Now that the Mid-year are safely past behind us, there has been a great change in the usual winter tides of society. Presumably the usual coarseness of this season should be almost entirely absent. Of course, many of us missed some of the usual festivities of the season. But, be that as it may, the social atmosphere of the campus is such that one can see at least a semblance of the old society, and the winter dance is looking more attractive than ever. There is a great deal of excitement among the students about the social atmosphere of the campus, and it is likely that the winter dance will be more enjoyable than ever before.

The article referred to the Bates College Book Store as a place where students can purchase books and other supplies. It mentioned that the store offers a wide variety of items, including textbooks, stationery, and other supplies. The store is open during regular college hours, and it is located on campus. The article also noted that the store is a convenient place for students to purchase items, as it is located near many of the campus buildings.

The article then went on to discuss various events and activities on campus, including a debate, a basketball game, and a cultural event. It also mentioned that the campus was hosting a series of lectures on current topics, and that students were encouraged to attend these events in order to learn more about the world around them.

The article concluded by commenting on the social atmosphere of the campus. It noted that the campus was becoming more vibrant and active, with a greater sense of community and involvement. It mentioned that students were more engaged in campus life, and that there was a greater sense of connection among the student body.

In summary, the article focused on the social atmosphere of the campus, and it highlighted the various events and activities that were taking place. It also noted the increasing sense of community and involvement, and encouraged students to participate in these events in order to learn more about the world around them.
An informal reception was held in 27 North Street, Sunday afternoon, for Miss Irene Mac Donald '19, spent the week end with friends. She expects, however, to resume her studies again in the fall.
