Initial Vehicle Destabilizes Life
In Soviet Russia

The Robinson Players present their first play of the season at the Little Theatre tonight, "In Soviet Russia" written and directed by Miss Laura Schaffer and Miss Lydia A. Schaffer. The production is performed by the Little Theatre Company, under the direction of Everett Friedland '42 and Irving Mabee '42. The opening play is "Shylock's Circle," a farce.

A popular medium of each performance is induced by the anestheticizing power of the rat poison, and after four or five hours the rat is still alive, but it is too weak to live. After the four or five hours, the rat is still alive, but it is too weak to live.

Back-to-back Week had begun with a Monday-night, a little early encounter. It was interesting to see how the students would react to the situation. Most of them seemed to make all the difference in how it went. Several events of note occurred throughout the week, which we shall discuss in more detail later. Most of the students arrived on time, and there were no major disruptions. Some students were allowed to come, and all had their issues worked out, which is the reason we have this section. We did not plan on being a regular thing, but we did enjoy the experience of being a student at a college-prep school. The most significant event of the week was the President's address. He began his talk by saying that the college had to deal with some difficult issues. He went on to talk about the need for a strong sense of community and the importance of the students working together. He also spoke about the need for students to be more involved in the decision-making process. The students responded positively to his speech, and we believe that it will help to move the college forward. We hope that we can continue to share our experiences and learn from each other.

Dear Editor:

Regarding the recent events on campus, we would like to suggest that the school administration should take a closer look at the problem. There have been several incidents that have raised concerns about the safety and well-being of the students. We believe that the administration should be more transparent in its approach to these issues. We hope that the school will take action to ensure the safety of all students.

Sincerely,

[Student Name]

Back-to-back Week has ended, but the issues are far from over. There are many things that need to be discussed and resolved. We hope that the administration will take action to address these concerns and work towards a better future for all students.

The Bates Tradition

The victory over Bowdoin last week, for the Bears from Brunswick not only did much to improve their standing in the conference but also carried the Bears to the top of the Western Division, tying them in pointwith the leading team, New England. Aithough there is no individual honors will probably be the

Yearlings-Visitors Expect Win With Undeseated Records

The Bates tradition will enter their season's final contest, tomorrow night against the powerful Worcester. The teams are apparently even this year, and those familiar with the games in recent years, who have followed the progress of the teams, believe that the game will be close. The Bears start this series of games, with the loss of the opening contest to Bowdoin, with a 3-1 record, and the unbeaten Bears have the better of the two teams in the recent contests.

Worcester starts with a 2-1-1 record, but the Bears are favored by the betting public to win.

The game starts at 6:30 P.M. and will be played on the new Boston Park field.
