TODAY was the day that the Bates Men's Basketball Team was scheduled to play in the annual meeting of the Knights of Columbus. The game was a close one, with the Bates team prevailing by a score of 36 to 33. This victory was the result of hard work and practice, and the team is to be congratulated on its efforts.

Pirates Capture Large Audience At Pop Concert

Pirates are a delightfully inebriated band of marauders, who in the play "Pirates" of the Nova Scotia, were placed in charge of the local government body. However, they were not so successful in their attempt to capture the pop audience at the pop concert. The concert was a failure, and the Pirates are to be congratulated on their efforts.

The college rules. Many of the student body were amused recently when it was mentioned that the various colleges had 'forgetmenot's' in their rule books. We do not know the identity of the speakers, or whether they were in jest or in earnest, but, in any event, there are many of us who are confused as to why so many colleges have rules in their books, if they are not to be followed.

We take this opportunity to call attention to the fact that the rules to which we refer are those which have received a great deal of attention in the past, while the rules which are actually followed are those which have received little or no attention.

Several students have been warned and that they will not be allowed to attend the regular morning Chapel service, because of the incident. The rule we refer to is double sided. We have been told that there must be teeth behind the compulsion of daily Chapel, so we do not know whether students should expect. Among the reasons for this rule, we are told, are that college is a penalty in dollars is imposed, and that as an alternative approach to the problem, the penalty is imposed and that no pity will be preferred if the cause should be discovered.

The question here is whether or not it is a penalty for students to attend the regular morning Chapel service, or whether it is only a penalty for students who do not attend.

Some students have been asked by students who have been warned that they are not to be allowed to attend the regular morning Chapel service, for an explanation of the rule. They are told that there is a penalty in dollars is imposed, and that as an alternative approach to the problem, the penalty is imposed and that no pity will be preferred if the cause should be discovered.

Another sign of jangled nerves...

Doe hanging, teeth gritting, foot tapping, tugger, maybe other directives; the old favorite—telephone slamming. Just little ways which people are getting out of hand. Danger signals. Have we got it all of the foregoing, check up—

Last Sunday evening, the Band, with only several vocalists, presented a fairly large program at the end of the winter musical season. It was arranged in two parts, the first under the supervision of Robert W. Scott, who directed the program as the whole was uniformly sung.

It was followed by a cello solo by Constance Fuller '34 and Samuel Fuller '35. By Constance Fuller

At the Annual Faculty-Student baseball game held last year the Faculty was defeated by the students after making an effort to repeat their victory of the year before. In connection with winter sports the Annual Winter Carnival might be mentioned. A live bacteria, which is a fairly large attendance at the W. A. M. H. Athletic Carnival, the year ended with the use of imagination and dancing.

COACH DURGIN PRIMES SQUAD FOR ACTIVE WINTER SEASON

Gay, Paige, And Drake Form Nucleus Of Team

February 17th will mark the track season. Coach Durgin will conduct a few meetings, but after the early meetings the team will hold practice at night for a couple of weeks. He is very pleased with the interest shown in the program. One feature of the season will be the winter carnival which will be held in early March. Ollie Brown, Garret Morris, and Walter Gay are the Jumper while Charlie Page, Al Oliver, and Wayne Hammond will be the Winter Jumpers. On February 17th the hockey team will be ready for another game against Hebron Academy. It is expected that there will be a large number of new members entering the team. Coach Durgin expects to have a balanced team that would favorably compare with that of many of the other college teams. The team will be ready for the Dartmouth Carnival, to which the Bobcats could certainly put forth a strong showing.
