Aftermath

Have you forgotten yet...?

For the world's events have rumbled on since those gagged days.

Like those sneaky ants at the coming of spring time.

Like those worms in the life of man, and you were supposed to go.

Taking your peaceful share of times with joy to square.

But the past it is just the same,—and War's a bloody game.

Have you forgotten yet?

Lock down, and cover by the slain of the War that you'll never forget.

Do you remember the dark months, you held the center at St. Ives.

Like those worms in the life of man, and you were supposed to go.

You look as if you were dozing, and not keep the lines.

Do you remember the hour before the attack.

That horrid, blood quivering, that act and shook you then.

As you peered at the doomed and haggard faces of your fate.

Do you remember that stench, you held the center at St. Ives.

With dying eyes and bleeding—these subversive

Many of the lords who once were been and kind and say.

Have you forgotten yet?

Lock up, and cover by the grass of the spring that you'll never forget.

Students Favor Disarmament

By Norman MacDonald

The greatest difficulty in the interest of the war is the necessity of disarmament. It is the responsibility of the world to disarm. The only way to achieve peace is through disarmament. If we do not disarm, we will continue to fight. The United States, as a great power, has a responsibility to disarm. The United States has the capability to disarm. If we can disarm, we can achieve peace.

The United States has the capability to disarm. The United States has the capability to disarm. If we can disarm, we can achieve peace. The United States has the capability to disarm. The United States has the capability to disarm. If we can disarm, we can achieve peace.

The United States has the capability to disarm. The United States has the capability to disarm. If we can disarm, we can achieve peace. The United States has the capability to disarm. The United States has the capability to disarm. If we can disarm, we can achieve peace.

TERM BILL MORALS

Those who are familiar with the justice of the term bill system agree that it is an excellent system. It promotes efficiency and avoids a lot of trouble. It also provides a way for students to learn responsibility. The system is fair and just, and it serves the students well.

SUNDAY BLUE-LAWS

The Sunday blue-law is a necessary law. It is designed to keep the peace and promote good behavior. When people know that they are breaking the law, they are less likely to do so. It also helps to maintain the integrity of the Sunday blue-law.

Reorganization Of Societies

A problem which has continued throughout the year is the lack of coordination between the various societies. The societies have not been able to work together effectively, which has led to inefficiency and confusion. It is essential that the societies work together to solve these problems. Clear communication and coordination will be essential.

Bates Harriers To Defend Title in New Englands

Bates will defend its New England cross-country title this Saturday when the varsity men and women compete at the University of New Hampshire. The team, looking forward to a successful season, will be led by returning champions Bob Houghton of Concord, New Hampshire, and on Cape Cod. He has been kinder to

—Whitten and Jellison set pace

Finishing hand in hand, eight Northshoremen managed to keep themselves in the game until early in the last quarter when they were swept aside by the Bates attack. The game was the first between the two teams this year and although the final score was 24 to 6 in favor of the Bobcats, the rivalry was increased for three others, Sid Farrell, Ray Jekanoski, after being forced out of active service by a broken leg, Johnstone. THE BEAR PULLED BATES

The summary of Saturday's race was taken in a score of 6-0. The game was not particularly spectacular and no real battle was fought. The Bobcat line, however, performed against the same team.

Bobcat Eleven Faces Colby Armistice Day

By Frank H. Rooney

Although Maine nearly has the Blue Bonnet possession in the series over harriers, the game was not played as tightly between the two teams as was expected. Colby was at times on the breaking end of both teams.

Score by periods:

Richardson 10

Bobcat 6

Gatchell, Backauskys, Sumner 11

The Bear flashed a nice attack against Bates during the first quarter but the Bates line was also sharp, Bega, Buzzell, Crismier, Grubbs, and all were headed by Coach Thompson and Captain Greenleaf.

Roundymen showed its usual late season power in the last period and for the most part Bates were held to a single point.
