BATES LOSES TWO FRIENDS

Bates has recently lost by death two of her most devoted Trustees,—Rev. William H. Bowen, D.D., of Providence, R. I., and Hon. Hiram Knowlton, of Portland. Dr. Bowen died at his home in Providence, February 15th, and Mr. Knowlton, at his home in Portland, April 6th.

Dr. Bowen had long been a member of the Board of Fellows and his interest in the College had been almost coeval with its history. As pastor for many years of the Main Street Free Baptist Church in Lewiston, he had taken warm interest in Bates and her students. Not a few of her older graduates remember with keen interest his sermons and his lectures, especially courses of Sunday evening lectures upon topics that appealed to young people.

On his resignation of his pastorate, more than thirty years ago, he was elected Professor of Sacred Rhetoric in Cobb Divinity School, then a department of Bates College. This chair, however, he never occupied, although he gave courses of lectures at various times before students both of the Divinity School and of the College.

After leaving Lewiston he was engaged in his profession until responsibilities to near relatives led him to make his residence in Providence. A graduate of Brown University, he never failed in loyalty to his Alma Mater. Yet his interest in Bates was, perhaps, even more vital and intense than in his own college; and his frequent visits to Lewiston always brought him into close relations with the Bates faculty and students. His chapel talks were wonderfully impressive and inspiring, and his services on the Board of Fellows were numerous and important. For many years he was chairman for the Trustees of the committee on degrees. No man could have been more conscientious in the performance of his duties.

Hon. Hiram Knowlton had been for nearly a quarter of a century a member of the Bates Board of Overseers. To him his responsibility as a member of the Corporation of Bates College was sacred in the highest degree. Never in vigorous health and carrying the heavy burden of a large and important law practice, with possibly a single exception, he was present at every meeting of the Trustees. No man had more weight with his associates.

His utterances reflected not only a powerful and discerning mind but an uncompromising conscience. To Bates he gave both wise counsel and substantial aid. He was proud of her and in his association with men of influence lost no opportunity to acquaint them with her worth. He took great interest in her intercollegiate debates and sincerely believed her debaters to be eminently worthy of the laurels that they seldom failed to win.

In his home, in his conduct of cases as a lawyer, in his clear, impartial, and convincing pleadings before juries and before judges, in the distinguished offices that he filled, both judicial and legislative, and in his daily life as a man and a citizen, he was honored and trusted by all who met him as a steadfast and consistent Christian.

Mr. Knowlton was 91 years of age on the 17th of August, 1914. He was actively engaged in his professional duties till a few months before he died, his mental powers still in full vigor. His devoted wife, who passed her 90th birthday in February last, died but a day before her husband. Never did married life afford a better example of constant harmony and mutual sympathy and aid. “Lovely and pleasant” in their cherished home life, in “death they were not divided.”

Mr. Knowlton’s remarkable conscientiousness may be illustrated by a single instance. A short time ago he wrote the President of Bates tendering his unconditional resignation from the Board of Overseers, and asking to have it take effect at once. The President, fearing that in some way Mr. Knowlton might have felt dissatisfied with the conduct of the College, hastened to learn the cause of his resignation. Mr. Knowlton replied, "I love the College too much to permit it to suffer through any mistake incident to the decline of my judgment in my old age." Never would careful observers have regarded him as in more complete command of his faculties than when he was forecasting their probable failure.

—President Chase

AN INDIAN TONE POEM

(After Frank Holding's interpretation of Dvorak's Sonatina.)

An old squaw trudges slowly over the desert singing a sad song of her fallen nation; the sun begins to set and her hopes are stirred, but they fade with the fading colors; the old song again; a burst of passion; again the old song, and the squaw trudges on.

Yellow sands,
Desert drear—
Gleaming sands,
Shadows sere—
Shifting sands,
Bringing fear—
Trembling sands,
Far and near.

With stolid pace—
With sullen face,
Of dying race
A squaw doth trace:

"Gone the glories of my nation—
Gone the pride of Manitou—
Gone that free and mighty station—
Gone our hopes and visions too."

"Came the paleface with his powers,
Came the priest with teachings new;
Came an end to what was ours—
Came an end to what was true."

"But see now where yonder sunset turns the distant sky to gold!
Thus, ah, thus our nation's splendor in the far-off days of old.
Wondrous great our warrior-chieftains,
wondrous fine their deeds of skill;
And by night or e'en by noonday there was naught they feared to kill."

"Now the gleaming clouds grow brighter,
pile on pile in countless fold
Like the deeds of Wa-wa-nee-wah,—far too many to be told.
And as the sun from in the heavens gives each cloud a golden thrill
So the glory of our nation spread like flame from hill to hill!"

"But the western sky grows dimmer—soon its colors fade and pall—
Thus the nation that we loved so—that for which we gave our all.
Manitou, thou mighty Ruler, bring again those days of old
When the chieftain ruled the prairie, when the brave was strong and bold!"

"Dead, the glories of the sunlight:
Dead, the hope that ruled our breast;
Dead, the dream that made the world bright—
Dead; before the hated guest!"

"Oh, my sons, arise and smite him!
Oh, my children, show your strength!
Ye who played with coals as pebbles—
Passed the roebuck in the race—
Have your hearts grown fat with feasting?
Have your limbs grown slow with ease?
Purge your country from the paleface—
Save your nation from its fate!"

"Cease, my burdened heart, from wailing—
Cease, my fading eyes from dreams—
Cease, my ears, with powers failing—
Cease; like life my nation seems."

"Gone the days when hope might flourish,
Gone the joys in sorrows veiling;
Gone the visions one might nourish;
Gone—in dust and anguish trailing."

The squaw doth trace
With sullen face
Of dying race,
Her stolid pace.

Trembling sands,
Far and near—
Shifting sands,
Bringing fear—
Gleaming sands,
Shadows sere—
Yellow sands,
Desert drear.

THE BATES STUDENT

SPOFFORD CLUB

The Spofford Club met last Friday evening at Professor Ramsdell's residence on Mountain Avenue. J. Frank Hill, '14, former president of the club, presided over the meeting and gave an interesting address on "The Isle of Pines." The following new members were voted into the club: Miss Mona Hodnett, '16; Harold Clifford, '16; Laurence Nutting, '16; Miss Mary Cleaves, '17; Miss Alice Lawry, '17; Miss Ruth Capen, '17.

BATES—CLARK DEBATE

Simultaneously with the Tufts debate, Bates will uphold the negative side of the same question against Clark College at Worcester, with the following team: F. B. Quimby, '18; R. D. Stillman, '16; H. P. Johnson, '16.

It will be recalled that Bates has won five out of the seven debates with Clark, and that she won from Tufts last year in the first debate ever held with that college. The idea of a triangular debate is a new departure at Bates.

INTERSchOLASTIC DEBATING LEAGUE

Stephens High School, of Rumford, by defeating Morse High School and Maine Central Institute in the final debates on April 16, won the championship of the Bates Interscholastic Debating League. Rumford in each case received a unanimous decision. The affirmative team, debating at home against Morse High, was composed of Burton Byron, Arthur Curran, Chester Nelson; on the Morse High School team were Ernest Coffin, Howard Deering and Robert Wagner. On the Stephens High negative team at Pittsfield were Nahum Moore, Milton LaCourse, and Russell Taylor. The Maine Central Institute debaters were Helen Robinson, Horace Maxim and Allen Hackett.

On the same evening the Maine Central Institute negative team, Irvin Ames, Morrill Burse and John Goodwin at Bath defeated the Morse High team, Herbert Cavanaugh, Lincoln Farrar, and Myron Sprague. The question for all debates was, Resolved, That the women of Maine should receive the suffrage on equal terms with men. Nahum Moore, of Stephens High, was awarded first place by each judge and is declared the best individual debater in the league. The winning school received the Bates Trophy Cup.

In the preliminary debates the nine schools in the league were arranged in three triangles. Each school had both an affirmative and a negative team. In Triangle A, Rumford High, Deering High, and Westbrook Seminary, Rumford won both debates. In Triangle B, Maine Central Institute, Bangor High and Gardiner High, Maine Central Institute defeated both the other schools. In Triangle C, Morse High, Rockland High, and Camden High, Morse High was the winner.

MILITARY TRAINING AT BATES

Switzerland has a system by which she has an efficient army ten times as large as that of the United States, and which is maintained at one-tenth the cost. The training is given in a series of relatively short terms of service that do not materially interfere with the industries, but all the men are completely equipped, and can be called to the colors at a moment's notice. Were such a system fully organized in the United States, we would be justified in feeling perfectly safe, and free from the possibility of being overtaken by a terrible disaster in the next few years.

But such is not the case. Were we suddenly confronted by a war, the trained men at our government's disposal would be but a mere handful before such armies as are fighting in Europe today. It is doubtful true that we should quickly have an abundance of volunteers that could be turned into fairly efficient soldiers in the few months that would be required to equip them,—if we had officers to command them. But we have officers for only a few hundred thousand men. Moreover, several years' training are required to make efficient officers, and they must be men of first-class intelligence.

West Point, though a splendid institution, can turn out only a few officers yearly. Accordingly, colleges and universities all over the country are striving to provide the training necessary for this thing. Our best statesmen and educators believe this to be the only possible solution for the problem. The question we should consider, then, is "Should not Bates, the college of service, share in this great work?"
Our debating team deserves the support of every loyal Bates man and woman tomorrow night. Do your part!

We often fail to appreciate that one of the things in which Bates excels is carried on quietly, with an immense amount of work on the part of a very few men. Yet because of the faithfulness of these few we can proudly present to the world a debating record unsurpassed by any college.

It has been with a great deal of interest that we have watched the development of our track team this year, and likewise the baseball work. But how many have given one thought to the hours of study and preparation which have been expended this season that Bates may continue the debating record of the past? These men deserve more than a passing thought. No matter what the outcome, let us tell them that we appreciate their work.

We can do this by being present at City Hall when we meet Tufts tomorrow night to support the team remaining at home. The team at Worcester must feel that, though materially separated, Bates spirit is with them. Clark is an old rival and they intend to do their best. But we have faith in our men that they will again bring home the laurel.

Bates and Tufts met for the first time last year, favorable to Bates. Tufts comes to Lewiston tomorrow with the determination to even matters up. It will be a fight from beginning to end. Our debaters have trained well and will show us that Bates still maintains high standards of forensic as well as athletic contests.

Bates has many things of which she may be proud—athletic records, scholarship and debating distinction, etc., and beside these she has a campus. When we returned to college last year, one of the very notable features was the appearance of our campus. The lawns were in splendid condition and they presented a pleasing sight. We were all glad to do our best to keep them in the same shape.

During the winter months it has been easy to forget some of the cares we formerly had. Habits formed still linger, and we notice that a number of the students disregard the walks. Why not help make this campus the prettiest place in Lewiston? A little cooperation with those doing the work and our campus will be what we wish. Perhaps it may mean a few seconds more to get where you want to go, but it will be worth the trouble. It has become an established custom for all Bates men to take off their hats when the college song is being played and sung. Why not establish a custom of keeping off the lawns, putting fruit skins in their proper place, and not using the windows as convenient waste baskets or garbage cans?

NOTICE

On request we call attention in the Student, to the error in print in the poem,
"To the Memory of an Undying Love," printed in the March Bulletin in the fifth line. The correct reading is:

"Far fallen from its white Himalayan throne
The Jumna winds through Agra’s evergreen
To find the sacred Ganges and the sea;
But waits with sobbing lave against the shore
To mirror deep within its breast, that shrine
Of marble walls and slender minarets,
And pearl white dome;—that almost price-less shrine
Of deathless love,—the only Taj Mahal;
Of all the beautiful, the beautiful."

M. R. SHAW ON PROHIBITION

Mr. M. R. Shaw, a secretary of the Inter-collegiate Prohibition League conducted the chapel exercises last Saturday and addressed the students. In brief, he said:

"A prohibition law on the statute books will not get up in the middle of the night and go out and enforce itself. Prohibition does not prohibit. It is men and officials that prohibit. A great responsibility is resting upon Maine to show that prohibition can be enforced.

"If the Prohibition League at Bates is thought to be a joke it is because you are not giving it support. Seven million a day is the cost of the liquor traffic and the problem will never be solved until we get public sentiment behind it to arouse and enforce it. Responsibility rests on every man. You can’t shift this responsibility. We have an enemy just as great in this country as Germany or Austria is to England. It is for every man to resolve that he will not rest until Old Glory shall float over a saloonless nation."

BATES—TUFTS DEBATE

The second annual debate between Tufts and Bates will be held tomorrow night at eight o’clock in Lewiston City Hall. The question is: Resolved, That the Federal Government should own and operate the Telegraph and Telephone lines within the United States. The Bates team has the affirmative and consists of:

Bates, L. R. Carey, ’15; C. C. Chayer, ’17;

Mayor Brann will preside and the judges will be U. S. Senator C. F. Johnson, Hon. D. W. Snow of Portland, and A. W. King, associate justice, Supreme Court of Maine.

USE OF LIEBBEY FORUM

By vote of the faculty, the use of Libbey Forum on Tuesdays and alternate Fridays, both day and evening, is reserved for the young women of the college; on Wednesdays and remaining Fridays, both day and evening, for the young men. Groups of young men wishing the use of the building on other than their assigned days are asked to register their request with the Superintendent of Grounds and Buildings; young women with the Dean of Women.

The annual meeting of the Bates Alumni Association of Providence was held April 9th at the Narragansett Hotel. President Chase was present and brought "News from Bates." E. H. Emery, ’84, was elected resident of the association. Those in attendance were President George C. Chase, ’68; E. H. Emery, ’84; Rev. H. J. Piper, ’90, and Mrs. Piper; Dr. W. B. Cutts, ’91, and Mrs. Cutts; Professor H. E. Walter, ’92; Principal C. C. Spratt, ’93, and Mrs. Spratt; Frank P. Ayer, Esq., ’00; Dr. D. L. Richardson, ’00; Elizabeth D. Chase, ’02; Dr. Carl B. Sawyer, ’03, and Mrs. Sawyer; Jane M. Given, ’04; Harry H. Lowry, ’12; C. R. Thompson, ’13.

I am as a weed,
Flung from the rock, on Ocean’s foam to sail
Where’er the surge may sweep, the tempest’s breath prevail.

—Byron.
BATES 12, LEWISTON NEW ENGLAND LEAGUE 7

Bates opened her baseball season last Monday, April 19th, with a decided victory over the renowned Lewiston New England League team which had defeated Bowdoin in the forenoon by the score of 10 to 3 and had overwhelmed Colby 17 to 5 last Saturday. The game was played on the excellent field in the Lewiston Athletic Park and under perfect weather conditions. The large attendance bespoke of the keen interest which the citizens take in their local teams.

It was clearly demonstrated in this initial game that Bates has no cause to worry about the ability of her pitching staff. The critics who had predicted that the Garnet has no chance in the fight for the State championship this year on account of the loss of Linquist and Stinson, have since changed their minds and now believe, as every Bates man believes, that we have the best team in Maine. Davidson, the left-handed Freshman twirler who pitched on the Gardiner Trolley League last summer, held Manager Irwin's heavy batters to five scattered hits in six innings and allowed only two men to pass on balls. Moore, '15, pitched the seventh and eighth innings, and although he was a little wild, passing four men and hitting three, he did not allow a single hit. Fowler, '18, who gained a great reputation in the Aroostook High School League last year, finished out the game, and did it quickly, only one man reaching first base.

Among the many conspicuous features of the game were the numerous errors of the Lewiston team, the faultless manner in which the Bates team fielded the ball and their ability to hit when it was necessary to score a run. Duncan, the little Freshman second baseman, came very near to batting for a thousand, getting three hits and one base on balls. Fuller, '15, always full of "pep" and life, played just as well on third base as he ever did in his old position at second base.

Juniors Win Track Meet

The last interclass track meet for this spring was won by the class of 1916 Saturday, April 17th. The meet was held on the regular track which was in very good shape for this time of the year, although it was very loose. This condition of the track together with the high wind that prevailed, prevented the competitors from making as fast time as they would under more favorable circumstances.

Keaney, '16, was the star of the meet, breaking the college record in the broad jump by five and one-half inches. Lane, '18, also showed great form and ability in the distance-runs by winning the mile in four minutes and forty-four seconds and then "coming back" and winning the two-mile. In all, the Freshmen, who were the nearest rivals to the Juniors, won seven first places.

From the men who competed in this meet Coach Ryan will pick about thirty-five to take to Brunswick next Saturday to fight for Bates against our old rival, Bowdoin. This team will represent the best that this college can produce in the line of track athletics, and it is the duty of every man in this institution to follow it to Brunswick and help the men bring back the victory. The cost of the trip, which would not be more than eighty-five cents, ought not to stand in the way of anyone's supporting this team.

Score, 30-35. Time keeper, Miss C. Chase. Scorer, Mrs. Ruby Gerry. Goals from floor, Beane 12, Bassett 1, Gregory 15. Goals from free throws, Beane 4, Gregory 5.

Those winning the greatest number of points for their teams were Miss Gregory, '16, with 59, and Miss Beane, '15, with 56.

The three games were noticeable for their fine playing; also for the enthusiastic support given by each of the four classes alike. Particularly spectacular was the final game between the two strongest teams, which ended with a slightly larger score determining the game for 1916. Next in importance was the Junior-Freshman game, noted for the remarkable playing of the Freshman team so lately organized, also for the practical absence of fouls called on either side. In short, the true game spirit predominated both in the team work and in all the rest, thus finishing the girls' basket ball season in a most fitting and sportsmanlike manner.

Miss Annie May Brewer, '18, spent the week-end at her home in Freeport.

Miss Elinor Newman, '17, entertained on Saturday, Miss Edith L. Newman and Miss Olga Cony of Augusta.
The Judge says that in order for his work to be a success this spring he should have about a dozen pairs of football shoes. It seems strange that he can't get them. They won't cost any more now than next fall. Why not spend part of that big haul from Patriot's Day?

The people of Maine should have this baseball situation pretty well defined now. Lewiston won from Colby 12-5, Lewiston won from Bowdoin 10-3, but Bates won from Lewiston 12-7. It was a bitter pill for the Leaguers; they were willing to pay all kinds of money to play the game over again. Well! We hope they will have an opportunity before the season closes. Just at present we claim our residence in Missouri.

How did that ball club look to you Monday? Like a pretty smooth working proposition? Certainly! However, there are several other men in the squad that the student body would like to see under fire. We can't be quite satisfied that the present is the best possible combination. However, our business is not to pick the team, but to boost it. "Bates expects every man to do his duty."

"Monte" Moore, alias Spit-ball-artist, certainly had the X. E. L. nervous. Why not? Most of them had never faced a German bombardment.

The paths are all lined up now. Wouldn't it be "an act of neutrality" if the patrons of the campus would refrain from walking on the grass?

Noticed Monday, April 19: One pair of white flannel trousers. Mentioned simply that you may add it to your list of signs of spring.

Who will be the first co-ed to wear a pair of side-laced boots. Keep your eyes open, and report anything that looks suspicious.

The peace orations were delivered last Thursday in Hathorn Hall. The winners were Lane and Dyer, first and second respectively. Both men are members of the Sophomore class.

There is a new contest on for Prohibition Orations. A private individual has donated $25 to be used for two prizes in defense of prohibition. The contest is open to women.

Mr. Shaw, promoter of intercollegiate peace societies, spoke in chapel Saturday morning.

Guest Night of the Bates Round Table has been postponed until one week from Friday.

At that meeting Prof. Robinson will read Browning's "Saul."

Rabbi Wise will be at Bates next Friday. He will address the teachers of Oxford and Androscoggin counties, in convention assembled.

The Greek play presented by the graduating class has not been selected yet. Stinson is in charge of the work.

The Dramatic Club attended the Empire Friday evening and saw Edmund Breeze in "The Master Mind."

Debate tomorrow night. It is bound to be some fight.

The girls of 1916 have again captured the girls basketball championship. They are about as regular at winning pennants as the Athletics.

Dual meet with Bowdoinham Saturday. This meet will be watched with interest, because here is the first real opportunity to see the results of Mike's work.

Scrub League Baseball starts this week. The captains have not been announced yet.

The Bates Quartet sang at the Ariel Minstrels Monday night. Solo by Renwick, '18, was one of the most favorably received numbers on the program.

Warren N. Watson is to be the principal speaker at the Maine meeting of the American Chemical Society held in Auburn this week. Subject: "Progress in Synthetic Dye Stuffs."

Fred Smith, '15, is teaching in Lewiston high school.

The editor and manager of the Student attended a pro German banquet in Portland Saturday afternoon.

Herbert Jewett, '15, is at home convalescing from an attack of la grippe.

One new subscriber among the Alumni. That makes 81.

Miss Mary L. Roberts, '15, entertained Miss Bessie Reynolds on Monday.

Miss Florence M. Hooper, '15, spent the week-end at her home in Gorham.

Miss Una Mills, '15, entertained a group of Senior girls at her home on Monday evening.

Mr. Clarence Gould, '18, entertained 12 Freshmen at his home in Greene on Monday afternoon and evening. The guests rode to and from the home and were chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Coleman.
