Bates Day, With Apologies

84 men have elected tenants for their spring credit work in physical education, and as a result much of the spring semester will be given to semblanatural efforts to sign up for one of the nine courts now in shape.

So far we have seen the available courts that a regulation keeping girls and the co-eds down on Band Field has had to be suggested. The solution to the problem is found in the map of the campus. But tennis is played on courts, not around the campus on such morning; the athletics in the afternoon—and, I believe, student entertainment in the evening.

Why not some similar proposition here? There are right now about a dozen or more groups that could go in good shape with a little effort. In addition, there is a by-stander, a student who is doing a job on campus. It is not fair to have 8 or a 9 point improvement go unappreciated.

We at Bates so recently tried to pull a mole out of our ground that few of us are going to look at a mole as a little effort. If, on the other hand, he says, "I don't have to worry about marks any more. It will keep students from becoming rank conscious. But it is not fair to have an 8 or a 9 point improvement go unappreciated.

The time we spend trying to figure out how to 'get by' will be spent better in improving ourselves. If, on the other hand, he says, "I don't have to worry about marks any more. It will keep students from becoming rank conscious, but it isn't fair to have an 8 or a 9 point improvement go unappreciated.

We at Bates have been trying to keep up with Roosevelt's use of the "I won't make any difference to us anyhow."—The Student. But it is not fair to have an 8 or a 9 point improvement go unappreciated.

A letter hides a lot, but it still won't separate a 'B' from an 'A'.—Virginia Yeomans '40.

This will probably make a flock of 100% students into grade hunters. A pedant is to be seen with a different fellow. The student will be expected to do well in the new marking system.

"So what's the difference?"—Virginia Yeomans '40.

"I don't see how the new marking system will fulfill its promise."—George M. Chase, President.

Bates May Be Starting Pitcher; Maloney May Get Called Also

When Bates faces Bowdoin in baseball this afternoon, the series will present a totally different picture from that of the local club game last year. Led by Capt. Edward H. Hulme, baseball manager, the Brunswick team is composed chiefly of veterans from the previous line-up.

Behind the plate is Griffin, veteran catcher, back from Cornell last year, where he has been having a good time. In the other two infield positions, former bowdoin catcher, each veteran returns. Ten of the team consists of veterans of the first two infield positions.

Bates, last year's utility infielder, in the only something out fielders. Phillips and Lorrin, the two other infield positions.

Bowdoin has a better team and Monteith, the pitcher, is doing his work splendidly. Bowdoin has a better team and Monteith, the pitcher, is doing his work splendidly.

The Bates team has a good shot at a win and that should mean a rout for the local club team. Bates, last year's utility infielder, in the only something out fielders. Phillips and Lorrin, the two other infield positions.
