Fanciful Decorations Add to Attraction Original Play Presented This Fall

CHARLIE was transformed into a delightful Winter fairyland this afternoon. Icicles hung from the walls while huge boughs of holly and mistletoe adorned the entire room, like white sheeting, spread among the booths and tables.

The booths were arranged along the sides of the garden. They were very attractive and pretty, and the gifts given away were unusual and original in the variety of fanciful articles. Among a high standard in the middle of the garden were small refreshment tables, attended by the Fairy Pasturets.

To make the scene complete, in the far end of the garden, stood an old well, the home of the Fairy Pasturet's. This evening at 7:30 as entertainment will be given. The story of Fairy Pasturets which is written by Margaret Anderson is the following list of characters:

Old Shepherd: Mama
Dance Master: Dorothy Kent
Mr. Potter: Gladys Soper
Mrs. Crane: Gladys West
The Shepherd: Herbert Bean

The program will conclude by a starlight show which will be given by the Alpine Mates.

Saturday night, the last event on the program for the season will be the feature motion picture in Chase Hall, given from 8 to 11 p.m. The feature will be "He Comes Fly-Swilling." The program is to be given in the magazine organs of the Christ paper, which took so much time and preparation. The evening will be a smash hit.

AMUSEMENTS FOR CAMPUS VACATIONERS

There may not have been as many students on the campus as usual after Thanksgiving dinner was over, but certainly was enough going on. In the first place, there was a regular old time dancing affair both on the men's side of the campus and on the women's side.

Many were the happy sights and sounds of old time and pats following along the midnights front. But it was worth it.

Thursday evening, very nearly every man and woman on the campus gathered around the circle to listen to the fire-worshippers. There was a good deal of crude insanity in the bowling tournament, prize being offered for the best bowler among the members of the campus. The question was: "What shape of liberty would you have us?"

Here every thing was for sale from the Parody Press, depending on the variety of fancy articles. Among a high standard in the middle of the garden were small refreshment tables, attended by the Fairy Pasturets.

BATES VOTED "BIG CROWD EXPECTED TO HEAR FIRE-WORKS AT CITY HALL"

The new band of the "Student" which will go into office on January 1, has at the head a man very well suited to conduct his duties as Editor-in-Chief. Carl E. Purinton '28, is a graduate of Lowiston High School, class of 1918. He was calculated to be and one of the prominent members of the class.

Following his graduation, he went to New Haven and engaged in government work for a year, the passion for the fall of 1918. As a freshman he demonstrated his ability with winning a scholarship. During the next year he was the annual prize essay contest. He has been elected as editor and as editor of the others at a time when the newspapers turned to the subject of philosophy and politics with China. With such a man at their head, the students are very ready.

EDITORIALS

As We Debate Once More

The Bate Tales, a weekly local newspaper, was the voice of the Bate community, and its editorials reflected the opinions of the students. The December 6, 1921, edition of the Bate Tales included an editorial that debated once more the topic of French and Latin names for Chinese students. This editorial reflected the ongoing discussion about the use of English terms versus Greek terms for Chinese students.

Chinese Students Organized Under Greek Name

The Chinese students at Bates College organized their society under a Greek name, which was a common practice in the United States at the time. This editorial discusses the reasons behind this decision and the implications it had on the Chinese students at Bates College.

Shines

Shines was a Kennebec River steamboat that was used to transport people and goods along the river. This editorial highlights the history and significance of the Shines, as well as its impact on the local community.

Ye Olde Tyme Athletes

The Ye Olde Tyme Athletes were a group of students who wore period costumes to events, reflecting the historical aspect of their college life. This editorial discusses the significance of the Ye Olde Tyme Athletes and their role in the college's traditions.

Chinese Students Organize Under Greek Name

This editorial further explains the decision made by the Chinese students at Bates College to organize their society under a Greek name. It discusses the reasons behind this decision and its implications for the students.

West Sees East in Chase Hall

This editorial highlights the perspective of a Chinese student who attended Chase Hall, a residence hall at Bates College. The student's experiences provide insight into the educational environment and cultural exchange at Bates College.

MACFARLANE

As a result of the visit of the Males College debating team to Bates, a debate between three of the Bates College debaters and two of the Males College debaters was planned. The debate was to be held at 2:30 P.M. on a Wednesday to honor the two college teams.

Bates College News

The November 21, 1921, issue of the Bate Tales included an article about the debate between the Bates College and Males College debaters. The article highlighted the importance of these debates in fostering a spirit of healthy competition among students.

ELECTRIC LIGHT 40 YEARS OLD

Interesting Facts about Edison's invention Anniversary of Which Is Being Observed Today

By W. E. Davidson

(special) Since men first walked the earth there has met the great need of his daily life by taking one muscle after another from his body to pave the way for better and better systems of illumination. The last muscle was put into service in 1879 when Edison was able to make the first successful electric light bulb. This was a great step forward for all of mankind.
