Merry Christmas

CHRISTMAS MEDITATION

Michael Field in the "Round-About" tells of a grump, a grinner, a little child, who, embraced by his mother and by her father, was kissed and blessed. Later he was applied to line and in peninsile spent years trying to find that child. Although he never succeeded, in the effort he found a gentle and kind, that the author says of him, "He saw the face of a little child and bowed on God." This is a symbol of Christmas. Humanity looked on the face of the child, Jesus. In harshest and indifferent rebuffed him and finally crucified him. But it could not forget his gentle line and voice. In my moment of aaker mother has sought to find him again. And when he is found by Jesus, in the centuries that such mankind has participated in the twinkling and the band of happy kiddies jolly old Santa Claus all rosy and radiant, we have participated in the making of the magic of the Christmas spirit may seek for the face of the child, Jesus, and prove so gentle that he dare reveal himself to them. So that when the centuries end, and the demons declare each individual life has caught fleeting glimpses of that which bears his name, whether or not in literal actuality we can recapture the face of him, "He saw the face of a little child and bowed on God." Impressive Service

In Chapel Sunday

Heralded by the clear-sounding notes of "Advent Philebs," played by four trombones from the Peabody Band, the annual Christmas Vocal Service was held in the chapel Sunday afternoon. The dignified music of the Bates Band and of the choirs of Calvary and the Collegiate Church on the central altar and in the windows.

The following program which was arranged by Dr. Burhenn, L. Zorby, the Council on Religion, and Professor Eulden T. Crafts, director of music, succeeded admirably in bringing a spirit of reverence and attitude to the service.

Prof. Crafts opened the program with two organ preludes; "The Shepherd" by Sullivan and "Bethlehem" by Praetorius. Dr. Burhenn, at whose home the group stretch, around the corner at Libby Street with songs for Mr. Ross, Prof. Cutts' . . . then up to Frye Street with stops at "Buck" Spink's and Professor Crafts'. . . Through the little street into Mt. Avenue, pausing at the effort he became gentle and kind, so that the author, Professor Freemont. Howie Buzzell '36 will supply this Sing as a precedent for those in years to come.

Prof. Crafts to Lead Group In New Feature

When all have assembled at the annual Christmas musical service in the campus street, greetings and singing of carols will be given by the campus song and cheer groups. Miss Louise Dow, who will be announced by Howie Buzzell, will conduct the group which will be formed where we will accumulate the sick (or oh, sick) and the Professor will stop at Dr. Sawyer's, Prof. Roberts' and Heald's on College Street and on to College Street where the campus song group will be formed. The group will sing with songs for Mrs. Ross, Prof. Myser, Prof. Crafts and Prof. Gould. There to Maine Street with a carol or two at Prof. Whittamore's and Prof. Gould's through Mt. Avenue, pausing at 9:40 to-night. Meet in the desire is to start a Carol Sing, and the Women's Student Government and the Men's Student Government. This Sing as a precedent for those in years to come.

Paint the room with ruddy rays,
Squinting through the rays of spray,
Down the hall where others play.

The room is yours, the room is mine.

Here's a story about a clever Dartmouth fellow who wished to go home a few days early for vacation. The fellow sent his family a telegram asking the faculty to let him go home. The faculty agreed, but added that he must stay at Bates until the coming vacation. So the fellow was able to return home in time. The story is that the faculty is in need of a higher, stronger, and more capable student leadership.

When you are speaking to some prospective Bates freshman remember the significance of anyhing worth understanding between these two groups for the future of the student body. To the Editor:

Turn Back the Clock

It happened a long, long, long, long time ago: We learn the following items of interest in which some of the brightest boys and girls of Dartmouth were at the center of attention. The annual report of the college treasurer, A. M. Jones, showed the net income for the year to be $157,037.12. The Alumni of Boston and New York held a meeting in connection with the Dartmouth alumni. The first A.M. degree ever taken by a woman in England was conferred on Mary A. Dawes by the University of London. The students of Harvard had a meeting. The Faculty at Princeton decided that all athletic contests would be discontinued at Dartmouth on condition that no student using tobacco or alcohol should receive the benefit of the students. The Harvard band had been invited to the party at Princeton, and the Faculty at Princeton decided that all athletic contests would be discontinued at Dartmouth on condition that no student using tobacco or alcohol should receive the benefit of the students. views was the wise casting and the harmonizing support given each speak-er by all the players in nearly every scene. Each actor seemed to awaken the best in his fellow in the performance, and was helped to keep his own character from becoming banal.

William H. Fredrick '37, as the white-haired, quarreling Victorian, churlish to his wife and peaceful to his fellow-human, won the approval of the audience. The actor seems to put the picture among the most memorable tableaux of the past decade. The roles were well performed, and the acting a serviceable one. Win Relays

The Sophomores' sensational relay week, the Kishon-Johnson field event combination, and the record-breaking and room-breaking performance of Bud Catlin, freshman hurdle star, supplied the features of the annual Christmas Interclass relays which were concluded last Friday.

The class of '37 won the meet with a total of 81½ points after trailing the freshmen, who came second with 30, while a small group of sophomores were third with 26, while a small group of juniors placed fourth with 14 points.

Harry Keller's 60-yard dash performance on the opening day of the meet tied the cage record of 1.55 seconds but failing to make a new cage record by a slight margin. Meagher, Cooper, and Marcus were third. The hammer, the final event, was ahead of Kishon '37, and the novices Robinson '37 and Marcus '37. The first of the weight events to be held was the diskus, with a high jump of 21 ft. 11% in., while Luukko was ahead of Kishon '37, and the novices Robinson '37 and Marcus '37. The first of the weight events to be held was the diskus, the Cage record, easily took first, but Peabody beat out Kishon '37 for second place. Larry Johnson, 19 feet, throw, easily took first, but Fogg beat out Kishon '37, who had previously tied the record of 6 ft. 10 in., but failing to make a new cage record by 1% margin. Meagher, Cooper, and Marcus were third. The hammer, the final event, was ahead of Peabody '36 as a potential point winner in coming meets. Cigarettes for Christmas! No smoker ever has too many. But which cigarette? Remember that the brand you give reflects your own good taste...your sense of discrimination. That's why we suggest Camels. They are made from finer, more expensive tobaccos than any other popular brand. They are the choice of distinguished men and women in every field of the social and business worlds. And their finer tobaccos bring that welcome "lift" in energy—that warm good cheer—which is after all—Christmas!

- Is there a pipe smoker on your Christmas list? Then your problem's solved. He's made it easy. Give him long evenings of calm contentment. Give him the sheer joy of ripe, mellow tobacco—cool and mild and bite-less. Give him Prince Albert..."The National Joy Smoke." What a man spends his own money for is what he really likes. And more men spend their money for Prince Albert than for any other pipe tobacco.

Mabel timidly opened the door and walked up to the desk. A man was busily at work on a litter of papers.

"Are you Mr. Philips?" she asked shyly.

What?" he shouted. "How did you get in here? No, I don't want any more girls to-day. Finished casting an hour ago. Get here early next time if you want to stand a chance."

But I - -"

"Sorry. I haven't any time to discuss the matter. Close the door quietly as you go out," with which he took a sheaf of papers and went out a back door, slamming it shut behind him.

Left alone, Mabel decided to sit down and wait. A minute later a distracted young man came into the office, glanced quickly around the room, and, spying Mabel, went over to her.

"Stand up," he commanded.

Mabel stood up.

"Turn around," he said.

Mabel turned around.

"O.K. You'll do. Come with me."

He led her to the set.

"Have you ever played a country maid before?" he asked.

"A country maid? Why I--"

"Well, never mind. Time means money and I can't afford to wait any longer. You'll probably be better than anything she'd pick out anyway. Here, read these lines for a minute."

After a few minutes of rehearsal, the cameras were set to start grinding.

"Do you think you can do it? Don't forget footage means money! How about it?"

"I think I'll be all right."

"O.K. Steady now. Mabel climbed the ladder leaning against an apple tree and started picking sprays of blossoms. She made a lovely picture among the pink-white flowers.

The scene was a short one and it was not long before Mabel was down on the ground being congratulated by the director.

"You were great! I told Philips there was no use waiting for that half-wit author to confirm our choice for the lead. Authors only clutter up the place anyway. Say, Philips."

he shouted across the lot, "I started shooting without her. Come on over and meet the heroine."

Philips came running, his tie stringing out behind him in the wind. "There'll be the devil to pay if that author comes down and finds you've started without her!"

"But the contract is clearly worded that the author is to approve the female lead. You can throw away the footage you've just made and save yourself a lawsuit."

"I'll do nothing of the kind! My reputation depends on this picture!"

"But the contract - -"

"The contract be hanged! Im keeping the footage and the heroine I picked."

"But the lawsuit - -"

"I mean the author won't bring suit against you. In fact she can't."

"She can't? And why can't she?"

"Because I'm the author."

B TROUBLE VALLEY, by Ward West (Greenberg, $2). If you're hunting for something fast and snappy reading of the old thriller days—wild west, and plenty wild—this little volume has lots of variety and punch. It has the old theme of the mysterious man riding in to see that justice is done, but the variations in it keep the book above the average.

B BWAY, INC., by Morton East (Dodd-Mead, $2). Stage-minded collegians will grasp at this mystical book of the ins and outs of the greatest theatrical alley in the world. It is at least a problem as how to produce shows, write contracts, etc. It even includes a list of the troubles the average producer will run up against. Interesting and valuable for both professional and amateur.

MOVIES

A LA CUCARACHA—One of the first shorts to be released featuring the new Technicolor process, and it really clicks in a big way. The Mexican dancing theme provides a real test for the accuracy of the color process, and you will not be disappointed with the results. In addition, the music and dancing make this short worthy of feature space on any picture house bill.

RADIO

A NATIONAL RADIO FORUM—Don't let the "educational" tag on this program scare you away. It's one of the best current-problems broadcasts taking the air today. The speakers selected for the program abandon their political viewpoints and give some straight, inside information on the nation's capital. If you really want to shine up your economics and political science classes, this program will give you a sound background.

B SONGS YOU LOVE TO HEAR—This regular Saturday night feature is a pleasant interlude sandwiched in between the usual galaxy of dance orchestras that program the evening from the bright spots of the nation. Features songs requested by listeners, and stars that range from the populars of opera to the mightiest crooners of the moon songs. Nathaniel Shilkert and his orch. are really worth listening to, and they are soled during the program to break the monotony of too much vocal work.
