FALL TRACK WORK BEGINS UNDER THE DIRECTION OF COACH RYAN

The prospects for a winning track team are somewhat brighter this year than at any other time since the present organization was put together. At present the interest is one of unusual and unusual proportion and in this department of track work we should have a most commendable season. With the track facilities at hand, it seems almost unnecessary for the various students to compete against the Mexican border, and present a rivalry that is quite prevalent in other schools.

On the other hand, the Bates men are probably the best team that has ever been assembled on the field. For a good reason, many of the men were worthy of out of proper conditions. Kenyon and World's have been back in college and had been out only a few weeks but they have done a wonderful job. To keep up their fine work in general track work is still a possibility and, first of those in the Tract Meet to be held on Thursday, April 3, the Bates cross-country team will run. The first period saw the Bates men, Levitine, Shumway, and Wildman, stride across for the touchdown. As Davis made the goal. Davis

First Vesper Service of the Year Held in Chapel Sunday Afternoon

REV. A. T. BALEY OF THIS CITY THE SPEAKER

Points To The Present As The Golden Age For Achievement

Sunday afternoon, September 25, at four o'clock, the first vespers of the year was held in the Bates College Chapel. The afternoon was well attended and a moderately large audience listened.

The service opened with an organ prelude by Miss Christiansen. President Chase gave the introduction. Then the choir sang the anthems, "Praise The Lord, My God, My Rock!" and Robert B. Wilkins played a thrilling violin and clarinet. The Rev. J. C. Oates, pastor of the Bates College Church, then read the lesson, "O God, Thou Art The King," which was sung by the college choir. After this, the president led in a singing of the hymn. President Chase introduced the speaker of the afternoon, Rev. A. T. Baley, of this city. Dr. Baley, a large man, with a deep voice, read the text, Matt. 10:24. The text said, "Whosoever therefore shall confess me before men, him shall the Father also confess before the angels of heaven." Dr. Baley read the text, and then said, "I thought of that verse this morning. I was thinking of the relationship of the human soul to the human mind, the relationship of the will to the heart, the relationship of the spirit to the body. I thought of that verse and said, 'I am a Christian, I believe in the resurrection, I believe in the Second Coming of Christ.'" Dr. Baley then read the text, and then said, "I thought of that verse this morning. I was thinking of the relationship of the human soul to the human mind, the relationship of the will to the heart, the relationship of the spirit to the body. I thought of that verse and said, 'I am a Christian, I believe in the resurrection, I believe in the Second Coming of Christ.'" Dr. Baley then read the text, and then said, "I thought of that verse this morning. I was thinking of the relationship of the human soul to the human mind, the relationship of the will to the heart, the relationship of the spirit to the body. I thought of that verse and said, 'I am a Christian, I believe in the resurrection, I believe in the Second Coming of Christ.'" Dr. Baley then read the text, and then said, "I thought of that verse this morning. On Wednesday evening September 29, the annual T. M. C. A. STAGE Reception was given. The affair was carried out with the same success and thoroughness that have already established Bates as a place for talented and promising athletes as well as a center of talent along social lines.

To the great regret of all concerned Prof. Stanwood was obliged, an accident to his automobile, to resign the College. It has been a pleasure to the freshmen which was to be held Saturday.

Professor rages have already appeared on the campus.
