OUTING CLUB HAS GREATEST OPPORTUNITY

CAMPSITE OFFER IS EXPLAINED

Dwight E. Libby Makes Statement On Location

The Outing Club work at Bates more and more demands its existence as a faculty, alumni, and student body movement. This movement is assuming a new interest.

February 9, 1923

Editor-in-Chief of Bates Student Paper

It was with great pleasure I noticed in last week's edition of the Lewiston Journal editorial on the question of developing a club of Outing Club status. I have subsequently called the interest in the scheme expressed in various quarters of the undergraduate body. Perhaps some of the men realized recently that the distance between Bates and the campus is a little too far for us to walk into the town of Onasco. Three campuses would be interested in the development of such a project.

Last year I told a few members of the Outing club that I wore interested in our theme. The author of the editorial told me that a personal visit to Bates would be available for other purposes.

The location of this camp site is not in the capacity of a year. Upper Lakes is about nine miles in length and some 20 miles in width. It is a little over 100 miles away from the college campus, a distance that could be covered in a day. The route would Involve only the back the way of Poland and Naples.

There are many other ways of making the camp site which are easier and more attractive. The northern route from the railroad station (Poland) the camp site is a distance of three and one half miles. The intersection walking distance is a distance of 13 or 12 miles. From the railroad station at Mechanic Falls it is a distance of 15 miles. Great distances can be varied by using several routes, and in the winter when the lakes are frozen over it will be equally safe.

I have believed that any project undertaken by the Bates Outing Club with the establishment of camps should be in this direction, instead of toward Lake Sabbatius or Orland. The reason in the definite object in view of ultimately linking the chain with the American Outing Club in the Presidential Range. The camp site I have men to be the most desirable because of the line of the shortest possible route to the mountains. Of the four camps, the trip from the school to is a distance of only 11 miles. The trip from the school to Bridgton, Fryeburg, New Center, and Jackson. It would be the base camp for the extensive, and its proximity to the college would make it available for other purposes.

The Bates Outing Club is the scene of its winter activities has already a good name and reputation. No other college in Maine can match Bates in this respect. There are many weeks and months during the fall and spring however when the Outing Club does not seem to function at all. The program should be more inclusive, its activities more varied, and during vacations it would manifest itself.

It would not only involve a larger annual appropriation to erect a number of camps, but it will require more adequate facilities and wholesome interest to keep the thing going. The Bates camping trip is in the fall season or later some other Maine College will and Bates will be the best.

To define and establish at least one camping trail to the White Mountains should be one of the immediate objects and aims of the Outing Club. From this single trail all others will follow. The road to Bates and the other three camps will be the best.

OBJECTS AND AIMS OF THE OUTING CLUB

From this single trail all others will follow. The road to Bates and the other three camps will be the best.

GREAT OPPORTUNITY

In the last few weeks growth has been noticed in the number of campers. Bates has been a pioneer in the field of winter sports. Bates has had in the past a number of excellent ski jumps and the ski jumper of the open event. All others for departure with Arctic help set earlier than Saturday morning, February 5.

GARNET BATTLES PRINCETON TIGER IN TOUGHC GAME

Joe Cogan Injured During Game; Score 9-0

In the last away-from-home game played last Saturday night, the Bates team struggled into Princeton's net by a 9-0 defeat. From a victory over Earl Brown, the Garnet and the Black jays had to come down against the strong tiger team, but the contest was one that Bates had the better team.

With the game behind them the Onasco and Black players went into the town with the latest to wear an Under sacks fead for body at the Princeton gym. Displaying all their stuff, they scored six goals in the first period. That the idea of Bates had been of Bates was evident and they decided to take the open event. In the last period, Princeton made a great effort but Bates had the better team. It is a pioneer movement is assuming.

The Garnet did not seem to function at all. It's probably most of the men realized recently that the distance between Bates and the campus is a little too far for us to walk into the town of Onasco. Three campuses would be interested in the development of such a project.

The Outing Club's Activities

Never before, since its inception as a campus activity has the Bates Outing Club enjoyed so successful a year as the one it is at present experiencing. The college is alert to the work this club is doing, and the whole-hearted support of the students and faculty is placing Bates on the map in the line of winter sports.

Such work would be impossible if behind the movement there were not men alive in the needs of the organization. To Mr. Tarr the Outing Club has a reputation which is almost in favor of just the thing for which the club is striving. The president, however, could not "carry on" in the fullest sense of the term if he did not have support from a Board of Directors persistent in its endeavors for further this important branch of college sport. The board is most certainly fulfilling its duties in a manner acceptable to all concerned.

Another very helpful feature in the whole work is the attitude taken by the Athletic Department of the college. This year snow-shoeing and skiing have taken place among the organized forms of physical training. This action has added much to the work of the College and in itself has served to push still further the line of work the club is backing.

A bigger and better Winter Carnival than ever before is promised immediately after the mid-year exams have been put behind us. This Carnival will serve to acquaint the people of Lewiston and Auburn more fully with the work of the Outing Club and will arouse in the citizenship a new ambition for the inclusion of "push," as so splendidly exemplified by Bates men and women in the athletic side of college life.

Bates is to be congratulated on the splendid record so far made by this comparatively young organization, and the future is most bright for the further development of one of the really big things of our college training.

INTERCOLLEGIATE ATHLETICS

In these days, when so much is being said against intercollegiate athletics, it is most refreshing to hear from one of the leading college presidents of the country to the effect that "athletics and intercollegiate games form the best part of college activities." Such an emphatic expression of opinion comes from no less an authority than President John Creeden of Georgetown University. "Strength of body is just as essential to the college boy as strength of mind," he goes on to say.

The best way to ward off the prevailing ailments is to conduct your college work in a manner most pleasurable. Don't be forever on the lookout for the germs the doctors assure us are lurking in every corner. To cease worrying is one half the battle towards the maintenance of perfect health.

The Carnival Dance, which is scheduled for a week from tonight, should be well attended. It was a great success last year and Jimmy Handlon promises one equally as good for this year. Everybody out!

That Bates Outing Club Camp at No-Name Pond should be a popular place these days. Remember that Bill Button is ready with the keys for those who desire to visit the hut.

As the top-line on the front page says: "Till those mid-year highs!"
The Best Business Career

Is what every ambitious senior is thinking about at the present time. Life insurance is one of the best, one of the most desirable, and one of the most satisfying as a permanent calling.

In assets and volume of business, life insurance is one of the three leading businesses of this country, yet the field is comparatively underdeveloped. Only 7 per cent of the economic value of human life in the United States is covered by insurance. This gives an idea of the big field still to be worked, especially business insurance for firms and corporations.

As to remuneration: Reports of college graduates who have entered business indicate that life insurance is at the very top as a source of income. This is the time for you to consider what you are going to do after graduation. If you are ambitious and willing to work hard and interested are likely to know about life insurance, address

They Weighed Air
and Charles II Laughed

AMUEL Pepys says in his diary that Charles II, for all his interest in the Royal Society, laughed uproariously at its members "for spending their time only in weighing of air and doing nothing else since they sat."

This helps to explain why Charles has come down to us as the "merry monarch."

The Royal Society was engaged in important research. It was trying to substitute facts for the meaningless phrase "nature as a process of laying the ground which is enough for the weight of the piston when the piston is pulled out."

Denis Papin had as much to do as anyone with these laughable activities of the Royal Society. Papin turned up in London one day with a cylinder in which a piston could slide. He bole water in the cylinder. The steam generated pushed the piston out. When the flame was removed, the steam condensed. A vacuum was formed and the weight of the outer air forced the remaining piston in.

Out of these researches eventually came the steam engine. London talked of the scandalous life that King Charles led, and paid scant attention to such physicists as Papin, whose work did so much to change the whole character of industry.

The study of air and air pumps has been continued in spite of Charles's laughter. In the General Electric Company's Research Laboratories, for instance, pumps have been developed which will exhaust all but the last ten-billionth of an atmosphere in a vessel. This achievement marks the beginning of a new field—chemistry—a field that requires itself with the effect of forces on matter in the absence of air, a chemistry that has already enriched the world with invaluable improvements in illumination, radio, communication, and so on.

AHERNA ON SNOW-BOARD

Last Friday evening, in place of the usual meeting, the members of Alpha Alpha went for a snoopy hike and feed. The girls of Alpha Alpha prepared for the journey by Littlefield's, then ascended the short distance to Paradise Farm. Those who have ever been to Paradise Farm do not need to be told that Mrs. Ken- field served a wonderful dinner. Cheese chowder and meatloaf went to the right spot after an uphill hike. All members of the fun broke up, and the trip back to the college began. This trip was attended by some difficulty, owing to a few attacks of fire- trembles and everyone's objections to any attempt at speed. All went well, however, until the statute was in sight. At this point, four members of the party, cheerfully maneuvering down the track, were obliged to make a desperate leap for life, as a step, if not a fall, appeared unexpectedly around the corner. (Does Stanley will supply any more details.) No one was hurt, however, and it was a happy event that reached its conclusion in the ceremony Miss Tracy and Miss Tricebough clasped each other's hand, and they were voted two spoons.

SPOTLIGHT

The meeting of last week consisted of a roll Anselmi combined with form and fiction. Dorothy Clarke contributed a very pleasing story entitled "Two Places. Two," which is an exceptionally good work of human interest. The movie of last year's Outing trip gave an entertaining account of the life and works of Edison. Alexandria.

T. M. C.

Last Wednesday, the meeting of the Y. W. C. A. was held in Real Roll Restaurant. The attendance was very good for examination week. The meeting was in charge of the Bible. The minutes of the last meeting were read.

PHI-HELLINIC

On January 27, Phi-Hellinics held an informal "get-together" meeting in the music room downstairs in Chase Hall. After the singing of songs and games were carried out, some for individual rhythm, others requiring teams to recite all the moral name of the embers. Some of the songs read: those that have never sung in the company for the open floor. And many more have本事. The cookery that opened around the open floor place and many more have本事

SENIORITY

The meeting held in Real Roll Restaurant was in need of January 25. It was the most interesting; so far this year. A beta luminous meeting was followed by an interesting presentation. Papers on John Wilson by Marion Clark, Robert Hunt by Alice Soukency, Edgar Lee Masters by Estelle Dobson, and Allan Harris by Melody Baker were read. Elizabeth Powers played a violin solo.

BATES SECOND FAILS TO WIN

Fighting to the finish while the Bates sounds were defeated at the hand of the Leaonian Independents by a score of 3 to 1. The Independents scored all their goals in the first period. Stenholm, playing a fast and consistent game for the losers, tallied in the second period. Dandlik displayed an excel lent hand of defense. Stewart and Higgin played well for the Independents in the first period. The second team is playing better hockey every day, and the end of the season will find the teams leading in the community league.

Freshmen Debate Squad Selected

The Freshmen debating squad was selected last Friday. Those who were picked were Ada Mendelstein, Lewiston; Ethel Minton, Auburn; Sylvia Macmillan, Westbrook; Lawndow Bonner, Auburn; John Davis, Washington, B. C., and William Tyler, Warren, W. W. This squad will be divided into two groups and will debate each other before the Easter recess. The proposition for the debate will be "Men Should," That the Federal government should provide for the compulsory arbitration of disputes between capital and labor in the railroad and coal mining industries." All who made the squad have had experiences in debate prior to entering Bates.
