't want anything to interfere with contributions to the Alumni Fund. So now Bates is back where it has been for the past few years — a suicide schedule but no men with which to play.

Notice the scoreboard when you attend Saturday's contest. It is now completely finished and will be a tremendous help to fans watching games played on Garcelon Field.

Now to go brood over the failure of the Red Sox to do much against the Yankees last week in Boston. Oh, well, I can always use the familiar Red Sox war cry — "Wait till next year." Meanwhile, I look for New York and Brooklyn to tangle in the World Series, with the Bronx Bombers copping the Championship in six games.

Back Records

The series between Bates and the University of Massachusetts is a bit more interesting in the respect that the two schools have participated in more games and the record is even-Stephen. The first tilt was held in 1905, and since then 16 more games have been played. Mass. has won eight games; Bates has won eight games and one has ended in a tie.

There is an existing coincidence as far as highest scores are concerned. In 1930, Bates piled up its highest margin of victory with a 26-0 victory over the Bay Staters. But last year, Massachusetts defeated the visiting Bobcats by the same identical score, and that too is the highest total they have racked up in a single game against the Bobcats.

Bates-Yale Game

(Continued from page seven) is definitely in a class above that of Bates. The Bobcats fought doggedly to the very end, but were never in the game. The outing showed that Bates had a lot of improving to do during this week, and that their work has been cut out for them in preparation for Saturday's contest with the University of Massachusetts.

Nippon Girls

(Continued from page four) Carefully mentioning the fact that old ways and customs are usually more dear to one than new ways, it was a little surprising to us that their response to Bates should so soon be so enthusiastic.
