SENATORS PLAN BIG DANCE NEXT WEEK

Will Hold Second Big Hop of Season on Saturday, Nov. 22—Specialties On Card

The second evening of the season will be given by the Senior Class at Colby. Music will be furnished by Madison College's Graduate Quartette and another prominent graduate. All college presidents and all leading professors of the region will attend, the students furnished knowing that the only entry ticket is a mop of music and entertainment will be the feature of the evening.

Some students sign a pledge that they will not cheat. With "gentlemen born" that is considered the final guarantee that he won't cheat, and the matter rests there. But some set up administrators want not only the guarantee of a word of honor, but they also want to keep the old guarantee they had under the old system, that they can't cheat. They report the business student into the studio of the president and then they behave that the inventory policy of the college is about to be got out about the "interests of his group and campus." That is all they are asking. When the takes the gate outside gets that one group.

The argument is specious, because the group among students which demands vigilance is the same group which demands vigilance among the student body, namely those who are accused of not even the best that those grades. Those that think examinations and grades are the main thing and usually some nothing with regard to others. Those don't want anyone to cast a stone, yet get by better grades than they can in an orderly way. The past of the student body has always given the gentlemen's attitude: that if someone cheats, the only honor can be lost by his own, and that a person can't possibly hurt anyone else, and that certain punishment for a person who has broken his word is the middle course of his way. "I kneel to express, to expiate, or other things, merely weaken this position.

CONSTRUCTIVE PROPOSAL

The last court which was held was an attempt to get people together for an unknown book, rather than listen to professorial profundity: I than listen to professorial profundity: rather for an unknown truth, rather for a truth. Thus, the position merely weakens this position. If someone cheats, the only knot he, and the matter rests there. But some set up administrators want not only the guarantee of a word of honor, but they also want to keep the old guarantee they had under the old system, that they can't cheat. The students demanded the inventory policy of the college is about to get out about the "interests of his group and campus." That is all they are asking. When the gate outside gets that one group.

LOTUS QUARTET ASSEMBLES FOR MUSIC PROGRAM

Talented Reader Will Aid In Evening's Performance Next Thursday

Once more Bates has the privilege of hearing the Lotus Male Quartette. They will be in song twice at the chapel next Thursday. The announcement of Thursday, November twelfth, they will give a formal concert and Friday morning they will participate in the chapel service. This is a wonderful opportunity for the students of Bates. Each member of the quartet is an artist himself, as those who heard any of you will remember. The quartet is composed of Robert Martin, first tenor; Will Hoke, second tenor; W. E. Macray, baritone; and Frank Cannell, bass. The club gives numbers in union and also several Miss Millicent Stobie will accompany them on the organ, when necessary.

SHERWOOD EDDY TO BE SPECIAL CHAPEL SPEAKER

Is Accompanied By Former Captain of U. of Penn., Debating Team

Mr. Sherwood Eddy, world renowned orator, is scheduled to arrive on the Bates Campus, accompanied by his secretary, Mr. Patrick Malic, and his secretary, Mr. Patrick Malic.

The Bates Students are fortunate to have the opportunity of meeting one of such orators as Mr. Sherwood Eddy and his secretary, Mr. Patrick Malic. Both men will arrive on the campus Sunday. The students will have their first opportunity of hearing as promised with them at the special services in the College Chapel, Sunday evening at 7:15. Perhaps there are some questions in your mind, relative to the importance of college life and the value both to the individual and to the community. Come and hear them answered Sunday night. Writing are a few of the subjects which will be discussed during Mr. Eddy’s visit with us—

1. Are you getting a kick out of college?
2. Does College Make Men or Work Banish Them?

Date We Think?
The Biggest Thing in Life

For fifteen years after graduation he worked among the natives of China and Japan, which had a profound effect on his thinking. He returned to the United States and worked in various fields in order to study and understand the culture and civilization of the Chinese people. He is a leader in the field of Sinology.

Mr. Malic, secretary to Mr. Eddy, graduated from the University of Pennsylvania in June. Last fall Mr. Malic was a visitor to Lewiston but as an entirely different mission. The student council will welcome Mr. Malic as one of the members of the debating team that defeated Bates. Mr. Malic was considered one of the best debaters in the east. He is a member of the Phi Beta Kappa Fraternity and has won many scholastic honors, while a student at the U. of Penn.

OF INTERCOLLEGIAL HOCKEY

A COURSE ON DANCING AT KANSAS UNIV.

A class "open to beginners is being conducted by Mr. J. E. L. Smith, who is the only member of the Kansas University faculty to have taken up the fundamentals of good dancing, "was recently inaugurated at the University in Kansas City. Mr. Smith has been teaching for over twenty years, and has also instructed in Chicago and other large cities.

The course is open to all persons, and a few adults have attended the first lessons. Meetings open to the entire faculty, are held every Friday afternoon, the first half being devoted to the instruction and the second half to practical work. A small sum is charged for the instruction.

The "University recognizes the fact that following in the foremost fields of special entertainment and in anxious to give students an opportunity to enjoy dancing to the fullest extent," said the Dean of Women in granting the petition from the men's and women's self-government organizations looking for the establishment of the class.

LE CERCLE FRANCAIS WILL PRESENT PLAYS

At the meeting of the U. of Penn. French Thursday evening, five new members were initiated: Mary Brock, Mary Pogg, Edna Kinn, Natalie Lasset, and Natalie Lasset. In anticipation of the annual French dance, the group of students was organized to "The St James Club." The dance was held in the main hall of the university and was attended by a large number of guests.

MADAM TASAMODS SEEKS HELP FOR GREEK REFUGEES

Relates Terrible Suffering Undergone By Fatherless Children

Miss Michael Tasamodas, wife of the former minister of Greece in Washington, spoke briefly and interestingly in chapel last Friday as the collaborators of the greek refugees from Asia Minor, especially the women and fatherless children.

Upon the event of the burning of several nearly one half of a million Greeks beds from Asia Minoe, she said, and the crowding of destitute people into Greece caused in a truly pitiful and yet horrible picture. When Mrs. Tasamodas arrived in the Pireaus, she saw glimps of women and children, their hands being wringing and fire and smoke covering them. The children were begging for bread, while some of the mothers were swooning. To our own there were twelve hundred refugees; in another week hundreds of the most ter-fible plight.

She told of a thirteen year old girl who committed suicide in order that her body might be sold and the money given to the mother. Young girls penetrate, and children call for their mothers. One mother said, "I would rather kill my children with my own hands rather than see them go through it again."

Ninety per cent of the women and children were found to leave Asia Minoe, while the able-bodied men were imported into the interior of Turkey.

The talk was touching as well as illuminating, for it showed to the student body the really terrible condition of the Greek refugees.

A chance for consideration was given by the placing of a box in the library.

FRESHMEN NEED A PEACHING PROVISION

Second, let the college leave the organization to the college. The college to the grade heads; those who have come to college for social prestige, and those who want a degree. Their interest is in the show-shop. Let them provide it for themselves. Let them organize secret societies of snoops to their heart's content. But let's not have worthless students that are satisfied with incompetent professors to put something over on all the rest of us.

It is unnecessary, in conclusion, to point out that this editorial does not advocate the abdication of the true home system which accepts a word of honor as much as she can. But let's not have worthless students that are satisfied with incompetent professors to put something over on all the rest of us.
