Famed Water Finder Appears With Roberts

By George Whitbeck

"Henry Gross and His Dowsing Rod" will be the topic of the evening as famed novelist Kenneth Roberts holds forth in the chapel tomorrow night. The subject of one of Mr. Roberts' recent books, Henry Gross himself will be present for the talk.

Roberts first became interested in water dowsing several years ago. Annoyed by the failure of well-diggers to find water on his estate, at Kennebunkport, he invited Gross down to try to find water by dowsing. Dowsing, incidentally, is a means some people have of finding water by walking along the ground with a forked stick outstretched. The stick bends down violently over a clear vein of water.

Gross, who is a game warden by profession, immediately found several veins of clear water, enough so that Roberts could make up a sizable pond on his land.

Interested in Gross' work, Roberts watched him in many other dowsing jobs around the State. The author found that wherever Gross' instructions for digging the well were followed, a vein of pure water was always found. Only if the diggers used bulldozers or dynamite, methods which Gross says blocks the veins, would they fail to find water.

Finds Depth Also

During his acquaintance with Mr. Roberts, Gross, who is always experimenting with new ideas, found that his dowsing rod would tell not only the position of the water vein, but also its depth. Gross accomplishes this by asking the rod various depths, and at the correct number, the rod obligingly dips.

According to a Life Magazine article on Henry Gross' work, this champion dowser does not need a particular type of rod. In fact, Gross can find water successfully with any type of wood and even with corset stays.

Dowses From Maps

Another experiment of Mr. Gross, that of dowsing for water over a map, caused what is probably his most famous exploit to date. When Roberts was travelling in Bermuda, he noted the fact that the island had no wells of pure water. He sent a large map of Bermuda to Maine and asked Gross to see if he could find water by using the map. Gross checked four spots on the map where his rod had found water and sent the map back.

Roberts then invited Gross down to Bermuda to dowse on the spot to verify his findings over the map. Gross came and found that on the spot dowsing checked with the map in three cases, but that in the fourth, the water would be polluted.

Digging was begun in the three spots Gross had said there would be water, and sure enough, water was found at all three places. Analysis of the water found that it was as pure as Poland Spring water.

Gross states that his dowsing power trace "domes" of water from deep in the earth's crust. From these "domes," he finds the veins of water which run near the surface. By dowsing, Mr. Gross can also tell the amount of water passing through the vein per minute.

Tries Mineral Dowsing

Recently, he has taken up hunting for minerals by dowsing, and has been fairly accurate. However, his accuracy on minerals is not to be compared with his record on water.

Roberts is frank to say that he is puzzled by the whole thing. However, he is sure that the answer does not lie in extra-sensory perception.

Kenneth Roberts himself needs little introduction. He is best known for his historical novels dealing with the early days of our country. The titles "Arundel," "Rabble In Arms," "Oliver Wiswell," and "Northwest Passage" are known to millions.

Roberts' interest in his native state of Maine has resulted in volumes on this state, among them "Trending Into Maine."

A graduate of Cornell in 1908, Roberts served as a captain in the Intelligence Service for the Siberian Expedition in the first world war. Previous to taking up novel-writing as a career, Mr. Roberts worked in the newspaper field on the Boston Post and in the magazine field with the Saturday Evening Post.

Professor Whitbeck will introduce the speaker. The conference is scheduled for 7:30 and a question period will follow.

WVBC Airs First Broadcast Friday

By Sy Coopersmith

The first radio station in the history of Bates College will inaugurate its campus broadcasting activities Friday night at 9 p.m.

The station's executive committee has been working for the opening of station WVBC since last spring.

A two hour schedule Friday night features music and news from 9-11 p.m. Alden Palmer opens the show with a world news broadcast from 9-9:15.

Following the news Donald Sherman presents "Bandstand." At 9:30 Richard Ehrenfeld will be featured on "Stairway to the Stars," a fifteen minute music show.

Alan Pospisel will conduct a hillbilly show until 10.

Classical Music Show

William Goodreau presents a half hour program of classical music from 10-10:30. At 10:30 Martha Schoman is master of ceremonies on "Show-Time U.S.A." and the evening's program will be concluded with Dwight Harvie and the news for five minutes until 11.

The organization of the radio staff is near completion. The board of directors is made up of Bruce Chandler, station manager; Jane Bower, program director; Robert Atkins, business manager; Robert Williams and William Stevens, chief technicians; Miss Martha Murrell, faculty advisor.

Variety Of Shows

Jane Bower heads the program committee and has as her assistant Robert Rubinstein. The program staff is made up of newscasters, sportscasters, announcers, disc jockeys, and individual variety show M.C.'s.

The newscasters will be Dwight Harvie and Alden Palmer. The sports staff, headed by William Eveleth, will include Roger Schmutz and Stephen Bradeen. Spot announcers are Rob Miller, Constance Flowers, Richard Melville, Herbert Dowse, Barbara Furbish, and Donald Gochberg.

The disc jockeys will be John Blake, Patricia Heldman, Helene Armento, Kenneth Griswold, Walter Stover, David Howie, Cynthia Eaves, Jack Eisner, Harry Meline, Stanley Patterson, Robert Rubinstein, Larch Foxon, Anthony Orlandella, Donald Sherman, Richard Ehrenfeld, Allan Pospisel, Boris Davenport, Martha Schoman, Frances Cook, and Bruce Chandler.

Classical Disc Jockeys

Disc jockeys who will specialize in classical music are Jean Chapman, Paul Nichols, Wayne Finegar, John Rippey, Harold Kyte, and William Goodreau.

Other weekly shows will include a personal appearance broadcast, conducted by Janet Collier, and a variety show with Earl Onque and Edward Luke. Robert Cagenello will present a musical "combo" and guest stars on his show. Richard Trenholm will direct a world government show. Jean Marie Lemire will do a weekly broadcast on campus "chatter," a survey and comments on campus events.

Staff Includes

The staff writers are Virginia Kieth, Constance Wood, Cynthia Parsons, Sylvia Hanson, Joan Green and Roger Cogger. Stanley Patterson is the head engineer and has as assistants Larch Foxon, Bruce Chandler, and William Eveleth.

Robert Atkins, business manager, has a long list of co-workers. John Houhoulis will do the bill checking, while Nancy Leland and Marilyn Winslow are "chasing records." (Continued on page eight)

Parr, Gordon, Thurber Elected Phi Beta Kappas

Ruth Parr, Clifford Gordon, and Arthur Thurber have been elected to the Phi Beta Kappa Society this semester. The general election for outstanding seniors will take place in May, 1952.

Ruth, who lives in Cynwood, Pa., has maintained a 4.00 quality point ratio since she entered Bates. She is doing honors work in her major field, English, and is an assistant in the department. She is an active member of the Robinson Players and is Copy Editor for the STUDENT.

Gordon comes from Windham. Last year he received a co-scholarship for being the highest ranking male student in his class. He is doing honors work in physics as well as being an assistant in the department. Gordon is president of the Jordan-Ramsdell Society and is a student representative on the extra-curricular activities committee. Last year he was well known as the manager of "Pericles" Pappas in the mayoralty campaign.

Thurber, who is from North Vassalboro, is doing honors work in philosophy. Last year his wife, Jane Osborne Thurber, was elected to the Phi Beta Kappa Society. Thurber, who spent his sophomore year studying at Colby College, is prominent in Christian Association work and is planning to attend Yale Divinity School next year.

First O C Skate On November 3

The first of the popular Outing Club sponsored social events will be a roller skate Saturday, Nov. 3. Fun for drag or stag will be the order of the evening at the Fair Grounds.

The buses will leave from in front of Rand Hall at 7:30. Tickets will be sold for 50 cents by the dorm representatives this week. Tickets will also be available at the door, but the price will be 60 cents.

Alan Glass, BOC president, is hoping for a big turnout to start off the year. Transportation, rink fee, and a share of bumps and fun are all included in the fee. Since a scarcity of people resulted in a loss last year, the Outing Club wants a big crowd Saturday night.

Brazil's Rhythms Resound As Dance Group Gyrates

By Ruth Russell

Brazilian atmosphere filled the Alumni Gym last night as 15 students from the University of Brazil presented a program of rhythms with percussion instruments, and folklore and modern dance.

Several provincial dances were featured on the program, "Brazilian Fantasia" being especially noteworthy. This lively and tortuous number is universally known in Brazil, and is performed by everyone whenever a festival is held.

Included in the repertoire of the student group were such diverse topics as "The Saint," an interpretation of a poem; and a slapstick polka, "Small Basket," a stylized version of a basketball game, resembled last year's men vs. women contest during Winter Carnival.

Brazil vs. Bates

Miss Grace, who arranged the group's appearance, pointed out several differences between the style of the visitors and that of the Bates Modern Dance Club. Unlike the heavy angular movement of the dancers here, the motion of the Brazilians is lyrical and is much like ballet. In interpreting poetry, for example, the South Americans follow the flow of the words, rather than playing up the accents.

In the dancing of the Brazilian students, there is less use of contrast than in the Bates type of modern dance. Other differences include self-provision of accompaniment, in some instances, and the use of percussion instruments.

Leaving today for the University of New Hampshire, the dancers are on a tour of U.S. colleges in the East and Mid-West. Their appearance at Bates was under the auspices of the George Colby Chase Lecture and Concert Series.

"Hall Of Horrors" Heralds Hallowe'en

A hall of horrors will be the main attraction at the annual Women's Athletic Association Hallowe'en party.

Rand gym is to be the scene of these mysterious activities directly after each meal at 6:00 p.m. and 6:45 p.m. tonight. Girls who attend are warned to wear old clothes. However, it is requested that slacks not be worn in the dining room.

Winners of the apple-bobbing, dart-throwing, and pumpkin surprise contests will receive appropriate prizes. Refreshments planned are special health-guaranteeing apples.

Carolyn Carlson, assisted by the eleven WAA Board members, is in charge of the party.

Alumni Participate In Pre-Game Rally

Bates alumni from near and far turned out in force for the Maine rally Friday night on Garcelon field. Pres. Phillips welcomed grads back to Bates after a mass parade around the campus.

George Gamble, new alumni secretary, read telegrams from alumni clubs and individual graduates throughout the country, including one from last year's grid captain, Lefty Faulkner.

At 8 p. m., Bates students and alumni, not only at the rally, but everywhere joined in singing the Alma Mater. Leon Townsend of Chicago, who played football for Bates 25 years ago, spoke briefly. Alumni Association President Max Wakely conducted a drawing for the door prize, a Bates record album.

Larry Ovan introduced Coach Ducky Pond, lauding him as being much more than a friend to the team members, and as being the real spirit behind the Bates grid squad. Following Coach Pond's remarks, letters were presented to Peter Whitaker, Lucille Higgins, Marilyn Shaylor, and Dorothy Wood, all of whom have served as cheerleaders for two years or more.

A bonfire in back of JB concluded the rally.

Allen Discusses U.S. Magazines

Frederick L. Allen, Harper's editor, described the growth and present-day role of the periodical to last week's audience at the Modern Literature Conference.

Referring to the periodical as "an old American custom," Mr. Allen told of the old-fashioned family magazine which appeared in the 90's. It was edited by aristocrats, and was aimed at an upperclass with refined tastes. With the beginning of national advertising at the turn of the century, came the pioneers of journalism who discovered the 20th century middle class. This motley mass of people, the journalists found, was not too well educated, but awake and intelligent.

Competition Too Much

At that time, many new magazines popped up and competed with older periodicals such as Harper's, the Atlantic Monthly, and Scribner's. Mr. Allen noted that competition was too much for some of the older magazines, which died slowly rather than make their material human. While dying publications stayed in their ivory towers, others discovered the "stuff of life," as the speaker put it.

Tracing the development of the periodical, Mr. Allen discussed the rise of confession magazines. Then came the Reader's Digest, which offered pellets of information. Editor Wallace's instinct for the human touch has made the magazine so popular today, 16 foreign editions are published.

In the 20's, the New Yorker came into being, printing subtle social comment and short stories. The year 1923 marked the beginning of news-weeklies and picture magazines, with Time originating an assembly-line technique of publication. Life, instituted in 1936, also followed this procedure. In recent years, there has been a tremendous rise in the pulps and the comics, both of which appeal to what Mr. Allen called "the relaxed mind."

Circulate Ideas

The main role of today's periodical is to circulate ideas. Magazines have a service role; they broaden the horizons of the American people, and play a large part in adult education. Mr. Allen cited the trade journals, which have led to general technological advances, and the hobby magazines which offer much information to people with special interests.

In the way of illustration, the speaker discussed the policy of Harper's as concerned with its educational function. Harper's, he said, is aimed at people who are educated, intelligent, and responsible. Receiving about 20,000 manuscripts per year, the editors attempt to publish complete, impartial accounts of facts and ideas.

During the question period, Mr. Allen denied the myth that manuscripts mailed to a magazine are handed to the janitor. He declared that everything submitted is read.

"Salaam" Replaces "Air Raid" In Haze Day Rules

Freshman rules for men end tomorrow with the usual annoyances and inconveniences for members of the incoming class. The following are the Haze Day rules drawn up by the Student Council:

- Haze day will commence at 6 a.m., Nov. 1st, and will last until 6 p.m., Nov. 1st.
- ALL Freshman rules will be observed as well as the following:
 - Frosh are barred from the pool hall, ping pong table, and must not sit down in the Bob Cat Den.
 - Frosh must wear clothes backwards.
 - The numbers "55" must be printed on the forehead with lipstick.
 - Beanies are to be carried on a two to three foot pole. Lost Beanies must be replaced with a reasonable facsimile.
 - Frosh must sing the Bobcat or the Alma Mater on the way to classes.
 - Each Frosh shall be the "flunkie" for one upperclassman. The frosh shall be his slave and valet for the day. The frosh must put the name of his superior on a tag, and wear said tag.

G. When "Salaam" is heard, all freshmen will get down on all fours and bow toward the east three times, yelling "Allah" every time they bow.

3. The Secret Seven will hold its last meeting following haze day to punish violators of Haze Day Rules.

The freshman banquet was the main topic of discussion in the Student Council this week. The council voted in favor of having the banquet on Nov. 20.

President Harris appointed Nathaniel Boone, Charles Bucknam, and Edward Halpert as a committee to assist him in arranging the affair. Bucknam will handle the publicity for the banquet.

Other minor topics of discussion were: (1) a report of the progress of the Maine game rally by Nathaniel Boone, (2) the Stu-C commitments regarding chapel, and (3) the possibility of securing a stuffed Bates bobcat.

The council approved and subsequently passed the budget presented for the coming semester.

James Moody related Dr. Zerby's plea for money to buy a new altar cloth for the chapel. A Stu-C contribution of $10 will be forthcoming to aid Dr. Zerby in the purchase of this altar cloth.

Kimball Airs Program Of Louis XIV France

"Bates College on the Air" presents Professor Kimball this afternoon at 4:30 on WCOU. The theme of the program is based on France in the time of Louis XIV.

Also taking part will be John Blake, who will read in French one of the ever-popular fables of La Fontaine. To complete the program, Harold Kyte, Harry Meline, and Nancy Kosinski will present a scene from Moliere's "A Doctor in Spite of Himself." The broadcast will thus be devoted to the art, music, and literature of the period. It is Miss Murrell's hope that there will follow other programs in the future covering equally notable periods.

Last week the Bates radio workshop, under the guidance of Miss Murrell, went on the air with the first in its annual series of weekly broadcasts over WCOU. The program, written by Ronald Clayton and directed by Ruth Scammon, was dedicated to Back-to-Bates weekend. In the cast were Robert Lohfeld, Jean LeMire, David Moore, Robert Cagenello, Nancy Kosinski, Norma Sturtevant, and Frank Stred.

Topics of programs for the near future include folk music, a glimpse of Elizabethan England, and a holiday theme for Thanksgiving.

College Honors Five At Banquet

Five alumni and friends of Bates were cited for outstanding loyalty and contribution to the college at Saturday's Citation Luncheon. Taking place in the Alumni Gym, the event was a highlight of Back-to-Bates weekend.

President Phillips presided at the affair and presented citations to Raymond W. Harriman '10, of Thomaston; Miss Charlotte A. Millett '05, of Gorham; James H. Hawes '27, of Boston; Mrs. Daisy Dill Norton, of Lewiston; and Delbert E. Andrews '10, of Jefferson. All of them have done exceptional work in their chosen professions, and have exemplified service to the community to the highest degree.

The luncheon, held prior to the Bates-U of Maine duel, featured Bates songs and cheers, a student quartet, and introduction of guests at the head table. Prof. Berkelman headed the Citation Award Committee, with Mr. Lindholm and Frank M. Coffin assisting.

Stu-G: Haze Day Dress In '51 To Be "Uniform"

This year the frosh women in all the dorms will be dressed "uniformly" on Haze Day, Nov. 6. Stu-G has announced the following rules for that day:

1. All clothes must be worn inside out.
2. A hat of some sort must be worn.
3. Hair must be worn in pig-tails.
4. Two different shoes must be worn (rubbers, boots, sneakers included).
5. Upperclassmen in each dorm will make up a two-line verse for their particular freshmen, which they must repeat when asked.
6. Each girl must spend one hour out of the day fulfilling the desires of her big sister.
7. All hazing activities are to take place from arising in the morning to 5 p. m., everywhere except in the dining room and in classes.

Debibbing At WLB

The debibbing ceremony will take place that night in the Women's Locker Building from 7-9 p. m. All upperclassmen are invited to attend.

Freshman coeds will sign their names to the constitution and officially become "Bates women" at Freshman Installation, which will take place Nov. 11 at 7:30 p. m. Marlene Ulmer, chairman of the event, announced that she would like to have a large turnout of upperclass women. She suggested that all freshmen invite their big sisters.

Sophomore representatives to Stu-G, Sally Reisner and Carolyn Snow, are planning the event. The program will include five minute skits given by each of the girls' dorms. In addition to the individual prizes given to the girls, an award will be given to the dorm chosen as having the best skit.

With the conclusion of the skits, the girls remove their bibs while the audience sings the Alma Mater, and their orientation is complete.

Consider Chapels

A discussion was held on the subject of chapel programs, and various suggestions were made to improve them. Lois Miller will present these ideas to the Chapel Program Committee. She and Cynthia Eaves were appointed to usher at Wednesday morning assemblies.

Upon request of the Stu-G Board, Mrs. Cross has agreed to serve the simpler flavors of ice cream, particularly omitting those containing coconut. Girls wishing to get permission to wear their hair up in the dining room may receive it from

Classical Record Concerts Begin Experimentally Tuesday Night

Leading off with the Scheherazade Suite of Rimsky-Korsakov, the first in a series of classical music record-concerts will be given next Tuesday night at 7 in Room 5, Hathorn.

According to Mr. Smith, head of the music department and sponsor of the program, the concerts will be presented once a week at the same time. Their primary aim is to provide outside listening for members of the department's music appreciation classes.

Also, records are not being loaned from the school library on an individual basis this year. The reason for the policy is that WVBC, the campus radio station, will be making extensive use of the disc music.

Thus, Mr. Smith feels, the Tuesday night record concerts will give interested students an opportunity to listen to music from the record library they otherwise would miss. Anyone who enjoys listening to good music is invited to come.

The series is experimental in that the music department is interested in finding out how many people will be interested in attending regularly scheduled programs of this type. If the response to the initial programs is great enough and more periods seem to be in demand, the department will consider extending the project.

Music will be played on a request basis after the first few periods. Each of the concerts will last about two hours and long classical pieces will be supplemented with shorter compositions. Peter Whitaker, who helped push the idea for the series, will be in charge of playing the records and arranging programs.

Sixteen Frosh Qualify For Final Debate Test

Sixteen freshman students qualified in preliminary try-out speeches held recently to participate in the final try-outs to determine the membership of this year's freshman debate squad.

These final try-outs will be a series of debates to be held during the week following Thanksgiving vacation.

Twelve men and four women of the freshman class will participate in the final try-out debates. The men are Donald Gochburg, Harold Swain, Joseph Zatyka, Marvin Kushner, Roger Thies, David Wyllie, Richard Hathaway, Russell Nile, Blaine Taylor, Roger Cogger, Donald Miller, and Martin Brody. The women include Sylvia Moore, Carolyn Gove, Hope Cunningham, and Patricia Jervis.

Several of the candidates have had considerable experience. Swain was rated as best speaker in the New Hampshire State League high-school tournament at Bates last year, and this summer participated in a national forensic conference in California. Taylor won the extemporaneous speaking contest at a

Linc Barlow Aboard D-E Now Enroute To Korea

Lincoln Barlow, who graduated from Bates last June, is serving aboard the USS Silverstein, a destroyer escort. He entered the navy on July 11 and was transported from San Francisco to Pearl Harbor on August 9.

Concerning his work, Barlow writes, "As a sonarman my work has been steady — we have been doing extensive training in anti-submarine warfare just to be ready for any possible warfare of that type that might break out."

Barlow sailed for Japan last Monday and expects to see action in Korean waters about the first of November. He anticipates action in this area to take the form of shore bombardment, shifting troops, air-sea rescue operations for downed carrier pilots, and watch for floating mines.

Good Weather, But —

Barlow continues, "The Bates campus would certainly be a welcome sight just now. Our weather is certainly ideal; sunny every day and a temperature around 88 degrees in the afternoon and 75 at night. But it is still a far cry from the enjoyment of past associations at college and at home."

"By the way, the University of Hawaii is terribly run down and poorly kept. It was a great disappointment to me."

Aviation Cadet

Word was also received from Jack Taylor, a member of the class of '52.

Taylor is an aviation cadet at the Greenville Air Force Base in Mississippi. Taylor states that the training program he is in is the finest in the world. "Their method of 'putting across' a complex subject in a minimum of time is very well done. Although the discipline is rigid, it's just. Everyone receives the same sort of treatment. On the other hand, they've done much to make our living conditions first-rate and that helps to compensate for the discomforts of air training."

The addresses of Bates men in the service can be obtained from Mr. Sampson.

A trip to Halifax, Cuba, and an incident involving the running aground of his ship, the USS Wisconsin, have been featured in the service-life of former mayor of Bates William Ferguson.

Ferguson, an officer in the navy, is stationed on the Wisconsin in the capacity of Radar Watch officer. The much publicized event of the grounding of the ship in the Hudson River took place on August 15.

Grounded In The Morning

In a letter to Mr. Sampson, Ferguson writes, "... about 7 o'clock that morning the stern buoy that we were moored to came loose from the bottom and we started to drift toward the Jersey shore. Not being able to get immediate assistance from the tugs about as we had gone so far, that when we finally got the engines started they had lost suction and we were not able to get under way."

"The tugs finally came alongside and we were pulled off and then went under our own power to Gravesend Bay which is right off Coney Island."

Sailed From Norfolk

Ferguson entered the navy after graduation from Bates. He then attended school for refresher courses in radar work. Sailing from Norfolk, Va., the first of August, his ship proceeded to Halifax and then to New York, where the grounding incident took place.

From New York, Ferguson went to Cuba. He describes the weather conditions as unbearable with the sun shining all the time. The ten day stay in the waters off Cuba were featured by gunnery practice and all types of exercises.

We Solicit The Business Of Bates Students

Editorials

The Bates Double Standard

The trend is changing: the sharp difference between what is correct for men and what is proper and ladylike for a woman is gradually reaching a merging point through most American institutions.

More Privileges

The standards which mark the society approved woman of today have been relaxed to include many of the privileges previously granted only to men.

We have seen this true at Bates in the matter of smoking where there was a time within the last decade when a girl who just had to "smoke, smoke, smoke that cigarette" had to walk all the way to the Quality shop to do so.

Now she is allowed to smoke in reception rooms and, because she so often hears girls from other colleges look aghast when she complains that she is not allowed to blow smoke rings in her room, she takes one of two courses.

Either she flaunts the rules and smokes in her room anyway, or she outwardly obeys the wishes of the college, but complains about the injustice of the administration.

Inflammable Clothing

We have discussed the problem with the administration. We brought up the unanswerable point why couldn't the women smoke in Roger Bill, when the year before the men did? Their answer was that women have more inflammable clothing than the men.

That didn't seem a satisfactory answer to us, in view of the fact that as a whole it is an indisputable fact that women are less careless about leaving lighted cigarettes around. For Bates women, it has been ground in them so deeply that they are not to leave lighted cigarettes when they leave a reception room, that in most cases it is practically automatic.

Senior Smoking Privileges

We probed deeper for a reason. We heard the obvious fact that the women's dormitories are not fire proof. We argued that neither are the men's. Certainly Roger Bill isn't. Realizing that it would be a severe headache to the college to have to worry about smoking going on behind doors in Milliken and Whittier, notable fire hazards, we pulled out our last card.

Why couldn't smoking privileges be given to senior women. There aren't many distinct privileges granted to seniors. We felt that this would give the senior class a feeling of finally being the upper class. The existing situation of chapels being voluntary is not likely to continue if the international situation is cleared up.

Men's Prerogative

It was with this that we got down to the crux of the situation. The double standard still exists in a modified form. The administration grants the fact that the danger of men smoking in their rooms is as great as for women, but the essential right of men to smoke is long established. If men were suddenly denied the right, they would ignore the demand on something long considered their prerogative.

For men, smoking is not a privilege. For women it is an accepted right on the long trend of gradually extended freedoms for women. The right for Bates women to smoke in their reception rooms is still a newly won concession.

That is the reason why the danger of smoking in rooms is emphasized in refusing the privilege to women.

We do not see that anything can be done about it until the completion of the new women's dormitory. This will nullify the argument of fire hazards, and then women will undoubtedly be permitted room smoking.

No Fire Protection

Until that time we think Bates' women must accept the fact that the point where the double standard ends is still a hazy one, and that the administration is not in accord with the nearly universal granting of smoking without room restriction, until the fire hazard of the small dorm has been rectified.

To us it indicates that their acceptance of the double standard only in matters relating to female protection is going to be avoided as long as possible.

We have to grant the fact that there is not adequate fire protection in the women's dormitories and, until there is, we deem fit to drop the matter.

Letter To The Editor Silence Please

Editor, the STUDENT:

Attending a small coed college was not accidental or chance for most freshmen. They are here because this college, above others, represented the type of school at which they felt they could best succeed. Some of the freshmen intend, however, to succeed in fields other than the college has in mind for them.

Swell Kids

Bates is small. How many times have we heard "a small college family"? Nearly as often as we see baked beans before us. Bates, unlike a large school, extends an opportunity for the normal individual to become known. One does not have to be very something to be heard of from JB to Chase House. There are numerous students who are known because they are "swell kids," not as in Big University, very bright, very popular, or just very, very.

We frosh are informed that Bates is a coed college. Freshmen, being naive, traditionally or otherwise, expect to come to a coed college. They arrive, unpack, meet all sorts of new people, and play the "do you know so-and-so from somewhere" game. The freshman knows 10½ people by name when he is "capped and carded." She is "bibbed and bowed" and all are put in their places.

Classmates Or Mates?

Classes commence. The first opportunity to meet the opposite sex on a non-date basis is scheduled. The last chance for adjustment before the post-college change is pampered and padded. The freshman is not trusted to speak with classmates lest they become mates.

Weekends begin on Saturday at 12 p. m. on this campus. Weekends, a chance to relax and meet all the people one wants. Relax in the non-competitive eye-gorging as the phone brings Saturday night dates to the fairest damsels, in the casual, normal, atmosphere of a coed school. The girls who aren't "baitsy" casually sit home. The girls who haven't had coed cases haven't had an opportunity to "hook" a man for the weekend.

Conductive Moon

The full moon "aloofs" from on high. It doesn't want to be conducive to the insincere necking of the frosh, as they strive to retain their dates for the next weekend. The fine art of eloquence is not employed; tradition has made speaking a toll of the past age.

Bates — a small, coed college.

Thrills And Spills As BOC Sponsors Skate

By Janice Todd

A few years ago, the Bates Outing Club was in search of a new and different activity to offer to Bates students. From this search evolved the popular roller-skates which provide the proverbial thrills and spills for Batesonians twice each year.

Extra Soft Seats

Let's go behind the scenes for a few minutes and see how our roller-skating parties are made possible. The Outing Club makes sure that Bates takes over the skating rink at the Fair Grounds by hiring the rink for an evening. This works so well that approximately 99% of the skaters are from Bates. The next step is arranging transportation, and return them, and it is said that The Outing Club has buses pick up students from in front of Rand Hall the buses have extra soft seats on the return trip.

Tickets for this adventure are to be sold at the dorms this year with a bargain for those who purchase their tickets here on the campus. The tickets cost only 50 cents here whereas they are sold for 60 cents at the rink. There are the mechanics, now here is the fun.

Stag Or Drag

You don't have to be a whiz on wheels to attend this stag-or-drag affair. It's a good place to meet folks and have a real terrific time to the tune of organ music. All kinds of variety skates add a little spice to the fun. Just one word of advice though. Please, everybody keep going in the same direction so that no one will get hurt. Two plaster casts on this campus are quite enough.

P.S.—This Saturday night marks the first roller-skate of the year. See you there.

In Memoriam

We are writing this in memory of one of the inmates of Parker Hall, Bathsheba the kitten. Poor Bathsheba was living in sin for fear of being caught on the premises by unsympathetic authorities. She had to sneak her meals in various rooms and could go out only at night. Bathsheba, a pretty tiger kitten with four white paws, was extremely friendly and lovable.

One morning (it grieves us to tell this) Bathsheba was found dead in the hallway of West Parker. The coroner still can't determine whether the death was the result of rat poison or whether she pined away for her only love — David. Relations ask that flowers kindly be omitted.

Rolling Along

Next Saturday night the Outing Club sponsors the all-college roller-skate at the Lewiston Fair Grounds. This is the first of two to be held during the year. Tickets may be bought from dorm representatives for 50 cents or at the door for 60 cents. Special buses leave Rand at 7:30 and arrive back on campus at 11:30; one token each way. Stags or couples invited.

"Daisy, Daisy"

The Outing Club Equipment Room now has three newly refurbished bicycles equipped with locks. They may be borrowed for a day or half-day at any time. A dollar deposit is required which will be returned if the bike is back on time. To get them see Jim Thompson in 7 Bardwell or call Nancy Braverman, Chase House (3-9034).

Debate Changed

The debate between West Point and Bates, which was to have been held here at Bates on November 9, has recently been cancelled due to problems of transportation. Ann Sabo and Diane West were to have upheld the negative in this debate on the proposition of wage and price controls. Plans are now being made for a debate with Colby on this question in which these girls will participate.

ON CALL

The Big Weekend has come and gone. There were so many old and new faces that we won't attempt to enumerate them. Suffice to say, the new arrivals were well celebrated and a good time was had by all. Middle really, had things down to a science with a weekend extra-curricular activities schedule and a "social register" for those with dates. The Bates spirit was much in evidence when the feeble Stein Song chorus broke out at the dance. The challenge was answered with a hearty rendition of the Alma Mater — both verses.

Don Hamilton must be a little confused after being told that his brother had come up to see him play. The "brother" turned out to be Pat Heldman's beau from Harvard, who has Don's looks and blond crew cut, but is no relation.

Sunday morning last year's Hacker House had a breakfast reunion at the Women's Union, including Mrs. Mc, Lois Keirstead, now at U of Maine, and Ruthie Reynolds, a frequent weekend guest in Hacker. Everyone maintained it was worth getting out of bed for, even after the big night.

While the glow of the weekend has subsided a bit, Dottie Wood still has her own private sparkle. She and Glenn Collins are engaged. Best wishes to you both from all of us.

When Robbie Fletcher walked into Fiske Hall with a large bouquet of flowers Saturday, it was the convincing touch. We were sure of a romantic elopement in view of the many rumors sent out by her "best friends." But after all, it was just a rumor.

Last week began to look like finals with the faculty breaking out with a rash of writtens. For English majors with Philosophy there was a possibility of four and a term paper. All we can say is "Whew!"

Okay, Al Glass, how did it happen? Were you behind or in front of the swinging doors?

Congrats to the stiffened, but still - on - their - feet freshman football team. It was a great game. And then there are the two frosh women who have thirty cases apiece. They co-educate with the whole New Hampshire team — and the coach!

Prexy Sparkplugs Development Symbolized By Arts Building

PREXY and his baby — the projected Arts Building

By Sy Coopersmith

There have been many progressive innovations on campus since the arrival of Charles Franklin Phillips, fourth full time president of Bates College. According to Pres. Phillips the Bates Development Program includes not only "the physical renovations, but also, and most important, the intangible or human elements."

The intangible elements referred to by Pres. Phillips include able students who are eager to learn, a faculty of character and ability dedicated to careers of teaching, an active body of alumni and trustees who take a continuing interest in the affairs of the college.

The physical program of development, though not complete, has realized six of its nine proposed campus additions. There have been renovations at Rand Hall, apartments for veterans, and additions to Coram Library. The new men's commons is complete and work has recently ended on the infirmary and Hedge Laboratory. Future plans are for an additional women's dormitory, a fine arts and music building, and a women's gymnasium and playing field. The future development program is dependent upon the 100th Anniversary Memorial Fund to which a donation of 100 thousand dollars was recently given by the late Mrs. Charlotte Neal Pettigrew of New York. The fund now has $116,500.

"I Am Particularly Pleased"

The man behind the gun in the development program is the often pantomimed for his "hello" and "particularly" phrases, Pres. Charles F. Phillips.

Pres. Phillips was born May 25, 1910, in Nelson, Pa. He and his wife Evelyn (married in 1932) have two children, Charles Franklin, Jr., and Carol Ann. Pres. Phillips came to Bates in 1944 after having served as deputy administrator in charge of all rationing in the U.S. during the last war.

Having received his Bachelor of Arts degree, magna cum laude, at Colgate in 1931 and his Ph. D. in Economics at Harvard in 1934, Pres. Phillips taught for a year at Hobart College in Geneva, N. Y. He returned to Colgate in 1934 as an instructor in economics. In two years he was made an assistant professor and then, in 1939 he was made a full professor. He taught at Colgate until 1941, when he took a three year leave of absence to do government work.

Mr. Phillips Goes To Washington

Pres. Phillips went to Washington in 1941 with the National Defense Advisory Commission and later joined the Office of Price Administration. He served in his capacity as Deputy Administrator for Rationing until September, 1944, when he became president of Bates.

A text on marketing by Pres. Phillips is the most widely used text in its field in this country, being used by over 300 different colleges and universities. When asked during an interview whether he had plans for any new books he replied that it was a full time job keeping his other texts revised. In addition to being an author of several books, he has written numerous magazine articles. He received an honorary LL.D. from Colgate University in 1945 and from Colby College in 1949.

Scholarship Policy

Bates granted $31,780 in scholarship awards to students during the last academic year. "We attach special significance to this fact," said Pres. Phillips, "because it means scholarship at Bates has reached a new peak. The grants in 1950-51 show a marked increase over the $28,180 of 1949-50 and the $25,445 of the preceding year 1948-49. Scholarship aid is a major factor in making a college education possible for many young men and women of limited financial means."

Pres. Phillips has done much for Bates College, and the only proof necessary is a comparison of Bates today with the Bates of ten years ago.

Well, for the first time in three years, Bates was able to stage its annual homecoming game without the benefit of rain. But even the elements couldn't help the Bobcats last Saturday as they lost to the University of Maine in the State Series opener. I was not disappointed in the playing of the Bates team last week. However, I was mildly surprised at the margin of the final score.

Contrary to what many people thought previous to the game, I felt sure that Bates would give the Bears a tough struggle, and even had a sneaking suspicion that Bates might be able to pull an upset. After having watched the team practice all week and noticing the spirit and determination of the players, I went to the game in anticipation of a dog-eat-dog affair. And although the Garnet fought stiffly to the end, it was not in the books for them to pull any kind of an upset.

What told the story of the game? The superior advantage of Maine on the ground and through the air, lack of Bates reserves, some bad breaks here and there for the Bobcats, and perhaps a few bad calls by the officials which definitely came at important phases throughout the battle. The forward wall looked greatly improved over what it has been, and the line blocking was a pleasant surprise. But the visitors were doing some blocking of their own, and when they weren't gaining via the ground, they took to the air. Sad to say, the Bates pass defense was not sharp and the Maine receivers were all by themselves the entire afternoon, especially in the middle.

Fumbles and penalties really hurt the Garnet cause. One Bates fumble set up a Maine touchdown deep in Bates territory, and others played their role. But two penalties in particular really changed the tone of the game. One was in the second period when Bates was marching goalward. "Beaver" Sevigny came limping off the field with an ankle injury and a replacement went in for him. The officials penalized the Cats five yards for delaying the game, but failed to take into consideration that an injured player was leaving the field. As it was, Bates missed a first down by a couple of yards on fourth down, and would have had it were it not for that penalty.

The other one was when Nate Boone broke through the secondary in the last half to snag a long Dick Bergquist pass. Nate really had a chance to show his speed for the first time this year and galloped to the one yard line before being tackled from behind. This fine play, probably the best of the afternoon, would have been enough to give Bates a shot in the arm, but nullifying penalties called the ball back and Bates never was able to move out again.

Sure, Maine had a good team but I don't think they were 19 points better than Bates. The Bobcat attack looked well polished in the first half, but started to peter out through the third period as the boys started to feel the effects of the hard struggle. Thus, Maine started to roll in high gear, filled the air with passes, and took a commanding lead which they held for the rest of the game.

Once again it was Richie Raia who was the offensive and defensive star of the game. He showed no let-down from his fine performances in every game played by Bates so far. But his offensive prowess was well-flanked by the hard running of Don Barrios and Dick Berry, and the fine passing of Bergquist. The former two, playing their first full game in over two weeks because of injuries, helped relieve some of the burden off the shoulders of Raia, and looked in peak condition after their long lay-off.

Bergquist's passing was especially notable, and he was hitting his targets most of the time with some of the aeriels just rolling off the fingertips of the intended receivers. Most of the tosses were being caught by Don Hamilton, although Raia and Pappas caught some nifties, especially the one that Charlie caught in the end zone for the lone Bates score. Hamilton also played well on the defense, and along with Capt. Larry Ovia and Raia, made the majority of the tackles.

Chris Nast is having a hard time getting rid of ailing side and leg injuries, but continues to remain Ducky Pond's choice for defensive end. You've got to hand it to Chris. He's the smallest player in the Bates line, but the opponents have to do some hard charging and hitting before they'll move him out of the play. For a kid who has had limited football experience prior to college, Chris is certainly doing all right for himself at Bates.

But if the Bates partisans are disheartened by the failure of the varsity to win ball games, they can take consolation in the fact that the freshman team contains some standout players who will be moving to the varsity next fall to give a helping hand. Bob Hatch has taken a group of players who have never worked together before and has shaped them into a smooth-working offensive and defensive unit. The Kittens were really up against it when they played the New Hampshire Frosh Friday, but they held on to their one point lead to win the game. It was certainly one of the roughest games to be seen here for quite a while, and the goal line stand by Bates for four downs was a true example of the defensive ability of the squad.

Bob Chumbook and Dave Higgins alternate in calling plays, and both are good passers as well as runners. Scatback Bob Reny, Gary Burke, Lucian Brown, and hard-running Herb Morton along with Chumbook and Higgins give the yearlings a well-balanced backfield that no doubt brings a gleam to Ducky Pond's eyes. But he is probably more interested in the line where such fellows as Art Paton, Phil Cowan, Dick Barton, Dick Barbera, Gene Soto, Don Smith, Ralph Froio, and Bob Cash are

Garnet Runners Meet W. P. I. In Final Dual Meet

By Bob Kolovson

It was a meet-less Friday for the varsity road-roamers as the pending run with Colby failed to materialize.

The Mules had previously stated that if they were able to muster enough men, they would take the Bobcats on, but the Colby men were unable to do so. All of which shows that there are still schools having more trouble fielding an enterprising cross-country crew than that being currently met by Bates mentor C. Ray Thompson.

Coach Thompson is worse off this year than is usually the case. The Bobcats are winless in three outings. Their ace, Bob Goldsmith, has been having difficulty all season reaching his peak form due to a variety of minor leg ailments, although he believes that he is rid of them now.

Casavant Expects To Improve

Dom Casavant, who has showed the most this year for the Garnets with a fourth against Maine and a sixth against Vermont, is also disappointed with his work but hopes to show considerable improvement now that he has had sufficient time in which to practice.

To add to the disability list, Roger Schmutz has been bothered by a foot irritation and Tom Halliday by a sore toe. However, the two sophomore harriers were about set to go again at last reports. Clyde Eastman and Walt Reuling are showing signs of improvement and may be able to help the Cats in their remaining meets.

Worcester Tech Meet Friday

The final dual meet of the season will find the thinclads at Worcester Tech Friday afternoon. The meet will provide the final test before the State Meet Nov. 5 and the New England in Boston on the 12th.

The freshman runners have also been meeting with tough luck. Against Hebron Oct. 22 they came out on the wrong end of a 19-42 score. Buzzy Bird, described by Coach Thompson as a real prospect, placed third and Cal Jodat finished sixth to provide some consolation for the Bobkittens.

Bobcats Face Strong Foe In Offense-Minded Bears

By Roger Schmutz

Power-plus seems to be the only way to describe the Bowdoin football team that Bates faces this Saturday at Brunswick. In winning five of six games, their only loss being a 13 to 12 upset at the hands of Williams, the boys from Brunswick have shown a strong offense both in the air and on the ground.

Diversified Attack

The majority of the air might has come from the strong right arm of quarterback Jim Decker. In six games, he has completed well over 50 per cent of his passes including ten that have gone for touchdowns. His favorite targets are left end Charlie Bennett and left half Roger Levesque. Bennett has caught 26 passes for 311 yards and six touch-

For All Grandstand Quarterbacks Only

For the next two weeks the Chesterfield company is offering all amateur grandstand quarterbacks a chance to show off their ability, and win a carton of cigarettes into the bargain.

If you think you can qualify, or if you sometimes are a lucky guesser, then just follow the simple rules. After you finish reading the STUDENT (not before, mind you, but after), just figure out the probable score of this Saturday's Bates-Bowdoin game.

Then sometime before Saturday noon, write that score along with your name and dorm on the back of an empty Chesterfield wrapper, and drop it in the box that will be provided in the Bobcat Den.

The prize for the winning entry is a carton of the sponsor's product, which we will not mention by name for fear of being thought partial. In case of a tie, the entry which is received first will get the prize, so act promptly.

And if at first you don't succeed, and all that, the contest will be repeated next week for the Colby game. So why don't you take a stab at it. It's as easy as the proverbial ABC to enter, and you might be the lucky one.

downs and Levesque, the state's leading scorer with 57 points to his credit, has been on the receiving end of 17 aeriels for 252 yards and three scores.

On the ground, the major contributor to the Polar Bear's power is fullback Art Bishop. He has scored six touchdowns and has been greatly responsible for Bowdoin's fine running attack that has averaged close to 230 yards a game.

Weak Defense

This then, is the picture of a power laden team that apparently can score at will as witnessed by its 60 points against Colby and 45 against Amherst. As for defense, however, the story is completely different. Amherst, for example, in rolling up 38 points in its game with Bowdoin revealed offensive power far exceeding that exhibited in any other contest this year. Moreover, in its aforementioned victory over Colby, the Polar Bear gave up 42 points to a team that previously had been completely ineffectual on the offense. Incidentally, the 102 points combined scoring total in this Bowdoin-Colby tilt is a record for a single State Series game.

Taking these facts into consideration, it is safe to state that given possession of the ball the Bowdoin Polar Bear is a dangerous foe. However, on the defense he seems to be merely a testing ground for his opponent's offensive skills. With Richie Raia and Dick Bergquist doing the throwing and Raia, Don Barrios, and Dick Berry the carrying, a high scoring, exciting battle is definitely in prospect. If Bates can show the same offensive strength that it did against Maine and get some better breaks than it did in that game the boys from Brunswick will be in for quite a fight.

Frosh Defeat U. N. H. In Rough Battle, 13-12

By Don Sherman

The Bates freshman football team took their biggest test of the season, last Friday and passed it with flying colors, shading the always tough University of New Hampshire freshmen, 13-12.

With just four minutes to play in the game, Bates' hopes of maintaining their slim one point lead sunk to the depths when New Hampshire's Marshall Litchfield intercepted Bob Chumbook's pass on the Wildcat 40 and ran 54 yards before Chumbook finally brought him down on the six with a spectacular game-saving tackle.

Goal Line Stand

A brilliant goal line stand which saw the Bobkittens' line hold within their own six yard line for four consecutive downs climaxed the hair-raising contest which left over 700 breathless spectators limp with excitement.

Bates' first score was set up by a perfect sleeper pass from Chumbook to Bob Reny which brought the ball down to the N. H. 7 yard line early in the second period. After successive penalties of five yards, one to each team had nullified each other, Chumbook fired a high pass to Don Smith who leaped into the air to make a sensational catch and then fell into the end zone for the touchdown.

Bob Bean ran his consecutive conversion record to five, and placed his team out in front, 7-0, with a perfect placekick which later proved to be the game winning point.

The invading Wildcats ran into a bit of tough luck later in the same period when, forced to kick from their own 13 yard line, the pass from center was fumbled, and Bates recovered on the six. A few seconds later Bob Chumbook dove over the line to increase the Garnet lead to 13 points.

Visitors Rally

The University frosh immediately came to life and tallied a few minutes later. After Chumbook's quick kick backfired by going out of bounds on the New Hampshire 42 yard line, the Wildcat passer, Harry Kageleiry, completed two aerials for a total of thirty yards to the Bates 8. From there it took just an 8 yard run by Jimmy Drysdale and two more Kageleiry passes to put the pigskin over the line.

Bates led by one touchdown until an unusual play in the third quarter brought the visitors to within one point of the Kittens. Buster Harrington scooped up a blocked Bates punt on the Garnet 27 and raced into the end zone to put the Blue and White back into the ball game.

The game was marked by an unusually large number of penalties for upstartsmenlike conduct. A player from each team was ejected from the game for fighting in the final period when tempers flared high on both sides as a result of the heated competition.

Intamural Standings

Up through Sunday, October 28, Smith South was on top in the Intramural Touch Football league, with a record of three victories and no defeats. Bardwell and Sampsonville - Off-Campus, also undefeated, seem to have the best chance of unseating South before the season ends. Last year's champions, J.B., are currently in the league cellar, the only team without a victory.

The standings:

Student Tickets On Sale In Gym

The Athletic Department has announced the following regulations for the purchase of Student and Faculty tickets for the Bowdoin and Colby games. Tickets for the game at Bowdoin this Saturday can be purchased at the Athletic Office in the Alumni Gym until 4:30 this afternoon.

• Colby game tickets will be on sale at the same place from Monday, Nov. 5, through Wednesday, Nov. 7, from 9:30 to 11:30 in the morning and from 1:30 to 4:30 in the afternoon.

Prices for these tickets will be $2.50 for faculty members and $1.00 for students, tax included. Students must present their season ticket books at the time of the purchase, and will be asked to show them again when they surrender their $1.00 tickets at the gate.

All tickets bought under this arrangement will provide the holder with reserved seats in the student section at the games, and may not be exchanged or refunded after the original purchase.

Tickets on this basis will be sold only at the Bates Athletic Office at the stated times, and may not be purchased at the game.

Gulp!

Of interest to Bates fans, and in particular to those who sat in the stands at Garcelon field last Saturday and heard a rapidly changing score announced over the Public Address system, is the outcome of the Bowdoin-Colby contest at Brunswick.

The game was a record breaker, with 102 points scored by both teams in Bowdoin's eventual 60-42 victory. But by far the most startling fact of the game is that the lead changed hands eight times.

And all this in a game between a Bowdoin club reported to be the best Adam Walsh has coached in 11 years, and a Colby team that was best known for its ability to lie down and play dead.

Nels Corey, the new football coach up at Colby, apparently has something, especially a back named Floyd. The home team's public address announcer is rumored to have stated before the game that Bowdoin was playing host to "some other team." It turned out to be some team after all.

Unleashing a strong air attack for the first time this season, the Yankee Conference Champions from the University of Maine fought their way to a well-earned victory over Bates on Garcelon Field last Saturday. A near-capacity crowd of enthusiastic Homecomers endured the cold to watch the Garnet go down to its fifth defeat in six games this year.

Bates fought the heavier and better-manned Black Bears to a near standstill through the first half, but the general weight of manpower plus a few breaks in the penalty department helped the visitors to pull away for the win.

Maine Scores First

Maine took the opening kick-off and powered their way on the ground toward the Bates goal with Jack Butterfield, who was outstanding all day, and big Ed Bogdanovich doing most of the carrying. Inside their own six yard line, the Garnet held stubbornly as quarterback Sturgeon sent four futile power plays into the line. On fourth down Chris Nast recovered a Bogdanovich fumble, and the Maine halfback was badly shaken up. He had to be helped from the field, and much of the Maine running power was gone for the rest of the afternoon.

Bates started a drive of its own, with Barrios, Berry and Raia doing most of the running, but an attempted pass near midfield was intercepted, and Maine took over. Neither team could get rolling immediately and the quarter ended with no score.

Uncork Passing Attack

With both Bogdanovich and Gordie Pendleton, the mainstays of its running attack, sidelined with injuries, Maine suddenly took to the air in the early moments of the second period. A Sturgeon toss to Whytock gave the Bears a first on the Bates 45. From there Butter-gaining valuable experience for next year on the varsity. And Mr. Tony Orlandella's roommate, Bob Bean is as cool as a cucumber in kicking those extra points. He's only missed once thus far this season.

field raced off his own left tackle for the first score of the game. The extra point kick was good, and Maine led by a 7-0 count.

Bates Knots Score

Bates came back promptly when Chris Nast picked up another Maine fumble, this time on the visitor's 39. Now Bates' passing attack took charge as sophomore Dick Bergquist fired a pass to classmate Don Hamilton at the Maine 12. Four plays later Bergquist repeated with a flip to Charlie Pappas in the end zone for Bates' only touchdown of the afternoon. Richie Raia picked up the extra point by dashing around left end after a fake kick. The score was tied, and Bates fans got their best chance to cheer and almost their last.

The visitors wasted no time in returning to the medium that had brought them their first score. Sturgeon with a passing accuracy that had been kept under wraps all year flipped one to Easton at the Bates 40 and then another to Whytock who went the rest of the way to give the Bears a 13-7 lead.

The Bobcats started another drive in an effort to knot the count before half-time, but were stopped by a questionable penalty called when an injured man left the field and was replaced in excess of the legitimate number of times out.

Maine kicked off to open the third quarter and got a big break by recovering a fumble on the Bobcat 30. The flagging hopes of the somewhat partisan crowd perked up for a moment when a Sturgeon pass was intercepted, but the play was nullified by another penalty, and a moment later Sturgeon tossed to Whytock in the end zone to make the score 19-7.

Penalty Hurts Bates

The battered Bobcats made one more valiant attempt to get back into the game when Bergquist uncorked a long aerial to Nate Boone near midfield. Boone, pursued by two Maine men, raced all the way to the Maine one before being hauled down. But once again the breaks were with Maine, and Bates lost 95 yards when the play was called back and a five yard backfield in motion penalty and fifteen more for protesting too loud were slapped on.

Maine picked up their last score after another intercepted pass, when Al Card, a converted tackle raced 30 yards through a disheartened Bates team. The extra point made the score 26-7, and the game ended a few minutes later.

Bates played well despite several mistakes and bad breaks, but the Bobcats just didn't have enough to win it. They were not quite prepared for what Sturgeon threw at them.

The loss, coupled with Bowdoin's sensational 60-42 win over Colby puts Bates in a tie with the Mules for the Series cellar, Maine and Bowdoin, the defending co-champions tied for the lead.
