PRIZE ESSAY—AGAIN.

The R. I. Quarterly Meeting has concluded again to throw the matter of a Prize Essay on the Support of the Ministry in the Free-Will Baptist denomination, open for further competition.

1. The name of the authors of the Essays presented for competition shall not accompany their productions; but each shall be enclosed in a separate sealed envelope, not to be opened until after the award is made.

2. The successful Essay must contain at least twenty and not more than forty octavo pages. PER ORDER.

THE THIRD CHURCH IN PROVIDENCE.—We insert in another column an appeal in behalf of this church, addressed more particularly to churches of the Rhode Island Q. Meeting, which have not already taken up collections for its aid.

OUR REPORT OF THE SPEECH OF HENRY WARD BEECHER is a very imperfect one. We found him a hard subject to follow.

His venerable father, every time we could look up during the speech, seemed shaking all over with delight, and so in fact were all the audience. We laughed as hard as we could, and wrote as fast as we could, and have done the best we could to furnish to the readers of the Star an idea of the best speech we ever heard on the Maine Law.

KENNEBEC YEARLY MEETING.

The Kennebec Yearly Meeting was held lately in Augusta. The meeting was something new to the people of our city. We looked forward to it with much anxiety, and it has come and gone. That it has left a good and lasting impression on the minds of many, we must believe without a doubt.

BOWDOIN QUARTERLY MEETING.

A good season was enjoyed at the last session of the Bowdoin Q. M. held on Bowdoinham Ridge. Revivals were reported from several churches. Brethren Tufts, Phinney, Messer, Fernald, Burgess and Stevens preached the word in the spirit.

and the vote unanimous. The Conference also voted unanimously to recommend him to attend our Biblical School at New Hampton—an example worthy to be followed by our Quarterly Meetings.

CATHOLICS IN LOWELL.

We have had much excitement of late in Lowell, on the Catholic question. Many of our citizens have opened their eyes to a fact which they have been slow to admit, that our Catholic citizens are more of Papists than of Republicans.

By the Maine Law it had become more emphatically than ever before the cause of the whole people. It was not now in the hands of clergymen, lawyers, nor men of any other profession, calling, condition, or station, high or low.

MASSACHUSETTS STATE TEMPERANCE CONVENTION.

A speech was then made by Rev. H. W. Beecher. It was not possible for any great enterprise, involving so many principles, to present an even and unbroken front.

THE TEMPERANCE CAUSE.

Many thoughts on the temperance cause, as it was now on foot—or on being—was a phantasmagoria, and had now an amount of truth which it could not carry, while others were for crowding on the canvas.

THE TEMPERANCE CAUSE.

There had been a time when it was dangerous to say that it was a moral wrong to make a constant use of ardent spirits. There was a stage in the progress of the cause, where it was not exactly drunkenness itself that was condemned, but it was a qualitative drunkenness that was allowed to be wrong—or wrong to drink.

There was a stage in the progress of the cause, where it was not exactly drunkenness itself that was condemned, but it was a qualitative drunkenness that was allowed to be wrong—or wrong to drink.

This was the root principle of the law. It was a poison of the very first quality, against the sale of which the community had as good a right to protect itself as against the ravages of a roving lion.

Poetry.

For the Morning Star. THE TEMPEST ON GALLIE. BY J. W. BARBER. "And behold, as they sailed, he fell asleep, and there came down a great storm of wind on the lake."

to be in all futurity, must be ascribed, under Providence, to the precepts and example of my mother. The following very interesting testimony of Rev. Richard Kim is quoted at length: "I have a vivid recollection of the effect of maternal influences. My honored mother was a religious woman, and she watched over, and instructed me as pious mothers are accustomed to do."

with justice to the master, safety to the State, and comfort and convenience to the laboring population now in it. We desire it because it has been a source of the greatest benefit to Virginia to become a State, improving its inhabitants, reducing its population, and staying the development of the vast natural resources that would have been a curse to the State had it been any other State in the Union. When Southern men begin to talk in this way, there is hope.

THE SLAVEHOLDERS' ASSAULT ON MR. SUMNER.—MR. SUMNER'S SPEECH. WASHINGTON, Wednesday, June 28. Senate.—Mr. Pettit said that on Monday, in debate, he had referred to Mr. Sumner's open avowal of his obligations to the Constitution and to his oath to support it in no very complimentary terms. In the official report of that debate, that Senator was represented as having said as follows: "I said I regarded no obligation in the Constitution to bind me to maintain a man to slavery."

Myself, let him return to his own State, and first declare the Senator from South Carolina, in a sublime ecstasy of slavery, burst forth in a tirade of abuse, and at the time she was illustrated by Otis, Hancock, and Adams, was a slaveholding State, and he hailed these patriots as representatives of slaveholding Massachusetts. Sir, I repeat the imputation. It is true that Massachusetts was hardy, but she was not in any just sense slaveholding. For slaves were still found within her borders, but as early as 1780 one of her Courts actually anticipating the decision in the Somerset case, established within its jurisdiction the principle of freedom.

It was said by one of the philosophers of antiquity, that the "blush is a sign of virtue"; and permit me to add that the sensibility which Mr. Sumner displays at a just term which truly characterizes an odious person, is kindred to a blush, which even the plantation masters of the South could not conceal. And the Senator from South Carolina also betrayed his sensibility; and here let me say that this Senator knows well that I always listen with pleasure to his rich, exuberant speech, as it gurgles forth, so often tinged by generous indignation, except when, in defiance of common sense, he attempts to defend that which is obviously indefensible.

Deparied this life April 6th, 1854, at the age of 64 years. He was a member of the P. B. Church in Wayne, and his wife, who was a Christian, was a member of the same church. He was a devoted husband and father, and his death was a great loss to his family. He was a man of high character and great ability, and his services to his country were many and noble.
