BATES TEAM LOSES TO YALE DEBATEERS

Ellis Wins First Forensic Victory From Bates In Five Years

Representatives of Yale University secured a victory over Bates College for the first time in five years, at the College Chapel last Monday evening. Despite the fact that Yale's views showed with the present modified team, it was given a standard of business and professional basis as a college education. The Yale men, neglecting the negative of the question, secured the voices of the judges.

The home team contended that the meaning of a standard of business and professional courses should be concluded because the liberal type of education is necessary and obtainable only in a true liberal college, because this form preserves the liberal balance between colleges and in society, as well as to the liberal ideals to all higher education, and because a liberal education is available.

The Yale team argued in favor of the status quo, saying that the present business education, as it is taught, is not adequate to external conditions, that distinguishing characteristics of the business world which were once so essential would be detrimental, that these courses should be combined with the business ethics and liberal education.

Charles H. Costello, appearing in his last intercollegiate debate, showed the necessity of a liberal type of education that the colleges are ruled by leaders with this type of training, that the members of that institution but the liberal college is trained by the college and by the world in industry.

H. N. Tague, the first speaker for Yale, admitted the necessity of a liberal (Continued on Page Three).

BATES WOMEN MADE WELCOME AT ITHACA

The Bates Women's Debating team from Bates on campus with another victory in its credit, this time over Cornell.

Ithaca, N. Y.

At Cornell, they were greeted in the Barn, the ladies' residence hall, where a breakfast was served to the contestants. Then they visited the campus and saw the beautiful buildings and the athletic field.

The debate took place Friday afternoon. After several arguments, they went to the depot and left for the train back to Bates.

The contest was won by Bates, and the contestants were satisfied with the first of the two debates.

Three Tours are being given to the ladies of the winning teams to the eastern Colleges to visit. This year, and the Monks sitting in holy Dame Rumor says that Roger

THE SATING ASY OF DUTY
We have observed with more passing interest, not from a political, but rather from a purely sociological point of view, the controversy over the bill to change the method of appointment of Leaders on the Friday night. We are a little cognizant of the outcome of this controversy. We are not interested in the bill on its own merits. What we are interested in is the fact brought out at the Harvard-China Foundation's conference: that the two things in Lisow holding the sacred and democratic principle of the ballot are not capable of using it wisely and that they are not acquainted with American ideals.

It is a civic tragedy. And we of Bates should be deeply concerned, for during a period of four years (and longer in some cases) we must live as citizens in this community. And as such we are responsible to a larger extent than we are free to assume of civic duty. Civic duty requires active participation in the betterment of the community along lines consistent with true American ideals. Social Service, Americanization Work, and Playground Supervision are defining fields where Bates men and women may do their share in eliminating this deplorable condition.

Real American principles demand that we, as citizens, go down from these unfortunate circumstances and become true American. But friends, let us not remain aloof: intelligentsia on the sidelines, for during a period of four years (and longer in some cases) those holding the sacred and democratic privilege of the ballot are not capable of using it wisely and that they are not acquainted with American ideals.

The GENTLEMEN FROM YALE
Bates may feel justly proud of her representatives against Yale last Monday night, despite the fact that a loss was sustained. The Duke was a close one and a hard fought battle all the way.

And again if Bates must lose, she could do so to no more gentlemanly institution than that of Yale. The pleasing platform manner of the Yale men and their sporting conduct really tend to paraprise the old Cambridge adage and say: Yale is a place for gentlemen and not for gentlemen's sons.

THE BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT
We do not feel it out of place to make an editorial comment on the successful Intramural Basketball Tournament which took place last week. Such intercollegiate competition, fostered by the college, affords the best possible advertising and at the same time gives impetus to a helpful relationship between Maine preparatory schools which otherwise might not be had. The service of the Varsity Club in entertaining the visiting teams is commendable.

A word of Congratulation to Our Women Democrats for their third straight victory. May there be many, many more.

We are just adding a line here, not only to fill up space, but also to urge our Pots not to give up because of the snow. Spring will be here in spite of it. We are getting some contributions from the men. What about the Coeds? Yes, this is a challenge!
PORTLAND WINS CUP OFFERED BY PREXY

The President's Cup has just been awarded to the Portland High School, Maine, as a result of the 1925 New England Sculling Regatta, held in Boston Harbor. The Portland High School boat, which had won the Maine State Championship, was the only one of the three Maine teams to qualify for the East Coast competition. The other two teams were from Bangor and Lewiston.

The regatta was held on August 19 and 20, and included boats from New England states. The Portland High School boat, under the guidance of coach William H. Lilly, won all three of its races.

The event is sponsored by the Portland Yacht Club and is one of the oldest and most prestigious rowing events in New England.

COMMITTEE STARTS PLANS FOR IVY DAY

The fact that the Ivy Day Committee is to hold a meeting on this subject is an indication of its importance. The committee is composed of men who are interested in the welfare of the academy and its students.

The committee has been asked to consider the possibilities of holding a larger and more elaborate ceremony than in the past. It is hoped that the plans will include a parade, a pageant, and a banquet.

The committee will also consider the possibility of inviting guests from other schools to participate in the event.

On the next evening, March thirty-first, Captain and Davis pair with Swarthmore debaters to discuss, according to the English style, the question of recognition of Soviet Russia by this country.

The debate with the University of Pennsylvania comes on the last evening, April first. The question is to be the same as that met in the Colgate debate, and the three-man team will be used.

It has been fixed to be impossible to schedule a debate with Boston University.
