Debaters Tie For Second In Dartmouth Tourney

"After two days of debating, Bates College came within one debate of winning and finished in a second place tie in the cup competition," said Professor Quimby, this past weekend. Peter d'Errico '65 and Jeffrey Roualt '65 upheld the affirmative and Norman Gillespie '64 and David Harrison '64 upheld the negative of the proposition resolved: Labor organizations should be placed under the jurisdiction of Anti-Trust Legislation. The debate took place at the 22nd Annual Dartmouth Tournament.

The team left early Friday morning and after lunch and registration had their first round of debates that afternoon. Evening brought a cooling of the atmosphere and the 2nd and 3rd rounds of debates. That evening, after a tour of the campus and a visit to the library murals the team stayed at the Green Lanern Inn.

Announce Results

The rising sun invoked the fourth round of debates and that afternoon the final round was completed. At a general meeting at 4 o'clock the results were announced and West Point with a record of 8-2 won the cup competition. West Point is coached by former Bates novice debator, Roger Allen. Tied with Bates at 7-3 was Brandeis, and MIT was next with a 6-4 record.

Jeffrey Roualt '65 received a certificate as one of the best speakers in the tournament. The team defeated Buffalo, NYU, St. Anselm's, University of Rhode Island, MIT, University of Rochester, and Bowdoin. They lost to West Point, Brandeis, and University of Pittsburgh.

Compete In Easterns

This next weekend a team of Grant Lewis '62 and Norman Bowie '64 and Robert Ahern '64 and Howard Blum '63 will represent Bates at the Easterns, while the novice squad will travel to Saint Joseph's College for Young Ladies for a visiting debate.

These debates will close a year in which Bates debators have finished only once as one of the top teams at a tournament.

Tunisian Counselor Mohammed Etri Addresses College Assembly On Tunisia's Foreign Policy

Mr. Mohammed Etri, Counselor for the Tunisian Embassy in the United States addressed the Bates Chapel assembly Friday morning, April 27. A former geography teacher in Tunisia, Mr. Etri spoke on Tunisian foreign policy, emphasizing the influence Tunisia's location has upon its role in the world today.

"Tunisia," stated Etri, "is the most west-minded country in Northern Africa." It is situated on the northern coast of Africa on the western fringe of the Arab world south of the European domain which gives her political status as a nation necessary to the free world.

Lacks Natural Resources

Tunisia's population is out of proportion with its size. Said Etri, "It is a melting pot of Africa," consisting of both Arabs and Caucasians. Although Tunisia does not lack people, it does lack natural resources. This is one of the main problems which this small African nation must overcome in the future if it is to stabilize its position as a link between Europe and Africa.

Etri emphasized the point that unlike many other African nations, Tunisia does have a democratic system. There is a basic amount of freedom of religion, freedom of the sexes, and freedom of political parties. Tunisia's constitution is based on that of the United States.

Cites Foreign Policy

He went on to state five primary points of Tunisian foreign policy: 1) Tunisia's foreign policy is based on the ideal of freedom, justice, and equality. 2) Tunisia believes that a great deal of organization is necessary to have an effective foreign policy. 3) Tunisia stands for a strong support of the United Nations and her role in this organization is becoming increasingly important. 4) Although opposed to communism itself, Tunisia does not cut itself off directly from the communist satellites. 5) It is Tunisia's mission to set an example for the rest of the African world to fight communism. This can be done most effectively by the education of western ideas.

Etri concluded that Tunisia must continue to play a role in the Western World and Africa south of the Sahara. He repeatedly referred to Switzerland as a model for Tunisia to follow and stated that although Tunisia is not rich in resources, she will be able to overcome this handicap and emerge a powerful nation, as Switzerland. "Then," concluded Etri, "Tunisia will connect Africa with the free world."

Deansmen And Meris Host Six Collegiate Singing Groups May 5

On May 5, at 8:00 p. m., the Deansmen, the Merrimanders, and Stu-C, will be the hosts to six singing groups from New England colleges. The groups will participate in a Close Harmony Concert which will be held here in the Alumni Gym.

The groups singing will be the Zumbyes, from Amherst College; the Meddiebempsters and the Bachelors, from Bowdoin; and three female groups: the Alpha Chords, from U.N.H.; the Wheatones, from Wheaton; and the Colbyettes, from Colby.

Celebrate 25th Year

The Meddiebempsters of Bowdoin were organized in 1937, and have sung all over the East since then. They have appeared eight times at New York's Town Hall, once at Carnegie Hall, and twenty-two times with the Boston Pops Orchestra. Celebrating their 25th anniversary this year, they will travel as far south as Philadelphia and as far west as Chicago, in their annual Spring tour.

The Zumbyes, of Amherst College, is another group that sings in the traditional collegiate style. Singing college traditionals, old favorites, and new moderns, this group shows a varied repertoire. They have appeared in hotels, colleges, and concerts all over the North and Southeast.

Wheatones Perform

The Wheatones from Wheaton College run on the philosophy of "Ragged but Right". From novelty numbers such as New York Medley, to the spiritual Gospel Train, to the modern and dreamy Blue Indigo, this group will

"sing 'em right!" They too, have appeared in Eastern colleges, as well as in a performance with Mitch Miller.

Tickets for this Close Harmony Concert will cost $1.00 per single person, or $1.75 per couple. After the Concert, the Deansmen, the Merrimanders, and Stu-C will host a party for the visiting singing groups. The Bates groups will then provide the entertainment.

G. Lewis Seeks Oakes Memorial Award; Speaks On Law's Limits

This year's competition for the Oakes memorial award was entered by only one contestant, Grant Lewis. The $100 prize is given each year to the best qualified senior who intends to continue his education in the field of law. The prize is in memory of Henry Walter Oakes '77, who was a member of the Board of Overseers for thirty-four years. It was

Frosh Enter Speaking Contest; Williams And Smith Receive Prizes

The winners of the Oren Nelson Hilton award in the Freshman Extemporaneous Speaking Contest, held Tuesday evening, April 24 in the Filene Room, are David A. Williams and Susan H. Smith. Each will receive a $10 cash award.

Mr. Williams spoke on President Kennedy's proposed cabinet Department of Urban Affairs. Miss Smith's speech was concerned with Mrs. Kennedy's trip to India and Pakistan and its effect upon U.S. foreign relations.

established by his son, Raymond Sylvester Oakes '09.

An oratorical contest enters into the decision of the awarding of the prize. In this year's competition, Lewis spoke on the limitations of the law. His main theme was that although law can control man's actions, it has no control over the mind. In using integration as an example of this law in action, he showed that the law couldn't control ideas of racial equality. "Our need is to enforce the spirit of the laws," he concluded.

Davis Discusses U. S. And Soviet Relations

Thursday night, May 26, the last of a series of lectures on current Russian culture was given by Deputy Assistant Secretary of State for European Affairs, Mr Richard H. Davis. He spoke on current problems in Soviet Western relations.

Mr. Davis said that the first thing we have to realize is that we are not bilaterally in conflict with Soviet Russia. What we face is one side of a dualism in Soviet policy. This dualism takes the form of ultra-nationalism in internal affairs. However, this nationalism is not the motive behind their actions and attitudes when they affect nations other than Russia. In foreign policy they adhere more to the tenets of international Communism than to purely nationalistic interests.

Success Achieved By Force

The foreign policy side of this dualism takes the form of attempts to force the Soviet system of government on other nations with the ultimate goal of Communizing the whole world. Mr. Davis made an interesting point in connection with the success of this policy so far. In no country where there is a system of free elections have the communists been able to gain control by using these democratic means. In every case where they have been successful their success has come through the use of force of one kind or another.

Moving on to the widely publicized policy of Peaceful Co-existence which the Russians now purport to be following, Mr. Davis noted that "Peaceful Co-existence" means two different things when they use it and when we use it. What this indicates for them is that at the moment they are not strong enough militarily to attempt a "hot" war, and must look to other means to further their above stated ends. This policy does not in any way mean that they intend to relinquish these ends. Thus, it does not mean peace in our sense of the word either, because they are constantly at work to subvert neutral countries by means other than a shooting war.

Mr. Davis sketched in the diplomatic history which has led up to the present situation, but a run through of this background would be too prolix for this article which only can hope to hit some of the high spots.

Cites Russian Foreign Policy

In citing some of the major factors which currently shape Russia's policy towards the west he stressed the fact that only our present equality with Russia in striking power is deterring her from more aggressive action. This respect for strength can be seen shaping much of her policy as she shifts rapidly from one sector to another as our own current policies and problems seem to put us in a stronger or weaker position in these sectors.

This means that we must stay strong in arms and continue to move forward in arms development. We cannot adopt a stand-pat attitude, because while Russia presently has a Gross National Product about half the size of ours, in absolute figures she is spending very nearly the same amounts as the U.S. for armaments.

Negotiations Need Solid Front

Another major factor in our strength is allied solidarity and all our policies must aim at keeping the western front solid. The first sign of a split and all chance for negotiation will go down the drain. Why? Because the Soviets will then feel that to remain silent for the present may mean that negotiations at a later date will see them in a stronger position. This is pretty much the present situation in regards to most talks between Russia and the West. Russia feels that for the present she must stand and wait, for the future will see a greatly weakened western alliance as we find that we can not keep the whole world happy.

Our long range goal must then be directed at thwarting this breakdown. Thus, we must work to build a new international order including the peoples of all free nations. This is the aim of our present policy in regard to our allies.

Editor's note: This is the last article in this series on the Russian Lectures that are being held at Bowdoin College.

Smith To Represent Bates At Ohio NS A Conference

The Student Government board met in the Women's Union on April 25. The board congratulated Susan O. Smith '65, who will travel to Columbus, Ohio, to the 15th National Student Association Congress. The Congress will convene on August 15 and continue its work until the 30th. The time will be spent formulating the policies of NSA which will govern the association for the coming year.

Students Voice Opinions

The NSA is a means for United States' students to voice their opinions on a national and international level through four major organs. The first is the Student Government Commission, dealing with matters directly related to philosophy, structure and techniques of the local unit of student self-government; programming, honor systems; elections, leadership development; and the role of student government in the educational, as well as the greater community.

The Educational Affairs Commission is the second major structure in NSA. It concerns itself with issues of concern to the entire educational community as well as to students. Such problems as academic freedom, human relations, legislative affairs, rising enrollments, institutionalized discrimination, and political awareness come under its jurisdiction.

Discuss Campus Life

The Student Affairs Commission deals with general areas of campus life excluding student government. Student values, non-student-government organizations, health and safety, athletics, student housing, social - cultural - intellectual programming, and college unions are typical discussion items within this Commission.

The last of the four organs is the International Affairs Commission, which deals with foreign relations between American students and their counterparts abroad.

Miss Smith will be among 1200 students, who will gather on the Ohio State University to participate in the NSA workshops and discussion groups. She will return in the fall with ideas for forming an active NSA on the Bates campus.

Crater's Edge

By JAMES KIERNAN '63

Last Saturday night I witnessed the very noble and, for the most part, successful attempt of the Robinson Players to place before us, on the stage of the Little Theater, Stephen Vincent Benet's John Brown's Body.

It is a poem of haunting beauty and simple images, the story of the most American of wars; beautiful in its grandeur, unbearably shocking in its depth and destruction. Benet makes us feel the inevitability of the conflict and carries through the consequences and results.

There is a sin infecting this republic, the great stigma of slavery, and it is both North and South that must be purged in the blood battle of a civil war.

Both sides claim for themselves the Right. Benet makes it clear that it is God's will that the harvest of those black seeds must be ripped out by the roots. After the wreck of slavery and the flowers that grew with it are pulled from this American Earth, this Republic will again begin to grow.

Cites Striking Feature

Probably the most striking feature of this production was the mastery with which the many voices were blended. The words of this lyrical poem are sung and chanted; they ring in our minds and bubble in our souls. The equilibrium of voices, the careful tonage and mood change, the blending of every sound and, in short, the compassion and timing of the entire performance was exuberating.

For the most part, Miss Schaefer again showed her great casting ability; she was most successful with the blending of voices that in the most uncanny way brought the poem to life.

Robert Butler was wonderfully, forcefully alive as were both Clay Wingate and Charlie Bailey. The two characters appeared effortlessly distinct while both displayed the same skipping sparkle. John Strassburger gave a stunning and spirited performance as President Lincoln. The person sitting next to me said to her husband as Mr. Strassburger stood up, "I knew he was Lincoln." Yet while Mr. Butler and Mr. Strassburger fitted so well the roles they played, there were several characters whose visual image was distorted because there was so little physical connection between them and the roles they were cast to play.

Commends Concert Of Voices

Alan Clark was visibly a very weak and unconvincing John Brown. Tall and slick James Aikman gave us no impression at all of the grandeur of Robert E. Lee. To close one's eyes, however, and listen to the magic and dramatic electricity of both these voices seems to change the impression. They appear before us in all their magnificence. As a concert of voices beautifully interwoven, this poem is a great success.

I prefer to think of it as a poem, a poem to be overheard, as a symphony to be heard; so one can close his eyes and be surrounded by its simple but rich images and sustained by the malifuous music of the voices. When I think of John Brown's Body this way, I can only conclude that the poem the Robinson Players presented to us last week was a magnificent success.

A WORD FROM OUR SPONSOR:

And he said, This will I do: I will pull down my barns, and build greater; and there will I bestow all my fruits and my goods. And I will say to my soul, Soul, thou hast much goods laid up for many years; take thine ease, eat, drink, and be merry, But God said unto him, Thou fool, this night thy soul shall be required of thee: then whose shall those things be, which thou hast provided? So is he that layeth up treasure for himself, and is not rich toward God.

Red Revival On Campus

"The Communist Party is making important gains on college campuses in the United States." This statement was made by Communist leaders at a recent national convention that concluded with this declaration: "Our participation in (young Americans') struggle will help unite youth against the enemy of all — monopoly capital."

In "Red Revival on Campus," in the May issue of Campus Illustrated, the national magazine for collegians, the F.B.I. says this declaration and ensuing activities of the American Communist Party constitutes a Red revival at colleges. Cartha DeLoach, assistant director of the F.B.I. states, "since the convention, the Communists have been increasingly ambitious in their designs on youth. DeLoach lists the following as specific Communist programs directed toward the campus: 1) An intensive speech

The Fault Of The Sight May Be In The Seer

Last Saturday an articulate dialectic took place on the porch of West Parker. The subject was the quality of education at Bates. As usual, there were the typical glittering generalities and exaggerations. Once the dross was cleared away, however, there emerged some interesting observations. A few participants were asked just why they were here and what they were getting out of their stay at this school.

Some answered that they were here because their parents desired it, others because they wanted a degree as a means to a lucrative job, a few because they were seeking knowledge. The wisdom of the first two answers may be questioned. Parents who send their progeny to a school for reasons of prestige or sentiment, are guilty of negligence. Students who are here for degrees only are doing themselves and the school great harm. They'll never learn the joy of acquiring knowledge just for its intrinsic value. They'll never taste of an idea or book they are not going to be tested on. They'll go through life becoming intellectual nonentities, rows and rows of zeros — to be punched whenever something is to be done but adding up to nothing.

It must be admitted that almost everyone is going to have to work once they get out of school; but is it anathema to try and acquire some knowledge concomitantly. Is it anathema to be interested in an idea qua idea? No! It is not!

When asked why they were interested only in getting out of the school with their degree, the usual answer dwelled on the supposedly ubiquitous nugget courses. "What good are all these nugget courses?" "What do I care about Hegel and Freud and Aquinas and Donne?" The latter question is in part unanswerable. One may be directed down the road to the Kingdom, but the struggle to enter must be made alone. By refusing to ask the question one can exist, but only as a zero. Ultimately only the individual can answer the question. Concerning the "nuggets," it must be admitted that some courses seem to overemphasize factual knowledge. However, one does not build a castle out of air; a foundation may only be acquired in core courses which of necessity must emphasize the fundamental.

These statements are not meant to exonerate the teacher who refuses to dwell in realms beyond the factual, but rather they are a request for constructive moderation. It is so easy to criticize; so difficult to construct.

There is no doubt that there are areas which need improvement. But there are also students who need improvement. With some effort one can acquire a good education; but the effort has to be made. Why do not those students who criticize the "nuggets" go beyond them and explore different fields in their own manner? Why don't they force their courses into a non-nugget level? Why don't they develop the intellectual curiosity which will transcend the nugget and in the process relegate it to a position as a stepping stone, not a summit.

The fault of the sight is often in the seer. Look inward as well as outward.

Letters To The Editor

To the Editor:

My father and I wish to thank the students and all those connected with Bates for their kindness and sympathy in the days following the accident which has so changed our lives. We appreciated the flowers, the fruit, and the many cards and letters.

Words, spoken and written, do not bring much comfort, but the fact that someone wanted to say them consoles and strengthens. One can say that "God breathes through the love of friends, — to warm the universe, to surround the wounds, to reshape, and to heal."

Thank you.

In regard to Letters of April 18:

It is comforting to see that Mr. Jeter confirms my suspicions by classifying himself as among "Those of us who are not enlightened as to the real 'nature of Freedom.'" The truth about freedom that the "know-nothings" have not yet received is that freedom is not an absolute and that the excessive use of it, such as those chapel pranks, becomes license.

I agree with Mr. Jeter that "The best criticism is constructive criticism" (the chapel pranksters couldn't say this, could they?) and welcome this opportunity to elaborate on my pessimistic view of the campus political climate. Although college students' interest in politics has increased greatly in the 50's, such reliable pollsters as Roper and Gallup have reported that political activity remains pitifully low. There doesn't seem to be much evidence that Bates departs radically from this tradition.

It is difficult to generalize as to the reasons why this condition exists. The first obvious fact is that academic and other responsibilities limit students to varying degrees. It is possible that the magnitude of the problems involved overawe many students into a feeling of helplessness. A decisive factor could be that political activity is tedious, endlessly time-consuming, seemingly fruitless, and on many occasions disillusioning.

Mr. Jeter requests solutions for this condition. My experience has taught me that there can be no complete solution. However, there can be improvements in the situation. This depends upon the energy and willingness of the present interested parties to present their viewpoints on the issues. Controversy always stirs student interest. However, controversy requires two viewpoints. One organization on campus, C.O.P.E., has been presenting its viewpoints for two years. Its opposition has never put forth its program. Yes, "the best criticism is constructive criticism."

If Mr. Jeter needs any more evidence of the "political naiveté" on this campus, I cite him the letter of Stuart Field also printed on April 18. Mr. Field somehow arrives at the conclusion that a protest demonstration of a year ago against Civil Defense constituted infringement upon the free speech of the President. I am at a loss as to how this could be true, and wish for further explanation. Mr. Field goes on to say that the protesters "were in direct violation of an executive branch decree."

This is not true. The fact is that the vast majority of Bates students did not seek shelter. They violated no decree.

Mr. Field refers to disarmament as an "artificial ideal." I am thankful that great numbers of statesmen, educators, religious leaders, scientists, and professional people do not share Mr. Field's opinion and have expressed great hope for attaining this "artificial ideal." Granted that the day of world disarmament seems very far off, but to refer to this as an "artificial ideal" is to surrender to the status-quo and all its inherent dangers.

Mr. Field's comments become even more unacceptable when he states, "This uniformed gentleman was no different (italics mine) than a group of students who packed off to Washington, D. C. . . ." Let me raise a few questions that show how ludicrous this statement is. Did anyone read the bomb carrier's policy statement, how many Congressmen and Foreign Embassies did he visit, how much nationwide publicity did he receive, did he have any "constructive" proposals for the present situations, and why doesn't he speak in chapel about his experience and proposals?

In conclusion I would like to say that it is a pleasure to see an articulate opposition. Further development of this opposition would contribute greatly to a healthy political atmosphere. Constructive criticism of the C.O.P.E. policy statement of April 11 would be a fine place to start. Comments from students or faculty members who have not expressed their views publicly would be especially welcomed.

Sincerely yours,

To the Editor:

May I take this opportunity and medium to express my appreciation and thanks to Miss Lavinia Schaeffer and her company of Thespians otherwise known as the Robinson Players for providing a splendid interpretation of John Brown's Body last week in our Little Theatre.

Despite the intellectual pressure, the obvious sophistication of the campus, and my own inhibitions about veering from the "norm" by publicly acknowledging my "thanks", and adding a positive note to this area of the BATES STUDENT, I hope and trust that others here will whenever possible stick a positive note in their letters and articles to the STUDENT, if not for sincerity's sake, at least that of variety.

—Once again, "Thank You," Robinson Players et al.

Positively yours,

To the Editor:

In the New York Times Magazine of April 22, Congressman John Brademus (D. from Indiana) wrote an article to explain that American students are severely handicapped in their efforts to advance their causes by a lack of knowledge of political action in government. Since there is at least one organized political-action group on campus,

I feel that this article is worth review.

Congressman Brademus says that students fail to realize two main problems. First of all, students "express themselves on a very limited range of issues — usually ones on which it is possible to take a simple, ethically uncomplicated position." As a result, "many of the most politically and socially sensitive students reject any solution but their own. They seek simple answers to highly complex problems."

In short then, students must realize that there is no one answer to any problem. They must allow for other opinions, and "they must learn adjustment, negotiation and compromise, which are the stuff of democratic politics."

The second thing that students fail to realize is that this democracy is based on "leadership through parties." They must face the political facts of life, learn that, in this country, things are done through parties. "They must learn that, with all its shortcomings, the two-party system has been an extra-ordinarily effective instrument for political change in our country."

It is fine to have concern for what is going on in the world outside, but concern, no matter how strong, is not enough. "To be politically effective, the American college student must understand more clearly than he does today, first, that there are no simple answers to these complex problems; and, second, that political parties remain our primary instruments for dealing with political issues."

This, it seems to me, is a simple appeal for political maturity. It suggests the proper and effective way of getting things done in this country's government. I think anyone who would wish to advance a cause might well keep these words of Congressman Brademus in mind.

campaign. 2) A new national publication, "New Horizons for Youth," printed under the auspices of the National Communist Party Youth Director. 3) A special youth committee — one organized to win support for Communist causes among broad segments of our college population.

The F.B.I. draws a moral from this Communist campaign which also includes promoting student uprisings in the form of mob violence, subversion through peace campaigns and a constant flood of Red posters and literature. They (the F.B.I.) state in Campus Illustrated, "Students, a prime target of Communists, have helped topple governments around the world. Communists are going all out to ready the U. S. for a similar fate. Most disturbing is that many student groups in the U.S. are totally unaware of the extent to which they can be victimized and exploited by the Communists who twist idealistic concepts to snare young college students who find it hard to resist fighting for a 'cause.'" —ACP Feature Service

Kickle Kickle III

A practical suggestion: The Kickler wonders why those dorm windows which had screens couldn't have kept them throughout the year? In addition to this, screens could be put on the windows not already equipped with them. The Kickler has in mind especially the men's dorms, on which the screens would serve a two-fold function of keeping water balloons inside and snowballs outside, not to mention that the burlesque shows could no longer be performed unter die Sterne. Unless the amount of money from fines levied during the year is too great to be done away, the Kickler urges the powers-that-be to 'put the screens up.'

Kickle, Kickle . . . Phippsburg is not unlike Phillipsburg . . . kickle, kickle . . .

From the Kickler to Page Hall . . . kickle, kickle: You little lovelies are wrong in three major aspects of your surmise . . . sorry, lovers, but you haven't yet put your jewel-bedecked little finger on the Kickler . . . by the way, it lives on Mount David, where it is currently doing research . . . for your wonderful interest, though, you are hereby granted the mirabile dictu, Super Gumdrop!

Kickle, Kickle . . . Friday the 13th comes on a Sunday in May

The Kickler, before its career at Bates, was in the rackets and therefore felt right at home when it wandered into the tenderloin section of the Bates campus — the book store. The Kickler feels that the power of this omnipotent establishment must be curbed and put under a management which will give greater consideration to the students than does the current administration.

Bates students are overcharged and get poor service. The Kickler paid $5.95 for a sociology book. It could have gotten at the Amherst bookstore (for instance) for $5.00. Apparently the freight charges to Lewiston are exorbitant. There are, of course, other considerations to keep in mind. The store is very inefficient. At book-buying time, the Kickler stood one-half hour to buy three books.

Of course, the college's unrealistic idea of the proper size of a bookstore is partially to blame, but also, the management of the store is at fault for not working out some sort of alphabetical system of buying and for not ordering enough books for some courses and thereby forcing some students to wait for two or three weeks while their correct their error and send for the books.

There are the Bates "used books". The Kickler cites the now famous case of Martin Gumdrop who bought a $3.50 book here new two years ago for $5.00. At the end of the year he sold it back to the store for $2.00 and saw it selling at the beginning of this year for $3.75. When one considers that books sell wholesale at least a 50% mark down in the first place, our little paperback studded palace is doing very well.

The Kickler feels that Bates students must act. Of course, because the bookstore has a monopoly, we cannot boycott, but since we are required to buy our books there, might we not ask for a statement of buying procedures and give the store our suggestions for improvement?

Certainly a large floorspace and a great augmentation in the paper back books are called for. Perhaps more students clerks might be employed to speed up service during the rush times. But most of all, the Kickler thinks that the bookstore should make available a list of the publishers' suggested retail prices for all textbooks. If these changes were to be made, it would be possible to remove the feeling of "caviat emptor" that pervades that little establishment of the gilded page.

Kickle, kickle . . . The thing is is that not all the rocks are in the cases . . . kickle, kickle . . .

Philosophy Dept. Is Expanded In Scope

By RICHARD DOW '64
Next year will see several changes in the Philosophy Department at Bates. The principal change will be the addition of two instructors, Mr. Remick and Dr. Goldat, to a department which for eighteen years was staffed by Dr. D'Alfonso alone. Mr. Remick will serve as a part-time instructor, and Dr. Goldat will teach a course entitled, "Philosophy and Science in the Twentieth Century", which will deal with the impact of science and technology upon our modern thought and action. Also, next year, the seminar program will be in the study of metaphysics, and will be an advanced course for philosophy majors and those qualified students interested in an extensive study of the science.

When asked about the future of philosophy at Bates, Professor D'Alfonso replied that it looked promising, especially when considered in light of the past. In explaining this, the Bates sage revealed that the desire of the department was ultimately to offer a full, twenty-seven-hour major. In the past, he continued, the number of courses was severely restricted by lack of manpower; it is hoped that this full major will be approached soon in the future.

Philosophy Is Two-Fold

Philosophizing for a moment about the nature of philosophy, Dr. D'Alfonso explained the function of philosophy at a liberal arts college as being two-fold: first, to provide adequate training for students doing extensive work in the subject, and second, to stimulate and focalize philosophic awareness in students of any subject of concentration.

Both the Bates faculty and the students now seem to possess

A Freshman Reflects

"It was the best of times, it was the worst of times," it was the age of wisdom, it was the age of foolishness, it was the epoch of belief, it was the epoch of incredulity, it was the spring of hope, it was the winter of despair . . . We had everything before us . . . We had nothing before us . . ."

One might think that Charles Dickens, the author of these lines was a Freshman at Bates College, and that these lines were extracted from one of his many letters of protest to the BATES STUDENT.

Well, I doubt if Dickens ever heard of Bates, much less wrote letters to its newspaper, but I have most assuredly heard of the place, and am here for a season at least, in the twilight of my Freshman year. A Freshman is a strange concoction of humanity ranging from Harry High School to Joseph P. College.

In September of his Freshman year, he unites with any organization whose desire and aim it is to . . . stamp out hazing which is inherently bad and an insult to the intelligence of college men and women . . . ; yet in May, he castigates the faculty, administration, and all other goats, scape and otherwise, for denying him the privilege of "uniting" the incoming Freshman Class, and perhaps baptizing them in the name of the College, Dorm, and Student Council.

In December, at the Christmas holidays, high schools throughout the land are invaded by eager Freshmen extolling the virtues of the schools they have been fortunate enough to attend since the greater philosophic awareness than they did in years past, he also stated. This he attributed to both an increased awareness of philosophy by the intellectual world as a whole, and by an increased intellectual curiosity on the part of the Bates students over the past years.

previous September, and urging as many as possible to hurry and make application. Yet in April, knowing glances are cast at the too, too eager close-cropped horde of subfreshmen, roaming the campus, catalogue and camera in hand.

Some of us Freshmen nearly died at that first hour examination, but by the time of the second one, we heard that we could accuse the professor and course of nuggetization, providing a built-in haven of excuse for whatever we didn't do well. This information and its adept application is a "nugget" in itself.

Later in the second semester some of us could paraphrase Commodore Perry in saying, "WE have met the cut book, and they are ours. . . ."

We have witnessed nearly six months of Angel Dust covering our campus and mount, and yet when our well-kept campus breaks forth into verdant bloom, even the most knowing Freshman admits at least to himself that it was worth the waiting.

Proctors no longer overawe us. They too must be human if they can borrow the same cigarettes that we do. We are now politicians too, concerned with such weighty subjects as Co-ed Dining, proposed student Senate, and class elections. We are also acquainted with the vagaries of COPE, the OC, the CHDC and the others of our alphabetized institutions.

As we sit on our hard chairs in our core classes, we are so self-assured; we chuckle and tell ourselves that we have weathered the gale, ascended the mount, traversed the flood of our Freshman year. And yet, deep within ourselves we are hesitant, because next year, through the good offices of the muse Academia Batesiana, we shall return here as Sophomores. But since we know it all now, next year promises to be very dull indeed!

Leaheyemen Win Initial Series Game

The Garnet Line

By WEB HARRISON

This Saturday's up and coming 63rd annual state intercollegiate track meet promises to be one of the best ever. It will be held at Bowdoin's Whittier Field, with the trials starting at 10:00 a. m. and the finals at 1:30 p. m. It certainly will be worth your while to make the short trip to Brunswick if it is at all possible.

Maine is this year's defending champion and are being picked by most people to repeat as champions again this year, with Bates a close second, Bowdoin third, and Colby a distant fourth. But, here on the Garnet campus, a second place in this meet is worth about as much as a new pair of skis to someone who has just broken his leg. After having beaten Maine in a thrilling indoor meet this winter, the Bobcats have no intention of letting the Black Bears have the title of State Champs. At least not without putting up a h— of a scrap for it.

There will be several outstanding performers competing for the trophy that goes to the outstanding athlete of the meet. Pete MacPhee, the standout sprinter from Maine, was the winner of this award last year and figures as the most probable pick again this year. He can almost be counted on to win three events. In the 100 and 220 he is just about a sure thing. If he runs the low hurdles he will probably win them and if he runs the 440 instead of the lows, there's no one around here who can beat him. Another triple winner may be Bowdoin's fine weight man, Bruce Frost, who should win the Shot, the Hammer, and the Discus.

Once again, probably the most exciting race of the day will be the mile. This is the last meeting between Pete Schuyler and Mike Kimball of Maine. Look for Pete to be at his very best for this race. The time should be in the vicinity of 4:25 if not faster. Dave Boone will also have to be at his very best but we are looking forward to his repeating as State Champ in the Broad Jump. Larry Boston should have no trouble winning the half-mile and perhaps might double in the 440. Tom Bowditch appears to be a "shoo in" in the High Jump. If Dave Johnson can manage a second place here it would help out immensely. Bob Peek will be doing his best to dethrone MacPhee in either the 100 or the 220 and knowing "Peeker", he just might do it. Baron Hicken of Maine will probably win the high hurdles and has a good chance of taking the lows, but watch for Bates' Dave Janke to give him a run for the money here.

I have been fooling around trying to figure out on paper which team is going to win this meet, but there are just so many "ifs" that an actual point by point breakdown is all but impossible. But I can say that if we get a couple of breaks and don't have any mishaps ourselves the Bobcats will once again be State Champs.

The following is a rundown of each event and the probable winners:

- SHOT — Bruce Frost, Bowdoin
- DISCUS — Bruce Frost, Bowdoin
- HAMMER — Bruce Frost, Bowdoin
- JAVELIN — A toss up between Drigotas - Bowdoin, Brown-Maine, and Bee - Colby
- BROAD JUMP — Dave Boone, Bates
- POLE VAULT — It's anybody's guess
- 120 HIGH HURDLES — Baron Hicken, Maine
- HIGH JUMP — Tom Bowditch, Bates
- MILE — Pete Schuyler, Bates
- 100 — Pete MacPhee, but watch for Paul Williams if he's well
- 220 — Pete MacPhee, but it could be Peek
- 440 — Pete MacPhee, Maine
- 880 — Larry Boston, Bates
- TWO MILE — Mike Kimball, Maine
- 220 LOWS — Baron Hicken, Maine

Bobcat of the Week honors go this week to sophomore Paul Holt who led the 'Cats to a win over series rival Colby with a three for four day at the plate. The slender Northampton, Mass., native also knocked in five rbi's as he boosted his average to .285. "Holty" in addition starred in the field as he knocked down a liner in back of second base to prevent a run from scoring. Other nominations for Bobcat of the Week include Bob Zering, Bob Peek and Jim Corey.

Holt, Vandersea Lead Garnet Past Colby; Face Bears Today

By PHIL TAMIS

The nicest day of the year, speaking of weather, could have turned into the worst day of the year, speaking of baseball. Friday afternoon, the Bates Bobcats, riding a three game winning streak, were upset by the Suffolk University nine 4-2 in a game played at Garcelon Field. Suffolk right hander Freddie Knox went the route for a six hit 4-2 triumph.

Knox had virtually all his difficulty with Ron Taylor and Freshman "Archie" Lanza. These boys accounted for 5 of the Bates hits, 3 by Lanza and 2 by Taylor. Taylor hit a bases empty home run in the second and rapped a sharp single to left in the third to drive in both the 'Cat runs.

Knox struck out eight and he walked only three in gaining the decision over freshman lefthander Ted Krzynowek, his opponent for the first six innings. The latter left with no outs in the top of the seventh and runners on second and third via an error, walk and wild pitch. At this time the game was tied 2-2. Ted Beal was brought on to pitch and was greeted by an infield tap by Knox which was scored a base hit. This broke the tie; Suffolk's 4th run came in a few minutes later on an unsuccessful fielder's choice.

Suffolk was first to score on a walk, wild pitch and a single in the second inning. However, Ron Taylor's batting efforts in the 3rd and 4th inning gave Bates their only, and a very short-lived Suffolk scored in the fourth and twice in the 7th to ice the contest.

Sweezey Hits Hard

Lee Sweezey, although hitless for the afternoon, was robbed twice on outstanding plays by the Suffolk defense. Sweezey himself had an exceptional day on defense. He made six putouts in centerfield, including one of the more difficult variety.

Saturday afternoon the Bates Bobcats rebounded with a 12-6 victory over the Colby Mules in the State Series baseball opener for both teams at Garcelon Field. Bates clobbered four Colby pitchers for 14 hits, and all 12 of their runs in the first six innings.

The big batting stars of the day were Paul Holt, who had three singles and Howie Vandersea, who had a single and a bases empty home run in the sixth. The Bobcat's runs came in spurts of 4 in the 2nd, 2 in the 3rd, 5 in the 5th and 1 in the 6th.

Dick Sirica, who pitched the last two innings for Colby, was effective in stopping the 'Cat. He struck out 5 in his brief appearance.

Thom In His Third

Thom Freeman went the route for the 'Cats, picking up his third win of the season. He had a commanding 12-2 lead going into the ninth when Colby scored four runs. The damage was done on three hits and two walks.

For Bates, everyone in the line up, except Ron Taylor, got at least one hit. Monty Woolson, besides getting two hits, was excellent in the outfield, ranging far and wide to be credited with five putouts.

Coach's Comment

In speaking with Coach Leahey after Saturday's game, he declared that he is more than (Continued on page eight)

This week saw some sparkling performances by some of the Bobcat hitters. John Lanza achieved the highest batting average on the team by boosting his average from .333 to .462. Monty Woolson became second highest batter by boosting his average from .200 to .300. Paul Holt picked his average up from .187 to .285, and in the game against Colby he knocked in 5 batters to become the team's leading R.B.I. man at 7. Bill MacNevin, John Lawler, and Ron Taylor also raised their averages, but to a lesser degree.

Cindermen Overpower Three Rivals

Peek's Double Win Paces Cats In Final Tuneup For State Meet

Peckmen Whip Engineers; Shut Out By Polar Bears

These thinclads will journey to Brunswick Saturday in quest of the State Track Championship.

By RUSS HENDERSON

Portraying depth and talent the Garnet cindermen roared into Waltham, Mass., and left a wake of destruction in their path as they romped over Brandeis, Colby and Norwich in a quadrangular track meet this Saturday. The Bobcats posted 89 points as they overwhelmed the opposition. Colby's 21 points, Brandeis' 31 and Norwich's 18 were not enough together to threaten King Bobcat.

Poor Conditions

Strong winds and a hot, humid atmosphere dampened the Garnet in their tune up for next Saturday's all important State meet. Weather conditions had a strong effect on the times and distances involved in the Garnet triumph.

Bob Peek, a power running sophomore, led the Bobcat's rampage as he captured the winner's wreath in both the one hundred yard dash and the two hundred and twenty yard dash. The only other double winner was Norwich's Al Bradley who won both the shot put and the hammer throw.

The Bobcats ran into their toughest competition in the weight events. Senior letterman Carl Peterson won the discus competition with his throw of 127 feet, 9 1/2 inches and "Chiz" Nye was in the number three spot. Dave Lougee's hammer throw earned a second place finish for the Shrewsbury, Mass., senior. Two Garnet frosh, Bob Cassidy and "Gilmore" Estabrook, wrapped up third and fourth places respectively in the javelin competition. The Garnet was shut out of only one event, the shotput.

1-2 In Broad Jump

In the other field events, the Bobcat began to show its class. Co-captain Dave Boone, hampered by the high winds, was forced to settle for a 19 foot 3 1/2 inch broad jump, that won him first place. Paul Planchon, sophomore halfback whiz, gave the Garnet the second place points. Paul's rapidly improving form has been a tremendous lift to the ailing Bobcat tracksters.

In the second jumping event, the pole vault, frosh Bob Kramer tied for second while John Olsen and Steve Barron tied for the third spot. Tom Bowditch, another freshman star, lofted to five feet ten inches but was tied by Springer of Brandeis for the winner's honors in the high jump. Dave Johnson finished in a tie for third and was immediately rushed back to the Bates campus to display his thespian abilities in Miss Schaeffer's production of John Brown's Body.

The Garnet colors were sent to the heavens as the results of the running events were compiled. Peter Schuyler, the Bobcats' edition of the Flying Dutchman, came roaring home ahead of the pack in the 440 yard dash with Daddy Lou Riviezzo a close third. Following Bob Peek across the finish line in the 220 were John Ford, Lou Riviezzo and Co-captain Dave Boone. Co-captain Larry Boston, running a bit off his normal pace, was nudged in the half mile run while teammate Pete Graves was fourth.

Sleek, prancing Finn Wilhelmsen won the two mile run while Eric Silverberg and Reid James, two real gut runners, long on that elusive quality called intestinal fortitude, wrapped up the two and three slots. In the mile run the fantastic Finner was nudged out by Brandeis' Florman. Frosh Mike Gregus, and senior strongman Reid James were in third and fourth places. In the shortest of the dashes, the blazing one hundred yarder, Dave Boone took the third place honors after Boone's winner Bob Peek's victory.

Janke Wins Again

It was a heartwarming sight to those who were fortunate enough to be at the finish of the 220 low hurdles for the race belonged to the "greying old war horse", Dave Janke, from start to finish. He came shooting out of the starting box like a runaway colt. John Olsen, a tough sophomore competitor, nailed up second for the Garnet. Paul Palmer and his senior classmate, "Choo-Choo" Charlie Moreshead, were the Bobcat pointgetters in the 120 yard high hurdles. Paul ran his way into the top spot while Charlie sewed up the fourth position for Bates.

The ailing Garnet cindermen are approaching next Saturday's state meet with apprehension and expectation. Coach Walt Slovenski has told his charges this is the do or die year for the state title. The Black Bears from Orono are strong and terrible in defending their title but from this observer's armchair, the thought of the Bates Bobcat song prevails:

"Yes, the claws will fly and the bear will die on the day of Victory.

For the Bobcat dotes on fighting . . .

And his courage is supreme, And when it comes to smiting . . .

Bears and Mules are all the same.

See you Saturday at Bowdoin's Whittier Field. The time is one p.m. and the stake is the state championship.

After being thoroughly trounced by a powerful Bowdoin team 9-0 at Brunswick, the Bates netmen rebounded last Saturday to trounce a previously undefeated Lowell Tech team 8-1. The Polar Bears, showing experience and depth, appear to be the class of the State Series. The Bowdies play a tougher schedule than the other Maine teams and this year were scheduled to meet M.I.T., Brandeis, Tufts, and Harvard. Lowell Tech had already posted wins over Clark, Nichols Junior High College, and Colby (6-3). This augurs well for the tennis team's hopes in the future.

Polar Bears Romp

None of the matches against Bowdoin were particularly close. Classy John Wyman overpowered Jim Wallach 6-1; 6-1. Confident Sam Ladd disposed of Jim Corey 6-2; 6-0. The sweep continued as Silliman bested Glanz 6-2; 6-1. The final three singles went to Bowdoin as McDonald and Tom (both sophomores) and veteran Stuart won decisively. The doubles went a little better for Bates. Wyman and Ladd won 6-2; 6-4 over Wallach and Corey. At number two doubles Silliman and Devereux triumphed 6-3; 6-4. Bowdoin completed the sweep as Tom and McDonald beat Scammel and Lloyd 6-0; 7-5.

On a cold windy Saturday the Bates netmen returned to winning ways. After losing first singles, Jim Corey rallied to pull out a marathon match with Mahoney 5-7; 10-8; 6-3 in the longest match of the season. Pete Glanz had an easier time beating Putnam 6-3; 6-1. Captain Bruce Kean (6-1; 6-2) and Tom Scammel (7-5; 6-2) quickly disposed of the number four and five men. Todd Lloyd despite an erratic second set defeated Donaghue 6-1; 2-6; 6-3.

Beebe Undefeated

The Bates team continuing to play well in doubles sweep all three. At first doubles Glanz and Kean gained a forfeit win when Lowell Tech's number one player suffered a muscle cramp. Freshman George Beebe remained undefeated as he and Scammel walked over Putnam and Luther 6-0; 6-4. Jim Dodds, another freshman, made his varsity debut a winning one as he and Al Williams took third doubles 6-3; 6-1.

With old man weather willing the tennis team will travel to Waterville Monday, will face Colby Tuesday at home, and will journey to Orono to meet the University of Maine Thursday. The team hopes to stretch their record to 6-1 with three winning efforts.

Intramural News

By RUSS HENDERSON

The action on the Garnet intramural scene was confined to three bowling league matches this week. The 29th of April although ushers in the beginning of the big ball season as Garcelon Field will soon bear witness to the interdorm softball wars. The softball world series will be played on the Monday following the big Popham Beach weekend. Let's hope the rigors of spring's most fantastic weekend doesn't affect the play of Bates' budding Babe Ruths. The word is in the air that the defending champion Rebels from Smith South have inked that unbelievable professional athletic Kibe Foyte to his '62 contract at a sizable hike in salary. Rumors are also persistent that the dandies from fraternity row, Rho Beta Phi, have been trying to entice that noted Lobster out of his self-enforced exile on the high seas. The softball league will certainly provide an exciting curtain-closer to a season of fun and sport for the intramural participants.

At Lewiston's bowling emporium, Holiday Lanes, Bates bowlers competed in three league matches. Smith South's league leading Rebels rolled true to form even though Don Cellar, their top man, was absent due to his participation in Coach Walt Slovenski's track program. The Rebels topped East Parker 913 to 858 despite Ron Winston's high-match total of 343. Dignified Dave Lougee was high man for the Rebels.

Fine Paces Losers

The Middies from Smith Middle topped the J.B. II unit by a 1117-746 count. Don Blumenthal paced the Middle attack with his torrid 349 match total. Jimmy Fine was the top gun in Bertram's losing effort. The J.B. I unit edged Al Capone and his mob from Smith North by a score of 1055 to 1013. Willy Williams, a hardnosed little veteran of the gridiron, was the top man in the match and was instrumental in turning back the refugees from the Untouchables. Johnny Cramer was the top man for the Untouchables.

Only two more weeks remain for the intramural bowlers undefeateds with South and J.B.'s three unit are deadlocked in their race for the title. It's certainly hoped that there will be no personell conflicts in the championship matches for the softball world series fall on the same date.

W. Lasher, Zering Lead Linksters In Week's Split

The Bates golf team swings into action this week with a five match schedule which includes four matches which count in the state series championship. These contests follow on the heels of a loss to Bowdoin and a win over New England College last Friday at the Brunswick Country Club. The score of the Bowdoin match was 4-3 and the score with N.E.C. was 4½-2½. This brings the season's record to 2-4 for the Garnet club which is a great improvement over last year's team which only won one match during the entire season.

The outstanding player in this last match was Captain Bob Zering who came into his own while winning his first two matches of the season. Shooting a 37 for the first nine holes, Bob won handily over his Bowdoin and N.E.C. opponents with scores of 4-2 and 7-6, respectively. Another double winner was Walt Lasher who won with scores of 2-1 and 9-7, while shooting 39 on the first nine holes and matching this with a second 39 on the back nine for a total of 78. Although Walt's score was the only score in the seventies, the rest of the team shot in the low eighties to give good team balance.

Two surprises of the year have been Lloyd Bunten and Walter Lasher, the latter holding a 5-1 individual match record for this season while the former has an even 2-2 record. Both of these men are new this year and have been doing more than their share in helping out for team honors. Lloyd didn't play regularly during the first part of the season, but he has now won a permanent berth on the team, a situation which should improve his overall record.

pleased with the hitting and 3rd base play of Freshman John "Archie" Lanza.

Coach Leahey was also quick to praise the play, both offensively and defensively, of outfielders Lee Sweezy and Monty Woolson. At mention of the four runs scored by Colby in the 9th, Coach Leahey revealed that he gave Thom Freeman instructions to just lay the ball in there. Bates was too far ahead to worry.

Coach Leahey also expressed the hope that Howie Vandersea, his long ball threat, has shaken a brief slump that saw him go 0-10 previous to Saturday's game.

Next week, Bates is on the road. They travel to Maine Wednesday and up to Colby for a clash Saturday. If the 'Cats play like they did Friday, . . . too bad, like Saturday, . . . who knows?

smash South Portland High, 81-54, on a hard but springy Garcelon Field Track, Friday. Bates won every running event except for the half mile, and accumulated some valuable weight and field event points in a good all around team effort.

Sweep 440

Don Cellar, even after pulling a muscle in his leg, won the broad jump at 20 ft. 1 in. and took a second place in the hop-step-jump event. Speedy Gerritt Binneweg turned in an excellent 52.2 sec. quarter mile to lead a Bates sweep in that event. Steve Edwards and Bill Turner took second and third places respectively. Grant Farquar won the 100 yd. dash in 10.6 sec. and took a third in the 220 yd. dash. First place in the low hurdles fell to John Olson in 21.4 sec.

The two mile run was won by Bill Dunham in 10 min., 48.5 sec. Karl Wolf took second place. Steve Barron and John Norton took first and second places in the pole vault; the winning vault was 10 ft. 6 in. Pete Heyel won the mile run in 4 min., 53.2 sec.

Third place went to Pete Parsons. The 220 yd. dash was won by Steve Edwards in 23.7 sec. Bill Evans won the high hurdles in 16.1 sec., Olson was third.

Jack Estabrook and Dan Ustick hurled the discus far enough to secure second and third places. Ustick also took a second place in the shot put, and Estabrook a second in the javelin. Freddy Stevens tied for second place with Gilmore of South Portland in the high jump and took second in the broad jump. Ken Childs finished third in the low hurdles. Mark Barry placed second in the javelin. Harry Mossman and Dave (Skeeter) Campbell placed second and third in the half mile run.

The Jayvees will face Lewiston and Edward Little High Schools in a triple meet here at Garcelon Field next Wednesday, May 9 to wind up their season. It is expected that the Bobkittens will have little trouble with either team and should easily win their last meet.
