Prexy Discusses Education In Convocation Address

Marking the start of this college's 95th scholastic year was the annual fall convocation of students and faculty, held last Thursday in the Chapel. "College Education and the Nineteen Sixties," an address by President Charles F. Phillips, highlighted the program.

President Phillips commented that it is nearly impossible to read a current magazine without finding views on the so-called crisis in education.

Sophs Sponsor Rally On Friday At Skating Rink

Under the sponsorship of the sophomore class, the first football rally of the fall season will take place Friday evening on the skating rink behind Parker Hall.

A pre-rally parade with the band and cheerleaders will start at 7:30 p. m. on Frye Street. Also expected to add color and originality to the parade will be the football placards made by the freshman men.

Present Team

Richard Grentzenberg, sophomore class president and chairman of the rally, has indicated that the entire starting lineup of Saturday's game will be present. Bates' chances in the States Series will be discussed by one of the assistant coaches.

The rally is in preparation for the Norwich game Saturday.

Often the trouble is attributed to America's increasing birth rate, now calculated at a birth every eight seconds. Furthermore, nearly one out of three American youths attend some college, five to ten times as high as the percentage in leading European countries.

This fall an estimated 3.4 million students are crowding onto college campuses across the country. By 1970, President Phillips estimated that there would be between 5 and 8 million students. And as college enrollment increases, college facilities by necessity must be expanded.

Cites Teacher Shortage

The teacher shortage is often cited as a major problem. At present there are about 225,000 college teachers with 500,000 needed by 1970. To meet this quota, declared President Phillips, the present rate of 6,000 new teachers a year will have to be increased to nearly 25,000 a year.

All of these points of view are valid, stated President Phillips. "The crisis we read about is a real crisis and it is here now. What will these pressures give rise to in the next few decades?"

Expresses Views

In the first place, it will be far more difficult to go to college. Only those people who have a keen desire for an education and know exactly what they're after will be admitted.

Secondly, asserted President Phillips, substantial increases in faculty pay will be made to attract more teachers. More and more classroom building programs will be initiated to meet the influx of new students.

Expects Lower Quality

"Most serious of all from the educator's point of view," declared the speaker, "will be an inevitable fall in the quality of education."

"I do not think that you can better education with more off-campus residence, less degree-holding teachers, and huge classrooms."

Senator Smith Speaks Oct. 17

Four noted figures from the fields of government and entertainment will appear during the Bates Conference Series this fall.

Senator Opens Series

United States Senator Margaret Chase Smith (R-Me.) will open the series October 17. As a member of Congress for 17 years and the first woman to be elected to the Senate, she serves on several committees including the Appropriations and Armed Services Committees.

Senator Smith has been named "Woman of the Year" four times by the wire services. She was elected to the Senate in 1948 by the largest majority in Maine history and was mentioned as a possible candidate for the vice-presidential nomination in the 1956 Republican convention.

Present Soloist

The Conference will present soprano singer Adele Addison October 24. Since her debut three years ago she has been with the New York City Opera Company. Previously she had been with the Boston Symphony and the New England Opera Company.

Miss Addison has appeared in Rossini's "Turk in Italy," on television and has made several recordings, including Bach's "St. John's Passion" with the Robert Shaw Chorus.

Pianist-Humorist Appears

Third in the series will be pianist-humorist Stan Freeman on October 31. A veteran in the television industry, Freeman has also made many recordings.

He was a member and arranger for Tex Beneke's Glenn Miller Army Band during World War II. Since then Freeman has developed a one-man show with a repertoire of piano interpretations, musical stories, showtunes, and musical satire.

Latin American expert Henry Holland concludes the Conference series November 7. From 1954 to 1956 he was Assistant Secretary of State for Inter-American Affairs.

STUDENT Meeting

There will be a meeting for all freshmen interested in working on the Bates STUDENT at 7 p. m. tonight in Room 8, Libbey Forum.

There are positions open for news and sports reporters, photographers, feature writers, cartoonists, and business workers. Experience is not necessary.

Upperclassmen who did not work for the paper last year are invited to attend the meeting.

OC Holds Climb; Students Scale Mt. Washington

The first mountain climb of the school year was held Sunday. The trip got off to an early but enthusiastic start as 47 students greeted the dawn at 5 a. m. in front of Rand Hall. Their destination was the summit of Mt. Washington, the highest mountain in New England.

The group arrived at Joe Dodge's base camp at Pinkham Notch, where they enjoyed a hearty breakfast before beginning the climb. The hike to the summit took about three hours but the view and the thrill of finally reaching the destination made the effort well worthwhile.

Plan More Trips

The trip, sponsored by the Bates Outing Club, was under the leadership of Joan Engels and Fred Ziegler.

At least two more trips will be held in the future, including a trip to Mt. Avery this Sunday. All interested students are invited to participate in the club's activities.

18 Students Achieve Straight 'A' Average For Spring Semester

Dean of the Faculty Harry W. Rowe's office lists the names of 18 upperclassmen who achieved a 4-point average in courses taken last semester.

One hundred twenty-three students are included on the Dean's List, having received a quality point ratio of 3.2 or better.

Lists 4-Point Students

Those earning straight "A's" for the semester were Clara Brichze, Letitia Chamberlain, Alice Clough, Dorothy Halbert, Eleanor Peck, Eugene Peters, Richard Pierce, Grant Reynolds, Mary Rudolph, and Janice Tufts, all of the class of '57.

Karen Dill, Julian Freedman and Owen Wood, of the class of '58, Betty Drum, Madeline Sawyer, Kurt Schmeller, '59, and Harold Larson and Brenda Whitaker, '60, are also in the group.

Vacation Dates

All Bates students and faculty members are advised of the altered Christmas recess schedule. Classes will end at 11:25 a. m. Saturday, December 14, and will resume at 7:40 a. m. Thursday, January 2, 1958.

Two Faculty Members Die During Summer Vacation

Dr. Robert Elliot and Professor Emeritus Charles H. Sampson, two members of the Bates faculty, passed away during the summer months.

Coming to Bates in 1952 as an associate professor of French and chairman of the language division, Dr. Elliot taught at the college until his death. As a member of the Educational Guidance and Curriculum Committee he played an important part in college affairs.

Two years ago Dr. Elliot was promoted to a full professor, serving in that capacity through this June. In May 1955 he was elected secretary of Gamma Chapter, Phi Beta Kappa at Bates.

Sampson came to Bates early in World War II to teach engineering drawing and descriptive geometry to many V12 students. Following the war he handled veteran affairs including the building of their housing quarters which became known as Sampsonville.

When he retired from active teaching at Bates in June 1953, both undergraduates and graduates of Bates since 1943 established the Charles H. Sampson Scholarship Fund. In September 1953 he joined the faculty of Leavitt Institute in Turner, teaching math and science until illness forced his permanent retirement last fall.

Prof. Quimby Posts Debate Tryout Dates For Forensic Teams

Under the direction of Prof. Brooks Quimby, the Bates Debating teams now are being organized, with the national topic for colleges this year being, Resolved: that the requirement of membership in a labor organization as a condition of employment should be illegal.

Upperclassmen may try out for the varsity debating team Monday, October 7. The Debate Council officers, elected in May, are: Richard Dole, president; Everett Ladd, manager; and King Cheek, secretary.

Plan Freshman Tryouts

Several freshman candidates attended a meeting Monday at which the conduct of debating was explained to them.

Final tryouts for the freshman debating team will take place next Monday. All interested freshmen may try out in Room 300 Pettigrew Hall at 4 or 7 p. m.

Present Persuasive Speeches

Each student trying out will give a five minute persuasive speech on a controversial topic of his own choosing. The speech should be original and as extemporaneous as possible, but note cards will be permitted.

Editorials

A Word Of Introduction

The beginning of a new school year is always the "time for a change" on a college campus, and Bates is no exception. Students returning to Bates this fall have noticed numerous changes around the campus: buildings and material improvements, a few new policies here and there — such as cultch quizzes — new faces of freshmen and new faculty members, and the absence of old friends.

New members of the college family include 248 freshmen, eight new faculty members, three house mothers, and administrative and maintenance workers. We welcome them to the Bates family and hope to see them as active participants in college activities.

Alter Dormitory Plan

This fall finds Bates men living in Parker Hall and women in a redecorated Mitchell House. About 100 underclass women now occupy the new women's dormitory.

On the opposite side of the ledger, Bardwell House has disappeared, leaving a new parking lot between Smith Hall and Garcelon House.

Other improvements include two all-weather tennis courts, new furniture in some dormitories, and some papering, tiling, and paint work.

STUDENT Begins 84th Year

While changes do occur in the college, the STUDENT remains basically the same. It has been, since its founding 84 years ago, a student publication carrying news and features pertaining to the college and the student body. Its preparation has been handled consistently by student groups.

In its early years, the STUDENT was published monthly in magazine form and included some original stories as well as news. Through the years its size and form have been altered, though the content has remained much the same. It appeared with full-sized newspaper pages at one time and in tabloid form at another.

It is now an eight-page paper, published every Wednesday, except during vacation and exam periods. Pages one, two, three, and eight carry campus news; four and five, features; and six and seven, sports news. Editorials, unless signed by a staff member, are written by the editor-in-chief.

Welcome Student Contributions

Letters to the Editor from students and faculty members are welcome at any time. They may be left in the Publishing Association office in Chase Hall or given to a staff member. Letters submitted must be signed, though names may be withheld from publication if the author wishes. Letters must be in good taste; criticisms of individuals will not be printed.

The STUDENT also welcomes advance writeups of club activities. Items must be submitted by Sunday for publication in the following Wednesday's issue.

We Need You!

The Bates STUDENT is a student newspaper and can be only as good as the students make it. This includes sponsoring newsworthy events as well as covering them. Even the most experienced reporter finds it difficult to write a good story on a mediocre event. We are counting on your help to make the STUDENT a top-ranking college newspaper.

Den Doodles

Best wishes and congratulations to Kay Johnson and Larry Beers; Elaine Prentice and William Flynn; Nancy Wickens and Roger Thies who were married during the summer.

Congratulations also go to Coe Jenkins and William Huckabee; Mary Ann Houston and Donald Hermance; Stanley Maxwell and Beverly Eismor; Marie Blunda and Ernest Bowie of Portland; Cynthia Horton and Ronald Cook; Elizabeth Canfield and John Mattor, '57; David Colby and Judith Rice. Best wishes to you and to any others engaged.

We hear the boys who went on the geology trip really became quite manly with their beards. Have you all stocked up on blades by now?

The new addition in back of Parker, the telephone booth, sure has been popular. Efficiency in privacy!

Two poor freshmen in Mitchell have been suffering with a fishy odor. What kind of fish was it, boys?

Former Parker and Mitchell residents: beware of getting your paths crossed.

Recently some pieces of pie have had a strange way of flying all over Rand dining hall. Ask the juniors for their foolproof method.

And then there's the frosh who said last year in his prep school paper, "I do not wish to, I do not hope to, but I definitely AM going to attend Bates." Welcome to Bates, Jon.

Whodunit of the week: which needy Bates men "borrowed" the poor frosh undies from the back of Whittier House?

What the Parkers need is a dating bureau to take care of the calls from Bowdoin.

Well, here we all are, and after two or three days of seeing your friends, one gets the sensation that once again it is time to leave.

Sabbatus got christened by a group of swimmers from Bates the first day back.

'The Abode Of Love' Shows Unethical Religion At Work

By Roger H. Allen

A sharp wit, pleasing humor, and a vivid imagination make Aubrey Mennon's "The Abode of Love" enjoyable reading.

Written in a light and airy vein, the book is concerned with the formation of a group of glib people into a questionable "religious sect." The people, mostly women, are followers of an excommunicated minister who puts his unethical practices to the formation of his own church.

Mansion Becomes Questionable

Perhaps the term church is misleading here. We should actually say that it was nothing more than an old English mansion converted into what turns out to be a dignified (or seemingly so) house of ill repute.

The religion that he forms is not religion as we ordinarily think of it but an excuse for allowing its followers to enjoy sensual pleasures without being guilty of sin.

Daughters Flock To Leader

The leader of the "sect" is a suave, elderly gentleman whose oral interpretation of the Song of Songs brings every mother's daughter from miles around to his bidding — ready to satisfy his every wish. He has an air of maturity that becomes the ruin of five of the country's most prominent sisters.

His outstanding powers of conviction enable him to convince his eager followers that he is God-sent and omnipotent, sin-free and wise. Thus his doctrine (which is never mentioned in so many words) is considered spiritual and practicable.

Collection Buys Abode

Preaching throughout the countryside, he amassed a wealth that would make the United States' aid to England seem trivial. With these funds and the funds he collected from his "congregation" he purchased The Abode.

The Abode was to be a place of worship — not of God, but of the leader — where ceremony or ritual was considered foolish and unnecessary. All that was necessary for marriage was that the couple desiring wedlock make their intentions known before their fellow "worshippers." There was no pomp, but the circumstances were often hilarious. These so-called marriages seldom lasted beyond the wedding night.

Resembles Peyton Place

Aubrey Mennon, by no means a great writer, strikes a happy medium in his small-scale Peyton Place. Although the plot is presented in a nonsensical manner, his characters are interesting and yet mundane.

We do not predict its appearance on the best-seller list, but it does make for pleasant "relief" reading.

Ivy Leaves

By Barb Madsen

"Ivy, ivy, ivy league" might well be the theme song of the newest additions to this college. Or haven't you noticed the "new look" this fall? Is it possible the frosh received the wrong catalogue when applying to Bates?

But perhaps this latest attire is a stepping stone or prerequisite to bigger and better things. And who knows, maybe in a few years Bates will be listed as an Ivy League school along with Princeton and Yale!

Smurd's The Word

It will be interesting to see if the flannels will give way to khakis; if the shetlands will be superseded by sweatshirts, and if the Harris tweeds will be replaced by Bates windbreakers. Only time will tell, but meanwhile (back in the den) the overall appearance of the newcomers is pretty neat (in more ways than one!).

But there is another "new look" this year. Furthermore, it is getting a bit of free advertising as the letters SMURD appear on some of the freshman (women) bibs. "Haven't you heard? The word is SMURD."

Dorm Creates Stir

This new residence for the coeds has been creating quite a stir across campus and by now most everyone is acquainted with its history, its architecture, and its occupants.

However, a mystery arises as to how this new apartment building got its famous (infamous?) name. The following is one story written by some SMURDites solving the secret of SMURD.

Smurdites Solve Secret

"A mysterious missile arrived at SMURD HALL last week addressed to all the women abiding there. We clustered around while one of our erstwhile cohorts opened it. The yellow paper bore this message:

'Behind number 105, it has been heard,

You will discover the secret of SMURD.'

Confusion reigned following this reading, as the telegram was the first step in answering the question, "How did SMURD get its name?" Rumor had it that a recent visitor to Japan had uncovered the mystery, disclosing our name to us, but was unable to explain its background.

105 Comes To Light

After many hours of searching and thinking we discovered, quite by accident which 105 was meant. As a male visitor was calling on a female friend in room 105 the button he had been pressing, being loose, dropped onto the floor.

Out with it fell a strip of microfilm, containing the following message, a permanent record of how SMURD got its name.

"Five Bates graduates are we sailed to this country over the sea;

We loyal alumni wish to leave

Our money to Bates, so girls, don't grieve;

For just in case you haven't heard

We give to you a haven called SMURD.

Signed,

Seth
Matthew
Uriah
Reuben
Daniel."

Rumors Filter Thru Campus

Thus we have one solution to the mystery of SMURD. Many other stories and rumors are filtering through the campus with different versions of the famous naming of the building. Perhaps we should run a contest?

Bates Shows Frosh Way Of Small Friendly College

By Eunice Dietz

As classes started the other day, the revived campus was gaily heralded with the delicately feminine bibs and bows and the more masculine beanies of Bates' latest baby, the class of '61.

Welcome, freshmen, to Bates — a small, friendly, co-educational college. You will soon become accustomed to the many and varied traditions; and when you do, you will love Bates — if you do not already!

Strive For Cuts

Now that the hustle and rushing and breathlessness of your very hectic Freshman Week are all over and are but a memory for your scrapbook, you can settle down to studying. Naturally, you have been looking forward to this, as it is the main reason for your coming to college in the first place.

Of course, there is nothing like studying, reading, and thinking to develop the intellectual capacity of your fine minds. All good Bates students love to study. There is always that drive to get those highly cherished "unlimited cuts," as the more sophisticated sophomores term the Dean's List.

Haze Day Looms Ahead

Another aspect of your new college environment is your life in the dormitory. Dorm living is fun. It is like being in a large family where the cooperation of all is needed to make anything worthwhile.

But beware, freshmen, you are freshmen, and as such are very uninitiated — remember, Haze Day is yet to come! So be good to your dorm-mates!

Perambulate To Flicks

Aside from the academic part of Bates and the dorm life, there is the exciting social life that you will soon learn to thrive on. If you are the gay type who does not like to stay in and study on Saturday nights, there are the weekly Chase Hall dances.

The Den provides the atmosphere for a stimulating chat above the music of the jukebox while you sip your coketails. If you desire more variety to your social life, you have within walking distance the Lewiston movies which are usually well-populated by Bates people.

Mountain Heads List

You might not be viewing the latest Broadway hits all the time, but after all, a movie is a movie. And if it is solitude you wish for yourself and perhaps just one other person, then strolling along the scenic sidewalks of the city is your answer.

But when it comes to a social life, all Bates men and their co-ed counterparts will agree on one point: Mount David is still the most popular form of recreation.

New Dormitory Shows Bates' Modern Living At Its Best

By Jan Russell

The New Dorm, also affectionately known as Smurd Hall, is very definitely brand-new. Each chair, each ashtray, each deck of cards has its own special place. But in all probability, this situation will not last long.

When one hundred and six girls begin arranging the furniture to their own taste, and begin dropping coats, books, and other decorative miscellany around, it will soon acquire that lived-in look.

Fire Blazes Brightly

Like the Libe, Hathorn, and the Parkers, the New Dorm is in keeping with the traditional architecture. As soon as you step inside the impressive double doors, however, the traditionalism is gone.

Girls and boys, who have grown used to the cozy messiness of the Parkers and the small dorms, are usually stunned. The main reception room is nicely furnished, and there are almost enough chairs and ashtrays. At one end is a marble fireplace which will be used on special occasions, such as Carnival weekend.

Elevator Carries Baggage

Walking through the swinging doors at either end of the reception room and up the stairs to the third floor, you find yourself in a long corridor with thirty-one closed doors. This would be a good time to bring in the many luxuries of Smurd Hall.

One of the closed doors is the elevator, which is not only closed but locked. But it was a lifesaver when we were moving in. Imagine having to carry assorted baggage, sundry boxes, clothes, plants, bed animals, and books up three flights of stairs! Walking is good for us; the elevator is used for freight.

Famished Furnace Eats

It has been proven many times that girls take much longer to shower and wash, set and comb their hair. This fact was taken into consideration in Smurd Hall, and instead of one shower for eighteen girls, we have two and a bathtub for the same number. All the modern conveniences and no hot water! There are a multitude of mirrors, all put to good use.

Another closed door, when opened, discloses the incinerator. In construction it resembles the part of a mail box in which you put packages. Instead of emptying your wastebaskets into an overflowing barrel at the end of the hall, we dump the contents in the little door, and the trash travels to its doom in the furnace.

Includes Kitchens And Phones

A very important closed door is the telephone booth. Each floor has a different number, not yet listed in the phone book. The soundproof booth, insuring complete privacy, is especially prized.

Smurd Hall has two kitchens, one off the main "rec" room, and one off the lower "rec." These will be used for preparing the refreshments for our many birthday parties, showers, or when we have a party just for the sake of having one.

Main reception room of new women's dormitory displays modern designing and furniture.

Balcony Beckons Romeos

"No boys allowed" is the motto of the lower "rec" which is very similar to the main reception room in appearance, but seems much cozier. This is where girls "indisposed" come for a cigarette, to study, or just for a change of scene.

Other attractions of the New Dorm are the third-floor balcony, which is inaccessible, and the bell system. At first glance, the latter seems terribly complicated, but actually is simple once you figure it out. The only trouble is that our bell rings only in our room. If we are anywhere else, we are out of luck.

Pins Echo

The rooms, doubles and singles, are furnished with modern furniture, built-in bookcases, and huge closets — that lock! The beds have foam rubber mattresses and are so comfortable. Once the curtains are hung and the rugs put down, the rooms are very bright and cheery. Due to the soundproofing, each room is quiet enough to hear a pin drop. In fact, the sound echoes.

All in all, the complaints are few, and the praises are loud and long. The New Dorm was certainly worth waiting for.

Foreign Outfits Surpass U.S. In Hi-Fi Recordings

By Bill Waterston

This column was originally created to review classical records and discuss High Fi. Perhaps in the course of the last few years we have strayed somewhat from our original intent. We are going to rectify that fault tout de suite.

I became engaged in a discussion recently with one of the more purists in High Fi circles. This gentleman was an audio consultant for one of the largest distributors of audio components in the country. We got to mentioning some of the rather interesting releases that have appeared during the last few years.

U. S. Lags In Quality

Both of us came to the conclusion that two record labels had far outstripped the rest in every aspect of good sound. The two we considered the best were Angel and Westminster.

It is rather ironical that both these companies are foreign outfits. You might be wondering why the most High Fi conscious country in the world cannot produce the world's best records. So are we.

Cannons Blast Forth

Domestic companies seem to work over time creating new gimmicks to sell disks. One rather well known record company came out with a rather ghastly version of the 1812 Overture with real live cannons. To your humble observer, this seemed rather vulgar as well as ghastly.

As far as the technical problems of editing the tape in such a way as to insert these angry blasts go, one might concede that a certain amount of ingenuity was required, if one forgot the artistic overtones of such an addition to the original score.

Poor Listener Loses

I suspect that the composer would have shuddered at the prospect of artistically blasting an authentic muzzle loader at strategic moments in the course of the works presentation. We will not belabor the point by further illustration.

It just seems good horse sense to forget all these novelties and concentrate on making good records. High Fi does not mean that a record must be peaked artificially to give the poor listener the impression that he has really got something.

Record Auto Sounds

If that listener actually compared such a creation on equipment capable of reproducing sounds flat to 20,000 cycles with an Angel or a Westminster, he would soon be amazed at all the sounds he had missed.

We reviewed an interesting release by Unicorn records. The disk is based on tape recordings of the sounds of various automobile engines. This disk is strictly for those who have money to burn. It smacks of some of the beauties Cook records have produced. Somehow we felt it lacked some of the subtlety that "Hi Fi in a Bull Shop" had.

We are eagerly awaiting the new releases with the hope that one of the record companies will come out with something really worth its salt. With that thought we close another Groove Cutter.

'CAT TRACKS

By Ed Gilson

Fall of '57 commences another year in athletics here at Bates, a year which holds the potential to equal last season's achievements. Saturday's game with Norwich starts the ball rolling and it promises to be a good contest.

Speaking of Norwich, the Garnets from Vermont have been the Bobcats' opening day opponent for the past three years. Each year a supposedly solid, superior Garnet has taken the field only to "be taken" by the Horsemen all three times.

Many reasons have been given for these losses, including fumbles, penalties, luck on the part of Norwich, and Norwich must be a jinx for the Bobcats. Whatever the real reason is, I hope it isn't around Saturday.

As usual the Bobcats have some good freshman prospects to help bolster their reserve forces and maybe by the end of the season one or two will be playing pretty regularly. Right now it's hard to single out a stellar freshman performer.

Norwich will be a step in the direction of what Bates hopes to be as good a football year as 1956 when Bates won five games in a row including the Maine State Championship.

Bob Hatch will be depending greatly on an injury-riddled team to pull him through this opener, as invaluable such as Co-Captain Wayne Kane, senior ends Jim Kirsch and Pete Jodaitis and sophomore fullback "Moose" Muello are on the injured list.

On the brighter side of the picture, Fred Drayton and John Makowsky should be over their ailments by this time to be 100% effective come Saturday afternoon.

Undoubtedly last year's stellar performers, Bob Martin, New England scoring champ, and Paul Perry, All-Maine along with Martin, will definitely be missed. Should the team get over its injuries these two losses will soon be nullified.

Looking on beyond Saturday's ball game, we find two more guests coming to Garcelon Field by the names of Tufts and Worcester Tech. Both have good reputations as of late in New England.

Now it's Bates' turn for a little New England football glory among the small colleges long dominated by Trinity, Williams, Amherst, Tufts and, yes, even Bowdoin. Saturday will give the Hatchmen a chance to gain revenge for last year's defeat and an attempt to re-create the good season of a year ago.

Kane, Liljestrand Lead Cats

At the annual banquet held late last fall to honor the 1956 Maine State Football Champions it was announced that the team had selected as their leaders for the '57 season, commencing this week, two outstanding veterans in the persons of tackle John Liljestrand and guard Wayne Kane.

Fans in the Worcester, Mass. area will be especially interested, for both these boys hail from the same hometown of Shrewsbury, Mass., which is an outskirt of Metropolitan Worcester.

Kane is a former Worcester Trade standout, where he was named to the all-Worcester teams for four years in both football on offense, while holding him to his old guard spot on defense.

Wayne is also one of the more stellar performers on the diamond as he is a competent receiver and fine hitter for the Bobcat nine.

Kane is majoring in Government and plans to enter the business field.

Liljestrand Top Tackle

Liljestrand has been for the past three seasons, one, of the main factors in the production of strong Bobcat lines while holding down his tackle slot. Last season, John gained earned recognition for his contribution to the winning of the Series title when he and baseball. He also lettered in basketball.

John graduated from Major Beal High School in Shrewsbury where he was named captain of the grid team in his senior year.

Cushing Academy Graduates

The following year found the new Bobcat leaders together for the first time as both boys journeyed to Cushing Academy where they compiled outstanding records and were standout performers in football. Wayne also garnered his letter in baseball and was selected captain of that sport.

It was while they were at Cushing that these two caught the eye of head coach Bob Hatch and he was fortunate in acquiring them the following year.

Three Year Veterans

Since that season in 1954, the first year that freshmen were eligible for varsity competition, both men have found themselves spots in the Garnet's lineup.

Kane came to Bates as an end and did an exceptional job at this slot for his first two years, being selected to the second string All-Maine team as a sophomore. Last season Coach Hatch switched him to a guard position where he consistently played top-notch ball and earned himself an All-Maine berth.

Kane Versatile Performer

This season the coaching staff intends to put his versatility to an even greater test by using him to fill the vacancy made by the graduation of last season's fullback and co-captain Paul Perry

Injuries Slow Down Veterans; Hatch Hopeful

The 1957 edition of the Bates Bobcats face the opening of a tough seven-game schedule with many veteran gridders temporarily on the injury list. These injuries have been especially prominent in the end and backfield positions, a situation that could severely hamper our offensive attack against Norwich next Saturday.

Fullbacks Hit Hard

Co-captain and offensive fullback Wayne Kane is hampered by a severe leg bruise that was aggravated in a practice mishap last week.

Second-string fullback Bob Muello is also shelved with a back injury suffered during the early season's practice. It is doubtful whether either Muello or Kane will be available for much action this week.

Makowsky, Drayton Better

On the lighter side, both John Makowsky and Freddy Drayton are recovering very well from slight leg ailments which they have received and it is expected that both halfbacks will be ready this week-end.

Starting ends Jim Kirsch and Pete Jodaitis have both missed recent practices due to leg injuries, but both are in pretty good shape now and should see plenty of action in the opener.

A third end, Jim Wylie, is playing with eight stitches in his lip but is expected to see action against Norwich.

Hatch Optimistic

The squad seems to be in good shape at the other positions, however, and coach Hatch feels that with the return of these other key men and barring any new unforeseen injuries, the 'Cats will be ready for a respectable title defense along with another highly successful season.

Bobcats Prepare For Title Defense

The 1957 Bates Football Team

Welch, Hohenthal Spark Fourteen Frosh Gridders

By Alan Wayne

Fourteen very promising freshman aspirants will be among Head Coach Bob Hatch's varsity squad of 37 when the Bobcats make their 1957 debut against the Norwich Cadets this Saturday at Garcelon Field.

Several of the newcomers have displayed enough talent during the pre-season drills conducted since Labor Day to cause Coach Hatch to remark that "a number of these boys will definitely see action Saturday and during the rest of the season."

Seven Are Backs

In the backfield, a group of seven is hopeful of easing the loss left by the graduation of the sparkling All-Maine duo of Bob Martin and Paul Perry. Heading the candidates are backs Jim Keenan of Portland and Deering High and Kevin Kerrigan of Worcester, Mass., both of whom have been impressive. Hailing from the football stronghold of Winthrop High (Mass.), Noel Parker's running enlivened last Saturday's scrimmage considerably and this small but powerful package could play an important part this fall.

Fullbacks Frank Vana of Sudbury, Mass., and Brad Greene of Brighton, Mass., quarterback Bob LaFortune of Gardner, Mass., and halfback Barry Gilvar of Newton, Mass., round out the picture. Gilvar, who also is very adept in the track department, is a transfer student from the University of New Hampshire and therefore will not be eligible until next February. Hatch labels him as "good."

Several Promising Linemen

A tall, husky, blond end from Manchester, Conn. and a stocky center from New Britain head the line candidates under the direction of line coach Verne Ullom. Norm Hohenthal, a three letterman at Manchester High and a member of Manchester's tournament basketball team and Don Welch, a very capable lineman, should see plenty of service. Two years ago he captained New Britain's eleven against Miami High, representing New England in the Orange Bowl.

Another promising center is Dick Gurney from Burlington, Mass. who along with tackle Dick Watkins of Amesbury, Mass. and a trio of hopeful ends — Bob Yard, Paul Goyette and Vince Giuliano complete the freshman contribution.

All freshmen interested in writing sports for the sports section of the STUDENT please contact Ed Gilson, Norm Clarke or Dick Pavaglio. No previous writing experience is necessary.

Fall Intramural Program Slates Soccer, Football

With the onset of classes and the daily preparation of the Garnet gridders for their title defense, there is little doubt that a new and busy college year has begun with all extra-curricular activities getting underway soon.

Along with the many club activities which will soon be underway is the Intramural Sports program set-up by the Physical Education Department for Men.

As in previous years, it is expected that the general procedure will remain the same, with minor changes made necessary by the shift of the Garcelon-Bardwell-Russell men to the Parkers.

Program Involves Soccer

The fall edition of the program will include football and soccer, with each sport divided into three divisions, A, B, and C leagues. Along with this, plans have been made for an all-star soccer team which will represent the intramural program in a series of games with possibly Bowdoin, Colby, and some of the prep schools in Maine.

Although no definite word has been received, the usual point system will undoubtedly be used to determine an all-campus champion at the termination of the 1957-58 program in the spring. The standard procedure has been a ten point system whereby the winner in each of the three leagues garners the total ten with the next two teams in the running capturing successive portions of the total.

Host To Norwich In Opener; Cadets First To Test Champs

On Saturday, September 28th, a strange and powerful visitor will return to the Bates campus. This guest will bring excitement, color and tension with him. This welcome visitor will also be the cause of noise, exultation, and grief. As this stranger comes on campus he will smile and piping his enchanting song, will lead Bates students, fans, and alumni to Garcelon Field. This guest is football and it will arrive in the form of the Norwich University Cadets who will help the Bobcats kick off the 1957 football season.

Fourth In Series

The game will be the fourth in a series which started back in the fall of 1954. Norwich then and now has served as the Garnet's opening day opponent. In all three previous contests the Cadets from Norwich have walked off with victories although seemingly outplayed by the 'Cats. The Garnet were downed 18-6 in 1954, 19-0 in 1955, and last year were defeated 13-7 at Norwich.

Most observers feel that the 'Cats played well enough to win last year's contest, but were the victims of penalties and the inability to score inside the opponent's 10 yard line.

Spagnoli Tough

Norwich has several starters back from last year's squad, plus several players up from last year's reserves. Heading the list is Nick Spagnoli, a 5' 10", 180 pound junior quarterback, who was instrumental in the Cadets' victory last year.

Don Brigham, a senior guard who made the Vermont All-State team is expected to be a bulwark in the line. It was he who intercepted a Cat pass two years ago and ran it back 81 yards to paydirt.

With only four of last year's starting eleven graduated, the State Champion Bobcats figure to have another strong squad this year.

The backfield was hit hard by the loss of fullback Paul Perry, an All-Maine choice, and Bob Martin, another All-Maine choice and the leading scorer in New England.

Kane At Fullback

Co-captains Wayne Kane at fullback and John Liljestrand at tackle are the "big" men in the attack as are backs Fred Drayton, John Makowsky, Bill Heidel, and Tom Vail and linemen Dick Ellis, Jim Geanakos, Pete Jodaitis, and Jim Kirsch.

All things considered, this should be a heads-up, closely contested tilt. In past seasons, Bates has fallen victim to early season jitters. Let us hope, as do the players, that history won't repeat itself and that on Saturday, September 28th, the Bobcats can present Coach Hatch and the school their first opening game victory in seven years.

'Cats Field All-Vet Team; Fourteen Lettermen Back

Blessed by the loss of only four of last year's championship eleven, the Bobcats figure to field another team of championship caliber this Saturday against the Norwich Cadets.

The following is the probable starting line-up.

At the ends, Jim Kirsch and Pete Jodaitis.

Kirsch is a 197 pound, 6 foot 1 inch senior from Hartford, Connecticut. A second year letterman, Jim was a pr-season casualty but is expected to be ready for the opener.

Jodaitis is a 192 pound, 6 foot senior and hails from Gardner, Mass. Pete is noted for his stellar defensive play.

At the tackles, John Liljestrand and Dick Ellis.

Liljestrand is a 240 pound, 6 foot 3 inch senior from Shrewsbury, Mass. and is one of this year's co-captains. John is a four year letterman and was an all-state selection last year.

Ellis is a 210 pound, 5 foot 11 sophomore from Norwood, Mass. His fine play last year earned him a varsity letter and an honorable mention on the all-state squad.

At the guards, Jim Geanakos and Al DeSantis, Bill Hayes or Jack Flynn. Flynn is a sophomore from Danvers, Mass., and lettered at guard last year. Hayes, converted from fullback, is from Uxbridge, Mass., and is a sophomore also.

Geanakos is a 187 pound, 5 foot 10 inch junior letterman from Ipswich, Mass.

DeSantis is a 182 pound, 5 foot 8 inch senior letterman from Cape Elizabeth, Maine.

The center spot will probably be filled by George Dresser, a 173 pound, 5 foot 9 inch junior from Byfield, Mass.

The quarterbacks will be Tom Vail and Bill Heidel.

Vail, a 180 pound, 5 foot 10 inch senior letterman from Hartford, Conn., will probably get the starting call.

Heidel, a 190 pound, 6 foot 1 inch junior letterman, is from Meriden, Conn.

At the halfbacks will be Fred Drayton and John Makowsky.

Drayton is a 173 pound, 6 foot junior letterman from Fall River, Mass. Fred is an excellent broken field runner.

Makowsky, a junior letterman, hails from Pomfret Center, Conn.

At fullback will be Co-Captain Wayne Kane, a 190 pound, 5 foot 10 inch junior from Shrewsbury, Mass. Kane has been an all-Maine selection at end and guard the past two seasons and will probably work as a defensive guard again this year.
