TO ARRANGE DEBATE WITH UNIVERSITY OF PORTO RICO

The Present Coolidge Policy in Latin American Countries
Probably Subject of Debate with Porto Ricans.
Visitors to Meet Other American Colleges.

International debate once made its debut at the Bates Debating Union. Now Porto Rican students, aiming at the highest development of the American debating art, have petitioned the Bates debate manager asking that we consider the possibility of our dealing with the Porto Rican teams. And just as we considered it a possibility to enter into this debate, we have received the following from Mr. W. H. Watts, who wrote to the Bates Debates Scholar Jetty, "As to your letter of proposal, we consider it a matter of some importance that we should enter into a debate with Porto Ricans. The reason is that Porto Ricans have been to our Island to study native ways, habits, and customs. We feel that we want to know more about them, and we think that we can do this only by entering into a debate with them...

B. A. GAMES IN FEB.

A large squad of upperclassmen and several promising freshmen responded to Captain White's annual call for track co-op. This year should prove a success, as they have already made the rounds to secure the help of the veterans.

The men are already hard at work on their first practice meet, and it will be an interesting affair. The record this year will be in the 400 yards, and the distance will be measured with the greatest possible accuracy.

The varsity group will not receive any instructions from the coach except to observe the rules of the game. Outward Bound is Title Three-act Production

For the first time in the history of the organization, the English 4A Players presented a three-act play last night. The play, "Outward Bound" by剧本 Vaxen, a play which because of its action, comedy, and human interest causes the audience to wonder about life, its purpose, and its end. The action of the play takes place on a small ocean liner and centers about a large and small group of people who are dead and are making a death voyage to happiness through suicide.

The play was "Outward Bound" soextérieurly presented. Although this presentation is the most exciting attempt by 4 A's, the acting was commendable and each part was so interpreted that the effect of comedy and human interest was brought out.

Stewart Bishop was outstanding in his presentation of the devil-may-care Tom Perk. The clever humor of his part endowed the entire play. James Simmons in the role of Rev. Duke gave an excellent performance.

The part of Mr. Lingely, a most efficient business man, was well taken by Robert Walsh, which was brought out by the Steward, lent much of the atmosphere, too. However, the air of weirdness did not make the play the atmosphere of mystery and vagueness to the sphere of mystery and vagueness to the players involved in leveling and smoothing the surface. A great deal of labor was involved in leveling and smoothing the surface, and the back-stops will do away with a lot of wading in deep snow after next spring. The solutions were of perfect dimensions, and steadily built. The diagonal corners are a great feature. The new risk is a worthy achievement, and the manager deserves a lot of credit.

The hockey schedule is as follows:

4 Wed.—Cabots or St. Doms practice game.
7 Sat.—Boston at Brunswick.
10 Tues.—W. M. A. at Andover.
14 Sat.—Army at New Providence.

21 Sun.—Bowdoin at Lewiston.

FOR THE BEST OF GOOD REASONS

BETTER TASTE!
The Purple deceive

The petition for a vacation to enable us to spend Thanksgiving in the New England States, and to visit the ancient city of Watertown, was grudgingly granted. We were to leave the morning of Friday, Nov. 22, and arrive in the evening of the same day. We found the weather cold, but pleasant, and the scenery beautiful. We spent the following day in the city, and on the morning of Saturday, Nov. 23, we started for the college. We arrived in time for dinner, and on Sunday we had a pleasant outing to the country. We returned on Monday, Nov. 24, and on Tuesday we had a fine day of sunshine and blue skies. The weather was cold, but not unpleasant, and we enjoyed ourselves very much. We left on the morning of Wednesday, Nov. 25, and arrived home in the evening of the same day. We had a pleasant trip, and are now looking forward to the next vacation.
