I Apply for Scholarship Because...

The verbal thunderbolt that strikes the undergraduates in Monday's chapel has already been discussed extensively; and yet, true to the nature of a college campus, the question of who deserves to wear the purple and gold is a topic that will not be easily discussed. The lecture looked at many vague questions; the type of the speaker was clear. It was not for us to interpret what needs and interests are being served in the school. The discussion centered around the question of who deserves the scholarship.

The belief of the Monday chapel speaker that students should be granted an attractive and lucrative scholarship. Yet the speaker did not concern what the school's attitude towards scholarships should be in order to hold that scholarship, or even to remain in his class. There is a close relation in this matter of awarding scholarships. On one hand, it may be said that the student's interest is a reflection of his character. On the other hand, it should be said that the physical application of one's mind to one's most important work will aid in the future. The school is interested in the future. Whatever the result, there must be these scholarships.

The professor who advocates scholarship aid to a man who is a pure athlete and doesn't desire to live on that money. He feels that he has no money to lose, but the fact is that, too often, a young man is too eager to get the money. He is not anxious to hold the scholarship, or even to remain in his class.

The school's attitude towards scholarships seems to be of utmost importance. They are not all-wise; there are still some issues that need to be brought to light. We seniors of the class of '43 must be able to see the connections between these two concepts. It is not the same to be able to study hard and do well, but the money is required in order to be able to do so. We have Duke and Oxford in our mind.

The real trouble behind this matter of scholastic aid to athletics is not always understandable, however. When an athlete leaves a sum of money, the annual income of which is to be used as scholarships, he generally speculates that the money is not to be given to the best, but the poorest. The money is used, then, to buy the best, but not to the poorest. If the money is used to buy the best, the poorest are not the recipients. If the money is used to buy the poorest, then the students who are the poorest are the recipients. The problem, then, is one of being able to judge everyone involved. Not specifically for high schools, not specifically for athletic schools, but General Principles should be used to guide some day in the future. One must have a fund specifying that its benefits are given only to the student must deserve it "in general principles." Then the decision can be made. Not with a competent, but without a competent method of choosing two young men who have been trying to play two different sports. We seniors of '43 must be aware of these principles before we have examples today that until the extremity is worth attaining. We have Duke; we have Oxford, and we have Bates today. Nichols' Perseverance Rewarded In Final Year

By Summer Tanner '46

When a fellow has a goal which he aspires to attain after two or three years' planning, he needs perseverance, a desire for success, a drive, and a little luck. With these qualifications a fellow in the freshman class named Nichols spent last Saturday, his final game, as a varsity player.

Nichols, of course, is not a varsity player in the traditional sense. He has been a team member on the gridiron of the past two years and has been a valuable member of the Eastern team all season, but this past Saturday he made his first appearance on a varsity gridiron.

Nichols is a fullback for Bates, a position which is always a test. As a fullback he is expected to perform several vital assignments in a single game. One of these assignments is to lead the line, another is to break into the line, and a third is to catch passes. Nichols accomplished all these tasks with success.

Gridsters Enter State Series At Maine This Week

SPORT SHOTS

By George Lyseng '39

Best Performance of the Week: The Blue Devils and Charlie Crecker for their respective offensive and defensive play in Saturday's 26-2 defeat of Albertus Magnus.

With preliminary skirmishes in the history of the games between these two teams, the Blue Devils and Albertus Magnus met on Saturday with each one vying for victory. The score was 26-2 in favor of Bates, as the Blue Devils defeated Albertus Magnus.

The victory was not without its share of excitement, as the Blue Devils were forced to struggle for every point. The Albertus Magnus defense was effective in preventing the Blue Devils from scoring, but the Blue Devils were able to make the most of their opportunities, ultimately winning the game.

The Blue Devils, led by Charlie Crecker, showed exceptional offensive and defensive skills throughout the game. Crecker's ability to elude defenders and his outstanding tackling skills were key factors in the Blue Devils' victory.

Harriers Defeat Northeastern State

Last Saturday the harriers of Coach Ray Thompson tackled away in the cross-country meet to defeat Northeastern State.

The meet was held on the campus of Northeastern State, and the harriers showed their superiority in the sport.

The victory was significant for the harriers, as it was a crucial meet in their season. The harriers had been working hard to improve their performance, and the win was a testament to their efforts.

Hang And Dalers Are To Race Polar Bears

This Saturday the favored Bates team will meet the Beta team from the State for the second time of the season. The meet will be held in Lewiston, and the harriers are expected to come out on top.

The meet will be a key match in the harriers' season, as it will determine their position in the league standings. Both teams have been competitive, and the meet is expected to be a close one.

X-Country With Bowdoin Shifted

Amendment was made today at the athletic office that the Bates team will meet Bowdoin on the course on the campus of Bowdoin. The meet had been scheduled for the following day, but this change was necessary due to the late notice given. The meet is now set for Saturday, March 11, at 3:00 p.m.
Buffoon Appears Friday, The 28th

The "Buffoon" is a campus magazine for undergraduate students, with the usual front page on the cover of the magazine, which will enter its second edition of the same time period for the season. This year, the party will be on Friday, October 28th, at 8:00 PM. Admission is free for all Bates students.

First Faculty Round Table Thursday Eve

The first Faculty Round Table meeting of the year is scheduled for Thursday evening at Chase Hall. At this time new faculty members will be formally welcomed to the Bates Faculty. Dinner will be served, after which there will be an impromptu program.

BOB CATS WIN

The Bobcat football team defeated the University of Maine, 13-0, on Saturday afternoon in a game played in cold and windy conditions. The Bobcats were led by quarterback Bob Williams, who passed for two touchdowns and ran for another. The game was played in front of a sold-out crowd.

Sixteen Succeed In Scale Baldpate

Sixteen students from the Bates College Alpine Club successfully scaled the 700-foot peak of Baldpate, a mountain southwest of Presidential Range, to the accompaniment of the annual Garnet-Black Marching Band.
