The Atmosphere of Ye Merrie Englande to be Present As "Patricio", "Malvolio", "Olivia", and "Juliet"

Quote from the Bard of Avon in Hathorn Hall

Shakespeare's night is the next week of the 4A Players when on Friday, March 21st. The play to be featured is the opening scene of the second act of the second half of the Shakespearean production of "The Merchant of Venice". The scenes will be performed in the "Y" room at Bates College, beginning at 7:30 p.m. Tickets will be sold at the door. The proceeds will be used to defray the costs of the production, which is under the direction of Professor David Ward. The production promises to be a delightful evening of Shakespearean theater, and is sure to entertain and delight theater goers of all ages.

Phi Beta Kappa Meets at Colby

Prof. Knapp and Leonard Bates Representatives

The Regional Conference of Phi Beta Kappa was held in the beginning of the 1928 school year, and important questions which will be taken up by the regional conference of the University of Maine will be considered. The activities in the regional conference of Phi Beta Kappa are under the auspices of the Alpha Chapter of Bates College, and they are open to all members of the Bates College community.

The meeting this time was in the form of a town meeting. The meeting was called to order by President Wood, who announced that the roll was complete. The meeting was then opened to discussion by students and faculty members. The meeting was then adjourned.

PLANS COMPLETE FOR GYM MEET

One of the best times ever expected at the annual gym meet of the Bates College and the Bates College of the University of Maine was held on Friday, March 21st. Plans for the meet were made by the Student Council, under the auspices of the campus council. The meet was open to all members of the Bates College and University of Maine community.

The meet was opened with a stirring address by Professor Fred Austin Knapp, president of Bates College. The meet was then divided into two halves, and the first half was devoted to track and field events. The second half was devoted to wrestling and basketball events. The meet was an excellent success, and the competitors were all in fine form.

RELANDSBERG SCIENTIFIC

The regular meeting of Randall's scientific society was held May 13, 1928, under the presidency of Dr. Walter Sayler, in the Little Church. The order of business included a reading of the minutes of the previous meeting, a motion was made that the order of business be not read, but that the minutes be printed and given to the students...

The Chapel

Special Article by Paul Chesley
Bates College possesses one of the most picturesque campus scapes in all New England. The buildings and lawns are stocked with deer and other wildlife, and the chapel is a page of early American life. One can almost believe that the chapel is the focus of the campus, and that the students haunting the library are seeking inspiration and a place of refuge. The chapel is an oasis in the hubbub of college life, and it is here that the students find a place of peace and quiet.

An interesting feature of the chapel is its location on the hill, with a view of the surrounding countryside.

INFORMAL OPENING
This marks the initial appearance of the main events, which have several concerts scheduled for the near future. Prof. Truax has done some real work with the men, and the club promises to be a worthwhile organization.
Dancing will continue to the "new year" hour of 11:45 P.M. The affair will mark the end of the Gym Final Committee, and the program will go on the Committee of the final event. The day may be a gigantic task of selecting financing the athletic building.
Single admission tickets are on sale at fifty cents each and all there is no reduction for quantity purchase, it is hoped that a large ring line from both sides of the campus will attend.
The dance will be semi-formal and will ring up the curtain on the spring festivities.

The Athletic Association of Northwestern University recently opened a drive for funds. One system used was that of "honor" candy stands. It is interesting and offers a new avenue, as I myself and others in the stockroom mentioned yesterday.

Two freshmen at the University of Florida have agreed to the longest period of silence. They are to stage an annual nationwide battle for the next 99 years.

Bridge Tournament
Now in Progress

A bridge tournament is being held at the University of Alaska. The tourney is expected to last for three days, and the affair was organized by Perry "Bill" Wilson and the teams and drew up a schedule. There are ten teams in the tourney, each consisting of two players, and each team is to play twenty hands with every other team. The best teams have promised entertainment for those engaged for some time to come.

The teams are: Gilbert and Sally; Marshall and Perry; Blackmer and Tomson; Ham and Jordan; Coulombe and F. Pierce; Chestland and Chuck; Neff and Ford; Zherken and Fred; Jordan and Filer; Marshall and Bill.

With tournament play about half over, the men are working with most of the men's teams having won 1,500 points. Each team is to play twenty hands with every other team. The best teams have promised entertainment for those engaged for some time to come.

How would you like to Manage a Kresge Store?

KRESGE Store Managements are positions of trust and responsibility—plundered positions that carry importance for above the average. Wherever there is a Kresge Store the Manager of that store is looked upon as an outstanding example of a successful businessman—and yet he is usually a young man, perhaps just a few years out of college.

We now have a few opportunities open for college men to train for positions of this kind. The men we choose will be men of ambition and foresight—those who are willing to start in a modest way—work hard and put in long hours. To men of this caliber the Kresge Company offers a future limited only by their own ability.

If you think you can qualify, write to our Personnel Department today. A graduate of your own college who has already become a successful store manager with us will arrange a meeting with you and tell you all about our training plan.
