June Commencement Nears

Editorial

Challenge For Today

When Bates College brings a large group of outstanding leaders to the campus, as they are doing for this year's special Commencement Challenge Convocation, it is important to note the purpose of such a gathering.

One of the main aims of these forthcoming discussions is to provide an objective look at Bates over its 94 year history, in order to evaluate whether the college has been able to adopt itself to changing times. As the theme "Education, the Cornerstone of Progress" implies, discussion will center on the role of a liberal arts college today.

Is the college offering through its curricula the necessary background for students to cope with the outside world or to pursue graduate study? Several aspects of this query will be investigated in three panel discussions, where groups of qualified men will wrestle with problems relating to the purposes of a liberal arts school. They will consider its function as a means of preparation for business and industry, education for a new citizenship, as well as its role in furthering spiritual activity.

dress to the student body. Following this the seniors stood and sang their last chapel hymn, written by John Lovejoy.

Chaplain Walden delivered the benediction. While the remaining classes stood and sang "Auld Lang Syne," Charles Dings, class marshal, led the seniors out. Then the other classes followed their respective presidents, David Smith, Richard Vinal, and Noel Parker, and lined up along the chapel walks. As in past years, each class gave a cheer for the members of the other classes.

Music Provides Atmosphere For Annual Ivy Hop

Decorations depicting a Park Avenue penthouse scene set a moonlight mood Saturday evening as the Junior class presented their annual Ivy Dance from 8-11:45 p. m., in the Alumni Gymnasium.

Students Enjoy Sun, Cool Ocean Breezes At Popham Clambake

On Sunday over 250 Bates students and their guests enjoyed the Popham Beach Clambake, the final feature of a rousing Mayoralty Weekend. This annual event, sponsored by the Outing Club, has become a Bates tradition; every year students enjoy a typical New England clambake flavored with an ocean breeze.

Members of the Outing Club left campus at 5:00 a. m. to prepare the pits for the cooking. At noon everyone tested the results of their efforts — steamed clams, hamburgers, tomatoes, punch, and ice cream. Softball and volleyball were played, and some people even attempted to try a little pre-season swimming.

Kenneth Lynde and James Dustin were in charge of the arrangements for the event.

Mississippi Memories Make Hit At The Jubilee While Irish Celebrate Return Of Sean O'Keefe

By DOROTHY SIBLEY

"Jeff's our guy, Southern style!" filled the air of the Alumni Gymnasium last Saturday evening as President Charles F. Phillips announced that "Mississippi Memories" had won the 1958 Mayoralty campaign.

Following this announcement made at the annual Ivy Dance, Gentleman Jeff accepted his position as mayor and took the oath of office. This dance, sponsored by the junior class, climaxed the jubilation and color of the campaign.

Towns Welcome Guests

All the excitement was caused by the arrival of two long awaited guests on the campus Wednesday evening. Sean O'Keefe arrived to visit Ireland, his birthplace, at the time of the great AnTostal festival and Gentleman Jeff came to a small Mississippi town which he owned through gambling debts. Each village greeted its visitor with open arms and made him welcome with shows, demonstrations, music, and festive times.

The villagers, in trying to impress Jeff and Sean (and, incidentally, the coeds) donned gay costumes of yellow vests, black chinos and red hats or green vests, knickers, and green hats. The campus teemed with men thus costumed, saying either "The top o' the mornin' to you, my fair colleen," or "Howdy, m'am, how about a bit of southern hospitality?"

Provide Escorts

Escorts to meals and classes, dancing in the Den, and impromptu serenading were the order of the day. Transportation service to meals at Rand was also all provided.

Each afternoon festivals were held, Sean's AnTostal on Thursday and Jeff's Mardi Gras on Friday. Featured in the AnTostal were a riding exhibition by Henry Morozumi, a comic caber throwing contest between James Wheeler and John Fresina, and a comedy act by Robert Cornell and Harry Bailey. In addition were a folk dancing exhibition and the reading of poetry by "Lord and Lady Lovejoy."

Attend Mardi Gras

A group of showboat sailors went to the Mardi Gras where John DeGange was speaking on the merits of pool. Vincent DiGangi, Carol Heldman, and Jane Lysaght performed acts in a night club cabaret, and the barrel-dressed Toni twins sang about the success of their permanent. The sailors concluded with a comic barroom scene.

Rand became the scene of dinner entertainment. Thursday Gentleman Jeff came to Fiske Dining Room with his strutters and cotton pickin' crew for musical entertainment.

Friday night Sean O'Keefe arrived with the Hi Ho's and their harmony and Edward Stiles' marimba music. Sean presented each housemother with a long stemmed rose and hearty kiss amid blushes on both sides.

Present One-Hour Shows

"Hoodlums, Whiskey, and Shenanigans," an original play written and directed by Peter Wood, Ronald Walden and Benedict Mazza, was presented Thursday evening. Wasil Katz and Lois Chapman provided romantic interest while Raymond Castelpoggi and Miss Lysaght added comedy. Smugglers James Gallons, John Flynn and William Hayes made a hilarious hit.

The Smith hour show, an original sequel to Tom Sawyer and Huck Finn written by Marc Schwarz and directed by Gene Verdier, was presented Friday night. Lawrence Beer co-starred with Dianne Curtis as Huck and Amy in late adolescence. Tom was portrayed by Douglas Rowe while Helene Marcoux was the domineering Aunt Polly, and John Curry assumed the role of her brother, Uncle Jasper.

"Carousel" Adds Color

"Carousel," put on by the showboat players, starred William Huckabee as a carousel barker who loves and marries young Julie, played by Sally Sessions. Miss Heldman and Earle Atwater captivated the Thursday night audience with their sparkling performances in the supporting roles.

Also lending strong support were Loretta Novim, Audrey Philcox, Thomas Hawkins, and

As the two keynote speakers, Ralph J. Cordiner and Robert Aura Smith, are graduates from liberal arts colleges, they should both be in a position to evaluate this type of education in the light of their experience with business and politics.

At this convocation it is very appropriate that a public assembly is being held to pay tribute to Harry W. Rowe, Dean of the Faculty, who is retiring this June after devoting a great part of his life to the growth and development of Bates College. No person would be in a better position to view the changes that have taken place in the college with the passing years than Dean Rowe. We sincerely want to express our appreciation to him for all he has done in improving many aspects of the Bates plan.

Another main purpose of this gathering is to stress the importance of the college as a center for the cultural activities of the community. One should also recall that over 500 Bates graduates are now serving this area, thus making the Lewiston-Auburn region a better place to live in.

Formulates Criteria

One of the highlights of the Convocation will be the citation awards presented by President Charles F. Phillips to distinguished citizens. Several criteria were formulated as a basis for selecting these recipients. An attempt was made to choose leaders from a wide variety of fields such as business, education, religion, science, public service and the professions.

It was also felt that these citizens should live in New England, as there are so many in this area who deserve recognition; however, Bates graduates, faculty members or trustees were barred from consideration. Naturally these dignitaries were chosen mainly because they have performed work in their field worthy of this award.

By presenting these citations the college is stressing the fact that, although these citizens are not Bates graduates, they have fulfilled requirements which best exemplify the ideals of this college.

The Challenge Convocation promises to be an experience which will be rewarding to those attending. It is good to find Bates College re-examining her roles in this complex and changing world.

Girls in the cast: what happened after the lights went out following "Carousel"? The stage was pretty dark, wasn't it?

It was heartening to see five men doing in over two hours the work that fifteen or twenty men could have done in half an hour early Sunday morning in the gym.

Mayoralty

Rowe. Directed by Kenneth Harris, this performance along with "Finian's Rainbow" will take its place with the traditional cloaked performances of "Oklahoma" and "Brigadoon."

Enjoy "Finian's Rainbow"

Friday night's portrayal of "Finian's Rainbow" starred Kenneth Parker in the title role of a money multiplying Irishman. The money stolen from a leprechaun, Og, played by Kenneth Russell, created a complex situation for all concerned.

Og lent comic relief in a fresh and delightful way to the production. Romance was provided by Regina Abbiati as Finian's daughter and Norman Jason as Woody. Nancy Harrington's ballet dancing and John Liljestrand's politics filled out the rich variety.

Finale Closes Mayoralty

The campaigning closed Friday night at the finale. Sean, standing outside his Irish cottage, made his difficult decision between his conflicting loyalties. Influenced by members of AnTostal, evoked by Irish music in the background, he said that he would stay to be mayor in spite of his obligations here in the United States. He then received the greetings of each of his new subjects and quietly took up residence in the cottage.

The riverboat prepared to leave the village while Uncle Remus explained the old southern legend of the stranger who visits and lends a helping hand or spirit to all. He said that just as God is in the hearts of all men, so is this stranger. As the final strains of Carousel's "You'll Never Walk Alone" died out, Gentleman Jeff, the spirit of the south, disappeared through the big banjo into the night.

Letters To The Editor . . .

Mayoralty Post-Mortems

To the Men of Bates:

Thank you for two wonderful and memorable days of mayoralty campaigning. All of your efforts were indeed worthwhile and greatly appreciated by everyone. We sensed your genuine enthusiasm, good sportsmanship, and sincere attempt to please. We enjoyed all the shows presented as well as the courtesies showered on us.

We all realize that there could be no Mayoralty without a strong feeling of competition and a need to claim victory for one's side. But yet victory is measured not by the number of votes received but in the satisfaction of seeing the culmination of a year's hard work by so many of you.

We, the women of Bates, must make the decision, taking every aspect into consideration and using the criteria impartially.

May the Mayoralty spirit of '58 be continuous in our minds and our hearts always. With our deepest appreciation and sincerest gratitude, we thank you again!

"The Mississippi Irish"

(Names withheld upon request)

To the Editor:

In any group which has been involved in a contest (requiring a decision as to which group did a better job) there will be a number of participants who do not or will not understand the decision; in any case, bitterness will always arise. It is unfortunate that these people are heard, for there are others who are not bitter and do understand human nature.

Our goal in putting on a Mayoralty campaign was to present an enjoyable and spirited creative effort for the benefit of the women of the campus and even ourselves. We feel that we fulfilled this goal and are not ashamed of our effort in any way whatsoever. Rather, we are extremely proud of the men of our dorms and the Off-Campus Men's organization for the effort and talent they contributed. The fact that we did not win does not greatly subtract from our sense of accomplishment. We are, and will continue to be, proud of our ability to organize and present fine Mayoralty campaigns.

We hope that the women of Bates will ignore the vociferous minority and believe us when we say that regardless of defeat we do not harbor any ill feeling toward the coeds on this campus.

Alan L. Coykendall

Peter Post

James Wylie

To the Editor:

We would like to express our appreciation to all the men responsible for this year's wonderful Mayoralty. Both campaigns were equally excellent, and though there can be only one official winner, there is no loser when the job done is that fine.

From our vantage point as the veterans of four Mayoralities, we can honestly say that this was the best ever. Congratulations to all of you!

Stereo Sound Requires Expensive Components

By BILL WATERSTON

A record that caught attention this month, which is being offered by the RCA Record Club, is a disc which features a number of overtures by Russian composers. The performance of the Russian Easter Overture by Rimsky-Korsicoff was particularly impressive. There is no doubt about it, even the American record companies are conceding to public taste by producing platters whose sound reproduction and performance are on a par with Angel and London.

This has been a transition long overdue but finally it has arrived and we should be thankful to dear old Sarnoff and the boys. (Of course, next month the stereo discs come out, at least in theory, everything will be obsolete.)

Reviews Stereo Sound

This brings us to the main topic of discussion. If you remember, we discussed stereo sound in last month's article. At that time we mentioned some of the components necessary to set up a binaural sound system. To review briefly, and to be perfectly blunt, in essence, you need a brother to everything you probably own. Discouraged? You should be. Just to be helpful we have been pricing some of the contemporary bargains on the market and the results are not too encouraging to those who like money.

If you have laid out $400 for your monaural system you can plan to spend $300 more if you want stereo. In order to have a respectable binaural system you should have two amplifiers which are identical, two speakers and enclosures which are identical, and two cross-over networks which are identical. The cost is identical also.

Finds System Extravagant

Is stereo sound worth it? That is a question that only you can answer. Our own observation on this subject, is that while it is a nice bit of gold plating for the average music lover, the cost does not justify its existence. A number of superb binaural systems cost as much as $3,000. No one will deny that the sound is fascinating, that is, until you get used to it. At that point, the third dimension fades, and for all practical purposes, you might as well have been listening to a monaural system.

There is little doubt that this article may evoke the sneers of the well bred hi-fi enthusiast. However, consider this not too profound experiment. Place yourself gently in a room containing a gorgeous binaural system playing your favorite Bach fugue. Lose yourself in the fugue for about an hour. At the end of the hour try to detect the binaural effect (if you are not asleep by this time). We guarantee that if you conduct this experiment you may never buy binaural (or Bach either).

Convocation Tickets

Students who want to attend any of the three panel discussions of the Friday or Saturday evening assemblies of the Convocation during Commencement weekend may obtain tickets from the Development Office, top floor of Chase Hall. These are public assemblies, but tickets permit seating in the reserved seat sections.

Notes From The Nest

... The Outsider ...

By CHICK

An anxious college student opens his mailbox. Through the dingy glass he makes out the outline of the ominous yellow envelope. Almost hysterically now, with fingers shaking, he reads the neatly typed note, "The Dean of Men would like to see you in his office at the earliest possible time convenient..."

For another student the news comes in the form of a dreaded phone call as he prepares to pick up his date for the dance, "This is the Dean. Please see me at once..." Ever since the founding of the first universities there have always been those who because of varying reasons, have been forced to leave the ranks of the student body. These are the outsiders.

Student Reaches Turning Point

What thoughts run through the mind of one of those of whom naught but memories remain on campus? Is he revengeful, truly sorry, or is he glad to be rid of the terrific academic strain on his shoulders? The student at this point reaches one of the turning points in his career.

Like a compass needle, he can be pulled in the wrong direction by outside influence, or as easily can reset his bearings and find his niche in society. For some it can mean the end of a sheltered life, for others it can mean the end of a career never begun. Let us see how this has affected a certain individual who has recently left our company.

Visitor Realizes Position

The surprised greeting was followed by a firm handshake and an avoidance of one another's gaze. One had stayed; the other departed. There seemed to be an impenetrable barrier between the two and both felt ill at ease. The visitor seemed to realize this inferior position and was a trifle embarrassed by it. Quieter, more serious was the guest, and he seemed to have aged rapidly during the short time.

His eyes had taken on a certain defeated, sad expression and although he wore the usual "collegiate" garb, he no longer had the outward appearance of a student. Long hours spent in a factory had put heavy callouses on his right hand, and it was with difficulty that he maintained the relaxed air of his friend.

Faces Inevitable Queries

Upon leaving school, "R" had found himself in a new world. When he returned to his home town he had faced the inevitable queries from friends such as, "What vacation is this?", "Are you doing field work?", or just, "How did it happen?" However, after the passing of the initial shock, "R" had settled down at home and found, after much searching, a job on the night shift in a local factory.

Here he remained for several months feeling for the first time the experience of self support. Not wishing to join the service, however, he soon re-applied himself to the college, where he was placed on the waiting list. During the afternoons on alternate days of the week he attended a summer school, and gradually was working his way back.

Pertains To Many

The above is not a fictional story but contains separate events which have happened to not one, but several students. Some have realized their desires to return; others have been derailed and can never return. For some it means defeat, for others it serves as an important lesson in the art of surviving in today's world. My only hope is that I myself can learn this lesson in another way. Now, if you will excuse me, I see a little chick coming my way, so I'll fly along for now. See you in the fall.

Are You Searching For A Job? Employers Discourage Attempts

By JAN RUSSELL

As summer vacation rapidly approaches, a young man's fancy (a young woman's, too) turns to thoughts of "What am I going to do this summer?" Among such sundry ambitions as "have a blast," travel by bicycle to Lower Lisbon, and do all the reading for their theses, the majority of students are looking for a job.

It is a well-known fact that when looking for a summer job, it is important that you find one to suit your personality, interests, and major subject in college. Not just any old job will do, it must fulfill these requirements. You may be discouraged at first, but don't give up hope! Others have done it, and so can you.

Care For The Outdoors?

Just for example, if you are the athletic, sports-minded individual who loves the great outdoors, get a job selling peanuts at baseball games. All the ingredients are there: blazing sun, burning wind, a good game, and mountainous bleachers to clamber over.

Of course, there are those who prefer the artistic and the poetic, who are more concerned with surrealistic form than with Tom Brewer's pitching form. They have two alternatives, depending upon which branch of aestheticism they prefer. They may either find work as a billboard painter or a jingle-writer.

Jobs Range Widely

But, let's say you are normal — what is the job for you? You have your choice of hundreds of fascinating and unusual jobs, ranging from running a machine that rejects square ping-pong balls to being a zebra-stripe counter at the local zoo. Your problem isn't what to get, but how.

Employers are not people! That statement should be modified, perhaps. In the warm, loving circle of their family, at the local club meeting, or in the neighborhood bar, they are as human as one could wish. But just let them put on their grey flannel suits and walk through the doors of their offices, and they become monsters. There are all types of monsters (oops! employers), but they can be divided roughly into three classes, no matter what their occupation.

Pictures Fatherly Employer

Anyone who has ever looked for a job knows the "fatherly" type. Quite distinguished-looking, with greying hair, and conservative ties, he persists in calling you "son" or "daughter," pats you affectionately on the head and tells you to come back when you're a little older. In other words, try again tomorrow. Under his genial, understanding exterior, the monster mind is considering the minimum wages he can pay when you come back in desperation.

The next type can best be portrayed by a dialogue between him and the applicant, boy or girl:

Applicant: Sir, I'm look...

Employer: No!

Applicant: But, sir, I have a great deal of experience...

Employer: No!

Applicant: I take it you have no open...

Employer: Right!

Applicant: Well, could I...

Employer: Get out!

It is difficult to say he is brisk, abrupt, and a man of few words. When talking to his cohorts, he complains about "this younger generation's lack of get-up-and-go. I'm a self-made man myself."

Describes Job For Prodigy

Busily writing while glancing at multitudinous charts and reports, the third type keeps you standing for a least 8½ minutes before he notices you. However, you had better have been on time, or he may not notice you at all. This is the perfectionist, the efficiency expert, and the intellectual rolled into one overstuffed shirt. If you can type 250 words per minute, stuff 50 feather pillows in an hour, or balance three loaded trays at once, you have the job! By the time you walk out of the interview, your head is reeling with statistics, quotes from monthly reports, and his opinion on everyone from Shakespeare to Spillane.

No matter what the job is, however, it's usually fun. Whether at the beach, the mountains, or your own home-town, you meet new people, a few characters, have a good time, and what is more, get paid for it. So, "Get A Job."

'CAT TRACKS

By ALAN WAYNE

The 1957-58 Garnet sports docket, to quote the Voice of the Flopsax, Curt Gowdy, is "rounding third and coming home" and cutting a very imposing figure with respect to past achievements. Highly successful seasons in football, basketball and track, plus notable improvements in other fields of endeavor have all contributed to the continued and welcome resurgence in attainment of local athletics.

Coach Bob Hatch's eleven, though due to a frustrating 20-19 loss to the fired-up Colby Mules were forced to share the State Series crown, nevertheless displayed a very well oiled machine as they turned in their third consecutive winning season (4-3). Victories over Norwich (21-14) and Middlebury (13-7) and losses to Worcester Tech and Tufts preceded another hotly-contested intra-state battle.

Standout halfback Johnny Makowsky, leading ground-gainer and scorer in Maine, skirted left end with two minutes left to beat Maine on Homecoming Day, 7-0 and a week later, on the rain-soaked confines of Bowdoin's Whittier Field, Bob Muello recovered a Polar Bear fumble in the end zone and it was 6-0 for the visitors.

Despite many key injuries, especially to Co-captains Wayne Kane and John Liljestrang, the Cats gave us plenty to cheer about. All-Maine recognition to Jim Wylie, Makowsky and Liljestrang and another fine line developed by Coach Verne Ullom was very pleasing.

With expected returnees Mr. William Hayes, Bill Heidel, Jim Geanakos, Fred Drayton, Dick Ellis, Jack Flynn, George Dresser, plus "Moose", "Mac" and Wylie, things should be interesting.

Moving into winter, the Varsity hoopsters enjoyed their first winning season (11-7) since 1953, embarrassing pre-season swamis. Coach Verne Ullom, with Capt. Will Callender, the lone senior and high-scoring Bob Burke leading the way, moulded a scrappy, potent squad that extended Colby to the last stanza before bowing in a valiant title bid.

A season-opening upset of the powerful Mules (83-77), two wins over Bowdoin, one on the Brunswick court which is something of a rarity, two victories over Maine, and Burke's 40 and 32 point outputs were among the highlights. The ability of Capt.-elect Jack O'Grady, Jim DeMartine, Jerry Feld, Joe Murphy and Norm Hohenthal form a proficient nucleus for returning coach Bob Peck next December.

The Junior Varsity segments enjoyed fine seasons, Chick Leahey's quintet compiling a 10-3 record, while Ullom's past-timers registered a 6-1 mark. Both displayed promising prospects for varsity duty.

Baseball got off to a fast start with twin 2-1 State Series wins over Bowdoin and COLBY, but due to a combination of faulty pitching and hitting at time and very un-Spring-like weather, they bogged down mid-way through the schedule.

Seniors Capt. Al DeSantis, Mal Block and Bill Snider contributed much to the Bobcat attack and will be missed. Conspicuous performances were given by pitcher Jon Whitten, freshman Frank Vana, catcher Wayne Kane (who will be eligible for baseball next year), Norm Clarke, Bob Graves and Danny Young.

Tennis saw the courtmen win their opening three matches, then drop four in a row and then finish strong to post a winning 6-5 slate. Standout play by Capt. Pete Meilen, Phil Feinsot, both seniors, Dave Graham and Craig Parker spotlighted a season hindered by the inclement weather.

The Garnet linksters, while not disturbing the equilibrium of golfdom, did defeat Bowdoin for probably the first time since Grover Cleveland's administration and that sufficed to make the season successful, Capt. Pete Jodaitis, Bill Heidel, Mal Johnson and Bob Zering carded several good rounds.

Undoubtedly what will be remembered most of the 57-58 calender will be the celebrated and far-famed undefeated record of Coach Walt Slovenski's indoor and outdoor track juggernaut.

Picking up where they left off a year ago, the thinclads swept through the winter season undefeated for the first time in college history. This spring the Cats continued to steamroll along, culminating the season recently with a triumphant and feverish State Title defense. This extended their skein of victories over twenty-nine opponents.

Space does not permit a complete account of the past. Rudy Smith and John Douglas' resounding emergence into national prominence has been nothing short of phenomenal. Consistent performances by Jim Wheeler, John Fresina, Bill Neuguth, Dave Erdman, Pete Gartner, to mention a few, were invaluable.

To the graduating seniors, who have played so important a part in the fortunes of the Garnet, we of the STUDENT extend wishes for continued success.

The next time this column appears, I fervently hope that the World Champion Milwaukee Braves will have clinched the National League pennant. Until that golden hour . . . stay in shape.

EL Tops Kittens 6-1 In Finale; Kerrigan Stars

The Bates Jayvees concluded their season last Thursday at Pettingill Park with a 6 to 1 loss to Edward Little High. The decision gave the Kittens a final 6-2 record for the season. Johnny Bower's big bat and Ralph Peterson's fine pitching led the high-schoolers in evening the series with the collegians, who had taken their first meeting by a 12 to 5 count.

Bates scored their singleton in the third on a hit by Kevin Kerrigan who stole second and scored on a perfectly executed delayed steal after Bob Yard had walked. The Auburnites took the lead in the fifth when Bower singled and Bill Gardner and Mel Jodrey each belted doubles off of starter Bill Anderson.

Vance Vincent who relieved Anderson in the sixth was touched for two rallies in the seventh. Jodrey singled, Paul Houlres reached on a Scott Brown bobble and scored on Bower's double. Bower touched the dish on Gardner's long sacrifice fly.

The high school boys with Vincent's lack of control in the eighth were given four straight walks enabling them to score their final two tallies.

Jack Bennett hurled the final frame, preventing a disaster by retiring three straight after allowing the hosts to fill the bases. Bennett, who worked in every contest, was the master of the mound for Coach Ullom with a 5-1 record.

Thinclads Finish 2nd In Easterns; Rudy Shatters 440 Mark With 47.6

The Bates Thinclads were runners-up in the Eastern Intercollegiate Class B Track and Field Championship Saturday at Worcester Massachusetts. Springfield outscored the Bobcats 47½ to 42. Bowdoin was third at 39½.

Reliable Rudy Smith won both the 220 and 440-yard dashes, setting new WPI field and meet records in the latter. Rudy's time of 47.6 can compare favorably with the best in the nation.

Douglas Sets Record

John Douglas came through under pressure once again to set a new meet standard in winning the broad jump with a leap of 23 feet, 3¼ inches.

The Garnet freshman medley relay team gave an outstanding showing as Riviezzo, Keenan, Goodall, and Kenyon outraced everyone to win at 3:36.2.

Makowsky's Absence Is Factor

The absence of John Makowsky from the Bates squad was probably the main factor in the Springfield victory. Makowsky who is nursing a leg injury has the ability to better the 100 yard dash time win at 10.2. Mac could have also been counted on to place among the contenders in the 220 yard dash.

Dave Erdman continued his improvement in the pole vault as he shared a four-way tie for first. Pete Gardner also shared a four-way tie in the high jump as he cleared six feet, three inches, to gain second place.

Compete In New Englands

Coach Walter Slovenski takes his squad to Orono tomorrow for a crack at the New England Track Championship. A Bates equid at full strength has the potential plus to bring the crown to the Alumni Gymnasium trophy case.

Small college division scores:

Springfield 47½, Bates 42, Bowdoin 39½, Williams 28½, Amherst 21½, Trinity 20½, New Britain, Conn., Teachers College 14½, and Middlebury 4½.

Cats Whip Lowell, Maine; Netmen Tally 6-5 Slate

Pouncing on the hapless engineers from Lowell Tech, the Bates netmen concluded the 1958 season in fine style by winning 7-2. This win put them above the break even point as they ended up the season with a 6-5 record. Unfortunately they did not fare as well in State Series competition. Here their record was 2-4.

Last Wednesday the Cats played host to the University of Maine. At the end of the afternoon, it was a 5-4 victory for the Garnet. This more than made up for the previous setback that they had suffered at the hands of the Bears earlier. Pete Meilen playing number one defeated Bob McKown while Phil Feinsot was victorious at number two over Ted Khoury. At number three, Craig Parker polished off Bob Chase in two easy sets. Dave Graham had a very easy time in defeating Carl Edler. Jeff Mines and Bruce Johnson playing four and six respectively were the men who suffered defeat in the singles. Needing only one point to clinch the match, Meilen and Feinsot teamed up at number one doubles to defeat McKown and Chase.

Colby Is State Champ

Traveling to Colby the following day, the netmen matched strokes with the Mules in a very close match before losing 5-4. Colby, who has been a hot streak for the past couple of weeks, is the new State Tennis Champion. They posted a perfect 6-0 slate. This is the second time within three years that they have won the title. Two years ago they shared it with Bates. This year, due to a poor start, Bates finished third.

At the number one spot Grant Hendricks defeated Meilen in three long sets, 6-4, 6-3, 6-3. The upset of the day was Dick Keddy's victory over Feinsot at number two, 8-6, 6-2. Craig Parker had little trouble knocking off Al Rogan at number three. Graham at five, had to go three long sets before defeating Fred Reinmund 7-5, 0-6, 8-6. Both Mines and Johnson lost their singles.

In the doubles Colby got the necessary point to win the match when Wingate and Kellom defeated Johnson and Langley in third doubles. The duos of Meilen and Feinsot and Graham and Parker both scored victories playing in the number one and two spots.

Blast Lowell

Winding up the season last Saturday against Lowell, the Cats had a field day. They won five out of the six singles to clinch the match right off the bat. Meilen was the only loser in the singles, bowing to Zuckenburg in three sets. Feinsot started the ball rolling with quick two set victory over Kane. This match took only 20 minutes to complete. The rest of the team did as well in defeating their opponents. Jeff Mines and Bruce Johnson broke long losing streaks with very decisive wins at four and six. Parker and Graham had very little trouble in picking up their victories. Lowell had a disastrous road trip as they also lost to Bowdoin by the same score. While up at Colby the Mules whipped them 8-1.

In the doubles, Fred Auwater and Langley picked up their first point of the season by defeating Lane and White in the third doubles. Parker and Graham playing number two doubles had little trouble in defeating Ved and Thompson. Feinsot and Johnson were defeated at number one doubles.

Sophomores Lead

Even though the team did not live up to expectations, they did improve on last year's record. The Cats were led by two sophomores, Parker and Graham, both of whom posted 9-2 records in singles. Captain Pete Meilen, who was bothered by pulled ligaments in his wrist the latter half of the season came up with a 7-4 slate. With the rest of the squad gaining valuable experience, the season can be termed fairly successful.

Pastimers Defeat Suffolk 12-4; Drop Bowdoin, Colby Contests

Playing between showers, the Bobcat Pastimers dropped two state series games while winning one non-league. The Bates forces were edged by Bowdoin and Colby in the State of Maine Series and crushed Suffolk University.

Feld Halts Suffolk

On Monday, the Leaheyman played host to the Suffolk squad. Marked by good pitching with Jerry Feld on the hill, the game turned into a runaway with Bates with the Bates loss. Feld relieved Snider in the sixth inning and Bob Graves pitched the eight inning.

DeSantis Homers

A long home run with two men aboard by Captain Al DeSantis sent the Garnet into a 3-0 lead in the first inning. Colby scored their initial run in the bottom of the first on Bates bobbles. The Mules came back with four more in the second on three hits, and added two more on the long end of a 12-4 count. Feld gave up six hits and eluded any serious trouble as he went the distance.

After one run had been chalked up in the second inning, the victory was wrapped up in the third inning when with two outs, Bates scored six big runs. With the bases jammed, Caught Wayne Kane singled to left to drive in two runs. Art Agnos and "Bear" Millet then drew walks to force in another run. Feld sewed up his own ballgame by bringing in three runs on a two base hit.

Bates scored two more runs in the sixth, one in the seventh and two in the eighth. Kane, Feld, Millet and Frank Vana had two hits each in the field day.

Colby Tops Garnet 7-4

After a quick start at Colby, the Garnet were overwhelmed and bowed to the Mules by a 7-4 score. Orin Judd was the winning pitcher for the Mayflowermen while Bill Snider was tagged in the fourth. The Garnet scored their 4th and last run in the sixth on a Kane single followed by Millet's double.

Extra-Inning Tilt Played

Twelve innings were needed to determine a winner as Bowdoin and the Garnet collided in another State Series game at Gargelon Field Saturday. The Polar Bears pushed over two runs in the top of the 12th inning to win 6-4.

Ron Woods went the distance on the hill for the Polar Bears, giving up six hits. Jerry Feld started for Bates was was relieved by Whitten who was the game loser.

Bowdoin drew first blood as they scored two runs. A walk to Tony Berloni with the bases loaded pushed Brud Stover over for the first run. A scratch single by Pete Relic accounted for the second run.

Clarke Excels On Bases

In the third inning, with Feld on second and Mal Block on first, Norm Clarke singled to right field. Feld scored easily and both Block and Clarke found themselves in the second base area. The rundown try was made on Clarke between first and second.

Clarke kept the chase alive as Block rounded the bases to score. Then, Clarke outmaneuvered the second baseman and was safe at second.

Bates Leads 4-2

After Frank Vana popped out, DeSantis and Joe Murphy reached to load the bases. Millet forced Murphy at second on a fielder's choice as Clarke scored. Millet then began a delayed steal. He was tagged out in the ensuing rundown but not before DeSantis had scored to put Bates in front 4-2.

Bowdoin tied the score with a run in the fourth inning and another in the seventh to knot the score at 4-4. Whitten replaced Feld and held the Polar Bears scoreless for 5 innings.

Bowdoin scored two runs in the top of the 12th on three hits before Graves relieved Whitten. Groves ended the inning by getting Stover to pop out. The Garnet failed to score in the last of the 12th and the Cats went down 6-4.

Play Make-up Game

On Tuesday, May 13, in a make-up game, the Cats were blasted by Bowdoin 9-1. Tony Berlandi hit a grand slam to climax a six run uprising in the sixth.

The Bobcats averted a shut-out by pushing across a run in the ninth o: Ronnie Woods who went the distance and scattered six singles. He walked five and fanned 11 batters. Bates loaded the bases with two out on a pair of walks and a pinch single by Art Agnos and Frank Kane singled home Howie Millett before Woods retired Dan Young for the final out.

Bowdoin scored in the first when the first two men in the order, Pete Relic and Macey Rosenthal singled and Brud Stover hit a sacrifice fly after Will Linscott forced Rosenthal at second.

In the third, the hosts scored twice when Linscott walked, stole second and Stover and Harold Parmelee both doubled. Linscott, Stover, Bob Kennely and Parmelee singled in the sixth to rout Whitten and Grave walked Brendan Teeling before serving up the home run pitch to Berlandi which cleared the snow fence in right center.

Frisbee Tournament Opens Today

The First Intercollegiate Associated Frisbee Tournament will be held this year, from today through Tuesday, June 3, on the Bates Campus. All of the students will be participating. The rules, formed by the Welcome Committee, state that everyone should come in the mood to lose their games, and that they bring pills and smelling salts to revive lost spirits.

The campus will be divided up into many groups, with the faculty providing the opposition. It is expected that the Frisbees are to be armed with razor edges and are constructed to annihilate any student, not properly prepared.
