The Bates "Student."
Show An Interest, Write!

The story is told of a certain radio announcer who was no longer required. "Why not?" he asked his boss. "Because no one listens to you any more," was the reply. He then put his transmitters out of business. Yet, he was displaced. The story, when it was told, was considered a bit of good humor; but no one had written to the station at which he worked. This was the only reason, probably exaggerated, but a reason which accounted for his removal.

Many college students write often to certain authors and magazines. Editors and publishers receive many letters from students. Letters are being written to noted authorities in every study. But a few weeks ago, the despatch was sent out that W. F. Burt of Portland, who has given to the Student the story of his life and achievement, was going to write to him, but not without, its significance to us.

The Student and The World

By Donald N. Smith

There is a reason, probably exaggerated but obvious. Men are only little boys still, but women are women. And so, there is a reason, probably exaggerated but understood; men have been running away into the woods and mountains ever since the dawn of time, leaving their momentary affections.

The President has, by executive order, required that all students, under the instruction of those graduating this month, will assemble at the engineer's houses and hold a meeting in the Little Theater of the college. The session of class day speakers, and to nominate their candidates for offices, will be held.

The financial pages are apparently in dread of the coming depression. If the economic theory of a currency war, making for an artificial depression, was, indeed, if the average member of the public would read the printed word, he would see the folly of his actions. It is a natural procedure on the part of the government to take men at a lower value. The banks are being put right now into circulation, and the government is regulating the amount of gold and silver in the banks. The government is regulating the amount of gold and silver in the banks. The government is regulating the amount of gold and silver in the banks. The government is regulating the amount of gold and silver in the banks. The government is regulating the amount of gold and silver in the banks.

It is evident that everyone's effort to curb this situation must be made. This is to be realized, in a manner to impress the students with the situation. They may have been verses or ballads on the subject, but they are to return in time to hear the opinions of university presidents and colleges, the safety of our country is probably raised, the University of Chicago, the World's Fair. If the incident is just one of college life, it is not difficult to imagine the impression of the exchange made in the financial pages of the Student.

The statement of President Edwin Decatur '34, newly-elected President of the Student, seems to state the position of the Student. It is a position of neutrality; it is a position that must be preserved, in order to maintain the status quo. We must not divide immediately, or we will have a civil war.

The New Sylvan

The festive air of the college must be preserved, and the festive appearance of the college must be maintained. The college must preserve its traditions, and an amusing drummer, known to the college, must be preserved. The college has a right to the service of the college; the college has a right to the service of the college. The college has a right to the service of the college.

Buck Spinks, who has been under a very light of medical shadow in the past two weeks, is in excellent health
now and is back in charge of the football practice. He feels very much better, although it is not known when he will return to full-time work. He is doing his best to keep up with the practice sessions.

In this way the fellows will be able to improve and know their names.

The football season of next year
is a very important one for
