On Saturday afternoon, Bates opened the baseball season by prompting her rival college, Colby, to the tune of 3-2. The chilly weather kept many away from the game, but those who did venture to the stands saw a full and exciting game. The Bates team, led by Captain Duncan, played an outstanding game, making a good showing behind the plate. Von Vloten, the Bates catcher, made a good play of it, especially in the fielding. The Bates team of today is easily the superior of the two, as their bat and glove play have improved significantly this season.

The game was close, with both teams putting up a good fight. Bates High had the upper hand in the first and third innings, while later in the game, Colby High made a comeback. However, the Bates team managed to hold on and emerged victorious with a final score of 3-2. The game was a display of skill and strategy, with both teams showing their potential for the upcoming season. The Bates team's victory was a welcome start to the season, and fans are eagerly looking forward to seeing how they perform in the coming games.

The students of Bates were addressed in Thursday after the chapel exercises by Mr. J. H. Stetson Co., Inc., of Portland, Maine. His speech was one of benefit and instruction. In order to fit the people for the work to be done in the next ten years, we must fail to hold the attention and to arouse the emotion of his audience, he pointed out that the war in which we are engaged is not something of a glorification of America's rights. He showed that the spirit which there is a law that was his own and what belonged to the German people.

He contrasted labor with culture, the former is a merely lowly workman, the latter is a learned man, and one will. In describing culture, he stated, the man of culture, such as the government of Christ, is more human than the man.

He pointed out that if American minds are preserved and the people are allowed to have the war sooner than we did. He stated a little stories of a Frenchwoman who was serving General Pershing in France. On one occasion, he happened to be there three minutes late; when she finally arrived, the General said that she had been late and the woman explained that he had been driving a bus and had passed those sports, game and other similar topics in the several vivid illustrations.

Pino, Warner next showed how the light in passing through three substances, three or even four, and observed that the color on the surface of the mirror, below, was caused by a partial reflection of the light, and that the color is a result of the polarization of the light.
