A LOOK BACKWARD

With this issue The Bates Student enters its fifty-first year. Present Student Board looks back with pride on five decades of successful college journalism. We are especially proud of the success of the retiring board. To them, we are deeply grateful. Their untiring efforts will serve as light to our own faint hopes. So high has been the standard set by them, that we shall consider ourselves fortunate if we even approximate it. If the coming year should prove a successful one, we will be grateful to be known because of us, but because we are "Standing on the shoulders of Giants".

— AND FORWARD

We are not looking through rose colored spectacles when we say that 1925 promises to be a bumper year for Bates. We merely state a fact. Our prospects in nearly every field of extra-curricular activity are especially bright. It is with no little gratification that we have told our friends that Bates has again reigned supreme on the ice and now of the State of Maine. We are not looking through rosy colored spectacles when we say that the "Chiefs" are not behind. "The Best play of 1923 was "The Last Mile" which we have read and re-read. The music department, or the "Lagomarsino Index to One Act Plays" is something we can use for the "University Debates," or "The Devil's Advocate" for "Pride of Place," or "The Bag of bolts" for supplementary reading in rhythmology and bibliographic literature. Prof. Pettit and Mr. Toole have given books to the library: "The Gospel" by Boswell and the "Spanish" by Table are especially interesting. Dance music, in the opinion of the "Girls and Guys" is "Listening to P'11ing's" or "Throwing Away" and "The Cigarette Man's Worth a dollar worth a dollar is not only an "Articulate" but a "Human" man."

It is with a feeling of pride that we come to write this passage. We shall not put it on paper, but make it an Open Forum. The "Debate" remains to be written, the "Hockey" start for the initial contest. For the "Winter Sports" a brief survey of the year's events and the best "Outing Club" activities of 1924.

THE COLLEGE CATALOGUE

The new catalogue is out. The list of courses has been notably enlarged. Many interesting improvements have been added. Before making plans for the coming semester, students should survey their additions. The new headings in regard to majors and minors seem most fair. We regret that they do not apply.

We know of an old Quill rich in tradition, which, worn with age, quivers in all over the page and writes "an infinite deal of nothing." It will be found at Bowdoin.

"If Christians come can Exegesis be behind?"—The Tufts Weekly.

Piercing the Great Divide

West of Denver is the Continental Divide; resumed in behind it is an undevolved district twice as large as Maryland. That fertile area the new Moffat Tunnel will open up.

General Electric mine locomotives are carrying out the rock, and 6-E motors are driving air compressors and pumping water from underground rivers.

The conquests of electricity on land and sea, in the air and underground, are making practical the impossibilities of yesterday. It remains only for men of ability to find new things to do tomorrow. Thus does Opportunity of 1925 beckon college men and women toward greater things as yet undreamed, and to a better world to live in.

PREPARE GIRLS GYM FOR BASKET BALL

Floor waxed and Painted All Co-Eld Classes to Have Swim Tiffs

The close of the athletic schedule in March marked the end of the volleyball season. The first team championship was won by the sophomores and the second team championship by the freshmen.

This week the girls basketball squad will get its first meetings. The courts have been newly varnished and lined. As soon as it is possible conditions the managers will call the first practice. Last year the present junior class won the championship. Many of the veterans have, however, left school for the present season and it is expected that an entirely new team will make its debut on the polished surface. The teams of the sophomores and seniors are practically intact and should furnish good competition.

The motto of the freshman class has yet to be fixed. Many of the girls have had experiences in High School and a first team night to develop.
