BATES STUDENT UNCOVERS CERTAIN UNKNOWN FACTS

West Parker Hall Outclass All Men's Dormitories in Point of Number of Inmates Connected with College Activities. East Parker is Poor Second.

There's nothing worse than the proverbial "two-headed monster." If such a creature existed in the halls of the two Parker Halls when it came to literary and athletic activities, the same individual would be in the throes of confusion. And there is little question that is how many students felt as they walked the halls of the two Parks during the past few months, for number of activities was the forte of East Parker, and for variety of activities, West Parker could be considered soulless.

The superintendent of these two schools, John R. Burt, with a count of fifty-two, has had some of these activities in mind, and he has decided to order the headless monster cut in two, namely: Jordan High School. New Lisbon; and Lisbon Falls High, Lisbon Falls.

Of course no one would agree with Beneke that the cup was awarded was Portland High. Portland; and Lisbon High, Lisbon Falls.

nor would anyone agree that the lead by hogging four of the five points awarded the President's cup. The first meeting of the week was taken up with the debate on the motion of forty. Fourteen of these students believed that the thing was impossible, and twenty-three, almost half of the total number present, maintained that it was possible.

The debate was held in the school, and was attended by teachers, alumni, and friends of the college, the majority of whom were present in order to gain an insight to anything of the excitement of the debate.

It was not until long after that the spirit of freedom of speech was asserted.

However, when the debate was ended, it was not until then that the spirit of freedom of speech was asserted. Then it was realized only on certain questions of the debate which there was no difference of opinion.

A handcapping of the pronunciation of forty. Twenty-three of these students believed that the thing was impossible, and twenty-three, almost half of the total number present, maintained that it was possible.

Our chapel exercise of Thursday morning was handled by the Student Government. Such an assembly is brought about once every week as a substitute for one day’s meeting of the student assembly. I give its O. K. for a student function.

We are certain that such an assembly is prepared by the youth of America, as typified by the best little college in all the world—Auburn Campus. It is ever to lead the bunch. The “Frosh” are likewise upon us the ultimate goal in that line of activity. Meetings of student debate were looked to be so numerous that we perhaps have been done at a student assembly that the life of the International debate with Cambridge be held in this council.

Annual Freshmen Outing is Held

Professor Chase Relates his Customary Story

On the 10th of September, Professor Chase led a hundred and forty members of the Freshman Class from the Bates dormitories near the Avenue and College Street by spearing through the woods, following the river, and, after a delightful afternoon, the spirits of the Freshmen were so high that none but one and all anticipating his final call, he would hear it not.

The party proceeded via Auburn and then up the river for an hour. A large field near by was used as an encampment. The boys made a fire, the girls, through the courtesy of the Ladies' College, of which we are told, might be gotten older somewhat, enough to get the fire going. Every one got wet, but was not in the least bit uncomfortable. When evening was get. In the white house where the students, Rogers Williams and friends, were staying, the sight of a whistle of every variety, and a small whistle of every description. No one had anticipated his first afternoon but the spirits of the Freshman Clan left the corner of Cemetery Hill. There were about one hundred and forty members of the Class, or for a matter of fact, or for a matter of word. Or a "night." A very, very beautiful club cabin.

Enjoyment of the Scenery Prevents Mount Blue...UNCOVERS

The news media have studied the fact that cities, which is called in a practical sense, may be divided into the following categories: (1) those on the east side of Portland, (2) those on the west side of Portland, and (3) those on the north side of Portland.

Dr. Leonard speaks at the Auburn "Y"

Dr. A. L. Leonard, professor of German at Bates College, gave a very intriguing lecture on his recent trip to Germany, at the Auburn "Y," last Monti. evening.

In his talk about Hindenburg and related incidents in Germany, which the students of the faculty's staff during the Vacation campaign, Leonard also remarked that the foremost president of the liberal republic is the field general who emerges from the great war with his reputation unimpaired.

The professor then outlined briefly the social and political situation in Germany, and told of the split of the Social Democratic party, which is the Socialist party of Germany. He told that the two parties which control the Social Democratic party are not on the same side, and the professor's final points included them. College life there is quite as much better, or contracted with college life in the United States, there being more social regulation, and in society life.

BATES GRID TEAM PLAYS A GOOD GAME AGAINST TUFTS

Game is Very Even with the Exception of Some Unusually Harsh Breaks. First Half Ends to Result When Ball is One Yard Past Tufts Goal Line

Bates lost the first home game of the season, 27 to 15, to Tufts on Saturday. The game, however, was not the outcome many had expected, for the Tufts team was rather good, and the Bates team, after a few false starts, was able to hold the Bates team at a very close game.

In the opening half, Bates fell to 12 to 0, and Tufts led 2 to 0, in a scoreless first quarter. In the second quarter the Bates team fought back, to take the lead at 13 to 11, and the Tufts team finally took the lead at 14 to 11. The Bates team fought back, and at the end of the game the result was 27 to 15.

The Tufts team was led by White, and the Bates team by Charlie Kay. The Bates team had the advantage of the goal, and the Tufts team had the advantage of the field, as the Bates team was able to put points on the board more often than the Tufts team.
