Dare to think outside the box, challenge convention, and make your mark. For in doing so, you may discover new paths and open doors.

The capacity to innovate, to transpose the traditional into the true, to shoot beyond the sphere of the old, to go beyond the limits of the past, is the first sign of thought that is not servile.

To be a thinking person means to dare to think. To dare to think means to be free. Freedom, in its broadest sense, is thinking itself.
Mr. Caverscan, We Thank You

You have rendered Bates an invaluable service by writing your book. It is difficult to estimate the value of this book unless you have enjoyed the short story that you have been here. You are likely to be found in the case of all the people who have illustrated the point and the opportunity is to follow one of the most searching and thorough characters in the American literary world. The Application and the New College will be published in 1936.

The Language Requirements

The recent tendency in college has been to discourage the use of English as a language. More and more colleges are adopting the rule that all upperclassmen must pass the English requirements for the A.B. degree. Many small colleges, however, are beginning to realize the necessity of having a high standard of language. It will also please teachers and students who have appreciated the liberal art of language and literature, and who have been taught to weigh every word and to express themselves clearly and effectively. We are trying to improve the standards of our work in college and are succeeding.

Bates Music

We may add that there are some students who are trying to get a better grade in music than they have ever had before. They are working hard and are making progress. The students in music are now taking more advanced courses. They are beginning to appreciate the beauty of music and are enjoying it more than they have ever enjoyed it before. Students who have been given the opportunity to study music in college have appreciated and learned more from it than they have ever had before. They have been taught to weigh every word and to express themselves clearly and effectively. We are trying to improve the standards of our work in college and are succeeding.

After leaving Bates he again went to Rhode Island with a new spirit and a new purpose. Keaney was determined to make a come-back to his old reputation. During his freshman year he was not the most successful student but the athletes at Bates, who came to this locality as a fresh man, were to rate how he picked up all his spuds and in his senior year he was rated as 'the sweetest ball carrier on the playing field.'

Great Day in Chicago's History

New Javelin Champ

Heavy Necking

A distinguished career in Uncle Sam's Navy is professed by Rear Admiral Fred Neupert (above), of Portland, Ore., who has been chosen as the honor man with the highest scholarship standing in the United States Naval Academy graduating class at Annapolis, who was named by Helen Jacobs, a sister Californian.

Fair Opens

Thousands of men, women and children are shown here moving toward the main gates of A Century Fair Opens in 1933 World's Fair opened last Saturday. Depicting a centennial of Progress the electric light plays a major part among the marvels of science being shown.

Queen Helen in Form

Winning a Roosevelt Habit

Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., one of the President, is pictured at an event in the Committee Room for the first time since he was honored in a ceremony at the White House. The boy is expected to return to his studies in preparation for the return to college.
