SEVENTY YEARS

THIS JUNE BATES will have completed some 70 years of its existence. It is curious that, in a school that has lived the history of some of ours, it has come to forget the early days. They are only a part of the early days. The school was supposed to include a certain amount of money, in order to have a school building. Behind all this externality, however, there was a consistent idea that has led to success. The idea, as far as we can see, is that the school was to be a place for the students to learn. We hope it has been a profitable, broadening, refreshing experience. We hope it has been a profitable, broadening, refreshing experience. We hope it has been a profitable, broadening, refreshing experience.

Little Theater Movement Achieves Prominence
On Campus Through Work Of Group Under Leadership Of Jack David

That the Little Theater movement at Bates has achieved both prominence and prestige, and a remarkable campus activity has never been more characteristic of the sprightliess and ambition and the spirit of leadership of Jack David '35, and the ingenuity of Professor Bob Adams, has become the matter of more than any single organization on the campus. Its growth from a group of four amateurly-organized skits of '32, in the form of a troup known as the 'Little Theatre', and the spurt of '33, to the present day, represents a remarkable development. The group has today become a competition with the University of New Hampshire on intercollegiate lines. The campus group is a threefold organization, in that the players, the directors, and the managers are all involved in the production work.

Bates 4-A Players under the capable guidance of Professor Adams, have effectively sponsored art for entertainment coupled with skillful preparation and presentation. With the coming of '33, a group of players who have effectively sponsored art for entertainment coupled with skillful preparation and presentation, have witnessed several able performances. The group has the reputation of giving forth with a humor and a charm that is equally appreciated by all the audiences who with enthusiasm and interest and encouragement have witnessed the performances of the past school year.

Players and patrons of the Little Theater have come from various parts of the northeastern United States and from New England, as well as from other parts of the country. The auditorium, where the group has performed, is situated in the heart of the campus, and the group has been able to attract a large number of enthusiastic audiences who with enthusiasm and interest and encouragement have witnessed the performances of the past school year.

Adams '33 To Coach
At Vermont School

Arnold Adams, former Bates College football and lacrosse player, recently completed with the new Vermont school, the Union Colllege, a successful season. When he joined the team at Vermont, he found the school in a poor state, with a poor introduction into the work of the season. His task was to build up the team, and he achieved this with success.

The team, which had been practically under the guidance of Adams for the entire season, achieved a good reputation for its ability to play. Adams' success in building up the team was due to his ability to make the players understand their work, and to his ability to instill in them a sense of team spirit. His work was highly esteemed by the players, and his ability to train them was highly appreciated.

Politics Club
Sponsors Many Campus Speakers Amalgamation With Women's Group Noteworthy Event

One of the most prominent features of the current season has been the political activities of the politics club. Many speakers, debates, and discussions have been arranged under the auspices of this club. Among the speakers were famous figures in the political world, such as President Hoover, who was a guest of the club, and other figures who were known to the students. These meetings were highly popular, and the students showed great interest.

Consistence in issues has been a characteristic feature of the activities of the politics club. The club has maintained a consistent policy in matters of importance, and this has been a great advantage. The club has achieved a notable success in the past year, and the future is promising.

Y. M. C. A. Board Plans New Deal For Coming Year

Group Hopes To Have Outstanding Events This Fall

TO ARRANGE FREE
RIDE FOR FRESHMEN

At a recent meeting of the Y. M. C. A. Board, it was decided to allow all freshmen, whether members of the Y. M. C. A. or not, to ride for free on the Pullman Company during any one of the first eight weeks of the Fall term. This will serve as host to the New Student Association during any one of the first eight weeks of the Fall term. This will be free for the college year of 1919-20, and the different members of the association have returned in this way to show their appreciation for the service of the association.

Pr. William Cohen was an active member of the association during any one of the first eight weeks of the Fall term. This will be free for the college year of 1919-20, and the different members of the association have returned in this way to show their appreciation for the service of the association.

BATES WOMEN ON CANOE TRIP

For the first time in the history of the Bates Women Sports Association and a very good one it was. The "Bates Canoe Trip" was enjoyed by a group of fifteen girls, mostly from the Freshmen class. The days were spent in canoeing and swimming while the nights were occupied by games and stories. The trip was highly successful and we hope to make it an annual event.
