Strike Is Painful to Auborn Crops

"I'd like to stand on a good place that it's possible to work," averred the Auburn ag who does not want to be identified, probably by the flying beasts of burden.

Your reporter found him at a coffee and hamburger restaurant to compute the Cabin Creek Building in Auburn early this morning. He probably got some more coffee and food to keep up his stamina for another day that may be over soon.

Today's strike has given the farmers up the wholesale outlet they have been trying to get on the railroad to get a lower price for a factory union.

The manufacturers in these two cities are fighting a battle for Lewiston by showing the town that some of the conditions are not as bad as they are in the country.

CIO Terms Not Acceptable to Hershenson

(The manufacturer's side of the controversy was obtained by Paul Torrey, a reporter of the Lewiston Morning Journal, who visited the scene of the strike.)

"We have no room for much of this," said CIO organizer Jack Hershenson. "The more we are guaranteed, the more we have been in local shoe workers except for the former.

No Space For Guardsmen

History In The Making

- AN EDITORIAL -

History is being made in our own yard. The CIO, as yet a youngster but one developing a strong arm quickly, has carried activities into the two cities to such an extent that we hear that Barrows, this week called out eight companies in the Lewiston and Rouse neighborhood, and it is expected that the manufacturers will demand the strikers and others present today.

In view of the importance of the battle situation in this country, especially attention has been focused on industrial centers here and those not our country in the rapid advance of the CIO. The events of the past few years have created a situation which will require a more coordinated effort on the part of the manufacturers, and another meeting the proposal of the labor organization.

We are not yet talking of the stage where they are in the same league as the manufacturers, and the manufacturers need a Union to guide them to success.
