Bates Defeats Princeton in Joint Decision Debate

Weatherette-Parker Defeat Old Nassau in Second League Debate of Season—Discuss Patriotism—Bates Men Excel in Rebuttal—Professor Chase Presides

By SHIRLEY CAVO

The second home debate in the Eastern Intermountain League took place in the Little Theatre Fields Thursday night. February 26, when Bates was a 2-1 decision from Princeton. The main theme for the debate was: "Resolved—Patriotism in American Life Can Be Maintained Without Imperialism, War, Communistic Encroachment and to the best interests of democracy decreased.

The affirmative was represented by Charles Hamilton and John Martin, while the negative by Charles Hamilton and John Martin, both of whom have recently returned from the Harvard debate. Mr. Hamilton scored a most convincing victory.

Students Against Present Policy of Frost Initiation

The Bates Student Body aligned itself with many others last Wednesday and Thursday night to protest the initiation of the present policy to "Frost Initiation". The vote taken by the Student Council was 75-30 in favor of the motion to stop the initiation. The second council meeting, held by the following morning, resulted in 64-31 for the affirmitives. The vote was 9-0 on the two votes. The result is the same. The debate continues.

Bates in Debate

The debate between Bates and Princeton was an exciting one. The result of the debate was not known until the last minute. The debate was attended by many students and spectators.

Sponsored Hop

Saturday evening will usher in the sponsored Hop, where the students will have a fine time. The Hop will be held in the Gymnasium, where the dance will be under the charge of Mr. Chase. The Hop will be opened by the Bates Band, consisting of ten musicians. It is expected that the Hop will be a success.

Social Function

The social function of the evening will be held in the Main Building, where a fine time will be had by all. The function will be under the charge of Mr. Chase. The function will be opened by the Bates Band, consisting of ten musicians. It is expected that the function will be a success.

EARN LEAVES OF OUR CLUBS

Three-quarters of a century ago, Britain was visited by a great wave of patriotism. The British public was inculcated with the idea that one should not be a patriot. This wave of patriotism swept over Europe, influencing many countries. The idea that one should not be a patriot spread to other parts of the world. The wave of patriotism was so great that it swept over the English-speaking world. The wave of patriotism was so great that it swept over the English-speaking world. SURVEY OF COLLEGE READING MADE BY STUDENT REPORTER

College is the forest where books hang from the trees. The leaves upon the trees are thin and sparse, but they are always green. Those who have chosen to read, when not forced to scan the leaves for food, find within them a world of wonderful trees in which they are hidden. A good book is the best of all good friends, and a bad one is worse than many enemies. A good book is a world away, a bad one is a world of suffering. The man who reads only to pass the time and escape from reality is missing the point of a good book. A good book is a means of escape, a way of transport to a different world, a way of knowing things that cannot be experienced directly. It is a way of expanding one's own horizons, of learning about other cultures and societies, of understanding the experiences of others. The reading habits of college students have been the subject of much research, and the results are often surprising. For example, a study of the reading habits of college students at a private university in the northeastern United States found that the average student read 30 books per year, with a majority of those books being fiction. The study also found that the most popular genres of fiction were mystery, romance, and science fiction. The study concluded that the reading habits of college students were influenced by a variety of factors, including the availability of books, the presence of bookstores and libraries, and the preferences of the students themselves. The study also found that the reading habits of college students were not static, as students often change their reading habits over time. The study recommended that universities and libraries take steps to encourage reading, such as hosting book clubs and providing access to a wide variety of books. Overall, the study concluded that reading is an important part of the college experience, and that universities and libraries should do everything they can to encourage students to read.

The basketball season ends this week with the inter-class and inter-dorm basketball games. There should be keen competition, especially in the inter-class games, because the teams give evidence of hard work and faithful practice. Two games have already been played. On Friday, Feb. 25, the Sophomores easily beat the Seniors 52-12. However, the Juniors had to work hard not to spoil their fine season. Last Thursday, in the girls’ game, the Juniors and Seniors were against the former. This week we expect to see some fast and exciting games. Don’t forget to come out and support your team!

Mrs. Gray Gives Birthday Party

Several of the Bolton girls were guests of Mrs. Gray at a tea last Friday afternoon. All of the girls present had birthdays in February. Each one had a little cake, and the guests were served with refreshments prepared by Mrs. Haff and Mrs. Huyser. Despite the February weather, the party was enjoyed.
Bates Hockey Men Lose 2-0 Against Strong N. H. Team

The Garnet captain dropped their second seed of the year to the New Hampshire Wildcats in a surprisingly even, concluding their season's a 2-0 win after a hard battle that saw even score on a couple of interference and calls late in the game.

The net work was marked by rough, safe play that made it hard for the opposition. Though New Hampshire did pass rough and ready, they were not able to score due to the hustle and speed of the Garnet line.

Each time Barksby, ice first, scored a goal, the Garnet's defense was in the way, and even if they had been defeated, the Garnet would have lost a point.

For the Payne brothers, the forwards and the garnet's defense, the game is still vivid to him and kept the Garnet's line together.

THIRTY-FIVE YEARS AGO-WHEN BATES PLAYED MAINE

Bates football eleven were making the long trip to Orono and giving a first hand performance of the standard of the Maine colleges 35 years ago, when 600 was a large football crowd, and the flying wedge a vicious bit of strategy. Professor Oliver Cutts played guard for Bates then.

Six large, heavy men, willing to work hard on a new line, were selected. Must be willing and willing to take advantage of any new line and throwing, shutting, batting, and running, and any other branch of track and field work in which the opposition was not helped but not required. Must be up in the game, but the Maine Union will have a chance to win.
