Mysterious Girl Appears; Personifies School Spirit

By Irene Frye

During the past week curiosity on the Bates campus has been aroused by the presence of a mysterious girl of carefully concealed identity, known only as "Your Gal."

In her initial appearance last Wednesday night she passed through the Bobcat Den accompanied by four tuxedoed male escorts. She wore a silver gown with matching mask and slippers and carried a spray of red roses which were presented to one of the women working in the Den.

Appears At Game

She reappeared Saturday before the Bates-Bowdoin football game. Wearing a collegiate skirt and jacket, she rode past the stands on the front of a 1957 Plymouth. In keeping with the spirit of the crowd, she displayed a "Beat Bowdoin" banner.

For a few climactic minutes at the Back-to-Bates Dance Saturday evening, attention was again drawn to "Your Gal." A blue spotlight in the otherwise darkened gym enhanced the blue of her gown and mask as she welcomed the students and alumni. In the spotlight dance which followed, the mysterious speaker's bouquet of roses was presented to Roberta Richards.

Broadcasts From WVBC

Speaking as the spirit of Back-to-Bates, she reminded the alumni that "time past is past" and can never be reclaimed, though memories of things long forgotten may be stirred by a voice, a word, or an incident.

"Time future is not and may never be," she cautioned. Students and alumni alike should live not in the memories of the past or dreams of the future, but rather in the realities of the present, taking full advantage of every moment of college life.

Tonight students and faculty members will have an opportunity to become further acquainted with "Your Gal" as WVBC presents her as commentator of a new musical program. The presentation will be in compatible color for the benefit of the studio audience.

Represents Bates

But the question remains: "Who is she?" Very simply, she is the symbol of Bates — school spirit personified. In her lies the continuity of Bates, for she represents the things dear to each Bates student, past and present — its traditions and spirit. Her mood reflects that of the campus at any given moment, be it joyous or solemn, tense or relaxed. She is not an individual; she is Bates!

13-12 Football Victory Highlights Annual Back-To-Bates Events

Last weekend, alumni gathered for the annual Back-to-Bates weekend. To begin the homecoming events, the band and cheerleaders started the pre-rally parade at 7:10 p.m. Friday at John Bertram Hall and led the students to the gymnasium, where Frank O. Stred, Alumni Secretary, was in charge of the Back-to-Bates rally.

Clarence Quimby, '10, former headmaster of Cushing Academy, acted as master of ceremonies. Michael Buccigross, '41, former Garnet football captain, and Coach Robert Hatch were the two speakers.

Present Skits

The cheerleaders led students and returning alumni in two cheers to begin the rally. Following a selection by the band, Stred introduced Quimby. Girls from Rand and Whittier presented a take-off on the cheerleaders, band, and majorettes. Students from John Bertram depicted a typical study session in a men's dorm.

After the members of the football squad were applauded individually, Stred read telegrams from alumni groups throughout the country who were unable to return to the campus for the weekend.

At 8 p.m. the program was interrupted for the playing of the "Alma Mater" as part of National Bates night. Afterward Robert Kunze, skit director, announced a four-way tie for the freshman sign award.

Maine Colleges Hold Competitive Intercollegiate Debate Tourney

Students from four Maine colleges will compete in the Maine Intercollegiate Debate Tourney this Friday at Bates. There will be three rounds of debate on the question, "Resolved: that the United States should discontinue economic aid to foreign countries."

The first round will start at 11:20 a.m., and will be followed by two more rounds in the afternoon.

The status of the tourney has been changed to that of a practice tourney. Although there will be a decision in each debate no trophy will be awarded. Both varsity and novice teams will take part.

List Speakers

Speaking for Bates will be eight varsity debaters: King Cheek, David Danielson, Robert Harlow, Elvin Kaplan, Everett Ladd, Willard Martin, Grant Reynolds, and Janice Tufts. Novices will include Mary Ellen Crook, Susan Freidenman, Malcolm MacBain, and John Steadman.

Members of Prof. Brooks Quimby's argumentation class and freshman debaters will act as timers and chairmen for the debates. The debates are open to the public.

Seniors

The Guidance Office reminds seniors that the questionnaires which they received in their mail boxes last week should be filled out and returned to the office as soon as possible.

Davies Reports Campus Goal Of $1500 This Year

The drive for pledges to support the World University Service fund will be initiated by Ambrose Short Friday morning in Chapel. New England Regional Executive of WUS, Short will explain the goals, purposes, and needs of the organization.

Sponsored by the CA, Short will be on campus tomorrow afternoon. Any students wishing to attend a supper meeting with him tomorrow evening should contact Lydia Davies.

Entire Campus Participates

A goal of $1,500 has been set for the drive, campus chairman Lydia Davies announces. This year the fund will be divided equally among Athens College, Jamia Milla College in India, and the general fund of WUS to be used in other needy areas.

CA dorm representatives and cabinet members will be collecting pledges from students and faculty members throughout the November 9 to December 7 campaign. Pledges made during this period may be paid anytime in the course of the academic year. A pre-campaign personal solicitation of the CA cabinet members is initiating the drive with $50 towards the $1500 goal.

Aids Many Students

Receiving funds from students in thirty-eight countries, WUS provides aid for student refugees, medical care, housing, books and equipment, scholarship and loan funds for students in Greece, India, Israel, Egypt, Pakistan, Japan, and other areas of the world including Africa.

In the United States WUS is sponsored by the B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundations at American colleges and universities, the National Newman Club Federation, the United States National (Continued on page two)

Student Government To Sponsor Sale Of Campus Directories

College directories will go on sale in the college bookstore tomorrow and Friday. The price will be 25 cents for the first two days and 30 cents afterward.

The directories contain an alphabetical listing of the names of all students, along with the student's class, box number, dormitory and home address. Faculty names and addresses are also included. Publication has been undertaken by Lambda Alpha, the off-campus women's organization, under the direction of Stu-G.

Cornerstone Laying Adds Color To Annual Weekend

Following several cheers by the cheerleaders and the playing of the "Bobcat" by the band, the students went to Chase Hall to a record hop sponsored by the Chase Hall Dance Committee.

One of the highlights of the Back-to-Bates weekend was the laying of the cornerstone of the new women's dormitory. The ceremony took place on Saturday at 1:15 p.m. President Phillips, the Board of Trustees, alumni, students, friends of the college and the executive committee of the Alumni Association were present. W. B. Skelton, chairman of the board, officiated. The Alumni Association executive committee met earlier on Saturday with Secretary Frank Stred, who announced that alumni registration for the weekend exceeded attendance in past years. The class of '56 was especially well represented, Stred observed.

Sponsor Coffee

On Saturday afternoon following the Bates-Bowdoin game, alumni, faculty, seniors and their guests met in the Chase Hall Ballroom at an informal coffee. Sponsored by the Women's Athletic Association, the affair was chairmanned by Arlene Gardner, senior board member. Up-

Prexy Names Dean Representative For Danforth Foundation

President Charles F. Phillips has named Dean Harry W. Rowe as the liaison officer to nominate to the Danforth Foundation two or not to exceed three candidates for Danforth fellowships. These fellowships are available to seniors and recent graduates who are preparing for a college technical career and are planning to enter graduate school in September, 1957, for their first year of graduate study.

The Danforth Foundation is an educational trust fund in St. Louis, Mo. Fellowships carry a maximum annual grant of $1800 for single students, and $2400 with an additional stipend for married students with children.

Welcomes Applicants

The foundation welcomes applicants from all fields of specialization to be found in the undergraduate college. Qualifications for applicants are: outstanding academic ability, personality congenial to the classroom, integrity and character, including serious inquiry within the Christian tradition.

All Danforth Fellows will participate in the annual Danforth Foundation Conference on Teaching, to take place at Camp Miniwanca in Michigan next September. Further information can be obtained from Dean Rowe. Applications, including the recommendations, must be completed by January 31.

CA Appoints 24 Representatives To Dormitories

CA Commission heads Judith Frese and Kenneth Harris have announced the selection of this year's CA dormitory representatives.

Margot Turitz and Verna Tomalty will represent Rand; Letitia Chamberlain, Whittier; Sheila Tulk and Marie Blunda, East Parker; Carolyn Anderson and Beverly Paul, West Parker; and Sonja Anderson and Carol Gibson, Cheney.

Also serving as representatives are Barbara Madsen, Milliken; Mary Olive Spiller, Frye; Edith Wurm, Chase; Elizabeth Anson, Hacker; Virginia Shultz, Wilson; and Dorothy Schoppe, the off-campus women.

Present Radios

Representatives in the men's dorms will be Christian Miller, Smith North; Howard Walen, Smith Middle; and Dwight Haynes, Smith South. Benjamin Getchell, David Clarkson, and Howard Lindsay will represent Roger Williams; Alan Coykendall and Thomas Lee, John Bertram; and Stanley Maxwell, Bardwell.

The CA Social Commission has purchased two new radios which have been presented to nurse Dorothy Abbott for use in the Infirmary.

Amateur Politicians View Election Issues In Chapel

Last Friday morning in Chapel students and faculty members discussed the issues in this year's presidential campaign. Speaking for Stevenson were Theodore P. Wright, Jr., instructor in government; and Robert Harlow, '57. Dr. John D. Hogan, Jr., associate professor of economics; and Joanne Trogler, '58, supported President Eisenhower.

Speaking first, Wright gave what he believed to be both parties' conceptions of the presidential office. Wright said "The Republicans consider the office as that of a 'chief executive,' while the Democrats believe it to be that of a 'tribune of the people.'" He attacked the Republicans for lack of imagination, and said that the United

Off-Campus Groups Plan Calypso Cabaret

The men's and women's off-campus organizations will present the "Calypso Cabaret" from 8-11:45 p.m. Saturday evening in the Chase Hall ballroom. Saturday Dance Climaxes Back-To-Bates Activities

Dancing to the music of Lloyd Rafnell's orchestra approximately 650 alumni and students attended the Back-to-Bates dance Saturday evening in the Alumni Gymnasium.

Decorations for the dance were provided by the women's dorms and other students in the form of college posters and banners. All four Maine colleges were represented in these football posters which were aimed to give the Alumni Gym the "collegiate look" according to the Chase Hall Dance Committee.

Balloons, tied in bunches between the banners, were also used for decoration. Towards the end of the evening couples were permitted to take the balloons from the wall and keep them as souvenirs.

During the evening the mysterious "Your Gal" appeared on the balcony of the gym to reveal her identity — she is your girl. Refreshments were served in the form of brownies and an ice cream punch during the intermission.

Climaxes Weekend

As has been the custom in the past the Back-to-Bates Dance is the climax of the homecoming weekend for alumni. Preparations for the function were made by Alumni Secretary Frank Stred and his committee, while the Chase Hall Dance Committee was in charge of decorations.

Complimentary tickets to the dance were given to all members of the football team.

Student Association, and the United Student Christian Council representing the YMCA and the YWCA.

Recipient Attends Bates

Dennis Skiotis was the recipient of a scholarship given through the Bates WUS drive of previous years. First enabling him to attend Athens College, WUS is still aiding him here at Bates.

A display in Coram Library will exhibit pictures and letters from students in Athens and Jamia Milla whom the Bates WUS drive has directly aided. Athens College is the equivalent of a junior liberal arts college, while Jamia Milla trains its students in vocations which will help raise the material standard of living in India.

India Needs Aid

In India, where 85 per cent of the population is illiterate and only 2 per cent of the country's youth go on to college, this aid is greatly needed. It also will be used to provide food, medical equipment, lodging, and textbooks.

Sister School Seeks Bates

(Editor's note: The following is a reprint of an article which appeared Oct. 30 in the Bowdoin Orient. The last paragraph should be of particular interest.)

On searching through every available reference book it was with the greatest consternation that we discovered there was no mention of Bates College. In the Encyclopedia Britannica of the year of "The Crash" we came across a Harry Bates (1850-1899) who distinguished himself by writing a provocative treatise of Love and Life, and an equally stimulating one entitled "Hounds in Leash." Bates certainly could not have been named after him.

Suggest Explorer

We next came upon a Henry Walker Bates (1825-1892), an English explorer, who incidentally, solved the problem mimicry and was also a dealer in specimens — a man of exceedingly varied tastes. We do not think that Bates could have been named after this humanist since the student body of Bates has no incentive to explore, thanks to the benefits of the co-educational system.

The Encyclopedia Britannica led us in the natural course of events to an extensive search of Plutarch's Lives, for source material on Bates. This yielding no information we proceeded to an examination of Burton's "Anatomy of Melancholy," interesting, but of no assistance. This, of course, led to anxious perusal of the "New England Historical and Genealogical Register" as well as the "Edinburgh Review" of the year 1864, the date of the chartering of Bates.

Note Curious Format

We thought that there was something curious about the format of the "Edinburgh Review" until we discovered we had been reading "Allibone's Quotations," for which there was really very little excuse. There remaining on our shelves only a copy of the "Minutes of the Rapid Transit Board," we decided to leave this lone volume unmolested. We had definitely come to the conclusion that Bates College, unnamed after anyone, sprang into being, like Venus full-fledged from the wave, and has existed ever since.

This dearth of printed material worried us, but not half as much as it worried our Editor. As a final effort we checked past Orients and in the issue of October 27, 1954, we found what we were looking for, facts on Bates.

See Dryness

Bates is a dry college, comparatively speaking that is. The regulation of the consumption of spirits is very strict, and is strictly enforced.

It was founded in 1864 by Oren B. Cheney, a Dartmouth graduate. The college was named after Benjamin Bates, one of the founders of Lewiston.

Among other things, the Bates Catalogue states that the school has a football team. The veracity of this statement will be tested next Saturday.

WVBC Broadcasts Results Of Election From Campus Studio

Stu-C Conducts Vote On Increased Dues; Stu-G Augments Fee

Wednesday's Student Council meeting centered around the men's assembly which took place after chapel on Friday. At that time a vote was taken to see if the men approved of raising the men's dues from 50 cents to $1 per semester.

Amendments to the Stu-C constitution must be approved by three-fifths of the body of the assembly. The unofficial tally recorded 220 votes in favor of the increase and 60 opposed to it. This approximate 4-1 ratio did not pass the amendment as not enough students cast their ballots to reach the 280 votes necessary to approve the motion.

Wants Reactions

In determining whether to hold another vote the Stu-C would like to find out the reactions to this proposal by all students who did not cast their bal-

Cormier Outlines Election; Attacks Republican Claims

By Jim Bissland

Speaking in Citizenship Laboratory last Thursday, Lucia Cormier, representative to the state legislature from Rumford, outlined the issues of the 1956 political campaign. Basing her lecture upon an attack on the Republican slogan of "Peace, Progress, and Prosperity," Representative Cormier advocated the election of Adlai Stevenson to the Presidency.

The Democratic representative prefaced her remarks by asserting that both political parties have the same general goals for the future, but different ways of achieving them. "The people will decide," she stated. "As long as they continue to do so, democracy has little to fear."

Loses Position

Miss Cormier expressed her opinion that the United States has lost its position of respect as a world leader. Referring to the Middle East crisis and the Anglo-French failure to notify us as to their immediate course of action, she declared, "If they had had more confidence in us, they would have notified us." She went on to assert that President Eisenhower's military budget is higher than the one at the peak of the Korean War.

The speaker then attacked the Republican claim of national prosperity, stating that she has seen none in her home town, and what there has been in the nation has been for big business. The representative also claimed that "the farm belt is experiencing the greatest unrest it has felt in many years."

Waste Resources

In the area of progress, Representative Cormier expressed her belief that the GOP has hindered aid to education and health, wasted national resources, and accomplished nothing in the field of slum clearance and juvenile delinquency.

"I think when we analyze the Republican slogan," the speaker concluded, "we can definitely find its statements lacking. Where is peace? There has been no prosperity for the average citizen, and I don't know of any field in which they have progressed."

The Education Course: Revision Needed

Healthy school spirit and high morale are thriving at present on the Bates campus — to a greater degree than they have for several years. Last Fall at this time they seemed to be unusually low, while this Fall the opposite appears to be the case. The new spirit and morale are manifesting themselves in a variety of ways.

Perhaps the most obvious one is the winning streak the football team is enjoying. We will not hazard a guess as to whether this is a cause or a result of the new feeling. The number of returning alumni to the 1956 homecoming last weekend, particularly from the Class of '56, is another manifestation. At nearly all the football games and rallies this year students have shown a high level of attendance and very enthusiastic spirit. For example, the rally welcoming the team members home after the University of Maine game was a spontaneous demonstration in which a large number of students took an active part without being told it was their turn, or that they were supposed to sponsor a rally. It was simply a demonstration of abundant spirit. And last Saturday several men temporarily and enthusiastically supported the cheerleading squad.

Better Dances

But the high morale is manifest in other areas than football and at rallies. The Chase Hall Dance Committee and other campus organizations have found student support strong enough to warrant sponsoring more special dances this year than in the past, and we happily have had to bear few of the renowned record hops of the variety which feature Chase Hall's supply of tired, old discs. Bud Gardiner's combo, recent records played on good equipment, and an imaginative variety of entertainment and refreshments have helped bring new life to the Saturday night Chase Hall dances and have helped stimulate student support.

The high morale and spirit was also evident from the turnout of students to attend Club Night meetings at the first meetings in October. With the season's second Club Night coming up next Tuesday, we urge all students to continue their support of the various organizations.

Support Campaign

The interest shown in the 1956 presidential election campaign won its share of school spirit. Not only did many students support the two "Students-for-" groups by working for the national parties, attending lectures and participating in debates and discussions, but over 75 per cent of the student body also voted in the mock presidential election. And finally, several students were willing to spend most of last night in the WVBC studios to bring up-to-the-minute election return information to the campus.

We hope this revival of school spirit and this high level of morale will continue. So often it is only a small group of students who are willing to take an active part in and support campus activities. This Fall on campus we have seen that it is possible to arouse the major part of the student body to participate in and enthusiastically support a wide range of school functions.

Alumnus Of The Week

Val H. Wilson

Val H. Wilson, class of '38, graduated from Bates cum laude. He is married to Ruth Rowe, '36, daughter of Dean of the Faculty Harry W. Rowe, '12.

A member of Phi Beta Kappa, Wilson took his B.D. degree at Yale, and went on to receive the degree of Ph.D. there.

In 1953 Wilson was elected President of the American Baptist Association of Schools and Colleges.

In 1956 he became chairman of the student personnel committee of the American Association of Junior Colleges.

Since 1950 Val Wilson has been president of the Colorado Woman's College in Denver.

Jazz Corner

New York Breeds 'Bop' As Jazz "Searches For Soul"

By Joseph C. Roberts

"Man, ain't that horn cool!" Words like these became the bywords of the 1940's, at least to the boppers. Bop talk was heard in Harlem, across 52nd Street and in the Village in New York City. Bop was a revolution in jazz music. It meant the end of over-long unimaginative swing arrangements and the development of new and extended forms of jazz music.

Of course all the big band renditions were not of poor quality. But generally speaking, the big bands had lost the wonderful charm that had been characteristic of the bands of Count Basie, Duke Ellington or in the older bands of Benny Goodman, Jimmy Lunceford and Fletcher Henderson.

Musicians Become Disgusted

But what were the main causes of the change in jazz forms, from Swing to Bop? The commencement of World War II brought about the draft and the consequential shortage of good jazz musicians.

But the reason given by most authorities is that the musicians themselves were disgusted with the trite and stale swing music being performed. They desired new means of musical expression.

Offer Greater Expression

The combos offered a medium for greater expression and removed the restraint caused by the big band arrangements. And, as pointed out above, there was a shortage of musicians. The musicians began to improvise and experiment more and more now that the restraining force was removed.

Out of improvising and experimenting developed the form of jazz known as bop. A definition of bop is impossible, for in music the ear is the only true defining element.

Thrives In Harlem

New York was the center of jazz activity in the 1940's and was the breeding place for bop. Bop thrived in the cellars of Harlem, in the bars of 52nd Street and in Greenwich Village. Jazz musicians would "jam" in the locali-

These "jam" sessions would last until sunrise with the musicians migrating from club to club playing their new form of jazz. The feeling developed at these "jam" sessions was a pure love of the form for its artistic and expressive qualities rather than for its commercial benefits.

Differs In Expression

This same type of feeling was found in the Storyville district of New Orleans before World War I. But the music played by the boppers differs not only in its technical advance but in the expression attempted. The music portrayed a pessimistic, blues attitude towards the world situation.

The musicians were searching for soul in music just as idealists were searching for soul in people. The musicians would cry out the blues and sing their joys with their instruments as the medium of expression.

Uses Abstract Terms

The music was profound and expressive and the terms used were abstract. Harry Lim's Village Vanguard, Minton's Playhouse in the Hotel Cecil in Harlem, and Clarke Monroe's Uptown House were favorite bopper hide-aways.

At Minton's, Thelonius Monk, Kenny Clarke and trumpeter Joe Guy were the house musicians. Although these musicians were later to make great contributions in jazz, the great contributions made at Minton's were by the visiting musicians.

Christian Makes Impact

Art Tatum, Hot Lips Page, Roy Eldridge, Dizzy Gillespie, and Charlie "Yardbird" Parker were frequenters of the club. But the musician who was so inspiring in his short career and made such a great impact on the jazz world was guitarist Charlie Christian.

He would "jam" at Minton's and other clubs ad infinitum after playing at the Hotel Pennsylvania Hotel with the Benny Goodman sextet. Christian with his new conception of relaxed beat, improvisation and new harmonies was to help set the direction of the new form bop.

Critical Eye Perceives Unyielding Male Fashion

By Anne Berkelman

Granted that the wardrobe of Betty Bates reflects the status of her pocketbook and her personality (Student, Sept. 26) — how about the fashions of the male faction?

This topic can be summed up in one sentence: Ninety percent of the Bates men wear chinos, crew-neck sweaters or plaid shirts, and jackets with curious patterns of numbers or letters on them. This is valid as far as it goes but it leaves out two important fashion factors — the other ten percent and the faculty.

Individualistic Breakdown

Then ten percent is composed of student teachers, "sharpies," and individualists (rugged or otherwise). The man in the grey flannel suit with a pink shirt and a bold necktie is the student teacher. By noon the shirt is open at the neck, the tie is at half mast, and the jacket is hanging on a peg in the Den. By afternoon he has joined the other ninety percent.

The "sharpie" is that character who hasn't yet bloomed into an individualist. He's a pseudo-individualist, interested in the impression his clothes make on others. His favorite colors are those that don't quite clash but produce a more subtle finger-nail-on-the-blackboard effect.

Headgear Varies

The sky's the limit on headgear — anything from an alpine cap with a Community Chest feather in it to a golfing cap, the size of which would put any

Top Banana to shame. His neckties become jazzier and thinner until, in sheer desperation, he begins concentrating on his socks. All his clothes are worn with an air of nonchalance, but this too is pseudo.

The individualist is a mature "sharpie." His colors don't clash — they murmur. The brightest item in his wardrobe is a pair of well-worn black trousers. He would like to be a bare-foot boy but compromises with his practical instincts by wearing desert boots, the latest thing in individualistic foot-wear. His favorite garment is a wooly-wooly sweater, complete with holes to let his psyche breathe.

Faculty Dress Differently

Bringing up the rear in this male fashion parade is the faculty. The only generalization that can be made here is that they all dress differently. The Conservatives wear noncommittal-colored suits, suspenders, and hats. One can usually tell what mood their wives were in last Christmas by their neckties.

The Radicals wear unpressed pants, desert boots, monogrammed belts, and go hatless. They prefer shirts with button-down collars, as opposed to the Conservatives who prefer collars with an upward curl. Almost every professor, be he Conservative or Radical, also wears THE jacket. This is a hasty purchase that has seen him through thick and thin and has become a means of identification for graduates who forget faces easily.

Those Carrie Nations of the fashion world who would change all this to accord with the Ivy League look should remember, "Bates men were never known to yield."

tenances. One such lad brought a canine friend with him who occupied some poor soul's bed Saturday night and refused to give it up, scaring away the owner. This fellow just wasn't the "cozy-type" bed-fellow.

A new name has been added to the roster of inhabitants over at Milliken; a gentleman by the name of Hoagy may be found by ringing 3-2-2.

Some juniors, late to their class in the Cultch room last week, prayed that Peter Pan isn't the only one who flies in windows.

While the Bobcats, with their Saturday victory, delighted the hearts of a great majority in the homecoming audience, the Kittycats even managed to work up enthusiasm in the minority — Bowdoin — as evidenced by wild cheers from that section.

Band Sports New Color; Explain Student Support As Responsible

Three whistles . . . a drum beat . . . and the 1956 Bates College Band, cheerleaders, majorettes, and kickline, start another round at a football game, basketball game, or any other event.

This year the band shows great improvement in sound and spirit. Bill Ryall, the band's director, spends hours rehearsing old numbers and teaching new ones. Ryall places much credit for the band's improvement on the student body for its enthusiastic support.

Great Alumni

A large part of the band's activity is concentrated on its half-time maneuvers at the football games. Besides just playing, the band goes into formations, such as spelling out the school letter or some greeting.

At the pre-game Back-to-Bates show, the band and kickline used an unusual method of greeting the alumni. They spelled out "O Hell." Then the "O" moved to the other end of the formation to change it to "Hello."

And what would our rallies be like without the enthusiastic oompas of various members of the student body who comprise our school band doing their best to arouse the spirit of the student body? Parades through Chase Hall and downtown are another regular part of their activities.

The band is led by a fine group of officers: Bill Ryall, student director; Bud Gardiner, band president; D. Robert Smith, faculty advisor.

Desire New Jackets

Although the band goes through its rugged paces in the best of spirits, they would like sometime in the future to dispose of their present basketball warmup jackets and procure some new ones of a more modern nature.

On Monday, November 19, the band will put on a chapel show, for which much preparation has already been done. They will be playing new numbers as well as old favorites.

Majorettes Perform Well

Along with the band every week go the majorettes, captained by junior Muriel Wolloff. These eight strutting lovelies who march in front of the band can always be counted on to give an excellent performance in precision marching and twirling. Their work may look easy to the observer, but try to keep up those paces for a quarter of a mile high-stepping as these girls did at the Maine game.

Returning alumni were greeted by a new addition to the Bobcat cheering apparatus; the Kitty-Kat Kickline, a group of prancing maidens who got the idea of the organization from last year's Mayoralty campaign.

Hogarth, Carey Direct

This group, which is sponsored by the band, is made up of twenty freshman and sophomore girls who rehearse three days a week. Instructed by Phyllis Hogarth and directed by Peter Carey, these girls demonstrated their skills at the homecoming game when they joined the band in the halftime activities. They formed a double kickline for the benefit of the Bowdoin rooters, followed by helping the band form a bell. The girls stole the show with their colorful stepping and precision movements.

Russian Firmament Shakes Under Crisis In Hungary

By Vic Chernoff

Within the past two weeks a new era has begun behind the Iron Curtain. For the first time in recent history, open revolt has taken place nearly simultaneously in more than one country under Communist domination. To understand fully the significance of these recent events, some political history is in order.

Until Stalin's death, the Russian satellites were kept in line with an iron grip, especially after Tito's defection in 1948. However, the new Khrushchev-Bulgarian "line" has favored easing the Soviet grip until recently.

Want More Freedom

But the people behind the Iron Curtain wanted more than just a taste of freedom. The demand for concessions grew until the result was the Poznam riots of June 28 in Poland. This caused a back-track of Soviet policy and a "tougher" line. But this reverse was apparently too late.

Resentment kept building up in Poland culminating in the demand for the dismissal of party secretariat Rokossovsky. Khrushchev personally intervened to save Rokossovsky but failed. The former's visit and the threat of Russian attack generated a flare-up of Polish nationalism which ignited on October 19.

Quells Revolt

However, the new party boss Gomulka, a Communist nationalist, managed to quell the revolt by assuring the people Soviet troops would not be used against them.

But the short-lived Polish revolt had more serious consequences. Four days later in Budapest open revolt broke out in earnest. Premier Gero desperately called in Russian troops and tanks to put down the revolt. In an effort to appease the people, Gero was deposed and Nagy, a nationalistic Communist, was installed as premier.

Russians Evacuate

However after nearly a week of heavy fighting, Russian tanks and troops were forced to evacuate Budapest and the rebels clearly established themselves in control. Although Nagy was still the nominal head of the new government, most reliable sources agreed the country was now being run by men who were basically anti-Communists.

Later last week there were indications Russian tanks had returned to surround Budapest. Nagy had appealed to the General Assembly of the United Nations to consider Hungary's demand for independence. He had also renounced the Warsaw pact, Russia's version of NATO. As of this writing, the ultimate outcome is far from certain.

Russia Loses Power

What tentative conclusions can legitimately be drawn from this series of events? One thing at least seems clear. Russia's power and influence have both been lowered considerably. If Hungary can revolt successfully, this may encourage other satellites (notably East Germany) to do so in the near future.

Crumbles From Within

Also Russia has now considerably less to say in guiding the internal policy of at least two countries, Hungary and Poland.

This may also be the justification of the George F. Kennan foreign policy of holding firm and letting the Russian Empire crumble from within.

By Norm Levine

Although the Bobcats tried hard to avoid a let-down after their thrilling win over Maine two weeks ago, it was bound to come. Bowdoin went into the game with a 0-5 record, with everything to gain and nothing to lose. The Garnet, on the other hand, fresh from their smashing victory, remembering last year's upset, and looking ahead to a State title were keyed up and as a result, played what's perhaps their worst game of the year.

No glory, however, can be taken away from the fine showing of the Bowdoin team. The Polar Bears have done a good job all year, even though they have yet to win a game. They play one of the toughest schedules in eastern small college circles, including Tufts (4-1), Amherst (5-1), Trinity (4-1) and Williams (4-2), besides their State Series rivals, Colby, Bates, and Maine.

The White were trounced soundly in their first three games but since then have come closer to victory each week, losing to Williams 7-13, Colby 20-24, and the Garnet 12-13.

Ernie Belforti, leftguard, and Dick Drenzek, tailback, were the outstanding players for Bowdoin. After the game, Belforti mentioned that he expressed the feeling of the Polar Bear team that the Bobcat line was one of the best, if not the best, that the Polar Bears faced all year.

Bob Martin

MARTIN ALL - NEW ENGLAND?

Bob Martin, the left halfback in one of the finest backfields ever assembled at Bates, was once again high point man for the Garnet, scoring both Bates touchdowns. Martin also picked up 174 yards rushing to bring his total in that department to 665 yards net gain. He has scored 79 points on 12 touchdowns and 7 points after.

Martin has been all-Maine for two years and in his sophomore year was one of two New England backs to make Little All-American honorable mention. Although such teams are usually picked in a rather dubious and often disputed way, this reporter feels that

Soccer Club In Practice; To Face Strong Schedule

By Skip Marden

Now in their fourth week of practice, the Bates Soccer Club is preparing to meet a strong schedule of college and prep school teams in the not-so-distant future.

Playing most of their games at Garcelon Field, the squad will face Bowdoin, Colby, Gorham State Teachers, Hebron Academy, and Kents Hill. The latter, although only a prep school, is in their first year of soccer, and intend to make it a major sport. They feature a strong team made up of a number of foreign boys.

Full Schedule

This year's squad of thirty-five men will compete in a different status than last year, and it is hoped that soccer will be played on a full intercollegiate basis.

In 1955, the soccer team was composed of the all-star players from the intramural league, and played only a two game schedule with little practice. This year with a tentative schedule of at least seven games, the team is practicing three times a week under the guidance of Professor Joseph Dowling and Bob Kunze.

Boast Experience

Bates will field a team that is predominately freshman and sophomore, but all the players boast high school or prep school experience except Tony Orlandello, who has shown enough promise to be considered for one of the starting forward spots.

In the goal, the starter will probably be Bud Baxter '59, a player with five years of experience under his belt, four on a top prep school team and last year on the all-star intramural team. He is backed up by Yap Fun Soe, a boy from Indonesia.

Choose Fullbacks

Fullbacks will be chosen from Bud Grentzenbury '60, Jeff Mines '60, who played at Cushing Academy, or Bob Leonard '59, an outstanding holdover from last year's squad.

At halfbacks, probable starters will be Ernie Peterson '60, who played at Cushing, Brad Garcelon, another holdover from last year's squad, and Bill Wilbur '60.

Skiotis Stars

The forward line features Dennis Skiotis from Greece, who has played six years of soccer, several of them on a championship team, and Ralph Bixler, an excellent player from Mount Hermon, both of whom will play key parts in the success of Bates in soccer.

Other forwards will be chosen from Ed Stiles, Tony Orlandello, Art. Mersereau, Clark Whelton, Frank Holz, or Gil Ollivier from France.

Strong Squad

Bates expects to field a strong squad, and with a little support from the student body, soccer could make a place in the intercollegiate athletic setup, where Bates could compete on a level with other small college teams.

'Cat Seniors To Don Uniforms For Last Time Saturday Against Colby

When Bates' football team takes the field this Saturday against Colby it will mark the final appearance in a Bobcat uniform for eight seniors on the varsity squad. Brian Flynn, Phil Carletti, Jim McGrath, Norm Levine, Rod Henrickson, Ed Dailey, and co-captains Bob Martin and Paul Perry are all playing their last game this week. Of this group, Flynn, Carletti, Martin, and Perry are on the starting eleven.

Martin, Perry Standouts

Much of the credit for the success of this year's team must be given to Martin and Perry. Martin, who hails from Marblehead, Mass., has been a triple threat in the Bobcats' backfield for four years. Last year he was named to the All-Maine grid team, and is a certain repeater this year. At this writing he is the leading scorer in New England, and is being mentioned for Little All-American honors. Bob is also a standout baseball player.

Perry is a product of Black River, New York, where he starred in three sports. He has starred in the Bates backfield for four years and last year was mentioned for All-State honors.

Bates' rugged line has been bolstered all season by Ehd Brian Flynn and center-linebacker Phil Carletti. Flynn, a product of Lewiston High, has proved to be one of Bates' finest ends in many years. Brian has made great catches in all of the games this year, and perhaps reached his peak in last Saturday's 13-12 win over Bowdoin. In that game he made an outstanding catch that set up our first score and then tallied the all-important extra point after the second touchdown.

Carletti, who hails from Plymouth, Mass., has been a virtual rock in the center of the Bobcat line. His hard blocking and bone-crushing tackles helped the Bobcats to victory in many games this season.

Mick McGrath is a steady operator on both offense and defense. A 6 ft., 190 pounder, Mick is a three-year letterman in football and track. McGrath is currently co-captain of the Garnet track team. Mick has performed creditably in all his Bobcat encounters on the gridiron.

Reserves Aid Bobcats

Less noticed, but no less important to the team are three seniors who are on the reserve units.

Norm Levine has been a member of the Bobcat football team for four years and has added much to the all-around reserve strength of the Garnet. "The Bomber" hails from Newton, Mass.

Rod Henrickson has likewise added to the reserve strength of the Bobcats but a broken arm has limited his action this year.

Ed Dailey has been a versatile performer having played center, guard and end in his four years at Bates. Ed is a product of Boston Latin School.

It might be interesting to note that all of these seniors played on Bates' last freshman team in 1953, which was undefeated.

These men, who will don the Garnet and White for the last time Saturday have now contributed to one of Bates' finest teams in years.

Hoop Schedule To Start Dec. 1

The Bates College varsity basketball team will play a nineteen game schedule beginning Dec. 1 and ending Feb. 27. Dr. Lloyd H. Lux, Director of Physical Education for Men, has announced.

Featuring the nine game State Series competition with the other Maine colleges, the schedule also includes games with New Hampshire, Clark, Williams, Boston University, Brandeis, M.I.T., Northeastern, Tufts, Providence, and Middlebury.

Missing from this year's schedule are Coast Guard of New London, and Trinity, which have been replaced by Tufts and Middlebury.

The complete schedule includes:

December

- 1 At University of New Hampshire
- 5* Colby College
- 8 Clark University
- 12* Bowdoin College
- 15* At University of Maine

January

- 4 At Williams College
- 9* At Bowdoin College
- 12* University of Maine
- 14 At Boston University
- 15 At Brandeis University
- 16 At Massachusetts Institute of Technology

February

- 8 Northeastern University
- 9 Tufts University
- 13* At Colby College
- 16 Providence College
- 19* At University of Maine
- 22* Colby College
- 23 At Middlebury College
- 27* Bowdoin College

Garnet Seeks Clincher For State Series Title

Next week's final game of the season finds the Bobcats being host to a powerful Colby team, who two weeks ago nipped Bowdoin for their only win of the season. However, many of their losses have been of a close nature.

Mules Lose

Last Saturday, the Mules were snowed under by a fired-up Maine team which was rebounding after two upset losses.

The big gun in the Colby attack is Mark Brown, a good quarterback, who completed 12 out of 17 passes against the Black Bears of Maine.

On the retrieving end of most of Brown's passes and always a constant threat as a receiver is Doug Gates.

Colby's ace back, Neil Stinnesford, who ran so well against Bowdoin, saw only limited service at Orono. He did, however, gain 26 yards in five plays in the first half, and gained two rapid first downs in the second, although playing only five minutes.

Sargent Mainstay

sophomore from Shrewsbury, Mass. Bob tips the scales at 250, does a major part of Colby's defensive work, and kicks the placements after touchdowns.

Others players in the line include Bill Salidino, John Herbert, Lee Mathieu, and Bob Auriemma, who performed well in the Maine game.

Few Reserves

The one thing which could be a major factor next week, is the limited reserve strength of the Colby team.

Although the Bobcats will be rated as favorites going into the game, anything can happen, and usually does in a game such as the Bates-Colby rivalry.

Mules Top Bowdoin

Although the Bobcats beat Maine while Colby lost to the Black Bears, the Mules beat Bowdoin by more than Bates was able to. Keeping this in mind, we should all look forward to an interesting game with a good brand of football being played throughout.

Bobcats Squeeze By Bowdoin 13-12

Martin Scores Both Touchdowns; Leads 'Cats To Fourth Win In Row

By Norm Clarke

The hungry Bates Bobcats, championship starved since 1948, assured themselves last Saturday of at least partial appetite satisfaction as they managed to squeeze out a 13-12 verdict over the Polar Bears from Bowdoin. The win assured the Hatchmen of at least a co-championship in the State Series Play, pending the outcome of next week's Colby clash.

Polar Bears Tough

Right from the opening whistle, pre-game fears of many of the more practical fans were justified as it was immediately evident that the Bobcats had a tough game on their hands.

After receiving the opening kickoff, Bowdoin ground out two successive first downs before giving up the ball. The locals then found the Bowdoin line like a brick wall and could not do much with their quick opening plays through the line. After the ball changed hands once again, Martin retreated to his 37 to punt, but a bad pass from center went over his head and Bowdoin found themselves with a first and ten on the Bates 27 yd. line.

On the first play, Wane Kane and Pete Jodaitis stopped a quarterback keep cold, forcing a loss of two yards. However, an off-side penalty nullified the fine play and it became second and seven on the 24. After a second down pass fell incomplete, quarterback Drenzek hit his end who was dropped on the Bates 14, for another first down.

Drenzek Tallies

Then, with 6 minutes and 10 seconds of the first period past, Drenzek swept his own left end for the remaining 14 yards. The attempted placement was blocked and the score stood: Bowdoin 6, Bates 0.

The brightest spots for the Bobcats in the first half came immediately after the scoring in the first period and later on in the second. However, these were standout defensive stands, and did not involve any score change.

After Freddie Drayton ran the kickoff back to his own 19 yard line, Paul Perry tried two successive rushes over his right guard with the meager success of picking up a total of three yards. It stood third and seven for Bates on their own 22 when Vail's pass was intercepted and returned to the 20.

Bobcat Defense Tightens

But then the Bobcat defenders dug in and held the Polar Bears to only five yards in four downs, taking over on their own 15 yard stripe. After the period change, Bates was held to a scant six yards and was forced to punt. The ball was downed on their own 39.

A quick opening reverse play around the left end picked up an important 19 yards and the ball rested with a first down on the 20. But again the Bates line held Bowdoin to five yards in three downs, but an offside penalty handed the Polar Bears a first and goal, on the ten. Two quick openings plays through guard and tackle brought the ball to the 3 yard line, with a third down coming up. On the next play it was guard Jim Geanakos who capitalized on the break, recovering a fumble in the Bowdoin backfield, and Bates held it on their own eleven.

6 to 6 with 5 minutes remaining in the third period.

For the remainder of the period it was a battle with the 30 yard stripes, with the ball changing hands several times.

As the all important fourth period opened, a Bates punt rolled dead on the Bowdoin nine yard line. After netting a total of minus two yards in rushing from there, Bates took the ball after a punt to the Bowdoin 40.

Bobcats Score Again

Then the Bobcats really rolled. Martin slanted off right tackle brunt of the punishment of the inspired Polar Bears, as he carried for a total of 174 yards in 37 carries, and, needless to say, was rising rather slowly near to the end of the game. Although the Bobcat line limited the visitors to only 77 yards on the ground, the fine passing of Stover and Drenzek kept them dangerously close to their hosts throughout the game.

Next Saturday Colby travels to the campus and the chance for Bates will be at hand — the chance to win the title of champions outright or the chance to hand co-ownership to Tom Vail (11) with Bob Martin (34) trailing, goes around Bowdoin's end for 5 yards in the third period of Saturday's 13-12 victory. Polar Bears in pursuit are: John Papacosma (32) and Fred Wenzel (28).

Bowdoin Holds Lead

For the remainder of the half neither team threatened again and the Bobcats left the field on the short end of a 6 to 0 score.

After receiving the 2nd half kickoff on the 28, Bates pushed upon the first resemblance of any kind of sustained drive as they went all the way from their own 20 to the Bowdoin 28 in eight plays where they lost the ball on downs. Bowdoin was then held to 6 yards and was forced to punt.

Martin Scores

After six plays, mostly through the tackles, the ball rested on the Bowdoin 25, on second down. This set the stage for perhaps what was the key play of the game. Quarterback Vail threw a pass to Brian Flynn who made a magnificent off-balanced catch on the 4. Martin picked up 3 yards off his right guard, then scored standing on the next play over right tackle.

Martin's kick for the point after was wide and the score stood for eleven yards and a first down. Fullback Perry went for eleven more through left tackle and the ball rested on the 18 yard line and a first down coming. Martin ripped through tackle for eight yards and the ball rested second and two on the ten. Martin swept right end on the next play for the score, and Vail passed to Flynn on a fake placement and it stood 13 to 6 with eleven minutes to play.

Bowdoin Retaliates

After the kickoff the ball changed hands four times before a Martin fumble was recovered by Bowdoin on their own 43. A pass from halfback "Brud" Stover to his end Roop netted 17 yards and a first down on the Bates 40. This time it was half-back McGoldrick's opportunity to turn in a nifty catch of another Stover pass, placing the ball on the four. Stover then picked up two yards around right end and one more through tackle. On the next play, fullback John Papacosma scored through center and the scoreboard read: Bates 13, Bowdoin 12, with only two minutes 29 seconds remaining. To the relief of all Bobcat followers, the attempted placement was wide and it looked like Bates was sitting pretty.

After the kickoff, Perry and Martin ate up the remaining time with off-tackle slants and the Bobcats held their second win at home and their fourth of the season against two losses. Co-captain Martin took the another school. After the close call Saturday anyone can see how no game can be counted upon until the final whistle. No doubt the Colby Mules will, like Bowdoin, be out to upset the Bobcats, but after Bowdoin, Bates also will be up for the game, with all efforts aimed at ending the eight-year championship famine at the Bates campus.

Foundation Announces Openings For Graduate Work In Science

The National Science Foundation of Washington, D. C., has recently announced the availability of approximately 800 graduate and 175 postdoctoral fellowships for the 1957-58 academic year.

These grants, awarded to United States citizens of proven scientific ability, are offered in the mathematical, physical, medical, biological, engineering, and other science fields.

Seniors Are Eligible

College seniors, expecting a baccalaureate degree during the 1956-57 academic year, and candidates for the masters or doctoral degrees are eligible to apply for graduate fellowships. Those seeking postdoctoral grants must hold a Ph.D. in one of the sciences or have had equivalent experience.

Postdoctoral candidates must submit their applications by December 24, while the deadline for graduate aspirants is January 7, 1957.

Must Take Tests

Those who wish to gain a graduate award must take a scientific aptitude and achievement test, given by the Educational Testing Service on January 19, 1957, at designated areas throughout the country. After examination evaluation by appropriate committees, fellowship awards will be announced on March 15, 1957.

Applications and further information may be obtained from the Fellowship Office, National Academy of Sciences - National Research Council, 2101 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington 25, D. C.

Dr. Hogan observed that, assuming that economic progress comes about by the liberation of individual enterprise, the Republicans are the logical party to support. "If you accept these fundamental assumptions, then the obvious choice is Eisenhower."

Requires Experience

Miss Trogler, also supporting the Republicans, stated that the reason for the Eisenhower victory in last week's all-campus mock election was that he is a symbol of leadership to the students. "He brings forth a new concept of working together," she said.

Pointing to the recent events in the Middle East and Eastern Europe, Miss Trogler said that this situation calls for an experienced man who can handle the job. "This is no time to change horses in the middle of the stream," she stated.

Asks Support

While the Democrats argue that the Republicans favor big business, Miss Trogler said that according to the Federal Reserve, almost half of the rise in income since 1951 came to households.

She concluded her argument by saying, "If you consider the leadership of President Eisenhower, the tension of the times, and his capability, you were wise in voting the way you did."

Assails Nixon

Harlow argued that the President's health was likely to fail and probably he would not be able to complete his term if elected. Pointing out that medical and actuarial studies had shown that a man of Eisenhower's age with ileitis and heart damage would even under normal conditions be unlikely to live four years, he said that the President's death or disability would bring to the office Richard Nixon, "a man totally unqualified for the Presidency."

He said that in the past Nixon had misrepresented facts and lied in order to gain office. Harlow also said that Nixon was unpopular with leaders of other nations, such as Nehru of India.

GREYHOUND

IT'S FOR REAL!

by Chester Field

SULTRY SCENE WITH THE HOUSE-PARTY QUEEN

She sat next to me on the train that day
And a wave of perfume wafted my way
—A dangerous scent that is called "I'm Bad!"
Deliberately made to drive men mad.
I tried to think thoughts that were pure and good
I did the very best that I could!
But alas, that perfume was stronger than I
I gave her a kiss ... and got a black eye!

If kissing strangers has its dangers, in smoking at least enjoy the real thing, the big, big pleasure of a Chesterfield King!
Big size, big flavor, smoother all the way because it's packed more smoothly by Accu-Ray.

Like your pleasure big?

A Chesterfield King has Everything!
