Alumni Return For A Weekend Of Memory

By SALLY CARROLL '62

This year's Bates Homecoming, to be held from Friday, October 28 through Sunday, October 30, is a campus weekend no one should miss. Events have been planned which will suit the taste of everyone, including the alumni who will be returning to the college for three nostalgic days of fun and relaxation. The varied itinerary offers a pleasant change from the weary round of classes and studying, and the Alumni Office, with help from students, has worked hard to make this Homecoming the best ever.

On Friday, October 28, a Pre-Rally Round-Up will be held at 7:10 p.m. The band, led by Larry Ryall '62, will march from Frye Street down College Street and past the back of Parker to the Alumni Gymnasium, where the annual Back-to-Bates Football Rally is to be presented. The football team will then be introduced, along with its manager and coaches. Speeches will be given by Coach Hatch and Captain Richard Ellis '61. The featured speaker of the rally is David Higgins '55. Dave, who now lives in Augusta, Maine, was a quarterback on the great Bates team of '54 which beat Colby 28-13. James Sutherland '61 and Douglas Rowe '61 are in charge of putting on a skit for the audience.

Seniors Hold Open House

Immediately following the rally, at 8:30 p.m., an Open House will be given in Chase Hall by the Class of '61 in conjunction with the Chase Hall Dance Committee, with James Carignan '61 and Vera Jensen '61 in charge.

At 10:30 a.m. on Saturday, October 29, the Bates-Bowdoin soccer game will begin, and, at 11:00 a.m., the Bates-Bowdoin Cross Country race. From 10:00-12:00 that same morning the Little Theater will be open to anyone interested in looking at the new Dramatic Arts building, with members of Miss Schaeffer's Robinson Players group acting as guides.

Coffee Scheduled

football game, is scheduled for 1:30 p.m. From 4:00 to 5:00 p.m., the Alumni Coffee Hour, sponsored by the Women's Athletic Association with Susan Ramer '62 and Rachel Smith '61 as hostesses, will be held in the Chase Hall ballroom. The Little Theater will also be open from 4:00 to 5:00 p.m. for those who did not have an opportunity to go through it in the morning.

The Back-to-Bates Dance, the climax of Homecoming, will begin at 8:30 p.m. in the Alumni Gymnasium. Dancing will be to the music of Lloyd Rafnell and his orchestra till 11:45 p.m. Refreshments will be served and entertainment provided by the Merimanders and the Deansmen. Representing the Chase Hall Dance Committee, Charles Davis '61 and John Meyn '63 will act as hosts for this event.

Present Religious Service

At 9:00 a.m. on Sunday, October 30, the Bates Christian Association, represented by Douglass Ayer '61, will present a religious service in the Chapel. The Reverend Charles Calcagni, of the Class of '54, the Pastor of the First Congregational Church of Springfield, Vermont, will deliver the sermon and the Chapel Choir, led by Dr. Leonard Raver, will be present. A Thorncrag Open House is to be given by the Outing Club from 2:00 to 5:00 p.m. Sunday afternoon, with Louis Winkler '63 and Nancy Levin '63 in charge. Cider and doughnuts will be served.

Students Recommend Vacation Be Restored

"To make resolutions and recommendations to the faculty concerning the observance of Thanksgiving vacation," was the purpose stated by Robert Viles '61 for the All-Campus Meeting on Monday, October 24. After calling the meeting to order Viles gave a brief history of the actions taken by the faculty in past years in relation to the issue. He then called for discussion from the floor.

Newman Outlines Objections

Neil Newman '61 proposed that students consider recommending to the faculty that the traditional Thanksgiving recess be restored.

Newman then outlined reasons for returning to the four day vacation. These were — 1. It is a family tradition to be at home at Thanksgiving; 2. Thirteen and a half weeks is too long a stretch of continuous classes for students, especially freshmen; 3. A rest is necessary for catching up on studies; 4. The danger of hurried travel home over the twenty-four hour holiday is great.

Follett Proposes Classes

Johnnie Follett '62 proposed that classes be held on Thanksgiving Day to insure academic continuity, if the traditional holiday is not restored. Lawrence Sano '62 proposed that as the faculty also seems to have an undisclosed reason for shortening the vacation they should reveal the same.

Douglass Ayer '61 stated "although I personally am in favor of the long vacation, we must recognize the element of student irresponsibilities, was considered by the faculty in their vote. Thus students must accept the responsibility for the four day vacation if it is to be restored. However, if we choose to recommend the shortened vacation we must make the best of it."

Lewis Seeks Reconciliation

Grant Lewis '62 summed up the discussion stating, "I believe we can reconcile the two points of view (i.e. the student versus the faculty view)." Lewis continued that if faculty members grant the longer vacation the student body must guarantee continuity by accepting the responsibility for its maintenance.

Viles then closed general discussion and called for motions from the floor. Newman moved that a recommendation be made to the faculty that the traditional Thanksgiving vacation be restored.

An amendment was made by Lewis that a statement expressing the students' willingness to strive for academic continuity be included in the recommendation. The addition of this amendment was carried.

After discussion and proposal of additional amendments, which (Continued on page five)

Politicians Plan Events To Garner Student Votes

"To stimulate an interest in politics among Bates students is the chief goal of Political Week," affirm Bill Wheeler '61, president of the Young Republican Club and Neil Newman '61, president of the Young Democrat Club.

The week, November 2 through November 8, will start off with a debate at Pettigrew. Professor of Government, Dr. T. P. Wright, will state the Democrats' view point. Professor of Speech Warye will champion the Republican cause. After the two professors debate controversial items, students will pose questions.

Announce Agenda

Next on the agenda for "Political Week" will be a rally on Wednesday between 6:30 and 7:15. Speeches, skits, music, cheering, and "rousing" debates are planned.

Hold Mock Election

Thursday's event will keep the week going in full swing. "Soap Box" speeches by students and professors will draw crowds to Hathorn's steps at 4:00.

The highlight of the week — the mock election — will begin on Friday at 10:00 in the morning and last until 5:00 p.m. All Bates students may cast their ballots in Chase Hall. Later, the faculty will be polled at one of their meetings.

The climax of the week's festivities will be reached on Saturday night at the John Bertram Dance in Chase Hall. The sponsors of the "Political Week" will announce the election results to the gathering of Bates students.

Smith Compares Growth Of U. S., Russian Economy

As the chapel speaker for Monday, October 24, Bates College had the honorable Margaret Chase Smith (R-Me.). Senator Smith is presently engaged in a campaign to retain her seat in the U.S. Senate, which she has held for the past twelve years, and to continue her twenty years of service in Congress.

Senator Smith pointed out that "there is considerable talk about the economic growth of our country" and that "we are becoming a second-rate power. Although Russia has an annual growth rate of 18%, and the United States, a growth rate of 10%, which means that Russia is growing twice as fast as the United States, and this leads us to think that Russia is twice as strong as the United States, or is going to be in the very near future, we must also consider the base on which the GNP is calculated," said Senator Smith.

Compares Statistics

"How far behind Russia really is, can be seen from these facts," she stated. The Russians are "sixteen years behind us in electric power production, thirty-six years behind us in trucks and buses, we have some sixty million autos and they have only five hundred thousand, and Russia has just caught up with our total 1941 output. The average annual earnings of a Russian is $430 and they have only one-fourth the available consumer products." They are "fifty-two years behind in meat, eighteen years behind in milk, thirty-one (Continued on page two)

Follett Corrects Errors At Student Council Meeting

On October 19 at the Student Council meeting John Follett '62 clarified East Parker's recommendations given to the Student Council on October 13, 1960.

1. The Council should attempt to get more desks in the lower two floors of the library.
2. The Council should investigate some action to have movies on every weekend.
3. Since the Council is a member of the National Student Association, it should take advantage of some of the activities, etc., of this organization or discontinue membership.
4. The Council should instigate action that would allow Bates women in the men's dormitories if the women were accompanied by their parents, or parents of men.
5. The Council should obtain an itemized report on why a group must pay $35 each time it uses the gym.
6. The Council should see to it that there are lockers provided for senior men, or their money be refunded.
7. The Council should instigate action that would allow the wives of Bates men to come through the same gate to football games instead of separate gates as is now the policy and an investigation should be made as to a reduction of costs for wives at all college functions.

Baldpate Mt. Climb Winds Up OC Season

Baldpate Mountain was the scene of the third and final B. O. C. climb this fall. The group consisted mainly of underclassmen who got their first taste of Maine winters.

After venturing up to the top of the first peak, a fire was started after some encouragement. On the other side of this peak, snow and ice were to be found. The icy surface of the second peak and the snow on the trees below gave hope to all skiers present, and discomfort to the thinly clad.

The next climb will be to Mount Washington in the spring. That climb has proved very successful in years past — a climb for the un-gungho, invariably highlighted by a snowball fight at Tuckerman's Ravine.

GNP Examined

The Soviet Union is twice as large as the United States and has thirty-two million people, but their GNP was 200 billion dollars and the United States' GNP was 500 billion dollars last year.

In closing, Senator Smith said, "I cite these statistics to give this discussion some real and useful facts," and although "Russia is beginning to challenge us economically, we must avoid the dangers of extremes." We must not accept the idea that we are only half as good as Russia, nor should we rest on our laurels. The people of the United States

To All Bates Students

There is an apology to be made to all Bates students for the recent Bates Outing Club bulletin entitled "Information for Non-members." All Bates students are members of the Bates Outing Club; there are no non-members. We of the Bates Outing Club council wish to sincerely apologize for this mistake.

A typographical error which also ought to be corrected is the hours for the Equipment Room, 4-5 p.m. and not 2-5 p.m.

Peter Achorn,
Bates Outing Club

must "recognize those allegations made for political gain" and make sound reasonable decisions accordingly.

Debibbing Program Ends Freshman Haze Activities

The day long awaited by all freshmen is now just around the corner: Haze Day, the climax and termination of all hazing activity. On the girls' side of campus the acceptance of freshmen women as regular members of the Bates College community is formally recognized at the traditional Debibbing Ceremony, which this year will take place on Thursday, October 27 at 7:00 p.m. in the gym of WLB.

Every girl on campus, women faculty members, and wives of professors, have all been invited to be present at this ceremony which has been put into order by the sophomore representatives to Stu-G and the hazing representatives of each dorm. During the course of the evening the freshmen from each dorm will present a skit, which they have prepared in connection with their theme for Haze Day.

Lists Other Activities

Other activities planned for the program include group singing led by Brenda Kaplan. At the finale, Jean Schweniger '61 will play for the singing of the Alma Mater, during which freshmen will remove their bibs for the last time.

Stu-G Surveys Results Of The Frosh Hazing

The Stu-G board met Wednesday, October 19, in the Women's Union. All proctors were informed that Dean Varney would like them to write up an evaluation of this year's Freshmen Hazing in their individual dorms. The freshmen women will also be asked to write a report on their impressions of hazing. The Blue Book Exam for freshmen will be given on November 3 at House Meeting time.

Sylvia Harlow, who is in charge of the Freshmen Installation program, reported that the Installation will be held Sunday evening, October 30, in the Chapel. This is the time when freshmen women accept the Honor System and Honor Code of the Student Government formally by signing the Honor Book. All Big Sisters of the freshmen are invited to attend and the Faculty wives are also invited.

Plan Rally

A send-off rally was planned jointly by Stu-G and Stu-C for the Maine game. The rally was held outside near the Gym just as the team left for Orono on Friday night.

Last week the board voted to increase the Loan Out fund to $75.

Stu-C Informs Of Committee, Stone's Election

At the last meeting of the Stu-C, which was held on October 19, 1960, suggestions were requested from the members as to plans for Thanksgiving Day. After a lengthy discussion the following motion was made and carried. An all campus meeting will be held on Monday at 7 o'clock in the chapel, with the faculty invited to attend and observe. The committee in charge of this meeting includes: James Carignan '61, John Follett '62, Jack Simmons '61, Douglas Smith '63, William Wheeler '61, George Goodall '61, and David Rushforth '62.

The next order of business was the problem of linecutting in Commons. A motion was finally made to continue the present policy concerning line-cutting, but if the situation gets serious then a rope will be put up along the line from the stairway to the bulletin board. This motion was carried.

Elects Stone

The Stu-C announces that, after a close vote, George Stone has been elected as the new Sophomore Council member.

As a final measure, a motion was made and carried that the Stu-C recommend to the Extra-Curricular Activities Committee that no Mayoralty be held in the Spring, 1961.

Miller Defines Education Goals, Cites Slogans

Dr. James V. Miller, in his Chapel talk on Friday, October 21, proposed the question, "What am I doing here?" He then went on to fully define a liberal education and pointed out that "an ancestral recollection is inadequate and we cannot simply go over old ground."

A liberal education seeks to "lead us beyond the paralyzing fear of being wrong which grips our whole culture," and to give us "new concepts through which the hopes for a better world can be seen." Dr. Miller also said he felt "we live too much on slogans" and there is an "amazing ignorance of what literature entails."

Issues Warning

In closing Dr. Miller asked that each student consider why he is here at Bates and warned students to "be careful in answering, lest your words trap you."

Presidential Candidate Displays Interest In American Youth

(Editor's note: In view of the college students' interest in the forthcoming presidential election, the STUDENT is presenting information on Senator John F. Kennedy and Vice-President Richard M. Nixon which may be of some value to the student. This week is a statement by Senator Kennedy.)

Today, the young men and women of America have a greater opportunity than ever before to help shape the course of human affairs, for the world is changing rapidly. The old era is ending. The old ways will not do.

All over the world a new generation of leadership is emerging — new men to cope with new problems and new opportunities. These younger men who are coming to power are men not bound by the traditions of the past, men who are not blinded by the old fears and hates and rivalries — but young men of vigor and imagination who can cast off the old slogans and delusions and suspicions.

Proposes Program

I have proposed a program to create a new frontier of opportunity for young Americans by:

Substantially expanding our rate of economic growth to provide new job opportunities for the greatly increased number of young adults who will be entering the working force in the near future. We need to create 25,000 jobs each and every week in the next ten years to provide full employment.

Expanding educational opportunity at all levels through federal aid to build schoolrooms and college facilities; to pay teachers better salaries; to provide loans and scholarships to the academically talented; and to repeal the disclaimer affidavit required of applicants for student loans.

Reversing the artificially high interest rate policies of this Administration, thus creating the fullest possible opportunities for our young couples to obtain liberal credit to start raising a family, purchasing a home, a farm or a business.

Wants Youth Corps

Establishing a youth conservation corps to combat juvenile delinquency and to provide healthful and useful opportunities for young people in our nation's parks and forests.

Using the full moral and political power of the Presidency to obtain for all young Americans, and others similarly affected, equal access to the voting booth, the schoolroom, to jobs, to housing, and to public facilities, including lunch counters.

Notes Youth Skills, Talents

And, finally, but by no means least importantly, I would suggest a proposition originally offered by my Democratic colleagues, Senator Humphrey and Representative Reuss, that some appropriate way be found to take advantage of the skills, the talents, the devotion and the idealism which is inherent in America's young people; and to utilize the services of these properly trained, on the new frontiers of the underdeveloped world — which are in fact the new frontiers of humanity — to aid in building dams, teaching schools, operating hospitals, establishing irrigation projects, and to generally help other people to help themselves.

Should I be selected to provide the Presidential leadership of our nation for the next four years, I would explore thoroughly the possibility of utilizing the services of the very best of our trained and qualified young people to give of from three to five years of their lives to the cause of world peace by forming themselves into a Youth Peace Corps, going to the places that really need them and doing the sort of jobs that need to be done. Such an example of young Americans helping young nations to pioneer new fields on the world's underdeveloped frontiers would, in my opinion, be not only a great assistance to such nations and a great example to the world, but the greatest possible growing experience for the new generation of American leadership which must inevitably lead the Free World coalition. Such service would be considered service in the national interest. Might it not make the normal military obligation unnecessary?

Cites Challenge

These are indeed challenging times in which to live. At times, the magnitude of what is at stake is even frightening — for the destructive potential of modern day weapons is almost unbelievable. As one who, as a young man, has learned first hand the gruesomeness of war, I cannot but have a profound regard for the necessity of peace. Yet to maintain peace, it is necessary to remain strong and to be willing to fight to defend freedom, should no other course be available. It is also possible to lose a war, especially a cold war, without even firing a single shot on either side. But defeat in the cold war would be just as catastrophic as if it were suffered on the battle fields, for the price of defeat in both contests is slavery.

Therefore, it is our task — yours and mine — to see that humanity survives, and that freedom survives along with it. This requires strength, and it requires flexibility, a willingness and an ability to negotiate where negotiation is possible. In such negotiations, it is not the table-pounders or the breast-beaters or the debaters or those who shake the finger the most, who are successful, but those who are capable of dealing coolly, calmly, and decisively from a position of strength.

Seeks Support

But if the future holds great potentialities for destruction, the possibilities for a better life, for human dignity and for a real enduring peace are even greater, if we but have the will, the patience and the skill to bring them about.

Today, I ask the young men and women of America to join with us, as pioneers of a new frontier, to establish a new concept of opportunity, a new dedication to the public interest, a new level of national greatness for our nation, and the nations of the Free World. See to it that your decision is made to count. Make your vote your investment in your future by registering now and voting on election day.

Bates Lacks Influence In NSA Policy Choice, Aims

Bates College students are involved as members of the United States National Student Association, but they have not had any representation in the decisions of this organization. At the present time the Stu-G has decided not to advance payment of dues for the coming year until the NSA sends a representative explaining its activities more fully.

No representatives from Bates have attended any NSA regional or national meetings. Yet NSA policies extend from campus problems to international action; these are determined at National Congresses. Some one thousand students met in Minneapolis, Minnesota, this past summer for the 13th annual NSA National Student Congress. The Congress dates were August 22 through September 1. The delegates adopted proposals of NSA policy for the coming year, some of which included:

Supports Non-Violent Action

— Strong support for the sit-in movement and for non-violent protest action, including provisions for close cooperation between USNSA and the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee composed of sit-in leaders, continued circulation of information on the events of the movement to American students in an attempt to promote understanding of its purposes, non-violent picketing and selective buying campaigns, fund raising campaigns for legal defense and scholarship assistance, and continuing pressure to eliminate discriminatory practices on the campuses of USNSA member schools and in their surrounding communities. The resolution passed 305-37.

— Establishment of a set of criteria which must be met before USNSA will consider attendance at the September, 1961 Moscow Youth Forum. The criteria includes prior publication of agenda and speakers list to prove the representativity of the meeting.

Directs Press

— Establishment of a set of principles for the freedom of the student press and accompanying set of responsibilities of the student press.

— Calling for the modification of the directives issued by President Clark Kerr of the University of California which prohibit student governments on the campuses of the University of California representing opinion of the student body from taking positions on the "off-campus political, religious, economic, international or other issues of the time".

Takes Stand

— Urging that the National Defense Education Act of 1958, which comes up for review by the 87th Congress this year, be enlarged to include scholarship as well as loan provisions, and eliminate those provisions of the act which justify federal aid to education solely on the basis of national defense.

— Disapproval of loyalty oaths and disclaimer affidavits, and especially those provisions in the NDEA, including the Prouty Amendment.

— Condemnation of all expulsions, recriminations and reprimands of students and professors which are in violation of the principles of free expression of ideas. "Freedom of discussion in the classroom and in academic consultation is fundamental to higher education," they stated.

Guides Students

— A Basic Policy Declaration stating that the college student should be concerned with off-campus issues of political and social natures. The student should be concerned not simply with the problems of direct relevance to the academic community, but as well with those great problems and issues of our national and international life.

Some 50 remaining pieces of legislation were referred to the National Executive Committee for action due to lack of time on the Congress Plenary floor.

Prior to the Congress three special 5-day conferences were held for Student Body Presidents, Student Editors and NSA Coordinators.

Extensive Influence

NSA is also a holder of a constituent membership in the American Council on Education, is a member of the U. S. Commission for UNESCO, it is a sponsor of World University Service and its elected officers serve on the Board of Directors of the National Scholarship Service and Fund for Negro Students.

Bates as a member of the NSA has its name appear on the list of members, but to date no student from Bates has figured as a representative to any NSA functions and no real attempt has ever been made to ascertain whether Bates students are in accord with NSA policies or not.

Guidance News

The Educational Testing Service is offering for 1961-1962 two fellowships in Psychometrics leading to the Ph.D. degree at Princeton University. To be considered for a fellowship in this area, a candidate must either (1) have taken the Graduate Record Examinations in 1960, or (2) register by January 5 to take these examinations on January 21, 1961. Fellowship applications are closed on January 6, 1961. Further information is available at the guidance office.

The National Foundation Health Scholarships announce four year awards, renewable annually for students interested in nursing, occupational therapy, physical therapy, medical social work, and medicine. Scholarships for the study of medical social work an applicant must be a college sophomore entering the junior class in a regionally accredited college or university as a full-time student in the fall of 1961. He must also be planning two years of graduate study in an approved graduate professional school of social work. For scholarships to study medicine the applicant must be a college undergraduate accepted by an AMA-approved school of medicine for admission in the fall of 1961. Further information is available from the National Foundation Health Scholarships, 800 Second Avenue, New York 17, N. Y. All forms must be mailed by April 1, 1961.

Order Of The Day

Last Monday night's All-Campus Assembly proved certainly that Bates students deserve more consideration than they have been getting. Those faculty members interested enough to attend did not see a model of parliamentary procedure, and perhaps they heard at times the noise of a not too reticent assemblage. They did see, however, several dispassionate speakers concerned with the views of both faculty and students. Speakers who were interested enough in the matter to attempt to reconcile these views. If the faculty has any concern for the whole matter and for the method the students used to express their opinions on it the efforts and words of these people should not go unnoticed.

Lest it be thought nothing else was worthy of notice let attention go to the fact that over five hundred students attended the Assembly and stayed until it adjourned, and that close to another one hundred students voted, although they were not able to attend. Even though several different and sometimes unrelated motions were brought forth, any large, group meeting will produce the same, the overall decisions of the extremely large majority expressed the prevailing desire of the students and did so in an orderly manner.

Interested Attend

Upon this Assembly and its results the twenty-four interested faculty members must base their decision on restoring or not restoring the Thanksgiving Vacation. The remainder of the faculty must receive their impressions of the Assembly from their more informed associates and from other presumably accurate but hearsay sources. The fact that more than half of the faculty was absent, invitations were sent to the entire faculty, is a clear indication of the prevalent attitude. It seems clear that only members of the faculty having respect for the students were there, and what they saw should have in no way displeased them. It is now up to the faculty to act in a way commensurate with the purpose and attitude of the students.

The faculty has shown it can wrestle with the presumed problems of academic continuity, which has suddenly become so precious, and seems to be the one thing aimed for, and the loss of which is caused not during the vacations but in the prelude and postlude. This concern with academic continuity seems a little overbearing when so much emphasis is being placed on the intensity of education in America. As the pace of education quickens, as it has in this country in recent years, the opportunity for reflection upon what is being learned wanes. The leisure of the academic process existing in this country before the second world war has, since then, turned into an assembly line for scholars. Scholars who can repeat the contents of a book in the twinkling of an eye.

Learning Process Rushed

Gone are the days when time was available for sitting on the dormitory steps of a spring afternoon and relaxing to mull over an appealing idea. Now the afternoon must be spent in piling a few more ideas on top of the ones piled in the day before and the day before that. The process of learning needs time to evaluate material, not time to stuff more and more into one's mind. Rare is the person who can maintain equilibrium in his studies at all times and still digest well all the subject matter assigned to him.

What is the point of longer periods of classes when its mechanical "stuffing" process results in making the student the slave of his subject? This prolonged condition is ameliorated somewhat by vacations and it is foolish to assume that a student does not need an occasional rest from this labors. Not to recognize this puts us in the position of being reduced to subserviency by the very thing that should make us better intellectually, and the faculty, above all, should recognize this. The faculty now has its opportunity. The students have shown their outlook, now let the faculty show the students what they think of it!

With the 1960 election coming at a crucial time in both world and domestic affairs, the United States needs experience, not experiment. In the words of President Eisenhower, "There is no man in the history of America who has had such a careful preparation as has Vice-President Nixon for carrying out the duties of the Presidency." We need a President who knows the job.

Economy Moves

Nixon's record in domestic affairs shows that he and the Republican Party believe in the individual, and his ability to make a place for himself in the U. S. economy. The opposition party is pledged to pour more money and effort into Washington "to make us all wards of the federal government in sickness and in health — and in debt." (Sen. Thurston Morton, R-Ky.) The Eisenhower administration has been accused of creating a "standstill economy" in the United States because of its belief in a balanced budget and its watchfulness against wasteful spending. The voter can judge the facts for himself. The American economy has increased nearly a hundred and fifty billion dollars in the past 8 years; Social Security coverage has tripled numerically; 200,000 more classrooms have been built in 7½ Republican years than in the previous 20 Democratic years. These, and many more Republican economic policies prove that our economy is not at a standstill. But it is not enough to stand on the record of this administration; Richard Nixon plans to build on it, to make this country continue her economic progress so that she may maintain her position in the world.

Nixon Responsible

The United States needs a President who sees his duty and fulfills his responsibilities. Richard Nixon, without doubt, meets these qualifications. We have some doubt, however, concerning Senator Kennedy when we look at his voting record in the Senate for the past year or so. Senator Joseph Clark (D-Pa.) says in reference to Kennedy's meeting his Senate obligations, "I think the Senate will pass a minimum wage increase if we can just get Sonny Boy back from the cricks and hollers long enough to report it out of his committee."

In the all-important field of foreign relations, the Republican Party has proposed an excellent team in Richard Nixon and Henry Cabot Lodge. Nixon has travelled through 54 countries on five continents, meeting and dealing with statesmen and leaders of other nations in his executive capacity, proving his ability to assert America's position in this field. He is pledged to protect the free peoples of the world (and that includes those on Quemoy and Matsu!).

Lodge World Leader

Lodge, about whom Time says, "If foreign policy proves to be the decisive issue, Nixon could hardly have picked a better running-mate than Henry Cabot

Seen and heard lately has been the topic of "Should the girls be allowed in the rooms of the guys?" The problem has been old for some time and indeed (no pun intended?) and indeed it has cropped up now and then over the past. The issue has two sides to it as have all issues and coins. Those in favor of male dorm-oriented co-education point out that many institutions of learning allow females to be on hand either in the fraternity houses or college rooms of their male counterparts. At Bates, they continue, this activity is looked on with disfavor leading to drastic action. Co-education not involving expense, therefore, takes place in the girls' dorms, thus giving rise to a strong matriarchy and a rash of Oedipus complexes.

But—what would be the result should Bates males be allowed to entertain in their own rooms, those in power may well argue. Boys will be boys, girls will be girls, boys and girls will be boys and girls, and booze will be around just being booze. Would sex and liquor, the two ogres which never cease giving grey hair to college administrators, run rampant through the rooms of Smith, J.B., and Parker? Perish the thought (but not the idea!).

The problem is a knotty one. Other institutions remain with unwithered ivy on their hallowed halls when members of the opposite sex congregate within them. Why not give it a limited trial at Bates, with an open door policy if you will? The results might be surprising. They would certainly be interesting...

The distinguished columnist Walter Lippman has described Vice-President Nixon as "a ruthless partisan . . . (who) does not have within his conscience those scruples which the country has the right to expect from the President of the United States." What prompted this noted, distinguished columnist to make such a pointed observation? How accurate is Mr. Lippman? Is this assertion fact or just his personal bias?

We assert that a prime quality for an outstanding president is his ability to make a decision and then stand by it. It may be politically expedient to change one's views as he feels the wind blows, but this is the sign of a clever politician, not that of a statesman. Has Mr. Nixon demonstrated in his eight years of "experience" the quality of consistency??? As Al Smith commented, "let's look at the record!!"

Cites Stand

One of the gravest problems facing America today is how to end segregation and provide first class citizenship for all. Essential in solving this problem in the coming decade is strong, firm, and dedicated leadership from the next president of the United States. Mr. Kennedy has consistently reaffirmed his support of the Civil Rights plank of the 1960 Democratic Platform. However, has Mr. Nixon maintained a forthright and consistent stand on this vital issue?

Approaching the problem in a politically expedient manner, the Republican standardbearer has on several occasions made typical contradictory remarks. In New York he stated, "Segregation, discrimination, and prejudice have no place in America." While speaking in the South, Nixon said, "a moderate approach is the only one which will work." Lest we forget, moderation on civil rights is equivalent to no action at all!!!!

This example is but one of the many that could be cited if space allowed.

Looks At Future

Just as the thirties demanded an FDR so do the sixties require the same principled, moral leadership and perceptive understanding of domestic and foreign problems from the President. It is this type of leadership that Senator John F. Kennedy can provide. Kennedy has had the insight to recognize the true conditions and the courage to stand before his fellow Americans and tell them what they must know to survive, even though it is unpleasant to hear. He has revealed the uncomfortable facts that our national prestige has fallen, that our economic growth has slackened, and that our foreign policy towards Africa, Asia, and Latin America needs an 'aggravating reappraisal'. Let us not forget, that before a problem can be solved it must be recognized. Mr. Kennedy has reached this height. Mr. Nixon has failed to do so!!!!

Although Mr. Lippman has undoubtedly overstated his case somewhat, it is apparent that one candidate is far more qualified to lead America in these most trying times. If the Soviet Union is not to assume world leadership and write history for us, Americans need to choose wisely (Continued on page five) were tabled, the motion as amended was voted upon. Of the 505 students present, 483 voted in favor of the motion, 10 were opposed, 6 left before the vote, and the 6 members on the platform did not vote.

Also present, but not participating, were 26 members of the faculty and administration, and 4 housemothers. Students attending Choral Society and football meetings were also polled and favored the motion.

The recommendation made by the assembly reads as follows:

Proposal

On Monday evening, October 24, a meeting of the student body was held to discuss and make resolutions and recommendations to the faculty concerning the observance of the Thanksgiving holidays. This meeting was sponsored jointly by the Student Government and the Student Council, and the members of the faculty and the administration were also invited to attend.

The motion as amended and carried by the assembly reads as follows:

"We recommend to the faculty that Thanksgiving vacation be returned to a four day holiday as in previous years. Furthermore we agree to assume the responsibility of maintaining academic continuity during that period."

There were 505 students at the meeting, 483 were in favor of the motion, 10 were opposed, 6 were non-voting platform officers, and 6 had retired from the hall before the vote.

In order to represent as many students as possible the Choral Society and football team, who were at their respective meetings, were polled. 50 out of 50 in the Choral Society and 47 out of 47 football players were in favor of restoring Thanksgiving vacation.

It is the sincere hope of the assembly that the entire faculty will seriously consider and act upon the recommendation.

Freshman Describes Hazing Experiences

By LINDA JARRETT '64

After being on campus for about five weeks, the freshman girls have discovered that there is far more to life here than what is described in the booklets. Included in this category of unknowns are various rules, and hazing by sophomores.

Keep Upperclassmen Happy

There are several requests that must be carried out to keep the upperclassmen happy. Freshmen are supposed to put their coats and books downstairs in Rand. Although they are allowed to use the front walk at Rand, the upperclassmen weren't too happy about this at first. Among the duties expected of frosh are pouring milk and water, and holding doors. Upperclassmen tend to be slightly annoyed when these tasks are not carried out willingly.

Most freshman girls arrived with little knowledge of hazing. By now, all the girls have experienced about the same phases of this process. The first step, in most cases, was merely a warning; banging on doors, yelling, etc.

Frosh Present Skits

The second step involved skits or speeches for most people. The subjects of these presentations were unusual, to say the least. For example, "The Love Life of a Neuter Fly," a topic which must have called for quite a bit of imagination.

The next experience was more of a shock than anything else. Everyone returned from Stanton Ride, some completely in the dark, others expecting confusion. Those in both categories were surprised. They found confusion all right. Beds had been taken apart, everything imaginable was on the floor, laundry was tied from the lights, and sprinkled generously over all this was confetti. When the rooms had been cleaned up, the girls were faced with the horrible realization that this would happen again!

Learn New Rules

Just about everyone had to undergo a night of activity consisting of walking around with a pillowcase on her head. Doing deep knee-bends and sit-ups, singing loudly and being squirted with water, kept everyone busy.

Hazing in the dining room has been experienced by all. Who would have thought that she would have to learn how to eat with mittens on? Or who would have pictured herself doing the elephant walk to Rand wearing a tail, socks on her hands, and elephant ears, and singing all the way?

Await Haze Day

Some of the girls have had a second round of speeches on more interesting topics. At this point, everyone is wondering what might happen on Haze Day. On Debibbing Night, each dorm will put in a skit based on some country. Although the girls have had to do some pretty strange things, so far, they can probably hear the echoes of these words of advice from the sophomores: "Cheer up, freshmen, the worst is yet to come!"

Carlson Reviews 'No More War': Emphasizes Radiation Argument

By RICHARD CARLSON '62

Dr. Linus Pauling's book, No More War (Dodd-Mead, N. Y.), has been out for two years; but in view of last week's editorial in this paper, I would like to take this opportunity to review the book. Pauling's contributions to chemistry need little exposition here. The controversy surrounding this man has arisen recently concerning his study of hereditary diseases caused by high intensity radiation. In question is the petition he initiated signed by more than 9,000 scientists urging that an international agreement be made to stop the testing of all nuclear weapons . . . a petition which was later submitted to the United Nations. It is the feeling of some Americans that this petition was a thinly-disguised Communist plot.

Analyzes Pauling's Ideas

This being the situation, it might prove valuable to analyze the ideas set forth by Dr. Pauling as a scientist and as a citizen in a world of tension.

In the first place, the work's title sums up Pauling's position on war as a method of political strategy. He emphasizes the importance of trying to solve international disputes by the application of man's power of reason in a way that is worthy of the dignity of man. We must solve them, he continued, by arbitration, negotiation, the development of international law, and the making of international agreements that will do justice to all nations and all people.

Pauling Develops Argument

Most of the book is concerned with the development of the radiation argument. The facts presented by Pauling in this connection have had much to do with our nation's new policy of underground testing rather than releasing deadly fallout by above-ground explosions. The Nobel laureate estimates in the chapter "Radiation and Heredity" that the amount of increase in the mutation rate as the result of radioactive fallout from testing carried on at the then present rate was one per cent; thus a one per cent increase in the number of defective children who will be born in the future. Pauling points out there are every year seventy-five million children born in the world. Two per cent of these children are seriously deficient because of heredity or bad genes. Two per cent of seventy-five million is one and a half million seriously defective children born each year with various grave diseases. One per cent increase from radioactive fallout is fifteen thousand children doomed to die shortly after birth or in early childhood, to have mental deficiency or serious physical defects that make them suffer all of their lives or live their lives in mental institutions.

Man Little Understands Self

No More War is not a pleasant book, but neither is the unthinking readiness of the Cold warriors to wreak destruction on millions of helpless and innocent people for no other purpose than to assure that the adversary suffers no less than we do. Our history courses demonstrate how poor is the vision of man about himself, how little he really understands of his own predicaments and of the true implications of his own enthusiasms and actions. It is Dr. Linus Pauling's position that, with these things in mind, how can anyone be so sure of the righteousness of his own political cause to take such a responsibility upon himself.

Kinsel Cites Preparation For European Travels

By SARA KINSEL '61

London, Rome, Paris — was I really there? I must have been because I have the gifts I purchased, the souvenirs I collected, and the pictures I took to prove it. An even more important proof is one which can be revealed only through the knowledge I brought back with me. This knowledge of the ways in western Europe, incomplete as it may be, has given me a fuller understanding of life in Europe and a greater appreciation of life in America.

Group Prepares

This experience was made possible for me by spending the summer with the Zerby Tour, organized by Dean and Mrs. Zerby here at Bates. The group consisted of 62 students and six leaders, about half from Bates, and the others from a variety of colleges from the University of Maine to the University of Minnesota.

During the spring we were busy getting the necessary inoculations, planning our wardrobes, reading travel literature, and perhaps even brushing up on a few foreign languages. Our excitement increased as summer drew nearer. Those of us at Bates had meetings with the Zerbys, hearing of the experiences of the groups in the past and eagerly anticipating those which would soon be ours.

Almost before we realized it, it was June 28th and we were somewhere on the Atlantic heading for Europe. Eight days later, after a relatively uneventful crossing, we docked at Southampton. This was really it! From then on "This Summer in Europe," the slogan of the Zerby party, could be seen on the large red stickers on the 68 suitcases piled on docks and in railroad stations in countless cities from England to Italy to France.

Bates Outfights Maine In 13-13 Tie

By SKIP MARDEN

Those who made the trek across the Great American Wilderness between those two oases of culture — Lewiston and Orono, were treated to a fine display of courage by the Bates College football aggregation as they fought the Black Bears to a 13-13 tie before a largely-silent Parents' Day crowd of 8,000. With their injury list growing increasingly larger each week, the Garnet eleven accepted their misfortunes philosophically and out-fought and out-hustled their hosts. Whatever the next two State Series games may hold the Bates football team can call the 1960 season a success (although I doubt that they will be content) and the college can be justly proud of them.

Although it seems that a handful of Bates fans can easily out-cheer 7,500 Maine partisans, the turnout at the game was rather disappointing. The school permits a college holiday with the understanding that the entire student body will travel to Orono, but do everything in their power to legislate against it. The freshman class, some 250 strong, provides the backbone of the Garnet rooting section, but few made the trip. Why? As part of the adjustment to college routine, the school says that the novice collegian can have a Saturday off in October, one Thursday off in November, and a Christmas vacation starting some twelve weeks after they arrive in Lewiston. Summer camps only last eight weeks! The poor turnout probably will alert some members of the faculty to the chance to eliminate the holiday, but those who go home (and many upperclassmen are in the same position as the freshmen) really can't be condemned. The only consolation is that the Pilgrims are enough of a time-honored tradition to prevent some of the faculty to agitate this without sounding anti-American. But only that Thursday is safe.

Back to football for a moment, much has been written in the newspapers about the "chess-and-checker" play of Colby. The Mules' coach, Bob Clifford, has been getting long mileage in the press with the fact that he has to juggle players due to thin ranks among the reserves. However, little attention is paid to the fact that the other three Maine college coaches — particularly Bob Hatch, has had to do the same thing, not by choice, but rather by necessity. Although it would be in bad taste, an All-Maine team could be picked from the ranks of the injured players alone. But that's all part of football.

In the Inane Statement Department, the following quote is offered from the Bowdoin Orient —

The soccer team proved itself a New England small college power to be reckoned with, as they lost to Wesleyan by only one to nothing Saturday morning . . . Soccer has been a varsity sport at Bowdoin for three years. It has been played at that level at Middletown, Connecticut, for at least 30 years. Thus, not only did Wesleyan have two games extra experience this season, but at least 27 years more in which to build the foundations for their team.

It appears to this writer that all Wesleyan graduates that played soccer in 1930 to 1940 must have raised their sons from infancy to play soccer if this statement is to valid. To apply it to the Bates' soccer situation, perhaps the powers-that-be are waiting for thirty years of the present status so the Garnet soccer teams won't be outclassed when they are varsity. I think they are doing fine without it, however.

* * * * *

To right a wrong that was committed by omission last week, it should be stated that last week passed without a solitary mention of the great Middlebury end and star of the 1958 meeting between the two schools here on Garcelon Field — Renwick Curry. Renwick, brother of Bates senior John Curry, was the star for the Panthers in defeat back in 1958 and is recognized as his younger brother's equal as a campus "bon vivant".

Injury-Ridden Bobcat Eleven Surprises In State Series Start

By JIM HALL

A fighting Bates football team staved off a last minute Maine rally by recovery of a fumble on the ten yard line and thus held the heavily favored Black Bears to a 13-13 tie. The Bobcats were paced by the able quarterbacking of sophomore Bill Davis and the fine defensive play of Howie Vandersea, sophomore center.

The game's early going was mainly punt exchanges as the Bobcats were unable to get their offense rolling as they played cautious football using chiefly plays through the line. Maine could do little better and the first period ended without any scoring with the Black Bears in possession.

At the start of the second period, Maine paced by Wayne Champeon was able to march to the Garnet seven yard line where the Bobcats' defense stiffened forcing the host club to relinquish the ball on downs. Bates moved the ball out to their own 25 where they were formed to punt — directly to Wayne Champeon who ran the ball back 40 yards to the Garnet 10. Dick Drisko plowed to the one foot line on the next play, but in the following play, Manch Wheeler fumbled and the ball rolled out of the end zone, giving Bates possession on the 20.

However, Maine was not to be denied and after intercepting a pass on the Bates 22, they scored in four plays as Drisko went across from 6 yards out. Art Miles' conversion made the score Maine 7, Bates 0.

Davis To Castolene Score

With time running out in the half, Bob Williams intercepted a Maine pass and returned it to the hosts' 45. From here, the Garnet offense began to roll sparked by the pin point pass-

Bowdoin Defeats Colby; Pass Features 15-14 Win

A sophomore halfback's first college aerial went for a 20-yard touchdown and a successful place kick with five minutes remaining gave Bowdoin a 15-14 victory over Colby in the opener of State Series action for the two colleges.

The loss was the first for the host Mules in the 1960 season and broke a seven game streak dating back to 1958 when Colby went undefeated to win the State title.

Bowdoin has seen an early lead erased as they trailed Colby 14-8 midway in the fourth period, but drove 43 yards to a touchdown as halfback John Milo threw a 20-yard touchdown pass to end Charlie Finlayson for the tally. A perfect placement kick by Charlie Speleotis gave Bowdoin a 15-14 lead which they never relinquished for an upset win.

The Polar Bears had tallied first after Colby fumbled on the Bowdoin 3-yard line on the third play of the game and Dexter Bucklin punted to the Colby 34, a 53 yard kick, only to have Colby fumble once again to give Bowdoin possession on the hosts' 29-yard line. Four plays later, Mike Panteleakos smashed off tackle for 10 yards for the score as Bucklin rushed for the two-point conversion.

Maine took the third period kickoff and marched 64 yards in 15 plays with Drisko scoring his second touchdown from two yards out. However, on the conversion attempt, Red Vandersea burst through the line and blocked the extra point bid.

The kickoff following the score was returned to the Bates 37 by Castolene. On the following play, Davis ran wide and finally pitched to Planchon for a first down, almost at midfield. The following play saw Davis keep it himself and race for another first down on the 35 of Maine. After a five yard loss, Davis calmly passed to Castolene who pitched to Dennis Tourse who outraced most of the Maine defenders and plowed through the others for a touchdown and a tied score 13-13.

The resulting conversion was missed, but the Bobcats had upset the experts by tying their powerful hosts, thus proving once more that State Series play is completely unpredictable.

Kingdon Tallies Twice

Colby knotted the score as Bruce Kingdon ran twelve yards for the Mules' first touchdown and Ken Bee threw a pass to Johnny McHale for the two point conversion at 6:05 in the second period. The Mules went ahead in the third period as they took possession of the ball on the Bowdoin 44-yard stripe and eight plays later saw Kingdon burst off tackle for six yards and a touchdown. The conversion pass attempt went astray, but the Mules led 14-8 going into the final period.

Minutes later, Bowdoin had put together its scoring drive to deal the Mules a severe setback in their hopes to win their third State Series title in a row.

Dropped To 1-3 Record As Colby Wins 3-0, Bunten Idled For Year

LLOYD BUNTEN (77) and Colby's Abbot Snow (12) fight for possession in recent soccer action.

The Bates soccermen were downed last Tuesday by their perennial nemesis, Colby, by a 3-0 count on Garcelon Field. Colby captain Steve Chase had a foot in all three Mule tallies. After a scoreless first quarter, Chase assisted inside right John Weeks at 6:43 of the second period to give the Waterville mob a 1-0 edge at the half. Midway in the third quarter, Chase pounded in a penalty shot, and the big right wing notched his second marker at 18:25 of the final canto as his low drive eluded Garnet net minder Scott Brown and caught the far side of the goal.

Bunten Suffers Injury

The 'Cats lost freshman left wing Lloyd Bunten for the remainder of the season when he suffered a separated right shoulder late in the third period.

Harriers Show Well In Boston Tri-Meet

Saturday, the Garnet cross-country team traveled to Boston to compete against two of the best cross-country teams in New England as they finished third to a well-balanced New Hampshire squad and second-place finisher Boston University.

The individual winner over the four-mile Franklin Park course was the sensational sophomore from Boston University, Bob Mueller, who negotiated the distance in the very good time of 20 minutes, 23 seconds.

Running well for the Bobcats were Eric Silverberg and Captain Dewitt Randall who finished ninth and tenth respectively, only one second apart. Larry Boston finished in thirteenth position, while the other three Bates entries were further back in the field.

The Mules fired 39 shots while Bates managed only 30. Co-captain Dave Rushforth had many near scores including a penalty shot in the second quarter which soared just over the cross bar. Scott Brown made 21 saves for the Garnet and Colby goalie John Crowell stopped 14 shots.

'Cats Visit Mules Today

This afternoon the local booters travel to Colby to try to even the count. Coach "Mike" Loeb's team has been merciless to the 'Cats over the past four years, beating Bates 3-1, 2-0, 8-1, 7-0, 3-0, and 3-0 in that order.

This Saturday morning at 10:30 the soccermen face Bowdoin in a return match in the annual Homecoming morning classic. Five seniors will be playing their last game on the Bates field. Co-captain Dick Yerg and John Adams have been starters for four years at left fullback and right halfback respectively. Also playing for the last time will be halfback Brad Garcelon and goalies Scott Brown and Jack Guite.

CO-CAPTAIN DICK YERG (60) knocks heads with a Colby player in the recent soccer meeting.

THE INTRAMURAL SCENE

By Bob Zering '62 and Dave Singer '61

The 1960-1961 Intermural campaigns opened recently with the traditional grid classic between John Bertram Hall and the East Parker before one of the largest crowds ever assembled for an intramural contest — 17.

John Bertram 20 East Parker 0

The assembled throng on the Garcelon Stadium intramural field watched in awe as the J.B. "Mighty Mites" completely outclassed the East Parker "Pandas" 20-0 in the "B" League opener. Led by self-appointed captain Barry Gilvar, the J.B. team overpowered the Pandas as they scored the first three times they had their hands on the ball as Steve Bishop and his famous "Suicide Eight" defense watched helplessly. Passes from quarterback Bob Zering to Jim "Big Boy" Sutherland, Mal Johnson, and the "Splendid Sprinter" Gilvar made the score 18-0 early in the first period.

Rowe Retires

From this point, the J.B. "Red Unit" led by Doug Rowe, held the Pandas in check. Rowe, All-Intramural center for the last five years, tackled the high-stepping Bishop in his own end zone for a two-point safety. Shortly after the game, Rowe announced his resignation, and the following day, Coach Bob Peck announced the resignation of the Zering to Sutherland and Johnson pass combination.

Smith North 46 Smith South 0

After rain had forced the cancellation of several games, Smith North completely humbled the Confederates of Smith South in "B" League action 46-0. After the Polar Bears' Bob Huggard took the opening kickoff the length of the gridiron for the first score, it was all over but the shouting, as four touchdown passes quickly followed. The most sensational score was a one-handed snag by Chan Wagg of a Bill Tucker aerial. The hefty line of Bill Wheeler, Larry Sano, and Dave Singer (who was injured in a freak accident) proved to be the margin of success as they forced the Confeds' passers into erratic throwing.

Roger Bill 24 East Parker 0

The Roger Bill "B" team came through with a whitewashing of East Parker as freshman great

Morris Lelyveld came directly from the Roger Bill shower room to lead the Puritans to an easy 24-0 victory. Lelyveld and mates were able to hold the ageless wonder, Brad Garcelon, scoreless for the first time in his six year career.

Smith South 6 East Parker 0

Over in the "A" League, only one contest was played, but it was close all the way, as the Smith South group, rusty and out-of-shape from the summer lay-off, squeaked out a 6-0 win by East Parker. A last period touchdown pass from George Riley to Al Marden provided the margin of victory. The Parker boys marched downfield only to have time run out on the four yard line. Jay Curry, who led his P.E.201 club to an undefeated season, looked rusty but almost as good as elder brother Renwick, a former Middlebury College end. The measure of difference, however, was provided by the punting of Dick Pavelgio who repeatedly kicked out of danger.

A COED'S VIEW OF SPORTS

By Phyllis Fogg '64

After watching wide-open action sports for the past few weeks, the assignment to delve into cross-country running was quite a change of pace. But once again I was lucky enough to find a well-mannered Bates man, this time Steve Ullian, who was careful to explain it for me. To dignify for a moment, I want to thank Steve and all the other athletes that have explained things to me for their time and courtesy. (This is an unsolicited statement with no regard for the forthcoming "Back-to-Bates" dance.)

"Wind And Endurance"

Since there was no meet this week, I attended a cross-country practice that was in session with the boys running up Mount David for hill training, as Steve was quick to explain. "To build wind and endurance," he said, "since they are the prime requisites of cross-country running." Since he was momentarily resting, he went on to explain the entire process of long-distance running.

Cross-country, as the name implies, involves running a specific distance over hills, through wooded paths, and occasionally over dirt and tarred roads. The object, as in any race, is to cross the finish line ahead of your opponent. Since cross-country is a team sport, this type of finish is particularly important. The first finisher is awarded one point, the second receives two, the third gets three points, and so on as each finisher receives the same number of points as the place in which he finishes.

Scoring System

Each team enters from five to ten runners, usually seven. After all the runners finish, the coach takes the first five runners on his team and compares their point totals with the first five finishers on the other teams. Since the team with the lowest number of points wins, 15 is the perfect score as all five runners finish 1-2-3-4-5. An example of scoring would be in a meet between Bates and Maine. The first five Maine runners finished 1-2-3-5-8, while Bates' first five ended 4-6-7-9-12, to give Maine 19 and Bates 38.

Since it becomes obvious that a runner who didn't finish didn't earn any points, I suggested to Coach Slovenski that he should have all his runners drop out and win 0-to-something. He explained that although some of his runners were impressed with this, he was trying to persuade them how much more fun it would be to run all the way to the finish line.

Reserved seats for non-students go on sale at the Bates Athletic Office Monday through Friday before each game at $2.50.

Football Preview: Bowdoin

On Saturday in Homecoming Day football action, Bates will host a Bowdoin eleven that is fresh from an upset win over defending State champion Colby. The Polar Bears will be keyed for the win as a victory over the Bobcats could easily mean a share of the State Series crown, a title that has been absent from the Brunswick campus since 1952.

COACH. The Polar Bears are coached by Nels Corey who was a three sport star at Bowdoin between 1936 and 1940. Corey was a standout tackle for Adam Walsh, the man he succeeded, as he served as captain and was twice selected to the All-Maine team. As a coach, he won four straight titles at Maine Central Institute and since taking over as football mentor at Bowdoin in 1950, his record has been an improving 5-6-1. Corey is recognized as a capable tactician with a particular knack for developing top line play.

SYSTEM. Bowdoin uses a basic wing-T offense primarily, but occasionally switches to the straight T and go un-balanced in the line with two ends playing the same side.

PERSONNEL. Of forty-one men vying for starting positions, Bowdoin has sixteen returning lettermen which included eight of 1959's starting team. Ends Bill Widmar (180) and Charlie Finlayson (180), tackles Dave Cole (220) and Gerry Haviland (210), guards Charlie Speleotis (190) and Dave Fernald (212), halfback Ted Gardner (182), and fullback Jack Cummings (180), all return to provide the Black Bears with an experienced starting unit.

Other returning lettermen include two more ends, John Adams

(175) and Dave Baron (185); a third tackle, Don Prince (198); a quarterback, Dexter Bucklin (175); two more halfbacks, John Roberts (155) and Glenn Saunders (175), and a pair of fullbacks, Dave Alvino (172) and Mike Panteakos (175).

Several promising newcomers from the 1959 freshman team will see considerable service with halfbacks Jack Milo (165) and Barrett Jenkins (170), center Joe Hickey (200), and tackle Bill Nash (206) appearing to be the best of the group.

1960 STARS. Dexter Bucklin, Bowdoin quarterback, won honors last year as the most improved player and has shown even more progress to date this season. He is an adequate passer, a threat as a runner, and a capable signal caller. His two favorite targets, ends Charlie Finlayson and Bill Widmer, are both very capable receivers and together with Bucklin form a dangerous passing combination.

Jack Milo has wrestled the starting spot away from last season's top ground gainer, Ted Gardner, for his fine play in the Williams and Colby games. In the latter contest, he threw a 22 yard pass for the winning tally. Jack Cummings has been the starting fullback for three straight seasons and has good power with an ability to pick up extra yardage past the line of scrimmage.

SUMMARY. Bowdoin has several assets — (1) they have a tough, large, and very capable line averaging just 200; (2) they have desire as they seek their first State title in eight years; and (3) they have a well-balanced offensive attack. Their biggest liability, however, has been a proneness to injuries and occasional cases of "fumbleitis."

NAME: John Hulse AGE: 27 MAJOR: Bus. Adm.

PRESENT JOB: Telephone Manager, Sioux City, Iowa

When John Hulse was a senior at the U. of South Dakota, he had his own set of "do's" and "don'ts." Don't become a mere cipher on somebody's payroll. Don't sit on the shelf waiting for your first taste of responsibility. Do get a job where you have a chance to show your stuff right from the start. Do the job.

John knew his B.S. in Business Administration could lead him into almost any field. He chose the telephone business and joined Northwestern Bell.

One of his first assignments: streamlining operating procedures for the telephone offices of Iowa's five largest cities. In this work John showed good judgment and sound organizing ability.

Today he is Telephone Manager of Sioux City, Iowa.

Besides managing day-to-day operations, helping plan tomorrow's telephone growth is an important part of John's job. A typical example is the work he does with the Sioux City Industrial Development Association. In this role, he's the answer man on projecting, planning and supplying the communications needs of new industry. He's shown above with Bob Sweeney, manager of the Sioux City Chamber of Commerce.

"You must always be thinking of the future in this business," John says. "We have to stay ahead. I think a man who has something to offer this outfit won't have a minute's worry about what it can do for him."

If you're a capable guy—looking for an action job with rapid rewards for the man who can handle it—you'll want to visit your Placement Office for literature and additional information.

"Our number one aim is to have in all management jobs the most vital, intelligent, positive and imaginative men we can possibly find."

FREDERICK R. KAPPEL, President
American Telephone & Telegraph Co.
