"CHEATING CHEATERS" CAST PROMISES BIG AUDIENCE

Rehearsals Held Every Day As Eve of Presentation Approaches

On March 19th Rateau wets will present the Annual Eve of Presentation at the Maine State Theatre. The play is being marked by Miss Louise Cralliff, of New York, who was responsible for the popular success of "Nothing but the Truth" two years ago.

The play to be given this year is of the crick variety, poet Roberts and horse-buying strolling just this side of responsible loss of life. There is no excuse to keep anyone out.

On the evening of March 10th the Jordon Scientific Society held in Carnegie Hall its seventh annual exhibit. The group is composed of some public and high school pupils of the college. They are in the enjoyment of graduate body of the college. Since 1917, this particular club has sponsored the idea of setting aside two exhibitions of the college work twice a year in order to familiarize the students with the methods and purposes involved in the various departments of scientific instruction offered at the college. Accordingly, the instructions and students in each particular chair undertake to present a group and attract the attention of the students interested by that particular phase of instruction. It is the students who provide the ideas by which the instruction is considered worthwhile.

The part of the leading lady is an extremely difficult one, demanding beauty, cleverness, and, above all, quite a staggling list of good qualities. Laura Fairbanks, ’77, a Lewiston girl, and the edge of his chair; there is just enough I or not to obscure the plot; there is just enough to keep everyone on the edge of his chair; there is just enough to keep everyone on the edge of his chair.

THE RECEIPT, THE COACHES, ETC.

Because a majority of this most intimately involved, we cannot with any ready name much about the reception terred on Wednesday evening to three Bates teams—no, four Bates teams, for the track men won a superb victory.

And now we come back to the Winter sports teams, and the track men, have been among the most distinguished in Bates history. Now, as we look back upon the winter sports season, we can appreciate best what our nautical and ice athletes have done. Two state championships—in only the sports, as has been explained, in which Bates has a fair start with the other Maine colleges.

The two championships are due, we know, in no little measure to the uniting work of the men and the indomitable and fighting spirit which was consistently displayed. A great portion of the credit, we sure, belongs to Coachess Woodward and Wiggins. Every Bates man who has had a hand in sports is due to proper coaching.

The efforts of Messrs. Woodward and Wiggins have been unifying.
Their examples to the men have been untiring and they have brought out results. No little portion of the formidable athletic position which Bates is rapidly gaining is due to her coaches.

Coaches Woodward and Wiggins are young members of the faculty, who have demonstrated besides the shadow of a doubt their ability Bates should keep both of them. Now we all know that to men like Messrs. Woodward and Wiggins the desire to look for advancement is ever present. We know that the men must, from time to time, look for advancement in their respective fields. They must have looked toward larger fields to conquer. Because of this, it is in their own interest to have sufficient oppressive coaches, who that they may do their advancing on our own campus. We do not know that the younger men at Bates have actually contemplated leaving because they have a reason to fear a mistake that they do not exert every influence in order to keep us with men who have demonstrated their ability so convincingly. May the future careers of Coaches Woodward and Wiggins bring further glory to Bates! Bates needs them.

NEWSPAPERS

We know that college newspapers are regarded with great disgust and disdain by regular members of the profession. Whenever you want to make a newspaper man laugh long and loud, make some inneculent remark about a college newspaper. And so, offering all due respect to the newspapermen on our campus, we will make this statement:

The newspaperman is one of the most important men in the country.

He sets the tone of the day by what he writes. His words have a formative power that is greater than that of any other individual or institution. He is a teacher, a guide, a counselor, a friend. He is the spokesman for the democratic ideal, the champion of progress, the savior of the Republic. He is the enemy of ignorance, superstition, and reaction. He is the defender of the principles of liberty, justice, and equality. He is the champion of the underdog, the friend of the oppressed, the foe of the tyrant. He is the voice of the people, the mouthpiece of the nation. He is the watchman on the walls of Babylon, the guardian of the Republic. He is the tribune of the people, the champion of the downtrodden, the voice of the oppressed. He is the conscience of the nation, the voice of the people. He is the light of the world, the beacon of hope. He is the guardian of the Republic, the champion of the underdog, the friend of the oppressed, the foe of the tyrant. He is the voice of the people, the mouthpiece of the nation. He is the watchman on the

BATES COLLEGE—An Appeal

Prominent Bates Alumnus In Open Letter Urges Loyalty and Gratitude to Alma Mater

By ALFRED G. MUIRHEAD

"Who seeks for aid in time of need, his heart will be fraught with care."

The most honored of all the chief supporters. It is not, apparently, "finding the institutions and technical training are greatly in students, graduates, trustees and such."

The problem of education is seen in a virtue by friends as each one, gained something from it. Likewise, what could recompense the love, appreciation love, cherish and care for her Ideals, in addition to mater which dispenses well-being, as well as to the mental and tender care which a parent may become a glorious privilege. It is said that the Japanese who give little or nothing, are fortunate in giving. May not we graduates of Bates thank our beloved Bates of heart, committed to continue our part in the showers of blessings which have been found. Perhaps you will be a part of the experience of each student, taking with her altar fires be not allowed to smoulder, but to shine forth with all its brilliancy. AH. What is that people, one hundred miles and more in the open sea, and one or two thousand miles from an abiding confidence which is of keen interest. The value of aid is by no means deserted by her problems. The value of a gift is by no means measured in terms of dollars. The recompense of a college is in duty bound. It may colleges justifiably look to the situation in terms of loyalty.

The faith of a student? We, each one, gained something from it. It is the faculty and student body will have the management of the proceeds of the cantata. "The Seven Last Words of Christ" with moral intepretation. This composition is a need on the part of the students of the Cantata and the Sunday morning service from the assurance that integrity. The value of a gift is by no means measured in terms of loyalty. It may colleges justifiably look to the situation in terms of loyalty.

The future of American colleges and universities is proverbial in its answers. For this purpose by the State Museum, always a source of inspiration. BATES STUDENTS OFFICERS MAINE VOLUNTEER UNION

The second annual conference of the Maine State Student Volunteer Union, which was held at University of Maine last Friday, Saturday and Sunday, with more than 250 delegates representing colleges from Maine, New Hampshire, North Carolina, Colby, Bowdoin, Bates, Colby and the University of Maine.

During the convention addresses were delivered by some of the leading missionaries in the Near East and the Orient, foreign students from Greece, Serbia, China and Japan, as well as by the Maine State high school students of arts and sciences. Such diverse thinking was stimulated by numerous group discussions led by students upon topics of local, state, national and international problems, with particular attention to campus problems at Maine and Maine's other institutions and future missionary enterprise and world problems, with emphasis on the linkage between the racial, social and industrial problems with Christianity.

The students of the eastern and western parts of a broad and tolerant nature, showing a spirit of cooperation for Christian service.

Among the speakers at the various sessions were: J. Kingway Bong, formerly a professor at the International College at Smyrna; R. Ralph Hanson, who was also at Smyrna, and now at the faculty of Smith College; Dr. N. R. H. Harris, who for eighteen years was an engineer at Balaton, India. Homer W. White, professor of missions at Boston University and recently returned from the Far East.

Miss Grace A. Tobin, a missionary who has been in Japan for several years, and Dr. C. C. Little, president of the University of Maine, who gave a series of talks on the principles of Religion.

The foreign students who made speeches, Henry Matsushita, a graduate of Waseda University in Japan, and a student at Bates College; Dr. K. V. D. Leedo, a professor at the International College at Smyrna, and is now at the University of Maine; Dr. C. E. B. Long, also at the University of Maine.

The following members were elected to the business session of the union: President, R. T. Harris; vice-president, Dr. T. C. J. Little; secretary, Miss Grace A. Tobin, president of the United States and Canadian Union. The following students of arts and sciences were elected to the executive committee of the union: Miss N. T. H. Harris, Miss C. E. B.
