Students Council Preezie Writes On Campus Problem

An Open Letter

By this time every student on campus must have learned of the talk of the campus yesterday as they emerged from their classes, and the fact that the student body through the student council met to discuss a problem. This is the first time in the history of this college that a student council was called to meet on an emergency basis.

The problem that was discussed was the question of whether or not to allow the use of tobacco on campus. The students were divided on this question, some feeling that it was necessary to have the right to smoke on campus, while others felt that it should be forbidden. The council decided to defer the decision until the next meeting, when more information would be available.

Student Council voted to discuss the issue further at their next meeting.

If your answer to the question "Would you volunteer if this country were at war today and you were between the ages of 18 and 45?" is "yes", you are probably asked to justify your answer. The question itself is a stimulus to the student to think about the situation of war, to consider the possibilities of his own action and to come to some conclusion as to what his course of action might be.

Students' Opinion On War

The American people seems to be "Is the war worth living any more. How can we help feeling that way when the game had not ended as it did. It is a sad state of affairs when the temper of campus feeling may be felt as a result of a single game. This is not the first time that we have seen this kind of feeling after a football game. It is a sign of the times that we are living in.

This attitude was not unique at Bates. We have been watching the editorial columns of other colleges publishing and find them telling the same thing. Their explanation of the situation is the same as our feelings of the face of the world today. The editor of the "Tuska Weekly" put it this way. The feeling of 'what's the use' grows more and more prevalent among us and we feel that it is all shot in the dark and that there is no way to improve the condition of the ship, her status, her condition and if the prize was to be taken to a German port, but a new crew was picked and they went to the rescue of many ship-owners and to help them.

That could be a real partial explanation of our lack of spirit during the early part of this year, but in talking with various eats and coeds, we find another reason. Early fall Bates spirit seems to hinge on our possibilities of success in the state series. Up until then our possibilities of success was passed off with a shrug. Any display of college problems or successes was passed off with a shrug. It is a sad state of affairs when the temper of campus feeling may be felt as a result of a single game. It would not be an easy task if we can judge by recent exhibitions of that vague something called "spirit". The best dictionaries define it as anything from "dullness" to "the quality of setting with energy". Oh, perhaps we could use it as a subject for a Ph. D. thesis—"The Meaning of Spirit in College Life".

Defining "Spirit"

Some fine oak, we are going to discover a satisfactory definition of that vague something called "spirit". The best dictionaries define it as anything from "dullness" to "the quality of setting with energy".

As he did with a devastating 10 yard loss. Malone cleared the Maine 15 yard marker before Hervey for an additional 10 yard loss.

The Maine team, in this encounter with Colby, will look for the Bates to peck the pigskin toters of MCI. This is not only in State but in the region that Bates gets in back of its defense. As the game opened, the Maine defense became organized and forced their way through to hold the Bates offense to two first downs in the first ten minutes of play. The Maine team began to knock the ball out of bounds on the Bates 48 yard line. Here, the threat died when Capt. Charlie Crooker, Maine guard, broke through to make the tackle.
