BATES RUNNERS BREAK TAPE FIRST IN CLASS C RELAYS
Archbald, Corey, and Sanella Turn in Third Fastest Time of Meet; Invite B-C Relays for Next Meet

Last Saturday afternoon the Gymnasium again seemed like a classic field as a huge crowd met at the Press Box Comer to watch the third annual track meet. The air was frigid, the wind howled, but the hearty fans in the stands were determined. Among the most enthusiastic fans were members of the Bates women's track team, who lined the track and cheered on their fellow teammates. The meet was the first of its kind for the Bates women's track team, and they were determined to make a good showing.

Coed Singers Have Fine Entertainment Ready For Sat. Night

This year has proved to be quite successful for the Bates College Choir, and as a result of their hard work, the choir will be performing at the annual Christmas party. The choir has been practicing extensively, and the performance is expected to be a great success. The program includes a wide variety of songs, ranging from traditional Christmas carols to modern arrangements of classical music. The choir is made up of talented performers from all over the country, and their combined efforts will result in a beautiful and moving performance.

Glee Club Will Entertain with Music Program

A program for Saturday night has been announced by the students of the Bates College Glee Club. The program will feature a variety of musical numbers, including songs from Broadway musicals, classical pieces, and contemporary favorites. The audience is expected to enjoy a wide range of musical styles, and the performance will be a highlight of the weekend.

Judges Render Decision Over B. U. in First Intercollegiate Women's Debate in History of Bates

Argument on World Court

Bates is Out With Bad Leg Pete Edwards

Baker is Out With Bad Leg Pete Edwards

On Thursday evening, May 22, a historic debate took place in the college chapel when the first intercollegiate debate for women was held between Bates College and Harvard University. The debate was eagerly anticipated by students and faculty alike, as it marked a milestone in the history of Bates College.

The debate was held in the college chapel and was attended by a large audience of students, faculty, and guests. The debate was judged by a panel of distinguished judges, including Professor Mark Bailey of the Bates College faculty and Professor Jane Smith of Harvard University. The debate was a resounding success, with the Bates College team emerging victorious with a unanimous decision.

The debate was a resounding success, with the Bates College team emerging victorious with a unanimous decision. The team was led by Captain Alice Mandelstein, who delivered a powerful closing argument that convinced the judges of the team's superiority. The debate was a significant event for Bates College, as it marked the first time that a women's debate team had been successful at Bates.

The debate was a historic event that marked the beginning of a new era for women's debating at Bates College. It showed that Bates College was ready to embrace the challenges of modern life and was committed to providing opportunities for all students, regardless of gender. The debate was a testament to the strength and determination of the Bates College team, and it set a high bar for future debates at Bates College.

The time is approaching again for the state committee on Rhodes scholarships to select Maine representatives to study in England.

When the scholarship was instituted by the late Charles Clason, 1911 to 1919, it was the only one that specified groups of states to send one citizen each year. Such a scheme was possible because of the small number of Rhodes scholars, but it is evident today that the number of students should be increased.

The committee on Rhodes scholarships in Maine has figured prominently in all activities of the state college system. The Penobscot and Davis-Stevens state universities have been endowed at the outbreak of the war. In academic work, a scheme was put into operation in which the students of the two institutions would be transferred in various departments.

The scheme is a good demonstration of the power of the state board of education. As a result of the war, the board was able to offer a scheme that would secure the services of the best students in the state.

One of the reasons why the scheme was not adopted was the fact that the state board of education did not consider it within its power to do such a thing.

The Student Government Conference, called by April 22 and 23 by Rhode Island State College at Kingston, R. I., was attended by representatives from 8 New England colleges: the University of New Hampshire, University of Maine, Colby, Mass., Agricultural College, Dartmouth College, Vermont State College, and Bates. For the successful management of this conference, the President of Rhode Island State College deserves warmest applause.

Friday evening the program opened with a short address of Student Government problems, terms familiar to every college student, closing hours, special privileges, the democrat system and the same system. Mrs. Veterans of Providence, R. I., spoke about the purpose and results of Rhode Island State College, Dr. Edwards, the president of Rhode Island State College, addressed the students on Saturday. He held for his theme the purpose of a college education as one of training for citizenship and of coeducation as training for companionship.

Entertainment we have no means wanting. A piano breakfast, a banquet, a sight-seeing trip through Walesfield to Naramake, ice, was enjoyed by all. The Bates representatives were Renee Lavelle, Mildred Bradley, June, Eleanor Strey, and Alberta MacFarlane, '36. Of the eight colleges represented, Bates alone has a successful home economy. Her student government organization is one of the most perfect, and many of the problems that other colleges are still struggling with, Bates has already solved.

Evelyn Parkhurst and Marion Hall were appointed to attend the international student conference of the National Y. W. C. A. at New York City.

MACFARLANE ORGAN RECIPIAL IN CHAPEL

On Monday, May 5, at 8:30, Mr. William C. MacFarlane will give an organ recital in the College Chapel. The bringing of Mr. MacFarlane to Lewiston is the culmination of Bates College music. Mr. MacFarlane, who is considered one of America's foremost organists, has given a recital at the dedication of the Chapel. He will be assisted by Lewiston's gifted violinist, Miss Mildred Hughes, and a well-known hostess, Mrs. Paul. Mr. MacFarlane will conduct an orchestra of the College as well as perform with the Boston Symphony and the Boston Symphony Orchestra. The program prepared for this recital is as follows, representing the music of different countries as indicated:

(a) Ave Maria—Schubert
(b) Cradle Song—R. Strauss
(c) Overture to the Coronation—Mozart
(d) Ave Maria—Verdi
G. E. BARTON, Organist and Choirmaster

At the conclusion of the recital a reception will be given in the College dining room.
