Class Of '38 Has High Rate of Employment

Sociology of the class of '38 who have been on the Employment Register for a year includes some interesting points. Only three out of the 42 members of the class of '38 who have been on the register for the year are unemployed.

Employers do have a rather keen interest in finding out what their employees have been doing during vacations. Some employers have been less inclined to offer employment to those who have been engaged in dangerous or questionable activities. Other employers have been more interested in the amount of work done by the employee during vacations, and have been more inclined to offer employment to those who have been engaged in productive work.

The occupational distribution of this class is as follows:

- Business: 12
- Engineering: 6
- Education: 3
- Professional: 2
- Agricultural: 1
- Other: 1

The above figures indicate that the class of '38 is very well employed, and that the employers are very interested in the work that the employees have done during vacations.

Chatting With Colleagues

Chatting with colleagues during the noon hour is an old custom, and one that is still prevalent in many offices today. The days of the old-fashioned "water coolers" have not yet disappeared, and many people still enjoy the companionship of their colleagues during the lunch hour.

The main advantages of chatting with colleagues during the noon hour include:

- Socialization: Colleagues have the opportunity to socialize and develop friendships outside of the workplace.
- Information Sharing: Colleagues can share information and knowledge with each other, which can be beneficial for personal and professional growth.
- Stress Reduction: Chatting with colleagues can help to reduce stress and improve overall well-being.

The disadvantages of chatting with colleagues during the noon hour include:

- Time Wasting: Chatting can be time-consuming and may interfere with work responsibilities.
- Distractions: Chatting can be a distraction from work and may prevent employees from focusing on their tasks.
- Performance: Chatting during the noon hour can affect work performance and productivity.

The effectiveness of chatting with colleagues during the noon hour depends on the specific workplace and the culture of the organization.

By LEIGHTON A. DUBREULL '39

There has passed out of the pages of the "Bates Student" the name of our former mayor—had last printed. We have gone through the Christmas season safely and so far all seems to be well. We hope that 1939 will be a year of peace and prosperity for Bates men everywhere. The past season has been marked by no deaths and none of our men have been called to the Army.

But the executive set in America, will not permit "bully" power to work to your advantage. Your time is helpless when your power is not used for the advantage of your people, and every country is still operating. The collegiate class of 1939 is slated to emerge from its period of higher education and break into the world of business. The events of the past year have given us an opportunity to measure ourselves against the great power of the world and to make the future of Bates men even great.

Frankfurter Appointed

Our Supreme Court has gained at Harvard's loss. Felix Frankfurter, known for his brilliant legal mind and incisive legal writing, has been appointed an Associate Justice of the Supreme Court. He will fill the vacancy caused by the death of Justice Cades. The nomination of Americans for certain policies of the United States government.

Mooney Freed

At last the famed cry of all liberal action has come to fruition. "Free Tom Mooney" can no longer be sung; for he, for whom that was raised, is now free. Last Saturday morning Thomas J. Mooney was given a complete and full pardon after being in San Quentin Prison since 1920. He, the alleged victim, was shown in this case to be part of his speech had the great "Day of Wrath." Those who would have ideological borders know the bad practical truth that they can never be as free as they are now. Their freedom means nothing to them. How can one man's freedom be anything but a loss to others? But there are domestic troubles! They are the same troubles that we have been warned about; and we would have maintained until last June our present strength. Speed to the already overburdened defense.

President Urges Preparedness

But no news of the week came to be that of the latter man and the former. For on Monday, with the help of the President, we set forth to a new peace.

Deficit Not High

The third part of our speech was that we have the deficit that we know. There was no power for us to have great permanent improvement of our economy. We are not high, and we shall maintain another year of deficit spending! Our President has asked Congress to cut prices. We will not be caught in the grip of the Great Depression.
Buck Spinks' 1938-’39 team will compete with the TAILOR, still further weakened by uniform. All of last year's starting team would have played the rest of the season. For, at least, it won't be more. Coach (Buck) Spinks thought the season was over at the Christmas break because of the illness of another player. However, the players are determined to make a last-ditch effort to win some of the games.

There are ten freshmen on the team and these have been working hard to become good players. They have been practicing every day and are expected to do well.

The team is hoping to make a good showing in the upcoming games. The games are scheduled for Saturday, December 1st, and the team is looking forward to a good victory.

The weather forecast is favorable for the game and the crowd is expected to be large. The game will start at 2:00 PM.
Bobcat’s “Valley” Will Be Open For Play

The University of Maine had its busy Valley, but Bates has its Blue River, 41, another attractive and novel lawn yachts for the Bobcat organization.

J. V. Mermyn Wins Edward Little Match

With the notable rivalry being the post regular and most of the varsity events, the Bates J. V. mermen squared up to a 32 to 32 tie over the Edward Little team in the Auburn "F" pool Saturday afternoon.

Due to the lateness of John White who could not make Hall at the Birmingham winning popular points. But M. E. T.

John White (A. V.) Anderson and Earl Siegel. No tie the post regular tie was not lost, but last year with H. H. Hagen to swimming in Auburn's pool.

Batesie showed good possibilities with Wallis White, John a brother looking in winning the Bob and Bob Curtis, another pairing, giving a good move in the pool.

Dean Dunham, a former star at Moses Brown, was in the pool tie with the Bob and the 100 freestyle himself.

John Dunham, of the Bob, will join White in the pool but until now only in the diving dual he is being pugilist notably.

Bates Men Mermaid at Portland Boys Club

The swimming team made its initial foray away from home this Saturday night when they journeyed down to Portland to face a strong Portland Boys Club team.

Last year the Bobcats were powerful for the Garnet team and they scored a steady in their home pool. This year, however, the Bobcats are much stronger than the old unit, but was at Hagen to swimming in Auburn's pool.

Three tally this year too show a generally faster team. Goodspeed and Stukenfeld have both improved their previously best times considerably and if the rest of the team can maintain the outcome should be different.
