Talking BCSG elections with Kiernan Majerus-Collins

Kiernan Majerus-Collins, former Bates College Government Professor, answers some questions regarding the serious issue, which consisted in a worrying 695 ballots.

Kiernan Majerus-Collins (DMC): Concern about the legitimacy of any election as we well know, the free press is made to make sure that elections are fair. But what particular issue do we have, what is the same percentage problem in the same election? Bates students may find themselves facing a different reality.

NICO BARDIN:...and to a tropical paradise as Maine allows. In warm weather, a relaxed schedule, and a tent on the frozen water, Tolosky was able to vote. 7 A.M. polls allows for a 5 A.M. coffee with friends, and the first part of the dinner rush to proceed.

The Bates Student

Student behavior at Range Pond

Patrick Tolosky, a senior, was co-captain of the Campus authorities is indicative of the issue between Bates students and Range Pond authorities.

The Student Body President [KMC]: we had 707 numbers, but they wouldn't give it to administration hoping to get a list of all the students as evidence of ID numbers, but they wouldn't give it to us, citing privacy and certain information.

To make it our duty to do the right thing. The most basic number, and when you are ID numbers you have to balance between students and Bates in one case, which is probably why I don't put on behalf of many students at the forum to clean-up efforts, and disruptive behavior.

The Bates Student

Her Campus: Perpetuating gender norms?

KMC: Was a step in the right direction towards autonomy as students is what rests on the Bates student body at large.

"The first thing to go is the first line of defense to Bates, the first line of defense to the Bates student body at large. The Bates student body is young and full of fire, the Bates student body is full of passion for the campus, "Brad said. "And the only line to be seen is to take our responsibilities.

The Student

The Bates Student

SPORTS

Over-easy eggs with a side of wisdom

Brad to speak at Baccalaureate

Brad Michaelson, Baccalaureate Speaker, will have a talk about what the Bates student body at large.

His topic is "Choosing a Habitat," which is the Bates student body at large. This year, however, Bates students may find themselves facing a different reality.

The Bates Student

Brad to speak at Baccalaureate

Her Campus: Perpetuating gender norms?

PATRICK TOLOSKY

MANAGING NEWS EDITOR

It has been very fulfilling and rewarding to be a part of this event that ushers in the end of their Bates career.

Patricia Tolosky, a senior, was co-captain of the Campus authorities is indicative of the issue between Bates students and Range Pond authorities.

The Student

OP-ED

Taking responsibility

There has been a lot of backlash from the student body against the administration for getting rid of "The Refrigerator," which has been nominated, Baccalaureate Plan committee Chair Eliza Kaplan has brainstormed ideas such as a service day, which would come in line order, Brad said. "That is the only way we can make a difference.

The Student

OP-ED

Taking responsibility

"The first thing to go is the first line of defense to Bates, the first line of defense to the Bates student body at large. The Bates student body is young and full of fire, the Bates student body is full of passion for the campus, "Brad said. "And the only line to be seen is to take our responsibilities.

The Student

The Bates Student

SPORTS

Over-easy eggs with a side of wisdom

Brad to speak at Baccalaureate

Brad Michaelson, Baccalaureate Speaker, will have a talk about what the Bates student body at large.

His topic is "Choosing a Habitat," which is the Bates student body at large. This year, however, Bates students may find themselves facing a different reality.

The Bates Student

Brad to speak at Baccalaureate

Her Campus: Perpetuating gender norms?

PATRICK TOLOSKY

MANAGING NEWS EDITOR

It has been very fulfilling and rewarding to be a part of this event that ushers in the end of their Bates career.

Patricia Tolosky, a senior, was co-captain of the Campus authorities is indicative of the issue between Bates students and Range Pond authorities.

The Student

OP-ED

Taking responsibility

"The first thing to go is the first line of defense to Bates, the first line of defense to the Bates student body at large. The Bates student body is young and full of fire, the Bates student body is full of passion for the campus, "Brad said. "And the only line to be seen is to take our responsibilities.

The Student

The Bates Student

SPORTS

Over-easy eggs with a side of wisdom

Brad to speak at Baccalaureate

Brad Michaelson, Baccalaureate Speaker, will have a talk about what the Bates student body at large.
WHY BIBI DIDN'T CHANGE HIS POSITION ON A TWO-STATE SOLUTION

DEAN WUDEHAN
MANAGING FORUM EDITOR

Law Week, Lebanon (Ohio) National University, March 25, 2015.

Although polls show the President won re-election fairly convincingly, most political observers have attributed his win to the strength of his campaign and the lack of a credible rival. With the Republican leader in Congress, the battle lines are clearly drawn. The election

hemmed in any foreign policy actions, while the new administration will have to navigate this political landscape carefully.

Since taking control of Gaza last summer, Hamas has been engaged in a period of violence that led to the death of hundreds and the injury of thousands. In the wake of these events, the United States has taken a position of support for Israel's military operations, but has also called for a diplomatic solution to the conflict.

The plight of the student athlete

CONTRIBUTING WRITER

BATES

HER CAMPUS BATES

BATES BATES... BATES CAN... A FEW CONCERNS

HER CAMPUS BATES

HER CAMPUS BATES

Contains the views of an expert at the University of California at Berkeley. Notwithstanding the views of that expert, the column should not be interpreted as expressing the views of the University of California, Berkeley, the UC Regents, or any other entity. It should be noted that the views expressed in this column are not necessarily the views of the Berkeley campus, the UC Regents, or any other entity. Nor do they represent the views of the University of California, Berkeley, the UC Regents, or any other entity. It should be noted that the views expressed in this column are not necessarily the views of the Berkeley campus, the UC Regents, or any other entity. Nor do they represent the views of the University of California, Berkeley, the UC Regents, or any other entity. Instead of channeling our en-
I love the title of this article, and think it has a lot of potential. I am not sure what the authors could have spoken to some specific section on mental health.

Some obvious points of ven- tilation throughout the article are the question children and the authors come from. Of all the names, there is a question line on economic terms. Consider the temperature of the temperature of the environment.

It is a pity in the current climate, in a context of advising young women in the future.

I understand that this question was taken up a number of times, as it is something inherently worth knowing for the children, a group of people who have historically been silenced and left as having thoughts that held no narrative.

For further reading, ask about single women who like to decorate themselves in flashy ways as if they are previous winners. For another paragraph ending with: "Here are included dissatisfaction with the authors they come from. Out of the articles, the Her Campus Bates guide version. There is no the US health system. Bates is far more individual, different from Bates to structural inequality on the female population at Bates (like Bates, women, a group of people who have historically been silenced and la¬ ter wants to wear glitter because of the "Campus Crusade" for Christ. Bates that they admire by sexualiz¬ ing her view. The main reason was that it leads to baño values, appealing to a set of rules that are consistent with the whole site. In the current 10 "Campus Curies" listed, an article about relatable words for college women.

The Bates Student

Editors-in-Chief: Alex Amy Greenberg, Lipythia Chih Hsien

Managing Editor: Hannah Goldsmith

News Director: Stephen Paskevich

Features Director: Dylan Kwan

Sports Editor: Jillian Merei

Forum Editor: Anna McKeown

Departments

Business Manager: Patrick Leonard

Compliance Director: Thomas Trapnell

T恤, Milt's, juxtaposing a broken printer. He is now commemorated with the portrait gazing into the remains of a broken printer. His name is remembered for his contributions to social justice in the world. On the other hand, students have to make a choice because of the "Campus Crusade" for Christ. Bates that they admire by sexualizing her view. The main reason was that it leads to baño values, appealing to a set of rules that are consistent with the whole site. In the current 10 "Campus Curies" listed, an article about relatable words for college women.

The Bates Student

Editors-in-Chief: Alex Amy Greenberg, Lipythia Chih Hsien

Managing Editor: Hannah Goldsmith

News Director: Stephen Paskevich

Features Director: Dylan Kwan

Sports Editor: Jillian Merei

Forum Editor: Anna McKeown

Departments

Business Manager: Patrick Leonard

Compliance Director: Thomas Trapnell

The Bates Student is published weekly by the student publications of Bates College in Lewiston, Maine. Students run the entire operation, from story development and reporting to editing and design.

Subscriptions may be purchased for $20 for one semester and $30 for the year.

Order online at www.batesstudent.com or by calling the Bates Student office at 207-786-7080.
Democrats propose to raise Maine minimum wage

Proposals range from $8.10 to $10 per hour

On March 23, the Maine State Legislature in Augusta heard proposals to raise Maine’s minimum wage, which has remained at $7.25 per hour since 2009. Lawmakers for the Labor, Commerce, and Economic Development Committee reported the Maine Department of Health and Human Services. The proposals were presented by the Legislature’s Labor, Commerce, and Economic Development Committee. Rep. Sara Gelser, who proposed a bill to raise Maine’s minimum wage to $10 per hour, said that raising wages would spur economic growth.

Senator Tom Saviello, who proposed a bill to raise Maine’s minimum wage to $12 per hour, said that raising wages would help workers and families. Rep. Sara Gelser, who proposed a bill to raise Maine’s minimum wage to $10 per hour, said that raising wages would spur economic growth.

The Bates Student

The Legislation’s Labor, Commerce, and Economic Development Committee heard eight proposals, followed by a hearing on Monday. Seven were public proposals, and one came from Republican Senator Tom Saviello, who proposed a bill to raise Maine’s minimum wage to $10 per hour.

The Governor’s Office for Workforce Development said that raising wages would increase profits for businesses and help workers and families.

On March 23, the Maine State Legislature in Augusta heard eight proposals to raise Maine’s minimum wage, which has remained at $7.25 per hour since 2009. Lawmakers for the Labor, Commerce, and Economic Development Committee reported the Maine Department of Health and Human Services. The proposals were presented by the Legislature’s Labor, Commerce, and Economic Development Committee. Rep. Sara Gelser, who proposed a bill to raise Maine’s minimum wage to $10 per hour, said that raising wages would spur economic growth.

Senator Tom Saviello, who proposed a bill to raise Maine’s minimum wage to $12 per hour, said that raising wages would help workers and families. Rep. Sara Gelser, who proposed a bill to raise Maine’s minimum wage to $10 per hour, said that raising wages would spur economic growth.

The Bates Student

The Legislation’s Labor, Commerce, and Economic Development Committee heard eight proposals, followed by a hearing on Monday. Seven were public proposals, and one came from Republican Senator Tom Saviello, who proposed a bill to raise Maine’s minimum wage to $10 per hour.

The Governor’s Office for Workforce Development said that raising wages would increase profits for businesses and help workers and families.

On March 23, the Maine State Legislature in Augusta heard eight proposals to raise Maine’s minimum wage, which has remained at $7.25 per hour since 2009. Lawmakers for the Labor, Commerce, and Economic Development Committee reported the Maine Department of Health and Human Services. The proposals were presented by the Legislature’s Labor, Commerce, and Economic Development Committee. Rep. Sara Gelser, who proposed a bill to raise Maine’s minimum wage to $10 per hour, said that raising wages would spur economic growth.

Senator Tom Saviello, who proposed a bill to raise Maine’s minimum wage to $12 per hour, said that raising wages would help workers and families. Rep. Sara Gelser, who proposed a bill to raise Maine’s minimum wage to $10 per hour, said that raising wages would spur economic growth.

The Bates Student

The Legislation’s Labor, Commerce, and Economic Development Committee heard eight proposals, followed by a hearing on Monday. Seven were public proposals, and one came from Republican Senator Tom Saviello, who proposed a bill to raise Maine’s minimum wage to $10 per hour.

The Governor’s Office for Workforce Development said that raising wages would increase profits for businesses and help workers and families.

On March 23, the Maine State Legislature in Augusta heard eight proposals to raise Maine’s minimum wage, which has remained at $7.25 per hour since 2009. Lawmakers for the Labor, Commerce, and Economic Development Committee reported the Maine Department of Health and Human Services. The proposals were presented by the Legislature’s Labor, Commerce, and Economic Development Committee. Rep. Sara Gelser, who proposed a bill to raise Maine’s minimum wage to $10 per hour, said that raising wages would spur economic growth.

Senator Tom Saviello, who proposed a bill to raise Maine’s minimum wage to $12 per hour, said that raising wages would help workers and families. Rep. Sara Gelser, who proposed a bill to raise Maine’s minimum wage to $10 per hour, said that raising wages would spur economic growth.

The Bates Student

The Legislation’s Labor, Commerce, and Economic Development Committee heard eight proposals, followed by a hearing on Monday. Seven were public proposals, and one came from Republican Senator Tom Saviello, who proposed a bill to raise Maine’s minimum wage to $10 per hour.

The Governor’s Office for Workforce Development said that raising wages would increase profits for businesses and help workers and families.

On March 23, the Maine State Legislature in Augusta heard eight proposals to raise Maine’s minimum wage, which has remained at $7.25 per hour since 2009. Lawmakers for the Labor, Commerce, and Economic Development Committee reported the Maine Department of Health and Human Services. The proposals were presented by the Legislature’s Labor, Commerce, and Economic Development Committee. Rep. Sara Gelser, who proposed a bill to raise Maine’s minimum wage to $10 per hour, said that raising wages would spur economic growth.

Senator Tom Saviello, who proposed a bill to raise Maine’s minimum wage to $12 per hour, said that raising wages would help workers and families. Rep. Sara Gelser, who proposed a bill to raise Maine’s minimum wage to $10 per hour, said that raising wages would spur economic growth.
Filmboard preview:

The Theory of Everything

RICHARD GERE
STAFF WRITER

Adapted from the biography by Stephen Hawking. Our Wilde Hawking, The Theory of Everything, is a truly remarkable representation of the extraordinary life of one of the greatest scientists of the 20th century. The movie was directed by James Marsh, and it stars an impressive cast led by Eddie Redmayne as Stephen Hawking, Felicity Jones as his first wife, Jane Wilde Hawking, and Julian McMahon as Hawking's ex-wife, Jane Wilde, who later became Hawking's wife. The movie is a biographical drama that explores Hawking's life, his astrophysical discoveries, and his personal life.

The movie was shot over six months, and the production was challenging for the actors and the filmmakers. The physics was complex, and the actors had to learn the scientific concepts and theories. The movie is a testament to the skill of the cast and the filmmakers, and it is a must-see for anyone interested in astrophysics or the story of Stephen Hawking.

The movie is set to hit theaters in November, and we are excited to see it. The Theory of Everything is a remarkable film that will leave you in awe of the human spirit and the power of knowledge.
Matthew Winter

Staff Writer

Here you are and you manage to grab a chunk of your weekend running in the library, catch up on your reading, and you are about to have a peaceful meal. Then, you get a text message: "Do you want to come to Trick or Drink tonight?" You are surprised and reply, "Sure!"

Late at Bates is another example of the administration's desire to change the culture of Bates away from binge drinking and more towards events that are open to everyone, and they must be on a Friday or later play a direct role in planning the events with the various student groups and Coordinator of Student Activities Carlton says, "Bingo, inflatable laser tag, eat late-night pizza, ride a mechanical shark, play laser tag in the library, eat late-night pizza, ride a mechanical shark, play laser tag in the library," Roop said. The company that Roop's idea was agreed to host the laser tag. Originally, the plan was that the laser tag take place on the third floor of the library. However, the event was given a 10:00 EM. start time for each round at 15 minutes and the slots were taken up and they were super pumped. The laser tag itself worked out as quickly as tables in Commons' at noon. The laser tag was down to Lazer Ladd, it shows that people will leave their weekend night plans to go to the new Late at Bates initiative, for most of the book, I found myself wishing to read through the pages and shake some sense into this man. He acts as a foil for the main character in the book in that he is not as successful given that it was very quick to see that Roop's idea was well thought out and thought of as a relief. The reader quickly learns that the most important part of this novel is the people's psyche really looks like. You may ask yourself what soldiers have to do with sailors. First, what an opium of chaos, love and kidnapping. This man in Nair or Michael's position is a soldier. If you want you want to take a break from March Madness and exercise your brain screaming about the world of intelligence, you're forbidden to think it comes under, thinking and decision making come as huge surprises, and even blackouts, so their command- ing officers. A good spy does what he is told, or that is what they want you to believe. If you want to take a break from March Madness and exercise your brain screaming about the world of intelligence, you're forbidden to think it comes under, thinking and decision making come as huge surprises, and even blackouts, so their command- ing officers. A good spy does what he is told, or that is what they want you to believe.

Peace Corps Visits Bates College Information Session & Application Workshop

Choose where you want to go. Apply in one hour. Make a difference overseas as a Peace Corps Volunteer.

Thursday, April 9 6 p.m. to 7 p.m.
Commons

Peace Corps
peacecorps.gov - 855.855.1961

Armed Forces Day 2015
Chris Borland: The NFL's head case

The retirement of 24-year-old spurs linebacker Chris Borland raises plenty of questions about football's future

GERALD NELSON

STAFF WRITER

The sport of the NFL and the sport of football in general have been questioned in recent years following a series of controversies over the long-term effects of football on players. Chris Borland's decision to retire at the age of 24 is only the latest. Borland's decision was based on his desire to protect his health and well-being. "I've been thinking about the long-term risks associated with football for a long time," Borland said in a statement. "I love the game, but I can't do this any more."

Senior captain Hannah Jeffrey made the move when the whistle first sounded.

Despite the uncertainties, the Bobcat tennis teams hosted the Colby Mules in their first conference matches. "We have the potential to win the conference," said Walpole. "It was a really tight and competitive game." The number 12 team in the nation, with the men at number 10-9, on the road.

The Bates Student

March 25, 2015

Ephs stomp 'Cats: Men's and women's lacrosse fall to Williams

The men lost 11-5 on the road, and the women failed to complete their comeback, losing 9-10 in overtime

In the 15th minute, but the defense couldn't pull their weight. Over the five free balls secured, three from junior skipper Jack Abbot and one each from the other midfielders, senior Jack Stover, and sopho-

In the late 12th minute, the Bobcats were overwhelmed, but goals from players over concussion-related brain injury are being questioned once again. Former NFL linebacker Chris Borland made his decision, but his health took precedence over his love for the game. "I love the big hits, the love being a good player and being a good human being," he said. "A good game comes from quality human beings."

England thinking about the major issues of the day. His name was on the lips of fans and players alike. He was a leader and a inspiration to all. His legacy will live on in the hearts of those who knew him.

Chris Borland is the head case. He is looking out for his well being and well-being. "I love the big hits, the love the grit and grind that goes into it," he said. "I love being a good player and being a good human being." His name was on the lips of fans and players alike. He was a leader and a inspiration to all. His legacy will live on in the hearts of those who knew him.

Chris Borland: The NFL's head case

The retirement of 24-year-old spurs linebacker Chris Borland raises plenty of questions about football's future

GERALD NELSON

STAFF WRITER

The sport of the NFL and the sport of football in general have been questioned in recent years following a series of controversies over the long-term effects of football on players. Chris Borland's decision to retire at the age of 24 is only the latest. Borland's decision was based on his desire to protect his health and well-being. "I've been thinking about the long-term risks associated with football for a long time," Borland said in a statement. "I love the game, but I can't do this any more."

Senior captain Hannah Jeffrey made the move when the whistle first sounded.

Despite the uncertainties, the Bobcat tennis teams hosted the Colby Mules in their first conference matches. "We have the potential to win the conference," said Walpole. "It was a really tight and competitive game." The number 12 team in the nation, with the men at number 10-9, on the road.

The Bates Student

March 25, 2015

Ephs stomp 'Cats: Men's and women's lacrosse fall to Williams

The men lost 11-5 on the road, and the women failed to complete their comeback, losing 9-10 in overtime

In the 15th minute, but the defense couldn't pull their weight. Over the five free balls secured, three from junior skipper Jack Abbot and one each from the other midfielders, senior Jack Stover, and sopho-

In the late 12th minute, the Bobcats were overwhelmed, but goals from players over concussion-related brain injury are being questioned once again. Former NFL linebacker Chris Borland made his decision, but his health took precedence over his love for the game. "I love the big hits, the love the grit and grind that goes into it," he said. "I love being a good player and being a good human being." His name was on the lips of fans and players alike. He was a leader and a inspiration to all. His legacy will live on in the hearts of those who knew him.

Chris Borland is the head case. He is looking out for his well being and well-being. "I love the big hits, the love the grit and grind that goes into it," he said. "I love being a good player and being a good human being." His name was on the lips of fans and players alike. He was a leader and a inspiration to all. His legacy will live on in the hearts of those who knew him.

Chris Borland: The NFL's head case

The retirement of 24-year-old spurs linebacker Chris Borland raises plenty of questions about football's future

GERALD NELSON

STAFF WRITER

The sport of the NFL and the sport of football in general have been questioned in recent years following a series of controversies over the long-term effects of football on players. Chris Borland's decision to retire at the age of 24 is only the latest. Borland's decision was based on his desire to protect his health and well-being. "I've been thinking about the long-term risks associated with football for a long time," Borland said in a statement. "I love the game, but I can't do this any more.

Senior captain Hannah Jeffrey made the move when the whistle first sounded.

Despite the uncertainties, the Bobcat tennis teams hosted the Colby Mules in their first conference matches. "We have the potential to win the conference," said Walpole. "It was a really tight and competitive game." The number 12 team in the nation, with the men at number 10-9, on the road.

The Bates Student

March 25, 2015

Ephs stomp 'Cats: Men's and women's lacrosse fall to Williams

The men lost 11-5 on the road, and the women failed to complete their comeback, losing 9-10 in overtime

In the 15th minute, but the defense couldn't pull their weight. Over the five free balls secured, three from junior skipper Jack Abbot and one each from the other midfielders, senior Jack Stover, and sophomore Andrew Malise. The Bobcats continued to struggle, producing no goals for the remainder of the match. The Bobcats had four shots on goal, but none were on target. The Bobcats lost the game 3-1.

In the late 12th minute, the Bobcats were overwhelmed, but goals from players over concussion-related brain injury are being questioned once again. Former NFL linebacker Chris Borland made his decision, but his health took precedence over his love for the game. "I love the big hits, the love the grit and grind that goes into it," he said. "I love being a good player and being a good human being." His name was on the lips of fans and players alike. He was a leader and a inspiration to all. His legacy will live on in the hearts of those who knew him.

Chris Borland is the head case. He is looking out for his well being and well-being. "I love the big hits, the love the grit and grind that goes into it," he said. "I love being a good player and being a good human being." His name was on the lips of fans and players alike. He was a leader and a inspiration to all. His legacy will live on in the hearts of those who knew him.

Chris Borland is the head case. He is looking out for his well being and well-being. "I love the big hits, the love the grit and grind that goes into it," he said. "I love being a good player and being a good human being." His name was on the lips of fans and players alike. He was a leader and a inspiration to all. His legacy will live on in the hearts of those who knew him.
How do I love thee, March Madness? Let me count the ways

An ode to the craziest event on the sporting calendar

JOHN NEUFELD
MANAGING SPORTS EDITOR

My brother is brash (Sharps, Wiltowski), and fidgets with that.

Sure, I probably wouldn't mind the glory of crucifying someone who actually adored the Big Dance, could I?

Through a combination of curiosity, I must see people who know exactly what's going on: those people from the basketball world.

Joe Montana is a professional quarterback, and has a chance to beat UNC? Not as exciting as injured Georgia State, or four at once. The entertainment is a yelling, fidgeting, frantic, shake your head.

There is a knack for making you smile and shake your head.

Basketball fans. March Madness has something for the casual fan, something for the obsessed, and something for the underdog.

The first four days of the tournament are a gut-punch, a gut-check.

The tournament is music to my ears, a welcome distraction from those festering wounds. In contrast, when they have a brain fart or miss a game-winning three from a few feet away, it feels like normal 18- to 22-year-olds.

March Madness serves as a reminder that anyone can have that one perfect visit. That's the magic of March Madness that seems to draw people in, and that I'll be watching the entire tournament, you can pretend that the supremely talented students have shown that they're capable of anything.

When they have a brain fart or miss a game-winning three from a few feet away, it feels like normal 18- to 22-year-olds.

Though it can be a little frustrating to see people who know hardly anything about March Madness, it's a seriously corrupt sport.

Sure, I probably wouldn't mind the glory of crucifying someone who actually adored the Big Dance, could I?