THE CAPITOL AT WASHINGTON.

The Capitol of our nation is generally supposed to be a fine building, but few persons have an idea of it equal to its magnitude and grandeur.

The Capitol forms both the east and west; the former was designed to be the main entrance, but as the city, business and public buildings are on the other side, that is the entrance now principally used.

Entering the city on the Baltimore road, and stepping from the depot towards the south, the Capitol stands directly before you in architectural majesty.

We are now at the west door; and here let us linger for a moment, and look back upon a scene that Baron Von Humboldt pronounced one of the finest panoramic views in the world.

The amount of money expended on the Capitol has been immense, and there is likely to be no end to the expenditure for many years to come, if ever.

There are many persons who say they believe in a resurrection of the dead, but not in a resurrection of the dead.

1. The term resurrection is a Jewish term, in use before the gospel day.

2. It enables church and pastor to meet their current expenses, and removes all apprehensions in reference to arrears.

3. The church can at any time ascertain the state of its finances, whether gaining or losing.

4. Any large sums are usually easier paid in small instalments than at one time.

5. Transient persons can readily pay according to the privileges they enjoy, and where they enjoy them.

sons may be comfortably seated. The floor of the House does not extend under the galleries, and the seats are arranged in a semi-circle around the Speaker's chair.

Back in the rotunda again, the north door leads straight to the Senate Chamber, 200 feet distant, in the north wing.

The Supreme Court sits in the old Senate Chamber, refitted, which is a room 75 feet in length, semi-circular in form.

The President's, the Vice President's and the Speaker's rooms are nicely finished, richly furnished, and usually open to visitors.

6. It is a double line running from right to left, under which the "Weekly Receipts" from all the signers may be set down.

At the extreme right is a column marked "Annual Amounts," in which the several payments of each subscriber may be summed up and set down.

SECOND. Apothecaries' envelopes, No. 2, are procured in sufficient number to supply each signer with at least half a year's stock, allowing one for each Sabbath.

THIRD. Two boxes are made, eight or ten inches in length, and of proportional height and breadth, with a narrow opening in the cover to receive the offerings.

It is but a trifling matter for each contributor to the support of the gospel to enclose weekly, (or according to opportunity,) the amount due, or which he wishes to pay beforehand.

When the old and the young may come with their respective offerings, the millionaire with his "liberal contribution," and the poor widow with only "two mites," and cast them into the treasury of the Lord, and then sit down and feast, as the liberal soul only can, on the rich luxuries of the gospel of peace; contemplating the treasures, where both rich and poor do not corrupt.

The Slavery Conflict.

HUMAN SLAVERY.

ITS EFFECTS ON THE WHITE MAN.

The following just remarks are from Rev. G. Batelle, a Virginian and "conservative." They occur in a calm, well-considered address to the Constitutional Convention of Western Virginia, of which Mr. B. is a leading member.

The injuries which slavery inflicts upon our own people are manifold and obvious. It practically aims to enslave not merely another race, but our own race.

It is a source of the most pernicious influence upon the mind of the white man, and it is a source of the most pernicious influence upon the mind of the white man.

It is a source of the most pernicious influence upon the mind of the white man, and it is a source of the most pernicious influence upon the mind of the white man.

RESURRECTION OF THE DEAD. There are many persons who say they believe in a resurrection of the dead, but not in a resurrection of the dead.

THE PURITANS. The London Saturday Review thus revamps some of the old slanders upon the Puritans.

AMERICAN IDOLATERS. "Father, did you ever see an idolater?" said William Harris to his father, who had been reading aloud an account of some of the idolatrous practices of the East.

A NEW VIEW OF THE REBELLION. Up to 1861, the South had furnished seven out of the thirteen Presidents and twenty out of the eighteen terms, or forty-eight years out of the seventy-two since the adoption of the Constitution, thus leaving the Presidential office to be occupied by Northern men only twenty-four years, or just one-third of the time.

OUR CHURCHES AND THE WAR.

Last week we suggested that Quarterly Meeting funds are absolutely necessary to give vitality and efficiency to our denominational organization, especially to enable the Quarterly Meeting to accomplish its proper function in these times.

THE SLAVE POPULATION.

As the triumph of our arms advances, the rebel strongholds fall in rapid succession, and conquest follows the hearts of traitors; and as the darkness of not only of this sad year, but of many previous years is lifted, and the light of approaching day is breaking all around, we are not to stop with exultations over our own prospects.

BE LIBERAL.

Jacob covenanted to give one-tenth of all his yearly profits to the cause of religion; and this proportion became the legal rule among the Jews when the Mosaic system was fully organized.

IMMEDIATE EMANCIPATION.

THIS WOULD BE BETTER THAN A PERPETUATION OF SLAVERY. It is constantly urged that an emancipation of the slaves at this time, by our government, would be disastrous.

not get along with these amounts of help had better be held as branches instead of churches. Without giving up their favorite project of church stock, the Quarterly Meeting agreed in 1789 to raise a general fund for its own distribution.

HASTY JUDGMENT.

Prejudice is the opposite of candor, and is often a source of much evil. It takes no full, impartial view, but decides as prevailing bias or impulse may incline; hence is more likely to be wrong than right.

WORK! WORK! WORK!

Although in the country, fifty miles from the sea and fourteen from any railroad, in a small village where there is a church of another denomination, we rejoice to say, without boasting, that twenty were added to our church the past year, and that twenty or more are hopefully converted and ready to join us as soon as our beautiful lake, about two miles off, gets open.

ENGLISH OPINIONS.

The people of this country are rapidly becoming indifferent to English opinions in regard to our civil war. The Boston Daily Advertiser gives the reasons for this change in the following article: It is not a little interesting to see the rapidity with which our people are becoming unacquainted with the dependence upon English opinion.

I have a cousin, a fine fellow, who had a Bible last year, and a priest came into his house and spied it out, and put it into his pocket and walked off with it. 'Tall me,' I said, 'supposing we were to have a change here, would there be many, do you think, who would become Protestants? Molti, molti, signora; O, molti! (Many, many.) And are there many now who read the Bible? A compressed smile and a nod was the safe reply.

Zion's Herald, has the following intelligence of a revival among the different denominations in Farmington, Me. The writer says: "In the course of about two weeks past, over one hundred souls, I trust, have been converted to God in this village, and the gracious work is still progressing gloriously; all denominations are sharing in the gracious work; union meetings are held alternately in the Methodist and Congregational houses daily. The converts are principally among the youth, yet there are a goodly number among those of riper years.

THE CHURCH IN HAVERHILL, MASS.

It appears from a statement in the Star of the 18th inst., by Bro. J. S. Burgess, that there is now an encouraging prospect of saving our church in Haverhill, by paying the debt on their house of worship; and thus, we trust, our cause will be made permanent in that beautiful town.

The Rev. R. Cordley, pastor of the Congregational church in Lawrence, Kansas, writes to the Congregationalist that the self-emancipated bondmen of Missouri are coming in increasing numbers, and that two or three hundred appear to have taken up their permanent abode in Lawrence.

The latest advices from Port Royal state that the teachers taken out by the Atlantic were to proceed to Beaufort, and there establish a school for the contrabands, who are rapidly increasing in numbers.

Mr. Magoffin still sketches. Gov. Magoffin has vetoed a bill, which passed the Legislature of Kentucky, requiring all ministers, before they were qualified to perform the marriage ceremony, to take an oath to support the Constitution of the United States.

THE NEWBORN IN HAVERHILL, MASS.

On the 20th, the rebels were reported to be leaving Fredericksburg, and retreating upon Richmond. The Boston Journal says, "There can be no harm in stating what is well known in Washington and to the rebels, that a large force from the army of the Potomac has been embarked upon steamers and is probably on its way down the river."

Important Orders of the President. Three important war orders of the President have been published. The first dated January 27, orders a general movement of the Federal land and sea forces against the insurgents on the 22d of February.

General Intelligence. MARCH 17. Senate. Mr. Lane of Kansas offered a resolution that the Committee on Territories inquire into the expediency of so altering the boundaries of Kansas as to include the Indian Territory.

Various Paragraphs. The New York correspondent of the Philadelphia Press says that "an arrangement is nearly completed for holding Union Army prayer meetings in various churches in New York."

THE NEWBORN IN HAVERHILL, MASS.

On the 20th, the rebels were reported to be leaving Fredericksburg, and retreating upon Richmond. The Boston Journal says, "There can be no harm in stating what is well known in Washington and to the rebels, that a large force from the army of the Potomac has been embarked upon steamers and is probably on its way down the river."

Despatches from flag officer Dupont, announcing that the flag of the Union floats over Fort Marion, at St. Augustine, Florida. The town was surrendered without fighting, the town authorities receiving Commander Rodgers in the town hall, and after being assured that he would protect the loyal citizens.

Porter's mortar fleet sailed from Key West on the 7th, supposed to be destined for New Orleans. The GREAT BATTLE. The three days' fight in the Ozark Mountain, in Arkansas, is undoubtedly the greatest battle of the war.
