Erlich Labouvie Leaves College To Vote In Saar

German Instructor On His Way Home For Pleasure

Prof. Erich Labouvie, a German instructor at Bates, is going to do to make this idea a reality. He is rather backward. His family had been forced to leave Germany because of the Nazi regime, and he has been living in England ever since. His parents are both dead, and he has no relatives in England to help him with his studies.

Fall On Steps Causes Injury To Senior Girl

Virginia McNally At C. M. G. Hospital With Fractured Spine

Virginia McNally, a senior at Bates College, was injured in a fall on the steps of the Library last week. She was taken to C. M. G. Hospital with a fractured spine. She is expected to make a complete recovery.

Turn Back The Clock

The Bates Student is a weekly student newspaper of Bates College. It is published every Friday during the academic year. The newspaper was founded in 1872 and is the oldest continuously published student newspaper in the United States.
BATES IS TO BE congratulated for the way she has afforded many opportunities in the Student body and to the individual. Here is, however, one detail which, though it may seem trivial and of little expense to the college, would on the other hand be of great importance — the restaurant. One is forced to wonder why, with the privilege which we enjoy in the name of "terrible tuition," we have not a better institution in the college dining hall. The thing or things referred to are wall cases containing student names and addresses, and other similar cases which are half filled with information wanted by some of the campus. And also an address of 3. Bates Catalogue to be delivered immediately on the campus of the Western Union, the Postal Telephone, the Telecommunications, and the Post Office.

Concerning the wall cases for the names of dormitories, their need is indeed a pressing one. Every dormitory manager, parents, and relatives, these doors, and in most cases there is no indication of the names of the room for whom they are searching. Or if they do exist in the hallway, they are not always in the hall in the dormitory, and the other feeling of guilt, that one has arrived to be used, of course, as President Root has promised to do away with the FERA debt in the very near future. Should worse come to the Bates Student is willing to make out the lists and room numbers for each of these three doors of which nothing further is done about it.

Now, about the matter of the Bates Catalogue being issued to the telegraph and telephone companies, the managers of these telegraph companies recently told a Student representative that they have not been given any of these Catalogues, and that it is necessary for the company to get information on orders. The general attitude of the customers in the telegraph and telephone companies was to keep the company.

To have these wooden cases made for this express purpose would be of slight expense to the college, might be of great value to the students, and would be another part of the college. This should be done at once, however, as President Root has promised to do away with the FERA debt in the very near future. Former Bates Debater Will Help In Defense Of N. R. A.

Robert B. Watts ’22 Figures Prominently In Test Case To Come Before U. S. Supreme Court—Concerns Section 7-A

Watts, a former Bates student and former Wellfleet, Massachusetts native, was an advocate of the New Deal and a supporter of N.R.A. In 1935, he took on a case that would become one of the iconic legal battles of the 20th century. His work was widely recognized and he was named Assistant U.S. Attorney of New York City and from 1937 to 1939 was Chief of the Prosecution Division of the same office. In the year of his graduation from the Yale Law School, he was appointed U. S. Attorney of New York City and from 1937 to 1939 was Chief of the Prosecution Division of the same office. In 1938 he was named Assistant U.S. Attorney of New York City and from 1937 to 1939 was Chief of the Prosecution Division of the same office.

Active As His Attorney

He has been an active and progressive speaker since leaving Bates and Yale as he was in these schools. In 1935, the year of his graduation from the Yale Law School, he was appointed U. S. Attorney of New York City and from 1937 to 1939 was Chief of the Prosecution Division of the same office. When Joe Murphy's men take the ice (?) to-night at the A. D. D. against Bowdoin, all local sporting eyes will be on them. The 11-2-defeat here by Colby put them on the lower pegs. Joe Murphy has a good club and the team will have to show a much improved defense that has been shown against the Saints and Colby, with the defense is due to failing to cover and check fundamentals which Joe has been drilling on increasingly. Much has his team cover that net.
